WINCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, APRIL 22, 1904.

PRICE, FIVE CENTS

Hon Samuel W. McCall

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I remember you have often written a good word in behalf of our member of Congress. This is proper as he stands high on the roll of past and present members from Massachusetts. It was a great honor that Speaker Cannon placed upon him, in appointing him as Chairman of the Committee to look into "Post Office Wrongs." To select him, over the large number that could be found, willing and able to assume the task. This mark of esteem and confidence in his judgment is one that the nation appreciates, and New England is proud of. His calm, cautious and discreet character, fit him to do justice to all parties in this delicate and mixed complication where the administration and general public have such a deep interest. His resolutions and honest principles hold him up strong in his often independent position. Justice and forbearance without fear or favor please his constituents. His party divided upon several issues, antagonized upon others, have kept him in hot water, which he has cooled off to a safe temperature without blistering his record. His fidelity to right and attachment to sound politics have given him strength at home.

Mr. McCall is not a bold and clamorous man in his line of action, but deliberate and patient to see the end, and accomplish something that will be of worth to the whole nation. It has been said that his opposition to some of his party's views would cost him a loss of power, but the reverse is visible. The American people like independent thought and action.

His recent article on the encroachments of the Senate upon the rights and powers of the House has added much to his reputation as a writer of force and discrimination upon the prerogatives of these two branches of government. Several able articles from his pen have been given to the public that have found admirers. His oration upon the one hundredth return to Daniel Webster's graduation at Dartmouth College, highly written and eloquently delivered, was a fine production, that gave the great Statesman's friends delight.

His "Life of the Great Commoner," Thaddeus Stevens, is interesting all through. Facts, compilation of political events, clearly defined and impressively grouped, make it a volume of reference during the startling days of Buchanan and the close of the war with the Republican party in power. His efforts in the revenue issues of Porto Rico, in the adjustment of duties, were of great worth to the country. The people of the North remember with gratitude his influence in removing the duty on coal—not a tree trader, but with reciprocity to extend our commerce for the benefit of merchants and manufacturers, by a more mutual exchange of home products for what we need from abroad. As a member of the Committee of Ways and Means, he holds an important position. To this Committee the most grave subjects of legislation are submitted.

In the framework of government, earnest convictions of right, it directed in detail, by high moral principle, are of great value, and should triumph in the end. Massachusetts in the long past has sent many eminent men to Congress that have given her high standing in legislation—not to go back of the accomplished and eloquent Robert C. Winthrop, who filled the Speaker's chair with ease and dignity, watching the interests of the mercantile capital of New England.

N. P. Banks, in the Speaker's chair, with his lofty poise, sonorous voice, echoing through hall and aisle, while listening ears turned to catch the refrain.

Alexander H. Rice, the paper merchant, with voice and purse upholding the government and aiding volunteers to march forward to the cannon's mouth.

George B. Loring, later in Congress, commanding in form, grand in speech, who could hold his hearers with magic of tongue and impress of form.

Caleb Cushing, with the charm of many languages, rare scholarship of books and classic study, to captivate and convince.

Edward Everett, Representative, Senator, Governor and Minister abroad, with all his sentences like beautiful gems set in golden thoughts, more eloquent as they received the touch of his intellectual finish and the wealth of his abundant learning.

Benjamin F. Butler, Governor, Representative, restive to the end, true to his friends, a flaming sword to his foes, merciless to traitors in arms under Stars and Stripes, he stood for the Union in the hour of peril and the North when dark clouds lowered.

Anson Burlingame made his mark in Congress, with courage and principle he stood up and proclaimed his views; while others quailed and turned back, he marching on, until death closed his advance, and the friends of Charles Sumner immortalized his memory.

Robert Rantoul, Jr., in Congress for a time, was a very able man, eloquent and brim full of argument upon finance and tariff questions. Had he lived longer, no man in Massachusetts would have been his superior in polemic discussion; upon capital punishment and the right to take life he was the ablest of the able.

I pass by twenty members of the House from Massachusetts that have had a distinguished and national reputation, and stop at the Senate; for here she has a grand record of talent.

Towering above all was Daniel Webster, majestic in outline, deep in thought, learned in law, with the Constitution his bulwark.

Rufus Choate, when he took the chair vacated by Daniel Webster in the United States Senate in 1841, was the magnet that drew all eyes to his presence. His forensic eloquence and blazing rhetoric had gone before him in that august body; as a lawyer and orator of the highest type he was personified. Senators stood waiting to see him.

"Tear open the blue robes of night And set the stars of glory there."

Henry Clay was there, the Cicero of the Senate, but eyes turned from him to Rufus Choate, whom Daniel Webster said is a "wonderful man, he is a marvel."

John Davis, Lawyer, Governor, Senator, and full armed Whig of the Harrison school.

Henry L. Dawes, wise in counsel, safe in legislation, patriotic in every breath.

Charles Sumner, noble in principle, with learning and fidelity to liberty, and world wide devotion to humanity.

Henry Wilson, for freedom and the welfare of all classes; from poverty and simplicity of birth, with innate resolution, became up and wrote his name in the temple of National fame; upheld the arms of Lincoln, encouraged the North against rebels in arms and traitors in Congress.

Senator Hoar, able and wise at all times, with learning and eloquence, supplemented with long experience in legislation and political observation, tempered with a kind heart and patient will, his record is stainless.

Senator Lodge, a strong man, learned, able, with courage to present and to enforce his love of right and justice. He has written much, well received as standard. He is in the meridian of life, and a bright future greets him.

I have not called up these great names to emphasize the record of Samuel W. McCall by comparison. They stand on their own platform with an horizon of sunshine or clouds, as the public may decree. Mr. McCall stands on his own and the cardinal principles of the Republican party. He has not wandered off to the "Orient," to return with rainbows of victory, shaded with human woe. The great republic confides in him. He is independent to do right, sound of heart, of mental capacity to judge wisely. Social intercourse, urbane in manners, his associates in Congress respect him and give ear when he speaks. This is not a prehistoric age, but one of progress and growth.

When Samuel W. McCall shall return his representative chair of office, his friends will not close the gates against him. New honors may meet him in State or Nation, talent will not be forgotten or pass into the shade of neglect. Genius and good fortune seem to be happily united in him.

N. A. RICHARDSON, Winchester, March 20, 1904.

Charged With Political Hypocrisy

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I find in the Transcript of April 2 an editorial on the political situation in Maine and the writer closes with this sentence, "Perhaps in time the state will make up sufficiently to slow off its prohibitory hypocrisy, as Vermont did, and give the people a chance to conduct their own affairs in their own way."

I wrote to the Transcript that an editorial writer should be fair in his statements, and that this fling at the State of Maine was unworthy of the dignity and character of that paper. The prohibitory law has become firmly fixed as the settled policy of controlling the liquor traffic in the state. A large majority of the people believe in it and there is no more likelihood of a change, to any kind of license law, than there is of Winchester voting for license. The law is operative and well enforced except in the large cities, and there it is kept out of sight. The hotel proprietors are the worst violators of the law. They keep a small quantity of the stuff in an isolated room with entrance through a pool room or a side door from the closet. The dispenser steps out between drinks and dodges back again on the approach of the thirsty soul. He looks mean. The landlord looks mean. It is a mean business made so by the law. The violator is a criminal and liable to fine and imprisonment. All that is necessary is for a few men of nerve to make the officials do their duty. If I lived in Penobscot Co. permanently and had become a citizen, I would see that Bangor was a dry city. The law is all right; what is needed here is a Faxon to see that it is enforced. The editorial in the Transcript means that a few rum drinkers and rum sellers ought to be allowed to conduct their own affairs in their own way. Whatever they may be allowed to do in other States, they never will be able to do in Maine.

Mr. Joshua B. Rea, who enjoys the distinction of being one of the oldest residents in town, will observe his 92nd birthday Sunday.

Fifth Anniversary

The new church building of the Winchester Unitarian Society was dedicated on the 27th of April, 1899. Rev. William I. Lawrence was installed pastor at the same time. The fifth anniversary of these events will be celebrated at that church next Sunday morning and on the following Wednesday evening. At the Sunday morning service Mr. Lawrence will speak on "Five Years in the New Church." The choir will be augmented to twelve voices. On the following Wednesday evening a service of worship will be held in the auditorium of the church at half past seven. This will be followed by a reception, a musical entertainment, refreshments and a social reunion. The evening is so planned that all parts of the edifice shall be used. The committee in charge is composed of the pastor, and the surviving members of the original building committee, Mr. Lewis Parkhurst, Mr. John L. Ayer, Mr. D. W. Pratt and William B. French, Esq. The following music will be rendered:

Mrs. Reed.

Grace Anna Knight McKenzie, daughter of the late Dr. W. S. McKenzie, of Winchester, and William Edwin Clark, Harvard '95, of the firm of Clark & Mills, of Cambridge were married at high noon, Thursday of last week at the First Baptist church on Commonwealth avenue, Boston. It was distinctly an Easter wedding, the decorations being wholly of lilies and palms.

The bride was married in her traveling gown of French blue silk, trimmed with Irish point lace. Her hat was of pale blue chiffon and she carried a shawl bouquet of her birth flower, the English violet.

Mrs. Elizabeth Stanwood McKenzie, mother of the bride, wore a black and white lace pattern gown, and Mrs. Ray S. Wilder, her sister, a rose pink satin with duchesse lace, trimmings and pink chiffon picture hat.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Clark left for New York. On Wednesday evenings, June 1 and 8, they will be "at home" at 1775 Massachusetts avenue, North Cambridge.

Mrs. S. W. McCall Receives.
On Friday afternoon of last week Mrs. Samuel W. McCall received at her residence on Park avenue, a large gathering of ladies prominent in the social and musical life of Winchester, Stoneham, West Medford and Arlington, invited to meet Madame Isidora Martinez, the musical director of the new ladies' choral club, The Polymnia of Winchester. Madame Martinez, who is a celebrity in the operatic and concert world, delighted to be present by singing several songs as only an artist of the first rank can. Much interest and enthusiasm was exhibited by those present in the work planned for the club, of which Madame Martinez gave an interesting description. Many inquiries have been made as to whom applications for membership in the Polymnia should be sent. We are requested to say that any communication addressed to "The Polymnia, Winchester," will be sufficient.

Winchester Boat Club Meeting.

The postponed meeting of the Winchester Boat Club was held at the club house Wednesday evening. The election of officers was the only business of importance transacted. Following is the list for the coming year: President, J. Herbert Dwinell; Vice President, William D. Richards; Secretary, William J. Ladd; Treasurer, A. William Rooney; Directors, Charles E. Barrett, George S. Hoader, Hermann D. Murphy, John K. Newman, James W. Russell, Jr., David N. Skillings, George B. Smith, George Adams Woods, Fleet Captain, James A. Newman.

Following the election a meeting of the directors was held and seven new names added to the membership list. The appointments will be made for the coming year in a few days.

Winchester Public Library.

April 11-30, 1904.
Exhibition of colored photographs: Switzerland, Lake of Geneva, Mont Blanc and the valley of the Rhone.

Sciatic Rheumatism Cured.

"I have been subject to sciatic rheumatism for years," says E. H. Waldron, of Wilton Junction, Iowa. "My joints were stiff and gave me much pain and discomfort. My joints would crack when I straightened up. I used Chamberlain's Pain Balm and have been thoroughly cured. Have not had a pain or ache from the old trouble for many months. It is certainly a most wonderful liniment." For sale by O'Connor's Pharmacy.

Rev. Vincent Ravi.

The Rev. Vincent Ravi, the newly appointed pastor of the Methodist church, occupied the pulpit for the first time last Sunday forenoon. He preached from the text, Psalm 42:1, "As the heart panteth after the water brook, so panteth my heart after Thee, O God." His theme was, "The passion of the soul." The sermon revealed broad study, deep thought, a careful analysis of the soul nature and a true appreciation of the spiritual in our lives. More than this, the excellence of the thought, the choice of illustration and the fitness of the expression, revealed a fineness of character that must have made the sermon doubly impressive to everyone who heard it. Its effect upon the congregation was evidenced by a closeness of attention and that peculiar stillness manifested only when a body of people is unconsciously influenced and intensely interested.

Mr. Ravi opened his ministry with rare good judgment, and apparently without effort placed himself in the affections of those whom he has been appointed to minister unto.

Mrs. Ravi, a daughter of the Rev. Dr. Virgin, pastor emeritus of the Church of the Pilgrims of New York City, accompanied him on this, his first visit to his parish. They will begin their residence in the parsonage on Myrtle street this week.

We believe the coming of this worthy couple will be productive of much good, and that they will not only add to the number, but to the already great influence of the ministerial families of the town. We heartily welcome them and sincerely wish them the largest measure of success in their new field.

Calumet Club Notes.

The regular quarterly meeting which was postponed last week will be held this Saturday evening.

On Tuesday evening there will be a concert at the club, followed by dancing in observance of the regular monthly ladies' night. The artists include Mrs. Henry Goddard, reader; Miss Edith E. Pettengill, contralto; Miss Mary Ogilvie, soprano; Miss Marion A. Stickney, violinist; Mr. A. M. Fitz, basso; and Miss Edith Kendall, pianist. Following the concert there will be dancing.

The directors of bowling have decided to offer the large copper loving cup and chaffing dish, donated to the club for candle-pin prizes, to the bowler rolling the three highest consecutive strings, the tournament to close next October.

A matched pair tournament in candlepins will be held shortly. Entries will close May 1st.

Mr. Chas. F. Ames is a candidate for membership in the club.

MYSTIC VALLEY LEAGUE.

The Calumet team won two games from the Central Club Thursday evening. Toward a win three games from Old Beiry on the same evening and still retains the lead.

The next game of the home team in the league takes place Monday evening with Charlestown on the home alleys.

Consolidation of Town Offices.

The special Committee on Consolidation of Town Offices held a meeting in the Selectmen's room Wednesday evening. This committee, it will be remembered, submitted a report with recommendations at the March town meeting, but these not proving satisfactory to the citizens, the committee was ordered to further investigate and report at a future town meeting.

There were present Wednesday evening the following members of the committee: Wm. C. Newell, Ralph E. Joslin, Arthur E. Whitney and Henry F. Johnson.

The following departments were represented: Board of Selectmen, John H. Carter; Water Board, C. T. Main, H. E. Ordway, D. N. Skillings; Town Clerk, Geo. H. Carter; Assessors, F. V. Wooster, Geo. W. Payne, Geo. H. Carter; Sewer Board, Fred M. Symmes; School Board, Chas. F. A. Currier; Board of Health, Dr. B. T. Church. The discussion was confined mainly to the consolidation of the various clerkships, and with but two exceptions, this was opposed as being impracticable—the two exceptions being the clerks for Selectmen and Sewer Board.

The chairman, Wm. C. Newell, who was the instigator of the proposed change, called the meeting to order and after stating the objects sought to be attained, called on Chairman Carter of the Selectmen for his opinion of a general clerk for all departments. He said the Selectmen had taken no action in the matter, but he personally thought the scheme feasible, provided it did not interfere with the workings of the Board. The present clerk devoted about two days each week to the duties of the Board. There should, however, be a clerk who would be present all the time in the Town Hall. In reply to Mr. Whitney, Mr. Carter said that with an assistant, the work might be of more lenient.

Town Clerk Carter did not look with favor on the scheme, which he said would cost about $2000 more than at present. No capable person would take the general clerkship for the sum suggested by the committee. If the committee cannot suggest a means for the good of the town, then they had better drop the matter. It would require $2500 for salaries of a clerk and an assistant. He believed the scheme to be impracticable.

Mr. F. V. Wooster, chairman of the Board of Assessors, said that if the consolidation scheme seemed practicable then he would be in favor of it. He imagined that there would be some difficulties to be encountered, and he also thought there should be some one present at all times to represent the Assessors. In reply to a question, he thought that it would be better to secure the abstracts at the Registry of Deeds as is done now at an expense of about $70. He was not in favor of a general clerk. Assessor Carter did not want the Board tied down to any one clerk, but wanted a clerk of their own. A permanent clerk for the Board would be necessary in a year or two.

Mr. Chas. T. Main, Chairman of the Water Board, did not believe in changing present conditions in his Board. Water Registrar Barrett was a splendid man for the position, and he gives far better satisfaction than any other person would under the proposed scheme. The Registrar is also the clerk and it is necessary that he should be present at meetings as well as the Registrar. Mr. Main thought it would be impossible for one man to fill all the clerkships. The salary was not large enough and furthermore the man must be of exceptional ability.

In reply to Mr. Johnson, Mr. Main thought it would be of benefit to have a man present at all times to represent his Board. Mr. Johnson said Mr. Barrett had done the work better than any other Registrar, and therefore he had no fault in this regard. Mr. Johnson asked Mr. Main if the Board could not dispense with an assistant, whereupon he said no.

Mr. H. C. Ordway of the Water Board said that the position of Water Registrar was a difficult one to fill and that Mr. Barrett was an excellent man.

Mr. Currier, Chairman of School Board, was not in favor of a general clerk as far as the affairs of the Board were concerned. They now employ a clerk four hours each day to work on school records. When the High School building is finished it was proposed to move the office there, and the amount of time that would be required of a clerk could only then be determined, in all probability there would be more work.

Mr. E. M. Symmes of the Sewer Board said there was no reason why the Clerk of that Board could not act in a similar capacity for other Boards. He thought consolidation would be an excellent thing.

Dr. B. T. Church, chairman of the Board of Health, said that a general clerk would be of no benefit to his Board, as the duties to be performed were principally that of an agent, making out burial permits and occasionally putting up contagious disease cards. In reply to a question, he thought the salary of inspector of plumbing was too high; but this had been fixed by the Selectmen. The Town Engineer could not legally do this work, as a plumber was required.

The meeting then adjourned.

Poole-Moffett.

Mr. Wm. Frank Poole, of Stoneham and Miss Blanche Beatrice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Moffett, of Winchester, were married Tuesday evening.

The bride was most gracefully attired in white crepe de chine, and carried a bouquet of bride roses.

The bridesmaid was Miss Alvena German of Lynn. She wore a gown of blue.

The best man was Mr. E. A. Guay of Lynn.

Mr. and Mrs. Poole have gone on a short honeymoon trip to New York, and on their return will reside at 11 Maple street, Stoneham. They will be at home after May 1st. They received a large number of presents.

Miss Moffett up to the time of her marriage was a clerk in the local telephone exchange.

The Fortnightly.

The regular meeting of The Fortnightly will be held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mr. Robert C. Metcalf will lecture on "Plans and Purposes of Our Public Schools." The programme is in charge of the Committee on Education, Mrs. Minnie L. Russell, chairman.

Extortion a Hindrance.

A walk through the streets of the town and an examination of trees that are just off the public ways, gives the impression that our people are not doing all they should at this time to destroy the brown tail moths. Yet too much fault should not be found with owners of infested trees. We have in mind a gentleman who has a moderate sized elm tree on his place that contains comparatively few nests of the brown tail moth.
Meeting two men who were doing this work he asked them how long it would take to remove them.
They informed him that it would take one hour and that the charge would be $5. As this price seemed exorbitant the gentleman concluded that he would not have the work done. Citizens are no doubt willing to pay a fair price, but when it is attempted to practise extortion, then they will let the moths remain on the trees. The men who wanted this price came from out of town. Some arrangement should be made so that the citizens and town might co-operate in this matter, so that there would be men to do the work at all times.
The Tree Warden has done this as far as possible with the limited help that he has.

The Right Turn at Last.

For more than a year we have, editorially speaking, pounded away concerning the demolition of the old Howe house and the proper grading of the lot. From first to last we have claimed that this was the proper function of the Building Committee. Our reasons for this position were so frequently and emphatically stated in these columns that it is not necessary to repeat them at this time. The STAR is pleased to inform its readers that after this long and wearisome delay the whole matter has been formally turned over to the Building Committee by the Selectmen. This is a very sensible procedure and should have been done the next day after the authority in the matter was voted by the town. This committee will now make short work of it, and before another week this familiar landmark will disappear from the landscape. We are informed that the grading will speedily follow after the plans, which were drawn months ago in anticipation of this very turn of affairs. Patient waiters are no losers, and perhaps after all, inasmuch as there has been a long and unexpected delay in putting the finishing touches onto this magnificent building, the old house may be a mild sort of blessing in disguise. As the incident is now apparently closed, the STAR must needs congratulate itself that its position has been vindicated and its prediction of the outcome has been fulfilled to the letter.

Co-Operative Bank Dividend

The Winchester Co-operative Bank has declared a dividend of 2 1/2 per cent for the past six months. The bank will issue a new series of shares on May first, and they can be subscribed for by applying to the treasurer, Thomas S. Spurr.
The bank is in a flourishing condition and offers an excellent chance to persons of limited means and others to procure a home or to accumulate money under most favorable conditions.

The Difference Between the Old and New.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Will it be too much for the STAR to give to the public the text of the old agreement regarding care of the Winchester reservoirs which has so happily existed between the town of Winchester and the Metropolitan Park Commission ever since the commission has been established? I voted at the Water Commissioners meeting to want the town to vote at the last town meeting but I must admit that I saw no good reason why the old agreement which has worked so well should be abrogated. Nothing was said about the old agreement by the gentleman who advocated the new agreement or why the original agreement should not be continued or ratified by the town if that was all that was wanted. If the old agreement was so much in favor of the Metropolitan Commissioners that the town could not even take away stones from its own reservoir land is cause the Commissioners would not allow it, why should the Commissioners want to change it as they evidently do. I voted for the change because I want to be loyal to the Winchester Water Commissioners, but before I vote on the subject again I would like to know more about it than I do now. The STAR's allusion last week to the state's generous offer at the last town meeting to police the town reservoirs (as if this proposition was a new thing) leads me to ask for the text of the previous agreement and inquire why the new agreement is the better one.

A Suggestion to Mr. Arthur E.
Whitney.

EDITOR OF THE STAR

In last week's STAR you made a sensible suggestion when you advised that somebody should take a photograph of the Howe house, frame it and present it to the new High school building. Good idea. The time is short. The Building Committee begin next week to tear down this old homestead. On many occasions,
Mr. Whitney, you have testified in public of your respect for Mrs. Howe and your appreciation of the generosity of this worthy woman. Now is the opportunity of your life to put what you have said and written to a practical test. Get Mr. Higgins, or any other good photographer, to make a large photograph of the homestead that you admire so much, frame it properly and present it with your compliments to the new High school building. It will not cost you less than five dollars and need not cost you over ten dollars to make a first class job.
Sundry private citizens have already donated what amounts to over fifteen hundred dollars for furnishings for this building that the town cannot afford to buy. You state in your communication that you have little hope that your suggestion will be acted upon. Certainly will, if you devote a mere pittance of your ample means to the very worthy object which you have so pertinently and so wisely suggested over your full signature in last week's issue of the STAR.

ST LOUIS EXPOSITION OPENS
APRIL 30

The World's Greatest Exposition.

In two weeks more, the gates of the Exposition Grounds at St. Louis will be thrown open; the button will have been pressed by no less a personage than President Roosevelt. The machinery will immediately be set in motion, and the grandest, most gorgeous and most stupendous exposition which the world has ever witnessed will be a reality.
It is a world in itself, and what a cosmopolitan affair! Filipinos and Greeks, Romans and Africans, in fact natives from almost every portion of the earth's surface are there, and the buildings have an architectural beauty which will prove a treat to the beholder.
Industry and art, modern and ancient, of every conceivable form will be presented. And the glorious "Old Pike," why the midway at Chicago's World's Fair was but a side-show in comparison! The St.
Louis Exposition may be termed a marvel, for its exhibits can scarcely be imagined. A very accurate idea of the exposition, however, can be gleaned from the beautiful booklet of 40 pages, which contains illustrations and an elegant map of the grounds, and which will be mailed free by the General Passenger Department, Boston & Maine Railroad, Boston, to any person upon receipt of address.

Pi Eta Society Presents the "Will-o'-the-Wisp."

The Pi Eta Society of Harvard presented its new comic opera last Tuesday evening to a large and enthusiastic audience. The music, written by A. T.
Davison, F. H. Grey and H. R. Pratt, is of especial merit including both individual songs and chorus singing. The songs all follow the plot and are very catchy, especially, "Reuben Song," "Lucella," "The Wedding of the Widow and the Jew" and the spinning song.
The characters were all well played.
Those worthy of special notice being, D.
P. Cook as the Gay Grass Widow, the author of the book, W. W. Fisher as
haps F. E. Shirk deserves fully as much credit as any one in his interpretation of Ikey Icklehammer, an exceedingly hard part. Others who should be mentioned are C. P. Whorf as the hustling showman, H. P. Pratt as the city lawyer, and H. Le Seur Andrews as Priscilla.

The dancing of Mr. Joseph Story Chipman was graceful and attractive. He will be remembered by many as the Graceful Goldenhar in The Cadet show.

The novelty of the evening was the freed dance and monkey dance and were enthusiastically enjoyed.

The business manager of the piece, Mr.
M. H. Hurd, lives here, and to him great credit for the smoothness, with which the play was conducted is due. There will be three more performances of the piece, all at the Club House Cambridge, on April 26, 27 and 29.

A Good Suggestion.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The suggestion of Mr. Arthur Whitney, in last week's STAR was kindly and properly presented, to have a photograph taken of the Nancy Howe home in memory of the giver to the town.

The house has a very interesting history for over 150 years; and is the only one standing in town first built by an immediate descendant of Edward Converse.

The Record Breaking Winter.

Never have the hardships of spring been more cordially welcomed than now. We have had quite enough of the "good old fashioned" winter. Reports from all parts of the country seem to show that it was the most severe in years if not the worst on record. The mean temperature of the winter for Boston was 24.65 degrees F. above zero, with sixty-six inches of snowfall. In New York the season was the coldest on record, with a mean temperature of 23.13 degrees above zero. This is 5.13 degrees lower than in any winter for more than thirty years and 1 degree colder than that of 1874-75, hitherto the coldest on record. Blizzards and heavy snowstorms were responsible for a fall of twenty-eight and one-half inches, which cost more than $500,000 to remove. In fact, according to the officials of the street cleaning department, no such amount of snow has ever been shoveled from the streets of New York in any previous winter in the city's history. Chicago experienced a mean temperature slightly lower than New York's and suffered no less severely from the heavy falls of snow.

Railroads all over the country were greatly hampered by snow, particularly in Canada and the northwest. The freight service on three Canadian lines was abandoned altogether for a time, and only a fraction of the passenger trains were running. So great was the interruption of railroad traffic caused by cold and snow that some of the larger systems were scarcely able to earn operating expenses.

The most distressing feature of the long, cold winter has been its effect upon public health. The theory that a cold winter is conducive to good health has been pretty thoroughly exploded by the reports from all parts of the country showing unusual prevalence of physical ailments caused by low temperature. Serious epidemics of grip and pneumonia were prevalent in many of the larger cities, particularly in New York and Chicago, where the death rate was alarmingly high.

After these long, tedious months of storm, snow, ice, sleet, blizzards and zero temperatures, which have taxed human endurance well nigh to the limit, it is with special earnestness that we say, "Come, gentle spring; ethereal mildness, come."

The Japanese have wisely decided that cigarettes consigned to the Russian army are not contraband of war.

The peace loving citizen with the market basket also approves General Sherman's definition of war.

Probing the Meat Combine.

The department of commerce and labor is given an excellent opportunity to demonstrate its usefulness by the passage of the Martin resolution in the house of representatives. By this resolution Secretary Cortelyou, who is the head of the new department, is requested to investigate the causes of the low prices of beef cattle in the United States since July 1, 1893, and the alleged unusually large margins between the prices of beef cattle and the selling price of fresh beef.

Under the act establishing the department of commerce and labor, approved Feb. 14, 1893, there was created a bureau of corporations "to investigate the organization, conduct and management of the business of any corporation, joint stock company or corporate combination engaged in commerce among the several states and with foreign nations." In order to do this work the bureau has conferred upon it "the powers of the interstate commerce commission."

It remains to be seen whether the powers conferred upon Mr. Cortelyou are adequate to effect a remedy for the public's grievances against the packers combine. Already the packers have been enjoined by the courts against doing the very things which it is now proposed to investigate, but they apparently refused to "stay put." Last year Judge Grosscup of Chicago issued an order restraining the packers from manipulating the price of beef or conspiring to depress the price of beef on the hoof. In spite of this injunction, which is still in effect, it is alleged that it is being violated in respect of both its mandates.

The Martin resolution makes it Secretary Cortelyou's business to find out whether or not injunctions do enforce, and it is to be hoped and expected that the inquiry will be thorough and conclusive. It is for Mr. Cortelyou to ascertain the facts in the case, and when this is done it will be the province of the department of justice to act in accordance with the findings.

Russia insists that she has "not commenced to fight yet." As much might be inferred from the general tenor of the dispatches from the seat of war.

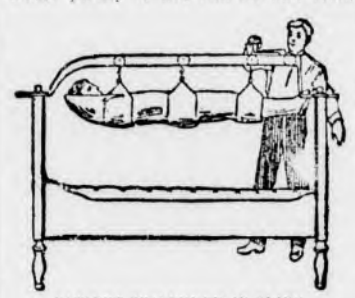

It does not require a war expert to figure out that the tax collectors will be busy in both Russia and Japan long after the fighting is over.

Anyway, President Smith should feel cheered and encouraged by the unanimous sympathy of his five large families.

FOR THE SICKROOM.

A Sling Which Raises Helpless Patients Without Injury.

One of the greatest trials in caring for a sick person who is utterly helpless is the changing of the bed linen when help is necessary in lifting the sufferer while the clothing is removed from the bed and replaced with fresh sheets. The duty is so tedious and so often accompanied by increased suffering on the part of the patient that it is apt to be postponed as long as possible and only undertaken when it can be no longer put off. In the hospitals, where everything is provided to lighten the burden of caring for the sick and where plenty of aid can be had from persons trained in the work, this duty is not so much to be dreaded, and yet even there, as in the private home, the apparatus recently designed by a German inventor and shown in the illustration would greatly lighten the labor as well as add to the patient's comfort.

This device is nothing less than a windlass designed to raise the body from the bed and hold it in suspension until the change has been completed. It consists of an arched steel frame stretching from the head to the foot of the bed and supporting between its parallel members three rollers and a winding drum. The latter is geared to a crank shaft and is provided with a ratchet, which prevents backward rotation while the weight of the body is on the rollers. When the bridge has been arranged over the patient a number of slings are slipped beneath the body and attached to the ends of the cables passing over the rollers and connecting with the winding drum; then by turning the crank the slings are elevated at the same instant, and the body maintains a level position while rising to the necessary height. When it becomes necessary to remove the patient from one bed to another the same apparatus can be used, carrying the suspended body by means of the bridge.

August Gaiser of Oberndorf, Germany, is the inventor of the sickroom appliance.

Hundreds of applications for employment in the Panama canal work have been received by Admiral Walker, but it is noted that most of the applicants want a position rather than a job.

Are You Contemplating Going South or Investing Money There.

We advise any of our readers who contemplate going south for the winter and want to rent a furnished cottage or secure board in hotel, boarding house or private family, or are desirous of investing money down there, to first write Mr. John T. Patrick, Pinebluff, N. C. Mr. Patrick has made a specialty of furnishing information to Northern people who want to find winter homes or to those who desire to loan money down there on mortgages. He is a man that can be relied upon to give honest information, and to protect the interests of those who trust their money to his care. Recently one of our readers asked Mr. Patrick to give reference as to his character and business ability, and he furnished the names of the Chief Justice of his state, Judge Walter Clark, Raleigh, N. C., and the Editor of the leading daily in the state, the News & Observer, Mr. Joseph Daniels, Raleigh, and the Editor-in-chief of the Boston Transcript, Mr. J. H. Clement, and these men said in reply that whatever Mr. Patrick said could be relied upon. Therefore it will pay you to write Mr. Patrick before you locate, and if you have money to loan, secure his assistance to get the highest rate of interest on good first-class mortgages down South where the people pay more interest than is paid up here.

COLORADO'S JUSTICE

A STATE WHERE WOMEN ARE NOT CONSIDERED A CALAMITY.

Ex-Governor Alva Adams Declares That the Centennial State Does Not Regret Granting Equal Suffrage to Women.

The following is taken from the address of the Hon. Alva Adams, ex-governor of Colorado, before the National Woman Suffrage convention recently held in Washington.

I hold no office and am seeking none and at my own expense have traveled 2000 miles to be here today. These facts should be valid vouchers of my sincerity and good faith.

Colorado does not go into mourning when a girl is born.

Equal suffrage has not taken Colorado out of the Union. She stands an example of what a sovereign state should be—a model to those self-righteous states that preach equal rights in press, pulpit and forum and deny it in the law.

In Colorado the statue of Justice that crowns city hall, courthouse and capitol is not a lie. For the capitol in Washington and in forty-one states of the Union the figure of St. Paul would be more fitting than that of the Goddess of Liberty. Unfettered by tradition and prejudice, Colorado has dared to do right. She has given to women what Solomon gave to Sheba—whatsoever she asked—and she has no regrets and no desire to recall the gift. After ten years of experience equal suffrage in Colorado needs neither apology nor defense. No harm has come to other women, men or the state. Justice never intruded on any.

Women has not yet comprehended equality in Colorado, nor has it comprehended her. Suffrage is not a revolution it is but a step and not the end of the journey. The ballot has not changed her nature. She still recognizes that ruling bread and babies is a part of the divine command, but these duties are not the whole of life. She uses the ballot to protect her property, her home, her children. It has broadened, not impeded, the woman. It has not taken the favor from the lips of a Colorado sweetheart; it has not darkened the glory of the Colorado mother, who is as sweet and gentle and refined as any woman who ever sang a lullaby over a cradle or blessed a fireside with her love and devotion. They have made no effort to unsettle the universe. They are cleaning one room at a time, not trying to right the wrongs of a hundred years in a day. Women may not have suffered, but there is a moral uplift, an inspiration, in the recognition of her equality. To the race the world is different; the sky is clearer, the air more exhilarating. She is a partner in the government; her home is a full and equal partnership affair, not a corporation where the man holds all the stock and does all the voting. She is a part of things, an individual and independent. This is everything. Our homes are the "Home Sweet Home" of other days, with the added interest and inspiration that a free, self-respecting, equal womanhood can give.

Women have not slipped in the race of politics. She is purifying it. She has raised the atmosphere of the political arena, out of the mire of the past. Women are as free from insult as in the vestibule of a church. Genuine respect and deference for women is a western trait. In the widest and most lawless mining camp of the Rocky mountains the women's duty would return a verdict of suicide over the manhood of a man that had insulted an honest, virtuous woman. Now and then a woman may take a man's view of politics and use a ballot sparingly, but for every corrupt woman in politics you can find ten men equally as foolish and with more power for wrongdoing. Last year one poor, degraded woman was caught repeating and among the men there were more preaching over the one that went astray than over the ninety and nine that were true.

The professional politician says that the woman vote is uncertain. No greater tribute could be paid. In its uncertainty the politician can read his doom. In three or four of the largest cities women have made but little headway against the intemperate machine. The failure here is due to the so-called respectable Christian men who will not ally themselves with the women to form an invincible army of civic righteousness. The women are ready, but the men are chained to partisanship.

It is human nature to question success, but it never doubts failure. The only battle cry of the mob is to "defeat him." Ugly charges are remembered and repeated. Praise and words of honor are forgotten. Few kind words are uttered regarding equal suffrage, but success and failure are given wide circulation. Two years ago twenty-five colored ministers of all denominations replied to the question of equal suffrage results. One said it worked fairly well; three said it worked fairly well; twenty-one said it worked well.

It was a tourist reporter who stated that Colorado women used charity and philanthropy as a political lever; that the highest and sweetest sentiments of the human heart were used by women as trading coin with which to purchase votes. What a shameless libel on her sex! One wonders with whom she associated when there. Certainly no true woman ever gave utterance to such revolting sentiment, for they are not true. If uttered at all, the words but expressed the individual distorted and deformed methods and ideals of one woman and in no way represented the 100,000 self-respecting, honest women voters of Colorado any more than John L. Sullivan represents the culture and refinement of his native city of Boston.

CURE CANCER BY FREEZING

Successful Use of Liquid Oxygen in Connection With Finsen Rays.

New York cancer experts are deeply interested in a case of epithelioma of the tongue which is apparently nearing a complete cure in New York city under an alternative treatment of liquid oxygen and the Finsen light.

Experiments in the treatment of benign and malignant growths with liquid oxygen have been carried on for some time at the Vanderbilt clinic and the New York hospital, but this is said to be the first case on record where where that treatment has been combined with the application of the ultra-violet rays of the Finsen tube.

The patient is a wealthy citizen of Baltimore. He had undergone with him, and they said the operative stage of the disease had passed.

As a last resort the man went to New York and put himself under the care of Dr. A. C. White, who resolved on heroic measures. The man's tongue was laid down by the growth so that he could not talk and was able to take almost no food except milk.

A piece of absorbent cotton was soaked in liquid oxygen, which is 100 degrees colder than ordinary air, and was applied for a few seconds to the under surface of the tongue until it was frozen.

The tongue was allowed to regain its normal temperature, and the liquid oxygen was reapplied, and so on, with alternate freezing and thawing, four or five times in all, within a period of five minutes. This treatment was repeated on three days in succession.

Then for two days in succession the Finsen light was applied to the tongue through a pane of glass, penetrating in a vacuum bulb. This light, which is very pale blue violet in color, seems to be attracted to the living tissues, the when the end of the tube is held to the skin the Finsen rays pass through it like a serpent's tongue. They touch the skin without producing any sensation.

Dr. White declined to talk of the case further than to admit that it was under his care and to say that a cure was apparently being effected. "Although the nerves of the tongue," he said, "were temporarily paralyzed by the freezing effects of the liquid oxygen, the patient can now lift the tongue to the roof of the mouth and take solid food. The growth is killed, and I look for no recurrence."

FOUNTAIN PEN FILLER

Eliminates Danger of Spilling Ink on the Carpet.

If all the fountain pen owners in the world who had discarded these little pocket writing outfits could be asked to agree on one thing, it would be that of getting rid of the fountain pen when writing, as the cause, the fountain pen seems to fall just about the time it is most wanted, and when the opportunity for filling it occurs the task is almost sure to fail. The hands are too busy to hold the pen, the bottle is too small to hold, the pen is too full to hold. The result is a spill of ink on the carpet. The fountain pen filler is a simple device which fills the pen in a few seconds, and it is so simple that it can be used by anyone. It is a small bottle with a stopper, and a small tube which fits into the pen. The bottle is held in one hand, and the tube is held in the other. The tube is pushed into the pen, and the bottle is squeezed. The ink flows from the bottle into the pen, and the pen is filled. The bottle is then removed, and the pen is ready to use.

A western inventor has designed a filling device which still utilizes the bottle of ink, but which offers little opportunity for spilling the liquid during the operation. This arrangement consists of a rubber bulb of slightly elongated shape, open at both ends and designed to connect the bottle directly with the reservoir of the pen. The larger opening of the bulb is forced over the neck of the bottle, and after the pen has been pressed into the smaller opening the bottle is inverted, and the ink is allowed to flow into the reservoir as the air rises through the liquid. This process being aided by the contraction and expansion of the bulb in the hand.

Leather Railway Ties.

Railway ties have been made from steel, iron, glass, stone and of grass and sawdust composition, says the American Inventor. The newest invention for that purpose is a cross tie of leather. The strap leather from shoe shops is taken into a disintegrator, ground very fine, subjected to a refining process and molded. The tension of the molding machine can be so regulated that the band enough to take a spike or tie through which a spike cannot be driven can be turned. The three great essentials in a cross tie are: it must be found in this leather shoe for it is guaranteed to hold a spike, the first plate will not splinter in it, and it will not rot. It is expected to stand service for thirty-five years.

Newsy Paragraphs

Owing to a troublesome attack of bronchitis Mr. Wilder Parkhurst of Oak Knoll did not return to Dartmouth College after the Easter vacation, until last Monday. It is no longer a secret that this young gentleman has made a brilliant record for scholarship at this college. In fact, it is well understood that he stands number 1 in his class of over two hundred men, many of whom were fitted at the best fitting schools of the country. While all this is highly complimentary to young Mr. Parkhurst, it is also a matter of congratulation to the excellent training that is afforded to those preparing for college at our excellent High School.

WINCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, APRIL 29, 1904.

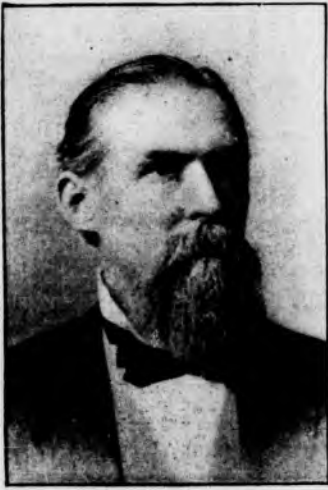

PRICE, FIVE CENTS

OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Supt. Metcalf Gives a Talk on Their Plans and Purposes.

Subjects Outlined of Much Interest to the People.

At the regular meeting of The Fortnightly, Monday afternoon, Robert C. Metcalf, Supt. of Schools, gave an interesting talk on the "Plans and Purposes of Our Public Schools." Relieving that this interesting and important talk of the Superintendent should have a circulation beyond that of the ladies who heard it, the STAR reproduces it, as follows:

ROBERT C. METCALF
Superintendent of public schools

The first part of Mr. Metcalf's address was devoted to the organization of the public schools into grades, to the distribution of the grades in the various school buildings, and to the present as well as the prospective need of further school accommodations.

Under the latter head he spoke as follows:—

The completion of the New High School Building and its occupancy in September by the High School pupils, leaves the old building for the accommodation of all the sixth grade pupils in the town. There are at present four good rooms in the building, all that we shall need for the school year 1904-5. A small expenditure of money will furnish six more rooms in the same building, suitable in size, whenever additional accommodations are needed.

In the near future, the Chapin school should be enlarged by the addition of four rooms on the north side. This will give us an eight room building, two stories in height, and will doubtless furnish all the additional school accommodations needed in that part of the town for several years. It will enable us to transfer the kindergarten from the Washington school to the Chapin, a location much more central than the present one.

The closing of the Highland school will doubtless be temporary. There will soon be a demand for a school in that locality, and the present lot is perhaps as convenient as any that could be found. One half of it might be sold, and there would still remain a generous piece of ground for a two-room building. However, the size of the building to be erected and the size of the lot may safely be left for future consideration. What the future has in store for us, we cannot see, and Lowell advises us "Not to prophesy unless we know." It would seem safe to predict, however, that at no very distant day, our town will boast three distinct Grammar schools; viz. one on the east side, one on the west, and a third at the north end of the town.

Having given perhaps too much time to the present organization of our schools, and to our present and prospective need of school accommodations, I will now call your attention to the school work, and discuss for a few minutes, education itself, what it means, and what our children need.

Education trains us to do. It may be confined to our hands, and our training may limit us to doing one thing. Education should be as broad as possible, to enlarge our usefulness, or to prepare us for emergencies. It is a suggestive fact that animals which have the longest periods of infancy are the most capable of a high degree of cultivation and of usefulness. Some of the lowest animals seem to reach the limit of their brain power in a few hours. Man seldom reaches his limit until he is fifty years old,—often the limit is far beyond this age. Hence our schools provide for this slow development. The kindergarten receives the little when four years old; the professional school, which supplements the college, prepares him for his life work, and actually fits him to get his own living not much before the age of thirty. In other words, a young man, who follows the regular order of study prescribed in the schools, must depend upon his parents for support until he is not far from twenty-eight years old.

Such training as I have assumed to be given in the elementary schools, colleges, and professional schools will prepare one for the widest sphere of usefulness. A briefer course may be taken, and usually is taken, which will give ample preparation for usefulness in a somewhat narrower sphere; and this narrower sphere may be widened by subsequent study carried on in connection with the usual life work. The learned blacksmith added to his linguistic accomplishments while shoeing horses, and repairing farming tools.

The object of education is to fit us for the greatest possible usefulness, and to make of us men and women who will add something to the life of the world. The world should be richer because we have lived in it. Education is not mere information. The man who eats the most is not always the strongest or most valuable workman. Nor is the pupil, who can answer the most questions in his school studies, always the one whose education is most complete. Information, and especially such information as we gain through our own efforts, furnishes food for thought, as our daily bread furnishes material from which we gain strength for daily living. I urge this view of education in order that we may not lay too great stress upon what is called "book-learning." Book-learning is important, but it is only a part of real education. A good, strong, healthy body is almost as necessary as a sound mind. The highest attainment possible in education is a sound mind in a sound body.

ATHLETIC SPORTS AND SCHOOL GYMNASTICS.

No one can visit our schools and note the many round-shouldered boys and girls, without wishing that something might be done to correct this evil. Stooping over desks and tables during study hours, whether at school or at home, throughout so many years of school life can not fail to have an injurious effect upon the physical wellbeing of our children. What is needed is larger playgrounds and greater freedom to use them. Every school building should have a generous school yard that can be used for play and recreation. A small portion of the yard adjoining the street may be set apart for ornamentation, but the main part should be appropriated for the purpose of recreation. The best gymnastics in the world are such as grow out of the children's games carried on in the open air, and all pupils should be encouraged to take part in them. The school grounds should be carefully prepared so that the pupils using them may neither be stifled with dust, nor be in danger of broken bones from an occasional fall. The playgrounds, when in use, should be under the care of teachers who would encourage and direct the games as well as check play that may be too boisterous.

The new High School has an excellent gymnasium, and we hope that some competent person may be placed in charge to direct the exercise of the pupils. The director of gymnastics in the High School should be one who not only understands his business as a teacher of gymnastics, but one who takes real pleasure in children's sports both on the school playgrounds, and on the open field. What we wish to secure is healthy bodies; good forms whether in sitting, standing, or walking, and a graceful carriage at all times. Pleasure is an element that should enter into all gymnastic exercises, otherwise they are of little value.

SLLOYD, SEWING, AND COOKING. "That the whole boy should be put into school," is a saying so often repeated that it has become commonplace. It is only another way of saying that all education does not come from books. In our schools we already have an excellent course in sewing for all girls in grades six, seven, eight and nine, and a course equally good in sloyd for the boys of the same grades. In these courses we secure the best possible training of the eye and the hand, training that would not be possible if only books were studied. Parents who think that only a knowledge of sewing is gained from the sewing lessons, or only a knowledge of carpentry is gained from the work in sloyd, make a mistake. By similar reasoning they would conclude, that study of arithmetic only teaches the child to solve the problems in a book, or the study of history merely stores the mind with historical facts. It is the mind-training which the child gets in his study that is of the highest value. Not what one studies so much as how he studies gives value to the work.

Cooking, unfortunately, has dropped out of our course of study, not because it was judged to be unimportant, but because at present we have no room for a cooking class. It should be again introduced as soon as conditions are favorable.

EAR-TRAINING.

Not only should the eye and hand be trained to the utmost in our school exercises, but ear-training should add its part towards completing the education of the whole child. Good English will never be spoken until it sounds well to the ear. We all speak from habit, and we are likely to speak and write the sort of English which we hear and read. Prof. Chubb says, "If a word or expression sounds well it passes current, like an ingenious counterfeit which merely looks well." The ear must be so trained that good English sounds well. Hence the value of good oral English in the schools. Hence, also, the value of much oral reading at home from books written in the best of English. The practice of reading aloud should be revived in the homes not only to increase our acquaintances with English literature, but in order that our ears may become infallible arbiters of what is good, and our tongues trained to speak our Mother tongue with precision. The oral English in our schools, at present is far from good. The voices of our children are poorly trained, or not trained at all; they lack strength and fullness; articulation and pronunciation are imperfect, and it is very difficult for one who listens to get the full meaning of what is said. All this should be remedied, and will be when oral reading at home and in the school receives the attention which it deserves.

REGULARITY OF ATTENDANCE.

One other matter should, perhaps, be brought to your attention in order that your influence may be enlisted on the side of good schools. I refer to regularity in the attendance of our pupils.

It is impossible for any pupil to carry on his work with success, in any class or grade unless the regular school hours are honestly devoted to school work. Illness cannot always be avoided, but illness, while excusable, breaks up the continuity of study and seriously interferes with the progress of the pupil. Of this cause of irregularity in attendance no complaint can be made. It is a misfortune to which all are subject. But irregularity of attendance for insufficient reasons can be, and should be, avoided. A lesson is a single link in a chain of teaching exercises having a definite object to accomplish. If this link or a series of links be broken, the object is seldom gained. It is impossible for many pupils to mend the break, and weakness in scholarship must ensue.

With forty or more pupils in a class, the teacher cannot give the delinquents sufficient time to remedy the evils resulting from much absence. The usual result is that the pupil falls behind his class, becomes discouraged, and fails of his promotion at the end of the year. Many sad cases of disappointment come before us every year, some of which might never have occurred if regularity of attendance had been insisted upon at home. It seems a small matter to ask that a pupil may be excused for a half hour or an hour in order that he or she may go to a dancing school, or to a drive into the Fells, or to a matinee in Boston, or to attend a prize drill in a neighboring town, but every minute of a good school is valuable, and time lost can never be regained. If a pupil can keep up with his class in spite of frequent absences, he either has a poor teacher or he should be promoted into a higher grade. Bad habits formed while young are likely to follow one through life, and they surely become a handicap that will prevent the highest success in any kind of business.

VACATION SCHOOLS.

May I also call your attention to the vacation schools which have been carried on for some years by a few philanthropic women of this town, probably by members of this club.

These schools are doing an excellent work for a large number of children who are unable, for various reasons, to spend their vacations at the mountains, or the seashore, or in delightful camps in the Maine woods. For a brief period each day they are kept off the street, and are pleasantly employed in various kinds of hand-work both useful and ornamental. I am sure that a visit to our Winchester vacation school would convince anyone of the value of the work carried on. Not all of us can give our time to such work, but most of us can give money, and all can give at least one or more visits, often worth more than money.

In conclusion, let me thank the ladies of "The Fortnightly" for allowing me this opportunity to present some of the purposes and needs of our schools. My interest in your children is only a little less than your own. While I remain Superintendent, it will be my aim to co-operate with the parents, to the best of my ability and judgment, in an effort to advance our schools to the highest state of efficiency.

The 8th District Convention.

The convention of Republican delegates of the eighth congressional district was held in Citizens' Hall, Gilman Square, Somerville, Friday afternoon. Besides the 118 delegates entitled to be present there was a large gathering of persons from various parts of the District interested in the contest. Walter C. Mentzer of Somerville, Chairman of the Congressional District Committee, called the convention to order. Thorndike Spalding, Esq., of Cambridge, was chosen temporary chairman and George Howland Cox of Cambridge temporary secretary. A committee on credentials reported that 118 delegates, the full number entitled to be present, were in attendance. After the appointment of the committee on ballots balloting was begun, each city and town being called in alphabetical order, the result being as follows: Frederick W. Dallinger had 1; Walter C. Mentzer of Somerville had 35; John M. Woods of Somerville 64; William B. Lawrence of Medford 66; Hans L. Carstein of Cambridge 70. The announcement was received with vociferous applause on the part of the Lawrence delegates, while the supporters of Mr. Woods were considerably surprised and shocked. Sanford Joyce of Somerville moved to make the election of Mr. Lawrence unanimous, and it was unanimously carried. On motion of Hon. James A. Bailey of Arlington, Jacob Butler of Arlington and Frank L. Ripley of Winchester were unanimously chosen alternates by acclamation. The convention by invitation of the victorious candidates then partook of a collation served in the banquet hall, the best of good feeling prevailing.

A Tribute to Mr. Nowell.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Permit me to say a few words in relation to our late fellow townsman, Joseph S. Nowell, especially as to his services to the Town and to the State in the preservation of roadside trees. The older citizens remember how Mr. Nowell served for years on the tree planting committee of the old Village Improvement Society and on a similar committee appointed by the town. In 1899 a law was passed creating the office of Tree Warden for the benefit of such towns as chose to adopt the act. Winchester adopted it in 1899 and elected Mr. Nowell to fill the office, giving him an appropriation with which to work.

In 1899 the Tree Warden law was made obligatory upon all towns and Mr. Nowell was continued in office until 1902. He then retired voluntarily but never ceased to keep up an active interest in the work of the department which he had created. Each year since his retirement he has accepted an appointment as deputy warden, and in that capacity has rendered the Town valuable services and given the Warden sound counsel upon request.

In 1895 Mr. Nowell conceived the idea that a state forestry association should be formed in Massachusetts. Early in that year he called a meeting in Boston of some twenty people known to be interested in arboriculture and forestry, the outcome of which was the organization and incorporation of the Massachusetts Forestry Association. Mr. Nowell served on the executive committee for two years, doing arduous and effective work. It was largely through his initiation and labor that the tree warden law was amended and made mandatory by the Legislature of 1899. After retiring from the executive committee Mr. Nowell still continued to give considerable thought and effort to the work of the association. He had the satisfaction of seeing this organization of his founding grow up from a small affair of 30 members and scanty funds, to an influential body of nearly 800 members, with a permanent invested fund of nearly $100,000, with a Boston business office, a salaried professional forester, and a clerical force. The Association is proud in claiming its origin in the heart of Joseph S. Nowell.

We have lost in him a citizen of the real sort. ALLEN CHAMBERLAIN.

The Fortnightly.

A large number of the ladies of The Fortnightly and their friends listened to Mr. Robert C. Metcalf's talk on the "Plans and Purposes of Our Public Schools" on Monday afternoon. In presenting the speaker Mrs. Wellington conferred a graceful compliment upon him by referring to our natural habit of "saving the best until last."

Mr. Metcalf spoke of the work that is being done in the public schools and of the importance of good teachers in the lower grades. He believes that the body should be educated as well as the mind and that sewing, cooking and manual training should have important places in the school work. The good old fashioned oral reading should also be made prominent and much may be gained by having the children read aloud at home. The speaker made a plea for regular attendance and urged the parents to allow no hindrance but sickness to be an excuse for absence.

Mr. Metcalf looks forward to the time in the near future when Winchester shall be able to employ more special teachers to direct the work of the grade teachers. All were impressed with the earnest spirit of devotion on the part of the speaker to the welfare of the public schools.

Mr. Metcalf's talk can be found in full elsewhere in this issue of the STAR.

The annual meeting of The Fortnightly will be held on May 9. After the election of officers, Mrs. Marjorie Frances Hagley will give a short entertainment to be followed by a reception to the officers and directors. Tea will be served.

Shall There be a Parade on the Fourth.

There is considerable thought being given by the young men of the town as to whether or not it would be advisable to have a procession on the morning of the Fourth of July. It is fourteen years ago since the last successful parade was held. No doubt the Selectmen, who are the custodians of the money voted by the town for the observance of that day, would be glad to contribute toward that feature of the day's celebration. The whole matter rests with the young men as to whether there shall be a procession or not. The merchants of the town can undoubtedly be depended on to assist and take part in making the necessary arrangements. It would be well at the start to recognize the fact that to make the affair a success that there will be a great deal of work entailed and that it is none too early to commence right away, if it is deemed advisable to have a procession. The parade of 14 years ago was successful in every sense of the word and was thoroughly enjoyed by hundreds of the people.

Chairman Carter of the Board of Selectmen is interested in this feature and no doubt he would be pleased to talk it over with the young men and give them his advice and assistance.

Paul Revere a Mason.

The Malden News urges the Masons to make more of the Paul Revere anniversary. It says:

"We have often wondered that Massachusetts Masons do not make more of an observance of the anniversary of the battle of Lexington. Paul Revere whose famous ride occurred 129 years ago, was the grand master of the grand lodge of Masons of Massachusetts. What could be more fitting than for Masons to celebrate this great event in the life of the most illustrious in their long line of grand masters."

Presented Gold Charm.

Mr. F. T. Depner, organist of St. Mary's Church for the past seven years, was presented a gold locket charm, at the close of Sunday's service, by the choir members. Mr. Daly in a few well chosen words expressed the regrets of the members in losing such an able organist, instructor and friend. Mr. Depner resigns the position to give his undivided attention to the teaching of piano-forte. His many Winchester friends wish him every future success.

Concerning Public Matters—Who Should Pay for the Picture of the Howe House

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I thank my friends "McKay Workingman" and "Fair Play" for their honest frankness in publicly advising me how to be good (according to their standard) and honor my old friend and neighbor, Mrs. Nancy Symmes Howe, by presenting a photograph of her old home to ornament the interior of the new High School building. I am sorry however that my kind advisors completely miss the point of my suggestion that the town of Winchester, through its officers, should officially make this present as a matter of thoughtful recognition of benefit the town has received from Mrs. Howe. This "good lady" is now far removed from either our praise or blame. Fulsome flattery or criticism in regard to her acts are idle words, so far as she is concerned. Her book is completed and closed forever and no act of the town or of an individual can reopen or alter it. Why talk then about giving a picture of Mrs. Howe's home to the high school? Simply as suggestive of an act of official politeness, or acknowledgment on the part of the town that it has received something of value, something meritorious from an almost unknown friend of present Winchester, Mrs. Nancy Symmes Howe. "Manners maketh the man," and in some degree manners maketh a town. If a community receives benefits in a thankless, thoughtless manner, without paying much attention to the will of the giver as to how the gift should be used, that community lacks manners and a proper perception of what is fitting in one receiving favors. Mr. Emerson says that a lack of manners comes from a want of fine perceptions, and my suggestion that the town of Winchester, which voted to accept the Howe property and to carry out the purpose of the gift, should also vote to build a school house on the lot and remove the Howe house as an incumbrance to the school surroundings, was only meant to be a gentle reminder to the town that it might be a little bit mannerly and officially polite as a community, if it procured a good photograph of the old homestead to be placed in the new High School before tearing down the house. The Board of Selectmen, having adopted my suggestion before my friends publicly advised me personally procuring the picture, indicates that Winchester's official perception of propriety in the matter is superior to that of "Workingman" and "Fair Play." As my suggestion has brought about what I intended, I feel gratified that I made it, notwithstanding the criticism of my STAR friends, who seem to be of the "shooting" rather than the "fixed" variety, as guides to those less brilliant than themselves.

I confess that I do not feel much drawn to make a personal gift to the Winchester High School. The town is too wealthy to receive such a gift as I might offer. A community which can afford to destroy such a building as the former Wadleigh school building, and take down the income paying Howe house would not value very highly any personal gift I might make. Even if it should be accepted with present thanks, it might find its way to the ash heap within a few years as new men take the place of present managers and new ideas supplant the old. Notwithstanding this feeling that any personal gift to the town of Winchester under present conditions might not be long appreciated, I do, I think, would soon be thrown over the fence, (a feeling which many of the older citizen share with me) I do not want to blight in any way the earnest desire of my two unknown instructors that all citizens possessed with "dough" enough for the purpose should be induced to make personal sacrifices to feed the public pride in the new High school building and its furnishings. To give my two friends a chance, therefore, to ripen their feeble sucker-like shoots of liberality, I will agree to give equally with them something beneficial to the school, provided they will call upon me, giving their true names, and we can agree upon what to give, whether it be a set of book-saws for the gymnasium, manicure sets for the toilet rooms, or any other useful gift to be mutually agreed upon. I am informed that my two friends intend sometime to make expensive individual gifts to the school themselves, though too modest to publicly own it at present. As my proposal will reduce the cost to each two thirds they will no doubt accept my offer of partnership in one gift and call on me forthwith to arrange details. I consider this a liberal offer considering the expense of shoveling snow around my mill and mill-pond sidewalks which the town has voted I shall assume next winter. ARTHUR E. WHITNEY.

Card of Thanks.

Mrs. G. W. Stearns and family desire to express their gratitude for the great kindness extended them by friends during their bereavement also for the lovely floral tributes received.

ASSESSORS' NOTICE.

The inhabitants of the Town of Winchester and all persons, firms and corporations, domestic or foreign are hereby notified to bring in to the assessors, Assessors of said Winchester, on or before the first day of June, true lists of their Tolls and of all their Estates, both real and personal (not exempt from taxation) of which they were possessed on the first day of May, 1904.

Persons holding Estates in trust, whether for minors or otherwise, are particularly requested to furnish the Assessors with statements in relation to such Estates. Where Estates of persons deceased have been divided during the past year or have changed hands from other causes, the Executors, Administrators, or other persons interested, are respectfully requested to give notice of such changes at the office.

AN ACT RELATING TO THE ASSESSMENT OF TAXES UPON MORTGAGED REAL ESTATE CHAPTER 12, SECTION 45, REVISED LAWS.

A mortgagor or mortgagee of real estate may bring into the Assessors of the town in which it lies, within the time prescribed above, a statement under oath of the amount secured thereon, or on each separate parcel thereof, with the name and residence of every holder of an interest therein as mortgagor or mortgagee.

If such property is situated in two or more places, or if a recorded mortgage includes two or more estates or parts of an estate as security for one sum, such statement shall include an estimate of the interest of the mortgagee in each estate or part of an estate.

The Assessors shall from such statement or otherwise, ascertain the proportionate interests of the mortgagor or mortgagee respectively in said estates, and shall assess the same accordingly. If in any year such statement is not brought in, the tax for that year on such real estate, shall not be levied merely for the reason that the interest of the mortgage therein has not been assessed to him.

Any person neglecting to furnish the Assessors with a list of all their personal property within the time specified will be deemed at a legal meeting of the Board of Assessors, agreeable to the laws of the Commonwealth, which meeting will be held during the month of June.

Schedules may be obtained at the office of the Assessors.

DANIEL'S AWAKENING

By Maude J. Sullivan

Copyright, 1904, by T. C. McClure

Though two women had called him "husband," Daniel Newcomb had never been in love. His first marriage, with a cousin, had been to satisfy the terms of his grandfather's will, and the second union was simply one of convenience. Daniel Newcomb, a widower, had needed a housekeeper, and Betty Randall, an orphan, too old to seek the shelter of an institution and too trusting to be thrown on the world, had needed a home. It had resulted in such marriages usually do disastrously for the women.

Daniel was satisfied with Betty. She was pretty and economical, but Betty had grown to love her stolid husband with all the ardor of a young and grateful heart. Would he ever really care for her? Could anything make her appear lovely in his sight? She was asking herself these questions as she stood in Mrs. Yardwell's millinery shop surveying the mass of lace and flowers that rested on her sunny head.

"I tell you what, Mrs. Newcomb," said Mrs. Yardwell, ready to close a bargain. "If Daniel don't like it or he thinks it too high priced I'll agree to change it. Most all my hats are sold with that understanding. Husbands have to be pleased nowdays."

"Isn't the price, Daniel's real liberal, I'll take it," answered Betty nervously as she opened her purse. There was a wistful look in her hazel eyes as she asked, "Did you know Mary Ellen, Daniel's first wife?"

"From the time she was a baby."

"Would she have worn a hat like this?"

"Land, no! Them buttonups wouldn't 'a' looked well agin Mary Ellen's red face, to say nothin' of the poppies. I'd as soon looked for tussels on a clothes-line as for poppies on Mary Ellen. Even if she'd been inclined to wear 'em, she'd have faltered at the cost. She was extremely prudent."

"So Daniel says," murmured Betty as she left the shop. Her previous head gear deposited carefully in the wagon, she unlatched her horse and started it toward the trim farmhouse by the river. Mrs. Yardwell watched her until her slender figure faded from sight. Then she went into her work-room.

"Sereny," she said to her helper, "Daniel Newcomb's new wife is a real takin' little thing, as sweet an' pretty as 'tother was humbly an' stungy. I'm afraid from what she said that Daniel is Mary Ellen's her to death. Poor little thing! I do hope she is happy."

But Betty was not happy. Many times since her marriage had she looked with tear-filled eyes toward the little burial plot beneath the evergreens and prayed that she might all the place in her husband's heart formerly occupied by the woman sleeping there. Her husband's approval of her was gauged by the way her actions tallied with Mary Ellen's.

Daniel was not displeased, but the difference in the women was so striking that more than once he was quite unconscious of an uttered comparison. The first wife, a model housewife, had a faculty of making people feel uncomfortable in her presence. Betty's household duties might be performed a trifle less religiously, the dust might sometimes settle upon the parlor furniture, but the sunlight crept there, too, and her very nature radiated compatibility.

On one occasion the usual comparison remained unexpressed. Betty had called her husband into the brightly lighted parlor and pointed proudly to the old sofa piled high with pillows covered with chintz and denims. She had found some unused feather beds in the attic and in them had seen the possibilities of a cozy corner such as she had often admired in the shop windows. Before Daniel could utter the customary "Mary Ellen wouldn't have done that," she invited him to test its comfort, and, lulled by the luxurious softness, the remark was lost in a doze. Thereafter it was his favorite retreat and one not forbidden him. Shade of Mary Ellen! How was Betty to know that the unused feather beds and the darkened parlor were the pride of her predecessor's heart?

It was with many misgivings that she called Daniel's attention to her new hat. There was no mistaking the disapproval in his countenance.

"You—going—to—wear—that?" he gasped.

"Why, yes. Don't you like it, Daniel?" Betty perched it bewitchingly on her head.

"It's pretty enough. But how those red flowers will look agin the crape band on my hat? I cowed I'd show all respect to Mary Ellen, and that band can't come off in less than a year. Ain't you got no respect for appearances? Red poppies agin black crape? Oh, Betty, can't you understand how I feel?" One look at the bright head and the nodding flowers, and Daniel dashed out toward the barn.

Poor Betty! She removed the hat and fell weeping into a chair. Yes; she understood. She knew now how lonely he was, and she would show him that she sympathized with him. Hurriedly she wrapped up the offending head-dress and slipped from the house. It was a long, hot walk back to the milliner's, but her one thought was to get back to Mrs. Yardwell.

"Mrs. Yardwell," she cried breathlessly after what seemed an eternity of waiting, "I've come to change my hat. I've got to have a mourning bonnet."

"For the land sakes!" exclaimed the milliner, hurried by curiosity. "Have you lost a relation? I didn't know you had one."

"Sort of one," answered Betty, giving a far-away pat to the poppies. "I want the deepest dyed mourning you've got."

It was soon upon her head, a heavy black thing that fell in hot folds over her shoulders. Back over the road she trudged, the weight of the bonnet pulling at her temples and sending throbs into her head. The heat of the sun made her dizzy and faint. Oh, for something to relieve her! She half turned into the doctor's yard, but no. There was a medicine chest well filled at home. She would wait until she reached there. One of Mary's virtues had been economy. Blindly she staggered on toward home, entered it and went to the medicine chest. Blindly she grasped a bottle and drank from it. Then she remembered no more.

When Daniel returned that night from doing the chores he missed Betty's welcome at the door. She had not failed to meet him there since their marriage. He found her on the kitchen floor, enveloped in widow's weeds and writhing in agony. Clamishly, but tenderly, he removed the ugly bonnet and placed her on her bed, where she lay raving and tossing while he ran for help. It was fortunate that the doctor was driving past just as the distracted man rushed from the house. He administered the proper antidote for the poison Betty had swallowed in her search for headache medicine.

Mrs. Yardwell was soon summoned for Betty, moved of her and the poppy hat. She called Daniel to a conference in the barn. What was said to him he never quite remembered. He was wondering dimly if Betty were going to die and trying to picture home without her. For once in his busy life he was taking time to realize that he was in love with his wife.

When Betty opened her eyes in consciousness it was to find her husband sitting by her tenderly stroking her hands, and the beloved poppy hat lay on the coverlet beside her. She looked at him wonderingly.

"It's for you, dear," said Daniel huskily, "for you to wear. In all respect to Mary Ellen, I've taken off the crape, and we'll let her rest now where she is. Forgive me, Betty. I've been a brute. But I've suffered since you've been lying there, and I've found out how dear you are to me."

"But I'm not like Mary Ellen," whispered Betty faintly.

"No, thank God! But you're mine, and I love you. I want you to be happy in your own way hereafter, and try to love me a little. Will you, dear?"

She was too weak to answer, but she smiled a happy little smile as her husband bent and for the first time gave her a lover's kiss.

An Intelligent Chimpanzee.

In 1884 Mr. Smyth, United States consul at Liberia, brought to this country a young chimpanzee about seven months old and sold him to the New York park department for the cost of transporting him. As he came first class passage, the price was $125. He was named Crowley. He took to Keeper Cook from the first, and until his death they were the best of friends. He was very intelligent and I believe was as near human as an animal could be. He would sit at a table to eat, putting on a napkin and using a knife, fork and spoon when necessary. When he had finished he would use the napkin, carefully fold it up and lay it beside his plate. About two weeks before he died a severe attack of pneumonia set in, and Dr. Marsh, surgeon of the park police, was called. Every morning when the doctor entered the room he would say, "Good morning, Crowley," and Crowley would get up to shake hands. Then the doctor would say, "How are you this morning?" and Crowley would grin. The doctor would examine him and say, "Your pulse, Crowley," and Crowley would extend his hand. "Now your lungs," and Crowley would throw back his arms to allow the doctor to place his ear to his breast. "And now your back, Crowley," and he would turn his back.

He grew very feeble before death, and Cook stood by him from early morning until late at night. Late in the afternoon of the day he died Cook held him in his arms for about an hour. Cook put him down on the floor, and Crowley raised himself up, put out his hand to shake hands, as Cook said, "To bid him goodbye," turned toward the wall of his room and dropped dead—Outing.

A Salutary Lesson.

"Now, remember your salutes," said the corporal when posting the Irish recruit on sentry. "If you see a lieutenant—he wears one star on his shoulder—slope arms; if a captain—two stars—slope arms. If you see a major—a crown—present arms. If the colonel—stars and crown—present and turn out the guard."

Pat pondered his orders carefully, but presently he was awakened from his reverie by the approach of the general.

That worthy son of Mars surveyed the cross swords on the gallant officer's shoulders and as he was not included in the corporal's category simply nodded cheerfully.

"Well, my man," said the general, "and who are you supposed to be?"

"I'm supposed to be a bit of a sentry," said Patrick. "And who are you?"

"Oh, I'm supposed to be a bit of a general," said the latter.

"A general, is it?" cried the startled Pat. "Then ye'll want something big. The corporal told me about the others, but nothing about yourself at all, at all. But hold hard a minute, and I'll give ye the bayonet exercise, if that'll do."—London Answers.

ASHES ON TROLLEY CARS.

Brooklyn's New Method of Getting Rid of Its Waste.

Contracts have been entered into for the purpose of carrying the ashes and street sweepings in Brooklyn over the Brooklyn Rapid Transit lines to the lowlands at Coney Island and Jamaica Bay, says the Electrical World. A feature of the work will be that all the handling will be done electrically, none of the material being touched by hand from the time it is shoveled into the carts of the street cleaning department on the streets until it is finally disposed of for filling in waste tracts of land in the outlying districts. By employing the new system the city expects to effect an annual saving of upward of $50,000.

Thirteen stations will be built on the Brooklyn Rapid Transit surface lines to receive the ashes. They will be located within a radius of about a mile from one another. To each of these stations the city horse carts will carry their collections from their respective districts. The carts will drive into the stations, which will be inclosed as to both roof and sides to prevent the scattering of the ashes, etc. The material will be automatically shot into large steel bins fitted with light steel covers. These bins will each have a capacity of ten cubic yards. Each station will have room for about twenty-four bins. The bins will remain covered except when the wagons are actually dumping into them. When filled they will be raised by an electric crane on to flat cars for conveyance to Coney Island or Jamaica Bay.

The electric crane for each of the stations will be of ten tons capacity each. The span will be thirty-five feet. They will be regulated flat cars. Fifty will be employed in the work. Four bins will be carried on each car. On arrival at the ultimate destination each bin will be picked up by an aerial tramway and carried along the wires to be dumped wherever desired. The tramways will be built on wheels so as to permit of their removal from place to place. They will be electrically operated. Work on eight of the receiving stations has already been started.

New Method of Laying Dust.

Experiments have been carried out in England with a new dust laying preparation known as westrumite to overcome the raising of heavy clouds of dust by automobiles. The preparation is a mixture of oil, capable of dilution to any desired extent, and distributed over the road surface by means of an ordinary water cart. After the evaporation of the water the westrumite remains as a moist surface of film upon the road and absolutely prevents clouds of dust arising. Some interesting demonstrations with this preparation have been given.

DO YOU GET UP

WITH A LAME BACK?

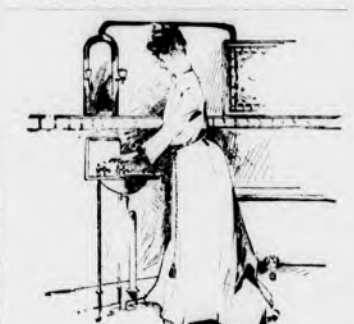

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century, discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty cent and dollar sizes are sold by all good druggists.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

A Matter for Gratification.

The outcome of the contest in the selection of delegates to the National Republican convention by the choice of Hon. William B.
Lawrence of Medford as one of the gentlemen to represent the eighth congressional district, is a matter of gratification and congratulation, as evidence of the
tween Medford and Winchester.The portion of the congressional district, other than the cities of Cambridge and Somerville cannot fail to view with satisfaction the manifestation of that fair play and justice which induced so many of the Cambridge and Somerville delegates to acknowledge the reasonable claims of Medford to representation, and to give their support to bring about the successful result.Union Services During the Summer Months.The suggestion made by the STAR several weeks ago that the local churches hold reunion services during the summer months, is receiving the earnest consideration of the members of the several societies. The plan is for each church to provide the preacher, music and service for one Sunday in the month, and inviting all the others to worship with it for that Lord's Day, thus taking turns throughout the month, all the churches being closed except when each one's turn shall come to provide the service.This will be found more satisfactory than in having services that are attended by practically few people, or in closing the churches altogether. Furthermore it lessens the expenses of the societies.

The Polymnia.

The new ladies' chorus club concluded its first month's work on last Tuesday morning with satisfactory results. As the regular musical season ends on June first, but one month remains before adjourning for the summer.It is impossible to estimate too highly the value of the work being done by Madame Martinez the director of the club, for musical art in Winchester.It is in every sense a new departure in choral work. The scope of special instruction given each week embraces all the primary and fundamental elements of vocal training, and of musical education.
When one considers that to obtain any reasonable portion of the tuition enjoyed by members of the Polymnia through private instruction, the cost in many cases prohibitive, it is not so very difficult to appreciate the value of membership in the Polymnia to musical students and to amateurs in this community. The meetings are held in Waterhall Hall on Tuesday mornings from ten to twelve.

A Singular Case.

It pays to have a town inspector. While on a tour of observation recently, Chairman Carter of the Board of Selectmen discovered an arc light on the Woburn side of the town line on Main street, that Winchester was paying for. He notified the Company of this fact and asked why the light was charged to Winchester.
The reply was that a number of years ago this question was taken up by the Winchester authorities but before a settlement was reached was allowed to drop. Mr.
Carter put up a kick and this week he was informed that Woburn would hereafter pay for the light. As both places received the benefit of the arc light, no objection would have been made to both communities sharing alike in the expense.
The cost of one of these lamps is $75 a year, and Winchester has been paying this for many, many years. Thus Mr.
Carter has effected a saving to the town of many dollars.

Base Ball.

WINCHESTER H. S. 7. READING H. S. 3.

Winchester defeated the strong Reading team at Reading last Saturday 7-3.
Winchester played a good game both in the field and at the bat. Up to the 1st of the fourth inning, Reading led 4-2 but Winchester scored 4 runs in this inning by good stick work and clever base running. P. Badger, Barta and Sullivan excelled for Winchester, while Nichols played the best game for Reading. Sullivan who was twirling for Winchester kept the hits well scattered and the fielders gave him excellent support.Innings: 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 Total

WINCHESTER H. S. 9. STONEHAM H. S. 8.

Winchester beat her old rival, Stoneham, last Tuesday by a score of 9 to 8 in a loose game. It looked like Stoneham's game up to the 8th inning when Winchester took a brave and did some good hitting.
Caulfield was in the box for Winchester and did some good twirling, but the support which he had at times was wretched.
In the ninth inning Winchester went to the field with a lead of one run. Stoneham's first man sent a terrific line drive to Pond at first base which he handled beautifully, the next man fanned and Winchester spirits rose. The third man singled to center and stole 2nd. A hit now meant a run for Stoneham and at least a tie score. Brady was at the bat for Stoneham and on him depended the game. The first ball pitched went wide but the next one seemed to suit him, and he met it with a terrific crack. As soon as the ball started Sullivan ran toward second and just managed to scoop it in with his left hand, thus retiring the side.Innings: 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 Total Winchester H. S. 0 1 0 0 2 0 2 0 2-9
Stoneham H. S. 3 1 0 0 3 0 1 0 0-8Runs made, by Barta, Pond 2, Heath

Rev. G. W. Stearns, M. D.

Rev. George W. Stearns, M. D., formerly of New Bedford, died at his home on Washington street last Friday, aged 89 years. Death was due to old age. Rev.
Mr. Stearns was born in Reading, Vt., Dec. 25, 1814. He was educated in the public schools, the Norwich and Newbury seminaries, and in the Homoeopathic Medical college of Philadelphia and also the Penn Medical University of Pennsylvania.
He was converted at Newbury seminary, Oct. 5, 1834, and was its eldest son. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church on probation October 9, and in July, 1837, was made an itinerant in the New Hampshire conference. After preaching there for some time he was transferred to the Providence conference. His last pastoral was Wareham, when his health failed, compelling a cessation of traveling in 1856. In 1857 he commenced the practice of medicine in New Bedford, remaining there 22 years, during that time acting as chaplain for the almshouse for five years, and filling the pulpit of the South Dartmouth Baptist Church for one year. Rev. Mr. Stearns was the oldest itinerant of the New England Southern conference. He is survived by a widow, a son, and two daughters.Funeral services were held on Sunday at 3 p. m., from his late residence, Rev.
H. P. Rankin officiating, assisted by Rev.
Mr. Ravi. The interment was at New Bedford.

Be sure to come to the boys meeting at 3 o'clock next Sunday afternoon.The Winchester Campers have invited the boy campers of 1903 to hold their annual reunion at Winchester next Friday evening. The committee of arrangements includes Roland Lane, chairman, Douglas Armstrong, Russell Armstrong, George French, Archie Walling, Theodore Hurd, Ralph Hazell, Austin Hawes, Leonard Waters, A. G. Richburg and C. B. Sanford. A banquet will be served at 5:30 o'clock and the committee expect to secure the Hillcrest Orchestra.
Have you seen the neatly framed pictures of the three basketball teams which have recently been added to the collection in the office? They are the gift of Mr. Higgins and are certainly very tastefully arranged.Last Wednesday afternoon A. C. Cotton, Sec. of the Taunton Association, visited the local Association.The Young Men's Christian Association international conventions are held every three years, and the one for 1904 will take place at Buffalo, May 11 to 15.
It is expected that two thousand delegates will be present. Winchester will probably be represented. The program promises to be a strong one, among the speakers being G. Campbell Morgan and Fred B. Smith. As the convention plans to visit Niagara Falls on Saturday afternoon, May 14, in a body, the trip combines the sightseeing with the educational and inspirational features.

Cross Street Baptist Church.

Last Sunday morning and evening the services were conducted by Rev. O. A.
Smith of Chelsea. There was special music by the choir at which Mr. Brine of Cambridge, a friend of the organist, gave a baritone solo.Last Tuesday Mr. Isaac Skanks and his son William visited their many Winchester friends. Mr. Skanks is now living in Hudson, Mass.The meetings heretofore held on Friday evenings are now held on Wednesday evenings.The Women's Home Missionary Circle held a special meeting to arrange for a missionary entertainment to be given on Thursday evening.The pastor wishes to thank those who purchased so many tickets for the entertainment. There was realized over $68, which will go for a church lot in the near future.Next Sunday evening there will be special music and every one is invited to attend. Mr. Brine of Cambridge will be one of the singers, and Miss J. Harrell the other.

Joseph S. Nowell.

It was with great sorrow that the inhabitants learned of the sad death of Mr.
Joseph S. Nowell of Church street late last Friday afternoon. For many years he had been prominent in the life of the town and took a deep interest in all that pertained to its welfare. His was a familiar figure at town meetings, and his voice was often heard, and almost invariably in behalf of good government and meritorious measures. His greatest interest centered in the care and preservation of the shade trees of the town and this extended over many years—from the time of the old Village Improvement Society to the present. Mr. Nowell was the first Tree Warden, an office which he relinquished because of being out of the State at times, but willing to assist as deputy warden. Socially he was most agreeable and all possessing his friendship were the richer for it. Mr. Nowell was a plain, simple, every day man, and his voice was sure to be raised in behalf of the so-called common people.Winchester has sustained a severe loss in the death of Mr. Nowell who has done so much to give to the town the name Beautiful. His memory will be held in tender remembrance by the scores of friends and acquaintances.Funeral services were held at his late residence Monday forenoon, Rev. William
I. Lawrence, pastor of the Unitarian Church officiating. The interment was in Mt. Auburn Cemetery.

What a Grave Oversight!

Many Melrose citizens were surprised and grieved at the absence of any religious services at the dedication of the new public library building on Friday.
The decision not to allow the reading of Scriptures or a public prayer is so apart from all New England traditions as to cause the most serious comment and regret. Have we departed from the lines followed by generations here and by every city in every civilized country?
We doubt if a public building of this character has ever before been dedicated to a Christian people in any Christian town or city without some slight recognition of Divine Providence.—[Melrose Journal.]Perhaps there was so much straining in accepting the money from Mr. Carnegie for the library that the people hardly felt as if they cared to give the new building their benediction.

Taking Desperate Chances.

It is true that many contract colds and recover from them without taking any precaution or treatment, and a knowledge of this fact leads others to take their chances instead of giving their colds the needed attention. It should be borne in mind that every cold weakens the lungs, lowers the vitality, makes the system less able to withstand each succeeding cold and paves the way for more serious diseases. Can you afford to take such desperate chances when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of colds, can be had for a trifle? For sale

Jaynes' Pepjuice is a

Health and Life Saver

If only you who are gloomy, despondent and pessimistic—you who feel that life holds no cheerful promise, you who are tired in the mornings, tired evenings, tired all day—lacking ambition, initiative, energy—if you would only look to the original cause of your unfortunate condition—your stomach—and repair, build it up to its natural healthy condition—you would quickly change into a gay, happy, healthy person, capable of thoroughly enjoying every hour of your life.

Jaynes' Pepjuice will bring you this happiness—Pepjuice will drive away the gloom and despondency brought on by indigestion and dyspepsia—the nervousness of your days and sleeplessness of your nights. Pepjuice will take charge of your stomach and remake it—rebuild it—give it a new life, new strength, new powers—Pepjuice will make you happy again through your stomach.

Stop a moment and think—what mean the hundreds of testimonials, of health regained by the aid of Pepjuice?—Complete and permanent relief and cure—

Read—think—and do—put your trust in Pepjuice. It will cure you. The following letter is only one of the many testifying to the merits of Pepjuice:

"I can say that Jaynes' Pepjuice is a splendid tonic. I was suffering with indigestion, had a poor appetite, could not sleep at night and was much troubled with rheumatism and nervousness, being down at times. I am now taking the second bottle and feel very much better in fact. I am so much improved that I have returned to work. After taking a few doses I am able to feel stronger, and I have been improving ever since. It has regulated my bowels better than any laxative I know of."

I wish to thank you for the benefit your Pepjuice has been to me and I shall recommend it to all my friends and relatives. It is the best cure for indigestion and dyspepsia that I know of.

WILLARD B. HALL,
Your very truly,
Company E, 56th Mass. Vol., 1st Brigade, Army of the Potomac, 34 Marie Ave., Everett, Mass."

If you are troubled with Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Nervousness, sleeplessness, kidney trouble, torpid liver, etc., get a bottle of Pepjuice at once. We take all risks. If you are not satisfied that one bottle of Pepjuice is curing you, return it empty and get your money.

JAYNES' PEPJUICE 63c.

Jaynes' Quality is highest Quality—Prices are lowest. All our goods are sold direct from wholesaler to manufacturer to consumer—you save 25 to 35 percent. Every day on every purchase you make at Jaynes' and are guaranteed satisfaction or your money back.

On this Saturday evening Osborne Howes, Esq., will speak to the members on "The Japanese Cause and the War in the Far East."

A Luncheon Whist for the ladies will be given Friday, May 6 at 11 o'clock a.m.

LADIES' NIGHT.

Tuesday evening was ladies' night at the Club House and an exceptionally enjoyable entertainment was provided in a concert with the following program:

First Fantasia.....Miss Marion A. Stearns
Israphel.....Miss Marion A. Stearns
Reading.....Mr. A. M. Fitz
The Kiss Waltz.....Mrs. Henry Goldard
Rondo Capriccioso.....Miss Mary O'Connell
Selection.....Miss Stearns
Crescendo Love Song.....Mr. Fitz
Reading.....Mr. Goldard
Selection.....Miss Stearns
Good Night, Sweet Dreams.....Bischoff
Miss O'Connell

The artists were almost all of them personal friends of Mr. Andrew M. Fitz and took part at his special solicitation, and a more enjoyable and varied programme has never been presented in the hall. Miss Hoyt who at the last moment took the place of Miss Pettengill, who was unable to be present, took the audience, her voice having an unusually wide range and her selections being particularly adapted to her style, which was charming.

Miss O'Connell was quite as popular with her sweet and tuneful soprano. Mrs. Goldard's readings were very well done for an amateur, her imitations of Miss Herford's style being very clever.

Mr. Fitz's singing is always enjoyed and he is one of those singers who cannot be heard too often. It is a delight to have perfect tone combined with clear enunciation, lack of which spoils the understanding of so many musicians. Miss Stearns' work on the violin also received favorable commendation.

After the concert there was dancing until 12 o'clock and light refreshments were served. About one hundred were present.

John J. Hern's orchestra of Woburn furnished the music.

MYSTIC VALLEY LEAGUE.

Calumet got back in its old form Monday night and whitewashed the Charlestown Club on its visit to the home alleys. The former team rolled in excellent form and totaled 1347 pins. Purrington and Philbrick were nip and tuck for the home team. Purrington rolled a single of 119. The third game was extremely close and undecided up to the last box. But two more matches remain to be bowled in the series.

Fire Notes.

The alarm from box 34 last Sunday afternoon was for a brush fire on Myopia Hill near the stand pipe in a pine grove. The firemen had two hours work before the trouble was over.

Since January 1st the fire department has been called out 27 times in response to alarms.

The old chemical engine, once the property of the town, is now doing duty in a town on Cape Cod. Winchester sold $500 for this piece of apparatus and sold it some years ago for $35. It is said to be as serviceable now as when first purchased and the local firemen wish that it had been retained by the town.

Fireman James Noonan, who has charge of the electric work of the fire department, is a firm believer in the omen that to destroy the web of a spider in the engine house accidentally or otherwise means within a short time a call for a fire. He says that during his long experience he has never known it to fail, and cites many instances to bear out this superstition.

It is fortunate that the central fire station is located on a side street, for if it was on a prominent thoroughfare its shabby appearance would cause indignation, and perhaps a protest from the board of health.

Not the Proper Thing

EDITOR OF THE STAR:
I hope our new auditor will do the proper thing and not approve the appropriation of $400 made by the selectmen to pay for the grading of the new High School lot. I voted for the new building and with some misgiving I voted to take down the old Howe house. But I cannot quite swallow taking money from a vested fund given to the town for a special purpose and wholly outside of the jurisdiction of the selectmen or other town officers and using it for school purposes. The Howe lot was turned over to the committee having charge of the new school house by vote of the town but it the Howe Symmes fund can also be used for school purposes by a simple vote of the selectmen I cannot see how any money the town holds in trust cannot also be appropriated by the same authority. If the town wants to use the Symmes fund wholly in the interest of the schools it should so vote as it has in regard to the land. If it has not so voted, I hope the auditor may be heard from. Better turn the Howe property of all description which the town controls over to the school committee rather than to have the selectmen play fast and loose with it. Let the town vote what it wants done with the Howe money as it has voted in regard to the Howe land, for it has the same control of the money as it had of the land.

GUARANTEE GIVES CONFIDENCE.

Druggist A. B. Grover is Confident That Mi-o-na Will Make People Well and Fat.

To give confidence that the use of Mi-o-na will increase weight, cure dyspepsia and restore the sick to health, A. B. Grover, one of the best known druggists in this section, gives a written guarantee with every package of Mi-o-na he sells to refund the money unless it does all this is claimed for it.

There is no need of being thin or wasted. The use of Mi-o-na will give you strength, health, good flesh. If it does not, Druggist A. B. Grover will return your money without question or argument. It comes in one size only, costing but 50c.

Mi-o-na restores health and increases weight in a natural and scientific manner. It tones up and strengthens the weak, makes rich, red blood, and restores health to the whole system.

Take a tablet of Mi-o-na after each meal and in a few days your cheeks will have a rosy glow, the eyes will be bright, the breath sweet and the step elastic and springy. Its continued use will give perfect health, and every part and outline of the body will become beautiful and symmetrical.

You really ought to begin using Mi-o-na today, when A. B. Grover agrees to refund the money if it does not give perfect satisfaction.

6 1-2 brake H. P. 1,000 lbs., 6 to 30 miles per hour, $700.

The Northern Runabout is acknowledged by experienced Automobilers to be the Peer of all Gasoline vehicles in its class. The motor, the heart of the machine, is simple in construction, noiseless yet positive in action, and can be relied on at all times.

The body is most pleasing in its lines, and at once impresses one with its sturdy road-going qualities.

The Northern is the only machine in the world equipped with the Trunion Body Hanger, which device entirely eliminates all vibration from Motor and Running Gear, making its riding qualities more luxurious than a Pullman Palace Car.

Canada's Great Railway Project.

The agreement entered into a few days ago between the Canadian government and the Grand Trunk Pacific company for the building and operation of a transcontinental line inaugurates one of the most gigantic and important single railway projects in history. The proposed line to be built and operated in conjunction with existing Grand Trunk lines will extend from North Bay or Gravenhurst, Ont., on the Atlantic, to either Belle Isle or Port Simpson, on the Pacific coast, a distance of 3,025 miles, which will be several hundred miles shorter than any other transcontinental route.

Besides having the shortest route from Liverpool, from the large centers of Canada, from New York and the manufacturing centers of the east and practically an equal route from Chicago and the middle west to the Orient, the company will have the lowest grade mountain line on the continent and over 7,200 miles of continuous railway, with steamship connections, over which rates can be made to every part of the world without consultation with friendly or unfriendly connections. The New England states are reached by the Central Vermont of the Grand Trunk system and the gateways of Chicago, Detroit and Port Huron by the Grand Trunk Western, both roads making short connections with the proposed transcontinental railway. Some of the distances are significant. For example, from New York to Yokohama by the way of Montreal and the new line will be 418 miles shorter than by the Canadian Pacific, 555 miles shorter than by Chicago and San Francisco and 1,800 miles shorter than by Liverpool to Yokohama by the way of Quebec and the new route will be 525 miles shorter than by the Canadian Pacific, 1,313 miles shorter than by New York and San Francisco.

One of the most important facts in connection with the project is the existence of approximately 500,000,000 acres of fertile and uncultivated land in northwest Canada, which will be traversed by the new line. Of the 15,400,000 acres of occupied land there only 6,000,000 acres are under cultivation, and they produced 63,000,000 bushels of wheat in 1902. It is estimated that the uncultivated lands are capable of a wheat production amounting to between 2,500,000,000 and 3,000,000,000 bushels.

The Washington Post pertinently suggests that it is about time for a prolonged session of the federal grand jury at Salt Lake City to inquire into violations of the antipolygamy law.

An agricultural authority insists that it is reckless folly to keep eggs at present prices in cold storage. They should not be placed in anything less secure than a burglar-proof safe.

The Demand of Porto Rico.

Our little Porto Ricans appear to be getting rather cocky. The federal assembly of the island has lately adopted a resolution demanding that the island be admitted to statehood or granted independence. This movement has been taking shape for some months, and the resolution referred to was the result of no mere impulse. It was adopted by a vote of 60 to 15. Our southwestern territories, which have vainly been knocking at the door for admittance to the Union for years, would hardly go so far as to demand statehood or independence, yet the Porto Ricans appear to think they are not overstepping the bounds of propriety in putting their desire into this positive form.

The ambition of the islanders is wholly natural and not at all discreditable, yet nothing is more certain than that their demand must be rejected or at least action upon it indefinitely postponed. Probably if they knew when they are well off they would hesitate to relinquish their present privileges and assume obligations which they do not at present seem any too well fitted to discharge.

On the whole, however, the Porto Ricans are doing reasonably well in the matter of self government, though it can hardly be said that they are yet prepared for complete autonomy. Considering the prolonged condition of tutelage in which most of our continental territories have been held, it would be unjust, illogical and perilous to admit to full American privileges a wholly alien people without imposing upon them a long period of probation.

LEPROSY CURABLE.

Rush Medical School Professor Doubts the Disease's Terrors.

Leprosy is curable and cannot be transmitted from one individual to another," declared Dr. James Nevis Hyde, professor of dermatology in Rush Medical school, before an audience of University of Chicago medical students in a recent lecture.

"People believe that leprosy is contagious from the fact that they read in the Bible of lepers who ran through the streets of Jerusalem crying, 'Unclean, unclean!'" said Dr. Hyde. "In reality these lepers were forced to utter this warning because of a law which compelled any one who touched a leper to pay a heavy fine before entering the temple. To touch a leper was considered merely defiling, not as a source of contagion."

Dr. Hyde is one of the few medical men who hold the theory of the non-contagious nature of leprosy. He exhibited a young New Zealander who has been under his treatment for two years and who is now almost recovered from the hitherto "incurable" disease.

Tunneling Artificial Rock.

In the construction of the extension lines of the Metropolitan railway in Paris a curious engineering problem has presented itself. At the Place de l'Opera three lines of the railway will cross each other at three different levels. The presence of water in the subsoil near the surface renders the construction of the tunnel somewhat difficult, and the engineers are solving the problem in a rather paradoxical manner. Large cavities are being dug in the earth and filled with great blocks of cement, forming a solid, water-tight mass. Then the engineers will commence boring their tunnels through the artificial rock sunk by themselves.

Trolley Cars as Disinfectors.

An Italian scientist claims to have established that electric tramways are great mediums in the disinfection of towns. He points out that the electric spark, which is so frequent an occurrence to the overhead trolley, and the emission of light from the car wheel when the rail is used for the return current transform the oxygen of the air into ozone, which has a purifying and disinfecting influence. The high discharges, he says, are frequent enough to influence greatly the atmospheric constituents, especially where the line passes through narrow thoroughfares. They become antiseptic agents.

Are You Contemplating Going South or Investing Money There.

We advise any of our readers who contemplate going south for the winter and want to rent a furnished cottage or secure board in hotel, boarding house or private family, or are desirous of investing money down there, to first write Mr. John T. Patrick, Pinebluff, N. C. Mr. Patrick has made a specialty of furnishing information to Northern people who want to find winter homes or to those who desire to loan money down there on mortgages. He is a man that can be relied upon to give honest information, and to protect the interests of those who trust their money to his care. Recent one of our readers asked Mr. Patrick to give reference as to his character and business ability, and he furnished the names of the Chief Justice of his state, Judge Walter Clark, Raleigh, N. C., and the Editor of the leading daily in the state, the News & Observer, Mr. Josephus Daniels, Raleigh, and the Editor-in-Chief of the Boston Transcript, Mr. E. H. Clement, and these men said in reply that whatever Mr. Patrick said could be relied upon. Therefore it will pay you to write Mr. Patrick before you locate, and if you have money to loan, secure his assistance to get the highest rate of interest on good first-class mortgages down South where the people pay more interest than is paid up here.

4 1-2 PER CENT.

On First Mortgage Loan.

If you have money out at two to four per cent. write to the undersigned who can place your money so it will net you FOUR and ONE HALF PER CENT on first-class city property where the insurance on the property will cover the full amount of loan.

The people of the South are making more money than the people of any section of the union. Fruit growing and truck farming pay large profits, because the farmer gets his products into the market six weeks earlier than the farmer of any other section. Rice growing, Sugar Cane growing and the making of Sugar, Cotton growing bring to the farmers large returns, and these crops are sure. No droughts to cause a failure. Where people are making money is the place to loan for sure and safe return of principal and interest.

I give as reference Hon. Walter Clark, Chief Justice of Supreme Court, for North Carolina, Raleigh, N. C. Mr. Josephus Daniels, Editor Daily News & Observer, the leading daily in North Carolina, Raleigh; Mr. John H. Sharp, Treasurer Seaboard Air Line Railway, Portsmouth, Va., and Mr. E. H. Clement, editor Daily Transcript, Boston Mass. If you want any information about the South its lands, water powers, best place to spend winter, etc., as well as loaning money, write me and I will gladly reply. Address John T. Patrick, Pinebluff, N. C.

The Merger Decision and Its Effect.

The decision of the federal supreme court that the merger of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads was in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law is no new judicial ruling of the act of 1890, but a reaffirmation of the court's previous rulings. The same principle was even more cogently asserted in the transmissouri case of 1897.

The court's finding has been more generally commented upon by the press of the country than any legal decision in recent years. The comments are varied, instructive and significant. A few are herewith reprinted as showing the general tenor of public sentiment on the decision and its effects upon the commercial interests of the country.

The New York Tribune thinks that the decision is likely to be a check upon "plans for benevolent control of other people's property which have been highly popular in financial circles and much advertised as the safeguard of national prosperity" and says:

It will certainly bring home to the people a renewed sense of the responsibility of corporations to the law and the adequacy of the United States government to control the great combinations which new forces and new industrial and commercial conditions have created with extraordinary powers, for the regulation of which it has sometimes seemed as if the law had, through lack of foresight, made no provision. Such a decision is not discouraging, but highly conservative in its tendency.

While regarding the Sherman law itself as "a very crude and imperfect act of legislation," the New York Evening Post thinks the administration "performed a public service in appealing to it" and says:

The country now knows, at any rate, what defense it has against the more dangerous development of the consolidation theory. If a better weapon be needed, it is for congress to forge it for us.

The New York Times, while admitting that "the language of the law and previous decisions of the court left practically no room for doubt about the nature of the decision," takes a decidedly pessimistic view of its effect upon the commercial interests of the country and says:

Congress has before it no business comparable in importance and urgency with the duty of providing a prompt remedy for the mischief done by this act, passed fourteen years ago. We have restraints of trade upon every hand. Copyrights and patents restrain trade; trade is restrained by the attempt of the manufacturer to get for his product more than it has cost him. All these things are lawful. But it is not lawful to attempt to create an interstate transportation system doing business on a large scale and sheltered from these sources of attack and attack which have brought innumerable railroads to bankruptcy and have caused a far more serious economic loss to the nation than it ever has suffered or ever will suffer from such technical restraints of trade as were involved in the building up of the great system in the northwest. Adequate protection for the public, about whose rights Justice Harlan is so properly solicitous, may be secured already within reach—through statutes forbidding extortionate rates and unjust discriminations.

The New York World insists that the supreme court has proved itself "the protector of the people against trusts" and says:

But in the last analysis it is not the president who has triumphed. It is not the court. It is not the law. It is the people—the plain people who elect presidents and set up courts and through their representatives do uphold the laws. The president did what public opinion called for. The law itself was framed because public opinion demanded it. It is public opinion and the people's will that have triumphed, as in the end they must always triumph, in the court of last resort.

The Philadelphia Press regards the decision as "a more complete legal triumph than Attorney Knox could have asked" and says:

The act of 1890, so long the sport of combinations which evaded it, is by this decision given a force and scope no one anticipated and which most lawyers have denied. Under it proof of intent and attempt to end competition are enough to set drastic penalties in motion against any and every merger of companies engaged in interstate commerce.

This broad fact is enough, Congress and the executive have the constitutional power and legal means to destroy any corporate combination which can be proved to intend or attempt the restraint of competition in interstate commerce.

The Chicago Tribune thinks the decision is "a great legal victory for the government" and says:

Its right arm has been strengthened for the contest with certain forms of trusts. But it cannot be claimed that competition between the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific has been restored. Mr. J. J. Hill says: "The properties of the Northern Securities are still there. They are as good as ever." They are controlled by men who do not believe in free and unrestrained competition. The communities served by the two roads will see no change in the situation so far as they are concerned after the decision.

The Chicago Daily News says:

There stands up out of the decision the great fact that congress has the power to prevent the drooping of competition by firms or corporations engaged in interstate commerce. Therefore future efforts to settle the trust question, if wisely made, should suffice to settle it on the side of the people.

The Chicago Record-Herald regards the decision as "a monument and beacon marking a great victory in the long and perilous struggle of justice and right against the domination of individual and corporate greed and of individual and corporate wealth" and says:

It is in the highest sense popular, and we should say that it must be determinative against certain kinds of monopoly were it not for the lingering doubt that is due to the fearful and wonderful ingenuity of our captains of industry and Napoleons of finance. But in any event, it must put that ingenuity to a severe test, for its definitions are of a very restrictive nature. * * * Men who now attempt what Hill and Morgan attempted may be set down as conscious law-breakers, whatever their methods. The decision destroys the old sophistries at the very least and puts a lasting stigma upon capitalistic anarchy.

MUCH SMOKE; LITTLE FIRE.Colorado Charges Against Woman Suffrage Have Slight Foundation.

It would be most encouraging to witness the horror depicted in the writings of some of our men over the fraud reported to have been committed by a small handful of women in the Denver election were it not for the fact that they fail to even mention the frauds committed by men at the same election, which were a hundred times greater than those committed by the women.

I happened to be in Washington at the time Hon. John Shafroth resigned his seat in congress. Mr. Shafroth together with some half dozen other prominent citizens of Denver, was interviewed regarding these reports, and they were all unanimous in pronouncing them "outrageous lies." Mr. Shafroth said that very few of the persons implicated were women, and those were at the instigation of men. There were some 5,000 fraudulent votes cast, and not over 100 were cast by women, and yet from reading the papers one would suppose that women were the only transgressors.

A prominent lawyer of Denver who was in Washington said of "exhibit 64," which has caused all these newspaper scare heads: "That exhibit was not competent evidence and would have been thrown out by any court." The woman who accused herself and other women of cheating simply made her affidavit and "skipped." She did not stay to be cross examined, as any one making such an accusation is bound to do. Everything points to the belief that she was in the employ of the opposite party.

When Mr. Shafroth, who is the one affected by these frauds and whose honorable conduct in resigning his seat is praised by both friends and enemies, pronounces these charges against the women "outrageous" and still insists that the influence of women in political life has been uplifting in spite of the occasional dishonest woman, what can be said of those who, ignorant of the facts, devote columns in trying to bring the women into ridicule?

The whole thing bears the earmarks of another well planned scheme of the antisuffragists to bring woman suffrage into disrepute. No one has ever claimed that all women are honest or that all women would vote honestly, but when any writer devotes columns, as some of them have, to picturing the fraudulent schemes of at the most a handful of women they must be hard up for material.

Women have been voting in Wyoming for thirty-five years, in Colorado for ten years and in Idaho and Utah for eight years, and this is the first instance where women have been found repeating at the polls. You may rest assured that the opposition would have discovered it if any woman had ever before done such a thing.

Perhaps it would be an act of kindness to let the opposition boast to their hearts' content over this, their first discovery of fraud by women after waiting all these long weary years for the opportunity.

ELNORA M. BARCOCK.

MRS. HOWE'S VIEWS.Author of the "Battle Hymn" Tells Why Women Should Get the Ballot.

We shall not obtain suffrage simply because we want it, nor shall we fail to do so because others don't want it. We shall get it because it is right that we should.

The government of our country formed itself upon the axiom that intelligence shall govern. Now, intelligence has no sex nor policy either. The elements of good judgment are equally balanced between men and women, and in women the interests of good government are more deep and intense, because parentage in woman is a fact more vital and intimate than with men.

We are custodians of the future, the guardians of its first public breath, the trainers of its earliest thought and impulse. Through untold labors and privations we bring the men to men's estate. Who shall say that our duty to the body politic ends there?

In the ages in which fighting was esteemed man's noblest pursuit the necessities of the race required that we should abide within the stronghold and beside the hearth. And now that the war worship has passed away and the things that make for peace are uppermost in men's minds and in the objects and ideals of society who shall say that the hand which guided the early years of every human being shall be paralyzed when it would touch the bloodless weapon of the ballot? Who shall say that the voice which sets the tune for the music of the household shall be dumb when the great interests of humanity are at stake and when the humanity of individuals makes no account? You men who were once little helpless creatures, nourished and guided by our affection, does it become you to say, "You have taught what it concerned us most to know, and now we will teach you your place?"

JULIA WARD HOWE.

How Woman Suffrage Works.

Ellis Meredith of Denver at the national suffrage convention conducted a "Colorado Question Box" and answered questions in regard to woman suffrage in that state. In reply to the query, "Has woman suffrage cured the corruption of politics?" she told this story: A man far gone in delirium tremens was brought to the hospital. The doctor examined him carefully. The man asked, "Can you cure me?" "No," answered the doctor, "but I can reduce the size of the snakes." Equal suffrage has not cured the corruption of politics, but it has distinctly reduced the size of the snakes.

SOMETHING NEW!

—CALL ON—

SCALES, The Jeweler,

and see the New Spoon made in Sterling Silver, size of tea spoon, but different from all others. Just the thing for Wedding Gifts.

F. S. SCALES, - - - JEWELER, WINCHESTER.

Newsy Paragraphs.

The editor has received from Mr. Edward F. Jones of St. Louis, and a former well known resident of Winchester, a cordial invitation to call on him should we decide to visit the St. Louis exposition. He says: "I often think of the friends in Winchester, and I can assure you that there are no places like it in the West. It there are, I have not seen them. We look forward weekly with a great deal of pleasure to receiving the STAR which gives us all the news."

In a few days it is expected that the building committee for the new High school will turn the edifice over to the School Board. Considering the nearness of the summer vacation it is understood that the Board has decided not to occupy it for school purposes until the opening of the fall term in September. The brief time between now and the vacation would only result in confusion and loss of valuable time to the scholars, if this was attempted. The scholars had hoped to get into the new building and have the graduation exercises there, but this is not to be the case, as they will be held in the Town Hall. The graduating class can have the distinction of being the last scholars to go forth from the old building—and a very important one at that.

Mr. Edwin C. Fisher, who purchased the Wyman estate at the corner of Highland avenue and Fells road, has caused the house to be removed, and he is now grading and otherwise handsomely improving the land. One of the features that will be particularly pleasing to his son and daughters and the young people of Hillcrest is a tennis court.

Miss Sadie Mills of Euclid avenue, has been substituting at the Music school. She is a very bright young lady.

Newsy Paragraphs.

Tomorrow, Saturday, April 30, is Arbor Day. Gov. Bates suggested rather than to set out new trees, those now growing be cleaned of the brown tail and gypsy moths. A good suggestion.

Dr. B. T. Church, the energetic chair, man of the Board of Health of Winchester, is greatly interested in a peculiar case of his in Woburn. A lady there was prematurely delivered of a male child about the 31st of March, and its survival was a question of grave doubt. Realizing that "desperate cases require heroic remedies" the Doctor promptly sent to Boston and procured an incubator and installed the wire one there. It was kept at a temperature of 85 degrees, two professional nurses were obtained, the Doctor watched it carefully, and from present appearances the life of the child was saved. It has gained in weight, it seems vigorous, and Dr. Church believes it has passed the danger line, and will live. It is certainly a case of extraordinary treatment.—[Woburn Journal.]

One step to victory for the North Suburban Association. The committee on cities has voted to report a bill prohibiting auction sales of horses within the fire limits of Boston after January 1, 1906.

Some thoughtless person with an axe hacked a number of the handsome maple trees on Mr. Vernon street in the vicinity of Mr. S. B. White's house last Friday. There can be no question but if Tree Warden Chamberlain was to get hold of the boy who slashed the trees, he would make it very uncomfortable for him.

Mr. Chester Mills of Euclid avenue has taken a position with a business house in Boston.

Mr. Fred T. Depner has severed his connection as organist at St. Mary's church.

Children's May Party at Town Hall, tomorrow afternoon, May 30th, 3 to 6.

In regard to the statement printed in the Boston American last Saturday that Chief of Police McIntosh said that Mrs. Nowell received the notice of the death of her husband with unconcern, the Chief wishes to contradict by saying that the printed report was untrue and malicious, as he had not seen Mrs. Nowell and had had no conversation with her whatever. He wishes the contradiction made in justice to the bereaved woman and also to himself.

The Traveler Wide-Awake club had a game of baseball with the C. A. C. Monday and beat them 18 to 0. The first baseman, Percival Nickolson, and pitcher Warren Cox practically won the game. John Hamon of Clark street played a good game, he caught a nice fly. Warren Cox made a double play on first and second base. The C. A. C. have a good team, but they are not up to the Wide-Awakes, so the members of the latter say.

A lady reported at the police station Wednesday that a silver watch had been stolen from her house the day before, as she thought by a paper hanger who had been employed in the house. That morning a watch was found by one of the police officers and this when shown to her was identified as the missing watch. She had dropped it on the sidewalk the night before, and but for its being found the innocent out of town paper hanger would have been looked upon as being the thief.

While rambling through the less frequented nooks and corners of the Town Hall Building this week Selectman Carter discovered in an area over the hall stage about sixty or seventy old iron gas light posts that had been stored there many years ago, by some person unknown. These heavy posts had to be carried up stairs, a job that must have entailed considerable labor. As the posts in all probability will never be used again in this town it has been decided to sell them.

The Walnut street bridge is getting to be in a very unsafe condition. A few days ago the steam fire engine broke through the planking. An iron bridge is what is needed.

Mrs. Sarah Berch.

The death of Mrs. Sarah Berch on Monday was quite a shock to her many friends. The cause of her death was heart disease from which she had been a sufferer for the past six years. Mrs. Berch was born in Hampton, Virginia, in 1806, and came to Boston in 1832, and later to Winchester. She was employed by Mrs. Preston Pond as a cook, and throughout her long illness, Mrs. Pond administered to the comforts of this faithful cook.

In 1835 she was married to Mr. Solomon Berch who survives her, also a step daughter, a son and an adopted daughter, besides two sisters and several brothers. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at the First Baptist Church, Rev. Mr. Scott of Woburn officiating, assisted by Rev. Mr. Johnson and Rev. Mr. Fitchett. The flowers were very beautiful. The pall bearers were Mack Dotson, Thomas Jones, Mr. Fitzgerald and the worthy master of the lodge. The deceased was a member of the Sphinx Club of Cambridge who attended in a body.

The interment was in Wildwood.

Mr. Berch wishes to express thanks to the many friends who assisted him during his time of trouble.

Reception at Methodist Church.

A reception was held at the Methodist church Thursday evening in honor of Rev. and Mrs. Vincent Kavi. Rev. Kavi is the new pastor of the society, he succeeded Rev. H. P. Rankin.

The church was very tastefully decorated with ferns and palms by Geo. F. Arnold. The decorations were in charge of Mrs. E. L. Dunning and Miss Hinchliffe.

The receiving party consisted of Rev. and Mrs. Vincent Kavi, Rev. C. U. Dunning and Mrs. H. N. Hovey. Vocal solos were given by Mrs. Grenville Lent, and addresses by Rev. Kavi, Rev. Dunning and Rev. D. A. Newton.

Light refreshments were served by the committee, Mrs. R. M. Armstrong, Mrs. W. F. Fitch and Mrs. Warren Knox. Despite the stormy weather about 75 attended.

Margaret Agnes Sullivan

Miss Margaret A. Sullivan, daughter of Mrs. Hannah Sullivan, of 19 Kendall street, died very suddenly last Sunday evening of apoplexy. Miss Sullivan had just bid some friends goodbye, and was on Washington street in front of the Catholic church, when she was stricken. She called to her sister for assistance, and in ten minutes she passed away. She was 39 years of age and leaves a mother, three sisters and two brothers.

The funeral was held Wednesday morning from her late residence. Requiem mass was celebrated at St. Mary's church by Rev. Thomas P. McManis. The music was by a quartet consisting of Mr. P. McElmurray, Mrs. W. F. Kenney, Miss Nellie O'Brien and Mr. J. P. Delaney, with Miss Alice O'Brien as organist. Mr. Delaney sang, "He Wipes the Tear from Every Eye," and "Nearer My God, to Thee" was sung by Miss Nellie O'Brien. The bearers were Mr. P. W. Reardon, Mr. Felix P. O'Connor, Mr. George Nelson of this town and Mr. Edward Christy, Mr. Charles Christy and Mr. Daniel Donahue of Haverhill. There were many beautiful floral tributes among which were the following: Lily with broken strings, brothers and sisters; crescent and sickle, Eastern Felt Co.; bouquet of calla lilies, Thos. Mary and Maudie Feeney of Woburn; bouquet of white pinks, Miss Mary Murphy; pillow of white roses and ferns, John Hurley and family; bouquet of roses, Miss Lizzie Conway; bouquet of white pinks, Miss Jo Bolan; bouquet of red and white roses, Frank and Nora Rogers; lily, John F. O'Connor; bouquet of red and white roses, P. E. Fitzgerald; bouquet of white pinks, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. McKenzie Jr. Interment was in Calvary cemetery, Montvale.

Sciatic Rheumatism Cured.

"I have been subject to sciatic rheumatism for years," says E. H. Waldron, of Wilton Junction, Iowa. "My joints were stiff and gave me much pain and discomfort. My joints would crack when I straightened up. I used Chamberlain's Pain Balm and have been thoroughly cured. Have not had a pain or ache from the old trouble for many months. It is certainly a most wonderful liniment." For sale by O'Connor's Pharmacy.

ASSESSORS' NOTICE.

The inhabitants of the Town of Winchester and all persons, firms and corporations, domestic or foreign are hereby notified to bring in to the subscribers, Assessors of said Winchester, on or before the first day of June, true lists of their Polls and of all their Estates, both real and personal (not exempt from taxation) of which they were possessed on the first day of May, 1904.

Persons holding Estates in trust, whether for minors or otherwise, are particularly requested to furnish the Assessors with statements in relation to such Estates. Where Estates of persons deceased have been divided during the past year or have changed hands from other causes, the Executors, Administrators, or other persons interested, are respectfully requested to give notice of such changes at the office.

AN ACT RELATING TO THE ASSESSMENT OF TAXES UPON MORTGAGED REAL ESTATE CHAPTER SECTION 45, REVISED LAWS.

A mortgagor or mortgagee of real estate may bring into the Assessors of the town in which it lies, within the time prescribed above, a statement under oath of the amount secured thereon or on each separate parcel thereof, with the name and residence of every holder of an interest therein as mortgagor or mortgagee.

If such property is situated in two or more places, or if a recorded mortgage includes two or more estates or parts of an estate as security, for one sum, such statement shall include an estimate of the interest of the mortgagee in each estate or part of an estate.

The Assessors shall, from such statement or otherwise, ascertain the proportionate interests of the mortgagor or mortgagee respectively in said estates, and shall assess the same accordingly.

If in any year such statement is not brought in, the Assessors may on such real estate, so far as it is liable for the amount of the mortgage, assess the mortgagee therein as if he were assessed to him.

Any person neglecting to furnish the Assessors with a list of all their personal property within the time specified will be deemed at a legal meeting of the Board of Assessors, agreeable to the laws of the Commonwealth, which meeting will be held during the month of June.

Schedules may be obtained at the office of the Assessors.

INVALUABLE TO ADULTS AND CHILDREN Jaynes' Extract of Malt Is a Wonderful Restorer if you are Nervous, Tired or Run Down.

Frequently the recovery from a wearing and wasting disease is a period of weakness, suffering, relapse and worry—almost as bad as the disease itself. Mothers and children drag along week after week of convalescence—a prey to every passing ill—their organs receptive to every disease germ with which they come in contact. Chronic weakness, debility and life-long invalidism have their beginnings in this way, when a good strengthening flesh, blood and tissue builder would shorten the period of convalescence and enable them in a few days to regain their strength.

Jaynes' Extract of Malt is the best—most powerful flesh and tissue builder and nerve strengthener made. It is a delightful and powerful health tonic for general run-down conditions of the blood and system—For Loss of Appetite, Mal-Nutrition in adults and children, Nursing Mothers, for whom it assists the secretion of milk; and for all sufferers from pulmonary diseases.

Read this Testimonial:

"I was tired and worn out so took a week's rest and in the meantime I used Jaynes' Malt Extract. My strength and appetite returned. I ate, drank and slept and I will gladly recommend your Malt Extract to all who are weak, nervous and run down. I have also given it to my children."

Yours truly,

J. H. C. FRANCIS,
No. 34 Mount St., Charlestown, Mass."

WE GIVE S & H GREEN TRADING STAMPS

The May Party.

The Ladies' Friendly gave their annual May party for the young people of the town on Saturday last at the Town Hall. The decorations were the same as on Friday evening when the other people enjoyed their dancing party. The entire scheme was green and white with large flags at intervals in the festoons. A very large variety of palms and other choice potted plants were prettily arranged on the stage and floor. The committee in charge were untiring in their efforts for the pleasure of the little ones and they succeeded in giving a delightful party. About 200 children attended and a large audience of parents and friends enjoyed the pretty sight. The fancy dances were given shortly after three o'clock. The minuets were danced by the following Masters and Misses who were dressed in ancient court costumes and powdered hair and wigs: The slow and graceful figures were exceedingly well given. Marjorie Davenport, Dana Wingate, Robert Bean, Hester Young, Guy Kinsley, Florence Guething, Leslie Goff, Ruth Smart, Robert Barr, Josephine Wingate, Winthrop Barta, Margaret Hunt, Paul Badger, Rebecca Fernald, Laurence Semmes, Margaret Briggs.

The always pretty Maypole dance, without which no May party is complete was danced by: Courtney Gendron, Margaret Walker, James Sanborn, Caroline Gleason, Karl Lawson, Deborah Hicks, Elliott Barta, Helen Sanborn, George Proctor, Esther Somes, Ralph Whitten, Hannah Locke, A. Foster, Josephine Woods, Harold Fultz, May Witter. The little girls of this dance were dressed in white and the little boys in white blouses, all wearing flowers corresponding in color to their streamers on the pole. The dance was well done, although there were not as many figures as usual in this lively dance.

A fancy figure march was given by 32 children which was a decided hit. The children formed many difficult figures without the slightest mistake and were encored many times. The children in this dance were: Walter Badger, Theodore Main, Dean Blanchard, Charlie Laurence, Selwyn Prime, Howard Proctor, Marshall Wellington, Marshall Symmes, Robert Cutting, Richard Parkhurst, Edwin Lawson, Dwight Thompson, Edward Hale, Guy Messenger, Carl Guething, Dorothy Wellington, Doris Goddu, Midge Hovey, Constance Manchester, Eunice Homer, Lucy Stearns, Ora Wingate, Carol Nickerson, Barbara Wellington, Gladys Spaulding, May Whitten, Dorothy Nash, Pauline Miller, Emma Waterman, Rosamond Porter, Margaret McCall.

Derby Weston was the Prince and Alice Cutting (Queen of the May) while little Julia Davenport was Queen of the following Faries: Constance Gray, Esther Cutting, Helen Ayer, Mildred Dieter, Elizabeth Bartlett, Miriam Grover, Edith Grover, Grace Stearns, Betty Passano, Francis Foster. These little children did their part with much dignity and were very sweet little fairies in white and silver. The matrons were Miss Mary Lawrence, Miss Lee, Miss Carter and Miss Bertha Russell.

After the fancy dances refreshments were served and general dancing continued until six o'clock.

School Attendance Thirty Years Ago.

In the report of the School Committee for 1874, is printed the roll of honor scholars. In the Wyman school report appears the names of George Purrington, David Reagan and Nellie Reagan who had not been absent from school for two years, and Fred Locke who was absent but one half day.

William F. Cobb of the Rumford was absent but one half day in two years. The grammar school gave an unusual record in this respect, as Granville D. Richardson is credited with losing only one half day in four years, Dollie M. Hammond, William H. Herrick and Rufus F. Herrick not absent for three years and William Swan, Charles Purrington, Fred W. Sanborn, Ellen C. Holton, Louise H. Richardson and Abbie H. Greeley have two straight years to their credit. Frank B. Wadleigh and George E. Pratt only lost one half day in two years, while Arthur E. Baker and George Stone were away for one day only in two years.

The High school also has a good record as Mary S. Chatter and Eugene L. Perry were not absent or tardy for four years. For three years, Wallace P. Palmer and J. Herbert Shattuck. Absent one day in three years, Flora S. Quimby. Not absent for two years, Jennie Stone. One day in two years, Laura I. Carlton and Walter S. Purrington.

How does this compare with the record of attendance at the present time?

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional treatment. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. It is a case of deafness caused by a starry, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous lining.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness caused by catarrh that can not be cured by Hail's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Next Thursday will be Ascension Day. The services will be the Holy Communion at 10:30 a. m., and evening prayer, when the volunteer choir will sing, at 5 p. m.

The first meeting for those thinking of confirmation will be at the church next Thursday, Ascension Day, at 4 p. m. The Bishop's visit will be June 3 at 5 p. m.

A parish meeting will be called for Tuesday, May 17, to consider the question of the immediate building of the new church.

Rheumatic Pains Relieved.

The prompt relief from the severe pains of sciatica and rheumatism which is afforded by Chamberlain's Pain Balm, is almost worth many times its cost. Mr. Willard C. Vail, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., writes: "I am troubled with rheumatism and neuralgia of the nerves and Chamberlain's Pain Balm gives relief quicker than any I have ever used." For sale by O'Connor's Pharmacy.

Newsy Paragraphs.

Mrs. J. Eastman Chase of Myrtle street is visiting her daughter, Mrs. R. R. Gardner, at her summer home in Langdon, N. H.

All three members of the school committee spent the Wednesday session at the High school to witness a rehearsal of several musical selections that have been chosen to be sung by a chorus at the forthcoming graduation exercises. Formal visits were also made to the several recitation rooms and the everyday work of the various teachers was observed with critical attention. We learn that the gentlemen were well pleased with their visit and the interest manifested by the teachers and the pupils in carrying out the details of the new course of study.

The following five men have been chosen as a crew to race for the Lawson trophy on the 17th of June: Laurence Symmes, Charles Richardson, Ralph Carter, Chester Locke, Harold Melcher. They are training hard under the direction of James Newman and LeRoy Pratt to make a good showing.

At a recent meeting of the Dartmouth Board of Editors, Wilder L. Parkhurst, son of Lewis Parkhurst, was elected an associate editor of the "Dartmouth," the weekly paper devoted to the interests of the college students.

The residence of Rev. S. Winchester Adriance was the scene of a pleasant wedding on the afternoon of Wednesday, May 4. The happy couple were Mr. George H. Staples, son of a prominent contractor and mason of Lowell, and Miss Emma Hamel of the same city. The groom was one of the boys in his Sunday School when Mr. Adriance was pastor of the Highland Congregational church of Lowell. He is associated in business with his father. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Staples started on an extensive wedding trip.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Bradshaw of Maxwell Road are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, Hugh Gordon, on Wednesday.

Miss Florence Chase has returned home for a short visit from Northampton, Mass., where she is engaged in library work.

J. Harper Blaisdell, for several years a local reporter for the STAR and now the special correspondent of the Boston Evening Transcript at Dartmouth College, has been engaged to furnish the full proceedings during commencement week for this well known Boston newspaper.

Charlie Lane's fishing trip to Lake Winnepesaukee will take place next Thursday, April 12, the party of 30 gentlemen leaving here in a special car. They will be away four days.

On Wednesday afternoon the three o'clock express from Boston very nearly killed a woman and small child at the center crossing. The Woburn shifter was backing over the crossing on the down track and the two persons were standing directly on the up track inside the gates. Despite the warning shouts of the brakemen on the freight and the whistling of the express, the woman did not realize her danger until the engine of the express was within a few feet of her. She then grabbed the small child, who evidently was a stranger to her, and backed off the track, the engine, which was rapidly slowing down under the emergency brakes, missing her by inches. The train came to a standstill on the crossing, and during the excitement a horse hitched to a Winchester Laundry wagon standing at Grover's drug store ran away. The animal dashed for the gates as it went into the train, but was headed off and ran down Railroad avenue where it was caught. Altogether it was a lively five minutes.

Miss Sarah Kellon returned last week from Kennebunkport, Me., and her many friends will be pleased to know this.

The Board of Health has an important notice in another column to which the attention of readers of the STAR is called. Little Miss Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ray of Lebanon street, fell from a swing Thursday afternoon and was badly injured on the back of her head.

Miss Grace Bernard, while at the summer home of her parents at Winthrop, slipped while coming down a flight of stairs and badly sprained two fingers of her left hand.

The music at the Unitarian Church Sunday morning will be: Violin and organ, "Cavatina," Raffi; Anthem, "Send out Thy Light," Gounod; Violin solo, "Komata," Oscar Vapss; Miss Mabel Wingate; Quartette, "Jesus lover of my soul," Warren; Alto solo, "Like as the hart desireth," Allisen.

The Bethany held their all day meeting Tuesday, forty-two sitting down to dinner. The regular business was transacted and the season's work practically finished. The ladies will continue to care for several poor families through the summer. The next meeting, the first Tuesday in June, will be the last for the season, and besides the pastors and their wives, and the ladies of the Home, a number of guests have been invited. Rev. Mr. Moore, who will have charge of the Tuesday and Sunday meetings this summer, was a guest on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Dunnell of Cross street, Somerville, suffered the death of Raymond, their one year old son, Monday. Mrs. Dunnell was formerly Miss Sarah Stewart of this town.

A Coming Attraction.

As virile and as thoroughly American as was the story of "The Pit" by Frank Norris, is the play made from the book by William A. Brady, in which Wilton Lackaye is to appear at the Hollis Street theatre, Boston, at the head of a company of three hundred people, beginning Monday, May 9th. There is a great volume of newspaper testimony to the fact that it is the one big sensation of the season. Thoroughly American in every detail, a faithful picture of the great wheat market of the West and of American social customs and problems of today, the play makes an appeal, stronger perhaps than the dramatization of any romance that has yet been given to the stage.

In the roll of Curtis Ladwin, Wilton Lackaye, who has appeared with distinction in so many parts, has found his greatest and best opportunity. Manager Brady has staged the play magnificently and has surrounded Mr. Lackaye with an extraordinary cast.

"The Pit," as Mr. Norris explained, in his plan of the Trilogy, is the fictitious narrative of a "deal" in the Chicago wheat pit. It was his design to illustrate the folly of attempting to corner wheat, and to suggest the immorality of it. Incidentally to show that the passion of speculation may become so absorbing as to annihilate the love of a devoted woman. In "The Pit," the wife of Curtis Ladwin, the Napoleon on the floor of the Chicago wheat and corn exchange, who has lost and sells millions of bushels of wheat, is not unfaithful to him, but she is miserably near the brink of infidelity at times. The play revolves around these two characters. Comes from Chicago and New York declare that "The Pit" is the greatest American play since "The Hedraetta."

Secretary Moody has decided that "The Star Spangled Banner" is the national American air and it will hereafter be played instead of "America" on all our ships at both the raising and the lowering of the colors.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

The Board of Health desires to call the attention of the citizens of Winchester to Chapter 75, Section 49 of the Revised Laws of Mass., which is as follows:

"A householder who knows that a person in his family or house is sick of smallpox, diphtheria, scarlet fever or any other infectious or contagious disease, dangerous to the public health, shall forthwith give notice thereof to the Board of Health of his city or town in which he dwells. Upon the death, recovery or removal of such person, the householder shall disinfect to the satisfaction of the Board such rooms of his house and articles thereon as, in the opinion of the Board, have been exposed to infection or contagion. Whoever violates the provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars."

The provisions of the above section will be strictly enforced by the Board.

A Russian View of the War.

Much interest is attached to a peculiarly outspoken interview with Prince Uklomsky, editor of the St. Petersburg Visionost, on the war with Japan and its probable consequences. While blaming the Japanese for the rupture and declaring that the Russian government neither expected nor wished war, Prince Uklomsky says that behind this immediate technical issue as to who was the first aggressor is the great fact that Russia's course in the far east has been the course not of a civilizing government, but of a promoter and speculator. Too many, he says, were personally and peculiarly interested in the railroad contracts, the jobs at Harbin and elsewhere and the exploitation of the new territory. He continues:

Fort Amur was wholly unnecessary to our purposes. As a port it is no better than Vladivostok and we gained nothing by acquiring it and building a railway to the point. Yet because irresponsible business men, and unthinking officials wanted it we had to lose the great neighbors of the Japanese, to whom we brought anything but friendly sentiments. No wonder they do not love us. The justification and assistance advanced at Russia has been prepared by a malignant commercial policy of conquest. Herein is the real cause of the conflict.

While we cannot recede now and must go on till we defeat the Japanese, no one is glad of the war. It will exhaust us financially, strengthen the military and reactionary elements without at the same time yielding us any advantage, material or moral, and besides, it may extend over a very long period and lead to bitter unforeseen complications.

The prince adds that the Japanese in spite of their prowess cannot excite in Russia those national sentiments of pride, enthusiasm and unity which war between moral equals generally arouses. The day is regarded by the Russian as half a man and there is no glory in fighting him even successfully.

This sentiment is the same throughout Russia. We feel as does a refined man who has been entangled in a fight with one far inferior to himself. Not that pleasure nor honor is to be had, while unpleasant consequences there are sure to be. This is why we are so apathetic, or more correctly, disgusted, and in the worst of humors.

The Destruction of Forests.

The annual report of the superintendent of the state forests of New York, which has just come to hand, shows that some progress has been made in recent years in the way of lessening the destruction by forest fires, though the annual loss from this cause is still very great. The New York superintendent says that the Adirondack forest would have been destroyed last year, "leaving nothing but a bare and blackened ruin throughout its entire extent," had it not been for the work of the wardens. These men, during the prolonged drought, prevented the numerous fires from running together.

Such care of great forests is becoming more necessary largely because of incalculable carelessness on the part of hunters and visitors in the forest regions. Farmers are also guilty of criminal neglect in this respect. Fifty-six of them were fined in the Adirondack region last year for starting fires on their farms and in that way carelessly setting fire to the adjoining forest. Sparks from railroad locomotives caused many fires. One road in the mountains is compelled by law to use oil for fuel, and no fires took place on that line. Many fires were caused by fishermen and tourists who started fires for cooking purposes and left them burning. Few persons, apparently, stop to consider the great loss they cause by such carelessness.

The report emphasizes the necessity of stringent laws in this respect and their strict enforcement, and this refers to the forests of the whole country as well as New York. Unfortunately many states lack the necessary legislation to protect the forests.

Magistrate Crane of New York says that in the last six months more than two boys have been arrested before him for greater or less crimes, and of that large number 88 per cent confessed to smoking cigarettes. Perhaps the other 12 per cent also smoked them, but did not care to acknowledge the fact. It is a universally admitted fact that cigarettes are not only physically injurious to boys, whatever effect they may have on men.

Commenting on the fact that copies of John D. Rockefeller's first account book were shown to his Billie class the other day, the Washington Post expresses the hope that he will not object to showing his last year's account book when Secretary Cortelyou's young men ask for it.

It is announced that the maharajah of Jaipur will wear $3,500,000 worth of jewelry when he visits the St. Louis exposition. The amount he will wear when he leaves will depend upon the length of his stay.

NEW BRIDLE BIT.

May Be Used on Either Gentle or Fractious Horses.

The accompanying illustration, for which we are indebted to the Scientific American, shows a bridle bit which may be used on such animals as have tender mouths or the reverse, and it affords means for the control of the animal in case it becomes fractious, and which, however, will ordinarily serve to guide an animal without hurting the mouth. The improved bit really consists of two bits so connected that by a gentle pull on the lines the horse may be guided as usual but when necessary hard pulling upon the bit will

THE BRIDLE BIT IN USE.

When the check bit, which will put a severe strain on the animal's mouth and arrest the attempt to run away before injury is done to the animal or driver.

A very advantageous feature of the improved bit consists in the safety afforded in case of the accidental breakage of the jointed driving bit, as the check bit will remain in the mouth of the animal and enable the driver to control the animal, which otherwise would be released from control if the two separate bits, both connected with the driving lines, were not employed. The inventor of this combination driving and check bit is Mr. William T. Temple of Trenton, N. J.

Artificial Camphor.

According to the Scientific American, the secret of producing genuine camphor artificially has been discovered and is now being utilized within a few miles of New York city. Hitherto the chief sources of supply have been China, Japan and Formosa, and the gum has been obtainable only by destroying the tree in which it is distributed. The principal ingredient of the new product, turpentine, is found in abundance in the United States. The commodity has so many uses—in medicine, the making of celluloid and other materials and in fighting moths—that the prospect of lower prices now opened is highly gratifying.

Are You Contemplating Going South or Investing Money There.

We advise any of our readers who contemplate going south for the winter and want to rent a furnished cottage or secure board in hotel, boarding house or private family, or are desirous of investing money down there, to first write Mr. John T. Patrick, Pinebluff, N. C. Mr. Patrick has made a specialty of furnishing information to Northern people who want to find winter homes or to those who desire to loan money down there on mortgages. He is a man that can be relied upon to give honest information, and to protect the interests of those who trust their money to his care. Recently one of our readers asked Mr. Patrick to give reference as to his character and business ability, and he furnished the names of the Chief Justice of his state, Judge Walter Clark, Raleigh, N. C., and the Editor of the leading daily in the state, the News & Observer. Mr. Josephus Daniels, Raleigh, and the Editor-in-Chief of the Boston Transcript, Mr. E. H. Clement, and these men said in reply that whatever Mr. Patrick said could be relied upon. Therefore it will pay you to write Mr. Patrick before you locate, and if you have money to loan, secure his assistance to get the highest rate of interest on good first-class mortgages down South where the people pay more interest than is paid up here.

WOODMAN'S AX SUPPLANTED

Compressed Air Now Made to Turn Forest Into Logs.

It is small wonder, says the Philadelphia Record, with the millions and millions of feet of lumber which are cut from the forests every year to be manufactured into everything from a house to a newspaper, that the government has taken up seriously the subject of the deforestation of the country and attempted to enforce, in a small way at least, the rearing of some portion of the trees with new plantings which shall serve future generations. In continental Europe nearly every country has passed through this stage and reached the period in its history where the forests are as well cared for as are the plantations and other government lands. A small army patrols the wooded areas, and only certain portions of the forests can be cut each year.

With us, however, the reforestation of devastated areas is only an experiment as yet, and much more money is spent every year in new machinery and devices for the rapid felling and cutting of the trees than goes for planting new growths. In the illustration will be seen one of the newest tools, which seems to dispense the ax almost entirely in the woodman's hands. It is possible, with this new implement and its accompanying apparatus, to fell a tree and cut it up into lengths which can be hauled to the mill in much quicker time than can be done with the ax.

The compressor plant consists of a small engine, storage tank and air pump, fuel being obtained from the waste debris of the forests. From the storage reservoir any number of lines of hose may be led out in different directions, each ending in a cylinder and piston to operate a large saw. These are mounted on a revolving bracket to hold them in rigid position with the log, and the operator has only to press the valve lever to admit air to the cylinder, guiding the saw through the log. It is not difficult to realize what a swath one compressor and a dozen saws would cut in a big forest in a few weeks' time.

LETTERS BY TELEGRAPH.

Invention Promises to Revolutionize Commercial Correspondence.

Patrick R. Dolan, of South Orange, N. J., the electrical engineer who invented the multiplex telegraph system, by which six messages can be telegraphed over a single wire at the same time, says that his latest invention, the automatic machine telegraph, has been perfected.

By means of the new system, he says, a business man in New York may dictate to his stenographer a letter of, say, 1,000 words addressed to a correspondent in Chicago. The stenographer writes the letter on a tape, punching out the characters with a machine having a keyboard resembling that of a typewriter.

A messenger takes the tape to the telegraph office, it is fed to the machine, and the letter of 1,000 words is transmitted to and printed on a tape in the Chicago office in exactly one minute. There the tape is delivered to the New York man's stenographer, his stenographer copies it out, and the New York man's letter is in the hands of the Chicago man in about half an hour, almost in the time it was written. The tariff on such a message would be from 10 to 12 cents.

Acetylene For Submarines.

The peculiar property of carbon carbide of rapidly developing acetylene gas when brought into contact with water has led to its utilization for raising and sinking submarine boats. The boat is supplied with an ordinary gas generator and a water tank, whose contents serve as ballast. The upper part of the tank is connected with the gas reservoir of the generator by a pipe, so that the gas can escape into the water tank. If the tank and reservoir of the generator are filled with water the boat sinks. After the introduction of a carbide cartridge into the generator an immense quantity of gas is formed at the sea, which forces the water into the sea. The boat now rises to the surface, remaining there until the gas is allowed to escape from both reservoirs, which causes them to be again filled with sea water and sinks the boat once more.

Two Thousand Words a Minute.

Wilhelm von Siemens of the Siemens-Halske company recently exhibited before an audience of German postal and telegraph experts a new telegraph apparatus on which he and Dr. Frank, Dr. Thomas and Dr. Ehrhardt have been working for several years. Perforated paper ribbon is used in the apparatus, and the experiments show that the instrument sends 2,000 words per minute for long distances. The message is received on a strip of sensitized paper which emerges with the letters fully developed.

FUNNY BRITISH SOLONS

Queer but Not Cogent Reasons Advanced Against Woman Suffrage.

Human nature is much alike all over the world. The debate just held in the British parliament on woman suffrage was marked by all the old arguments which have become "clichés" in the United States. It was amusing, however, by some points that would seem new to us.

Mr. Labouchere, in opposing equal rights for women, asked: "Why was the grille kept in front of the ladies' gallery? The use of the grille in such a manner would surely be to the disadvantage of the ladies." And he argued that "if the ladies' gallery were to be removed, the men would be obliged to sit in the ladies' gallery." "Why was the grille kept in front of the ladies' gallery? The use of the grille in such a manner would surely be to the disadvantage of the ladies." And he argued that "if the ladies' gallery were to be removed, the men would be obliged to sit in the ladies' gallery."

Mr. Labouchere also said that it had taken millions of years to develop man from monkeys and asked: "Are we to give women votes in the hope that in some millions of years they will develop into intelligent voters?"

Another member claimed that the cruelty of women who were blind, dumb and deaf was proved to them by the fact that they were not allowed to vote. Mr. William Richmond asked how about pigeon shooting and similar sports?

In general, the opponents appealed to sentiment and indulged in prophesy, while the advocates of equal rights based their arguments on facts. They quoted the practical good results of equal suffrage in Australia and New Zealand and pointed out that none of the timid predictions about women neglecting their homes and babies had been fulfilled. They set forth the hard conditions and starvation wages from which working women in England suffer and called attention to the large petitions and deputations from women wage-earners in behalf of the ballot.

The overwhelming vote, 182 in favor of full parliamentary suffrage for women and only 68 against, seemed to show that most of the members were not much alarmed by the direful prophecies of the conservatives.

This is the fourth time that the house of commons has recorded itself in favor of full suffrage for women by growing majorities. Last time the majority was 71. This time it is 114. Thus far the house of lords has always defeated the bill.

A WISE EDUCATOR.

He Recognizes the Value of Woman's Cooperation in the State.

Edwin G. Cooley, superintendent of the public schools in Chicago, proposes to organize the pupils into a miniature republic and teach them by actual experience their duties as citizens. The national representatives will be elected from the grammar schools and the national senators from the high schools. State and city governments will be formed in the same way. The Australian ballot system will be used in elections and the machinery of the national government copied in every detail.

Young women not only will be allowed to vote, but will be eligible to election as senators, congressmen and aldermen. In fact, the little government will be founded upon the principles of coeducation and equal suffrage.

If this plan is carried out it will supply the missing element in our public school work. Education given by the state should fit the child to take his place in the state as a citizen and to perform the duties of citizenship. The growing corruption of politics shows that so far our public schools have failed in these all important particulars.

Think what it would be to have Professor Cooley's idea carried out in all our public schools. Think of the millions of pupils who would receive it every graduate from the grammar school and the high school understood the sacredness of the ballot and the necessity of using it for the public good. The boys accustomed to seeing girls voting and holding office in the minute state would not be likely to develop into men opposed to equal rights. The girl accustomed to think of herself as a citizen would never develop into a woman without a sense of civic duty. The boys and girls would be placed upon the level of conditions that class her with idiots, imbeciles, criminals and minors. One can hardly overestimate the good that would result from such training in citizenship, and Professor Cooley's experiment will be watched with interest, especially by those who believe that women are citizens and that they should have the same political rights that men citizens have.

LIDA CALVERT OBENSHAIN.

Solving the Problems of the Day.

All that may be said as to the shortcomings of women, it still must be acknowledged that they are better prepared to exercise the suffrage than any class which has been admitted to the electorate. It has been said that our government is founded upon the broad principle that the most effective government for mankind is not that which the wisest and best would select, but that which the average of mankind would select. Logically, then, to secure the most satisfactory results woman must form part of this average. Legislation and administration will thus represent two points of view, the man's and the woman's; the state and the home—each absolutely dependent on the other. There must be strong cooperation, not alone among men, but also between men and women, to meet successfully the problems of the day, which in their final analysis are all political, and it is this cooperation which the women of the nation offer to the government.—Lida Husted Harper

The Attendance in Universities.

The registrar of Columbia university of New York has lately compiled some figures showing the enrollment of the principal universities of the country, which are as follows:

Harvard, 6,417; Columbia, 4,557; Chicago, 4,146; Michigan, 3,926; California, 3,690; Illinois, 3,651; Minnesota, 3,550; Cornell, 3,438; Wisconsin, 3,411; Yale, 2,900; Northwestern, 2,740; Pennsylvania, 2,644; Nebraska, 2,247; Syracuse, 2,207; Ohio State, 1,710; Indiana, 1,614; Missouri, 1,540; Princeton, 1,431; Leland Stanford, Jr., 1,350; Johns Hopkins, 934.

This is said to be a larger aggregate enrollment in the higher institutions of learning than has hitherto been recorded, while it is asserted that the matriculation at the lesser institutions is proportionately large, facts which in themselves are highly gratifying and significant.

Of the twenty institutions named in the foregoing list twelve properly come under the general head of "western," being west of the Alleghany mountains, and it is in these institutions that the attendance is largest, with two exceptions, Harvard and Columbia. It may be noted that Chicago, Michigan, California, Illinois and Minnesota are ahead of Cornell, Yale, Pennsylvania, Princeton and Johns Hopkins, which rank among the principal institutions of learning in the world. The registrar shows that in the western and middle western schools the attendance is rapidly increasing, while the standard of scholarship and instruction is steadily nearing the goal of perfection. All this is significant of several gratifying facts. One of these is that culture is not sectional and that the facilities for attaining it in the highest degree are not circumscribed within narrow limits. The time was when the impression prevailed that the highest culture was obtainable only within the historic environment of the older institutions of the east. This is now happily changed, and we are witnessing a broad and symmetrical development of the whole country in the matter of education, which is indicative not only of a wider and more general desire for advanced knowledge than has hitherto prevailed, but the means and facilities for gratifying it.

Blue Island, Ill., Jan. 14, 1901.
Messrs. Ely Bros.—I have used your Cream Balm in my family for nine years and it has become my family doctor for colds in the head. I use it freely on my children. It is a Godsend to children. In all of the rest on the other side. Sent up for convenience. With Cordial regards—

Yours respectfully,
Messrs. Ely Bros.—I suffered greatly with catarrh and tried different remedies without effect. After using one bottle of your Cream Balm I found relief and I cannot praise too highly such a remedy.

Forecasting the Weather.

Any one who can find out what causes the weather and apply his knowledge to forecasting what the weather will be for thirty days at a time can get $500,000 from the United States government if a bill introduced by Senator Bard of California becomes a law. The Bard bill offers $150,000 in two prizes, one of $100,000 and the other of $50,000, for the discovery of the physical basis of meteorology. Even government weather experts admit that they do not know what causes the weather. They can tell with some accuracy what the weather will be for twenty-four hours because they can find out certain things about the weather conditions surrounding points for which predictions are made, but they can't say what is going to happen next. There are scientists in Washington, however, who believe that there is a fixed basis of the weather and that once this basis is discovered it will be possible on any given date to predict exactly what the weather will be for every day that month, including rainfall, temperature and all other things necessary to be known for the benefit of agriculture, horticulture or commerce.

The trouble is to discover the basis, which successfully and persistently eludes the scientific weather sharps as well as the goose bone prophets.

It is a toss up since the last policy was taken out which woman carries the heavier life insurance. Mrs. Leland Stanford of California or Mrs. James Dunsinuir of Toronto. The odds are in favor of Mrs. Stanford, for she now is rated as insured for "over" $1,000,000, whereas Mrs. Dunsinuir is put down at an even $1,000,000. They are unquestionably the most heavily insured women on the American continent and far ahead of any of their sisters in the east. The next nearest is Mrs. Basil N. Duke of Durham, N. C., who has policies amounting to $385,000.

UNCLE SAM'S WONDERS

All Executive Departments Send Treasures to the World's Fair.

Display Installed in the Largest Governmental Exposition Building Ever Constructed — Precious Documents — Relics of Famous Statesmen and Soldiers. Working Postal Exhibit.

The United States Government building at the World's Fair occupies an elevated site just south of the main picture of the Exposition. The great central dome of the Government building is visible from the very center of the Fair, looking across the picturesque garden that lies between the Palace of Mines and Metallurgy and Lilliant Arts.

The hill slope in front of the Government building is terraced with broad stairways almost completely covering the slope. The building is 800 feet long by 250 feet wide and is the largest structure ever provided at an exposition by the federal government. It is distinguished from all the other large buildings at the Exposition by the steel truss construction, the entire roof being supported by steel arches, forming a splendid domed ceiling.

In this building are installed the exhibits of all the executive departments of the government. The building is a vast storehouse of an endless variety of treasures dear to the heart of every true American. Precious documents are to be seen here, and the autographs of our great men of the past are on display. Relics of famous statesmen and soldiers, carefully preserved through generations, are exhibited. Each governmental department has installed an exhibit showing its official character and mode of operation.

Entering the Government building from the eastern end, the visitor sees at his left a railroad postoffice car. This is not a mere coach standing idle.

LOUISIANA PURCHASE MONUMENT, WORLD'S FAIR.

but is one of the most improved mail cars, in which men attached to the United States railway mail service are actively engaged in "throwing" the mails. Here you will see the postal clerks at work, just as they work while speeding along a railroad track.

A curious collection of old time relics from the postoffice museum at Washington illustrates as no verbal description can do the crude beginnings of the postal system. One of these relics is an old fashioned stage-coach that once carried United States mails through a portion of the Louisiana purchase territory. President Roosevelt, who once inspected it, examined with a rough rider's interest the bullet holes which stage robbers and mountain brigands shot through its stiff leathern curtains. General Sherman and Sheridan and President Garfield rode in this old coach during the strenuous days of frontier life. Among the collection of documents showing the primitive postal methods in vogue in the early days is to be seen the old book of accounts kept by the first postmaster general, Benjamin Franklin, all written by hand. There is a rare collection of stamps, including ancient Filipino, Porto Rican and Cuban stamps. The postoffice department's exhibit occupies 12,463 square feet.

Across the aisle, at the right, is the exhibit of the new Department of Commerce and Labor, occupying 1,966 square feet. This exhibit shows what the new executive department stands for and what it is accomplishing. Mr. Carroll D. Wright, United States Commissioner of Labor, had charge of the preparation of the exhibit. Charts arranged by him, showing the rapid growth of the nation in agriculture, arts, manufacture, population, etc., are of special interest to sociologists and all students of the labor problem. The Census Bureau exhibit is made in this section. It shows the tabulating machines used in compiling the census reports. The Lighthouse Board, also operating under this department, shows the great revolving lenses in light-houses, with other interesting appliances.

The space in the projecting northwest corner of the building is devoted to the Library of Congress. The edifice which houses this library at Washington is held by many architects to be the most beautiful building in the world. Its interior decorations, by Elmer Ellsworth Gurnsey, furnish one of the chief delights of a visit to the national capital. A large model of this splendid building is a feature of the exhibit. The decorative features of the interior are reproduced in their original colors.

The next exhibit on the right hand side of the central aisle is that of the Interior Department, occupying 11,792 square feet. In this large space the visitor finds so many things of compelling interest that he is loath to leave. The Patent Office exhibit belongs to this section. There are models of many machines that have borne an important part in the development of the nation's industries. The earliest form of every device of human invention, so far as possible, is shown here. For instance, you may see the actual sewing machine that was the first contrivance of its kind ever constructed; it was patented in 1846 by Elias Howe. The first typewriter, patented by C. Thurber in 1842; the model of the first cast iron plow, patented by Charles Newbold in 1797; the first screw propeller, invented by Robert Hook in 1680; and many other "first" things are to be seen. The model of Abraham Lincoln's celebrated device for lifting steamboats off shoals is shown here. The first harvesting machine, made in the year 150 B. C., is one of the most ancient exhibits at the Exposition. There is also a model of the first steam engine, made in Egypt in the same year.

Every foot of the 200,000 feet of floor space in Uncle Sam's World's Fair building is occupied by exhibits of surpassing interest, and every phase of the people's welfare is shown.

CURIOUS THINGS FROM CHINA

The Most Magnificent Beds Ever Seen Are Part of the Celestial Empire's World's Fair Exhibit.

The Chinese exhibit at the World's Fair is filled with pleasing surprises. Some of the most magnificent articles of furniture are a part of this wonderful display. The carving and inlaying of ivory, bone and wood illustrate the marvelous skill of the Chinese.

Models included in this interesting exhibit show the homes and home life of the Chinese, their weddings and funerals, Chinese tea house, restaurant and shop, Chinese weaving and some of the beautiful silks and wearing apparel of the Chinese and their methods of manufacturing them.

One feature of the exhibit is two magnificent Chinese beds, each of which has the appearance of being a small house of great beauty. One is a summer bed, the other for winter. The summer bed is hand carved and inlaid with ivory and bone figures and landscapes exquisitely carved and so skillfully joined as to appear a part of the wood. The bed and furniture are of carved bamboo. The bed consists of an anteroom, with tables, chairs and tea stands, and in an inner room, which is the sleeping apartment, there is a couch with coverings of gauzy silks.

The winter bed is still more elaborate. It consists of three compartments. The first contains four chairs, a tea tray and a chest of drawers. This is the sitting apartment. The second is the dressing room, and the third is the sleeping apartment, or the couch itself. The furniture is of rosewood inlaid with ivory carving of birds, flowers and trees. The couch is covered with silks of the finest texture and in gaudy colors. The sleeping compartments are lighted with Chinese lanterns of silk hung at the outer entrance, while the light enters through gauze panels, hand painted and in forms of rosewood inlaid with ivory figures.

A table and dish made of highly polished ash, with exquisitely carved bamboo figures inlaid, are shown. The work is so artistically done that each article seems to have been made of one piece of wood.

There is also a large display of Chinese lanterns made of silk, gauze and other light material and some made of beads artistically arranged with glass centers. The silk and gauze are beautifully hand painted.

There are models of some of the great Chinese temples, theaters and arches, showing elaborate carving in wood and ivory and two large elephant tusks exquisitely carved.

WHARFAGE FREE AT ST. LOUIS

Twenty Miles of River Front For Water Craft at World's Fair City.

Free wharfage will be given to all boats landing at St. Louis during the World's Fair. Traffic Manager Hilberry of the Exposition and Joseph P. Whyte, harbor and wharf commissioner of St. Louis, have decided on the locations assigned to the various kinds of boats.

Yachts, steam launches and all boats propelled by their own power have been assigned wharf space between Chateau avenue and Biddle street. These streets, running east and west, form the boundary lines for the central business district of the city.

House boats have been assigned wharf space north of Biddle street and south of Chateau avenue.

St. Louis has a river front of twenty miles. The Broadway line of the Transit company parallels the river from the city limits on the north to Jefferson Barracks on the south. At no point are the cars more than five blocks from the Mississippi river. The World's Fair may be reached for one fare by transferring to any of the eight lines that cross Broadway and reach the Exposition grounds.

No charge will be made for wharfage. Application for space should be made to the harbor and wharf commissioner at the City Hall, on Twelfth street, between Market street and Clark avenue.

You Are Guarded Against Disease as Long as You Use

JAYNES' BLOOD MAKING PILLS

To Keep Your Blood Pure, Rich, and Strong

YOU know what happens to a cool stove when the chimneys choke up the grate—the stove is unable to make heat and power out of the coal.

When your system is impoverished you're not utilizing the blood-making properties of food. Your system is getting thinner, weaker, and more watery, ready to catch any disease germs that may be floating around.

You won't admit you're sick, yet you can hardly do an hour's work without tiring, your appetite's gone, you are always tired and sleepy, you lack ambition, your memory is failing you, you're dizzy, have headaches, and can't walk with a firm, upright step.

Clear out the chimneys of sickness before you are chronically run down. Impoverished blood leads to chronic invalidism and nervous collapse. Your brain, nerves, muscles must have healthy blood in order to do their work.

JAYNES' BLOOD MAKING PILLS make blood good, rich, and red; full of youthful fire that will restore your ambition to accomplish any undertaking, stimulate a healthy appetite, and enable your stomach to turn your blood into strong, buoyant, healthy vital fluid.

JAYNES' BLOOD MAKING PILLS are very effective for weak, pale, and sickly children, invalids, languid women, and overworked men. Guaranteed to give satisfaction or your money refunded.

Jaynes' Blood Making Pills are the most effective blood makers and invigorators in existence.

The Latest Explosive.

The latest in explosives, according to Metal Industry, is powdered aluminum mixed with nitrate of ammonia and put upon the market under the name of ammonal. This explosive is said to be one of the safest and simplest known, as it cannot be exploded by friction or blow, while otherwise containing all the requisites of an explosive. Since aluminum is not affected by frost, accidents which so often occur when thawing out dynamite are not to be feared. The explosion is caused by an ordinary cap. Another important property claimed for ammonal is that it is not affected by moisture.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition, beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Solution of the Dump Problem.

The question of a suitable place for the depositing of ashes, dirt and other refuse matter continually accumulating in the homes of the inhabitants, is one that is constantly coming before the citizens. While such a place may not be very picturesque, yet it is absolutely necessary in every city and town. Winchester, however, is very unfortunately ill-provided with such places where the household can get rid of ashes at a minimum of cost. There should be some established dumping ground near the center of the town that would not be an annoyance nor a nuisance to anyone.

For some years the STAR has advocated the purchase of a right of way across the pond from the foot of Winchester place to Space street, later to become a street connecting these two important parts of the town by a direct road. If this right of way was secured, it is believed the dump question would be settled for some years, and as a result this long talked of new street to the Plains would be built within a few years with but little or no cost to the taxpayers. The street department throws away each year hundreds of loads of dirt taken from the streets that could be used to build this street.

The one great drawback to a street across the pond has been the great expense for filling. Let the town secure the right of way and the ashes and dirt will do the rest.

(From Woburn Journal.)

Too Thin.

At a meeting held last Friday evening, April 29, the Board of License Commissioners, by vote of 2 to 1, refused to grant the petitions of 7 to 8 druggists who had previously applied for license to sell spirituous, vinous and malt liquors for medicinal purposes in this city, on the ground that no one among the petitioners was fit to be allowed the privilege, although they were the same people who held druggists' licenses last year.

The case of the lack of kind of "Pearl Polymia." The members of the Board who voted against granting the license last year are known to be ardent house voters and would naturally be inclined to grant the petition, but the handful of men who own the license party and take it with an iron rule, secured an order, the effect of which was to have the license party.

The owners and managers of the city are too thin and transparent to deceive anyone. The refusal to grant license to druggists will prove a boomerang to the license party, because it is dishonest and square, but a move in a spirit of revenge for the loss of the city by the license party.

Newsy Paragraphs.

and a hope to make capital out of it for next fall's election.

What the Journal particularly desires is that the anti-license voters of this city shall keep this transaction fresh in mind until next city election and then show the liquor men, by their votes, the danger of recklessly playing with edge tools.

Chicago's Railway Experiment.

The whole country will watch with keen interest the results of Chicago's experiment in municipal ownership and operation of street railways, in favor of which the electors of the western metropolis have lately declared by a vote of more than two to one. The issue was squarely before the people, and the vote of 120,000 to 50,000 in favor of the proposition that the city at once take over the street railways into its control may be accepted as a fair measure of the strength of the municipal ownership movement in that city, and it will doubtless accelerate the movement in this direction in other communities where the subject is being discussed.

The Mueller law, under which the election was held, gives the cities of Illinois the right to construct, own, lease or operate street railways if they shall elect so to do. It appears, however, that the city of Chicago is not now in a financial position to buy the street railways of the companies that own them. The vote favoring the immediate purchase of the railways is therefore for the present a negative. There was a further proposition submitted asking the voters to decide whether instead of granting franchises the city should proceed at once to acquire the street railways by the exercise of its police powers and other existing laws "to license the street railway companies until municipal ownership can be secured and compel them to give satisfactory service." This was approved by a vote of 12,000 to 48,000.

Whether or not the city will in the near or remote future be in a position to assume complete ownership and operation of the railways, the people have demonstrated their power to control and regulate the transportation corporations, which have, according to all accounts, persistently denied public sentiment and furnished a wretchedly inadequate service. If nothing else is accomplished, the people of Chicago have supplied themselves with a very effective club to hold over the defiant corporations and to compel them to supply better and more adequate transportation facilities.

Russia and American Trade.

Were confirmation needed of the fact that Russian success in the far east augurs ill for the growth and expansion of American trade, it is to be found in certain statistics in regard to American exports to China lately given out by an official of the treasury department at Washington.

Comparing the value of cotton cloth sold to China during the last eight months of the present fiscal year with sales for the corresponding period during 1902, he finds that there has been a falling off of 80 per cent. In other words, the total has dropped from $10,000,000 to $2,000,000. The official in question does not hesitate to lay the greater part of the responsibility at the door of the Russians, who have availed themselves of the advantage afforded them by the possession of Port Arthur and Dairen and their hold on Manchuria, so plainly in violation of the treaty, to shut out American products as far as possible and to substitute therefor goods of their own make, in many cases imitations of popular American brands. Their virtual tactics appear to have had much effect throughout the whole country, but in Manchuria their success has been absolute. For over a year it has been practically impossible to get our manufactures into that province.

These figures are very timely, as they furnish a pretty effectual refutation of Russia's contention that her success in the orient means the extension of civilization and the world's enrichment.

Judged by a pamphlet published by the government of Patagonia, that country may become an important source of cotton supply. Its eastern region gives an average yield of about 50 pounds to the acre, where in the best field in this country it is only about 300 pounds. The entire cotton belt in Patagonia is close to water transportation, and the only cause which has prevented the development of the industry is one that exists all over South America: the absence of an adequate and sufficient labor supply.

In the allotment of money for the building of state roads the western part of the state always gets the bulk of it, though the eastern part pays its proportion of the appropriation. This year the county commissioners have made some slight concession to the towns this side of Winchester. Reading is allotted $14,000 and North Reading $4,200. Melrose gets $7,000 and Quincy $5,000.

If the merchants of this city are as sensible in their composition to leading business as they pretend to be, and are anxious to get rid of their city debt, they, for one, will not object to the city taking the streets and putting back to right the business men. It is an easy enough matter to stop the stamp nuisance if the merchants will go about the right way. — Winthrop Journal.

A recent decision of the Supreme Court says that "Selectmen of towns have the power to fix or regulate fares on street railways by imposing that as a condition for granting them a franchise or location within their town. The company's directors have the right to fix reasonable fares, subject to the railroad commission."

The annual return of the Boston & North street railway company, which has been filed with the railroad commissioners give some interesting figures. The total income above operating expenses was $1,337,550 but as the report only covers the year ending Sept. 30, 1903, this cannot be taken as showing the present earnings of the road, affected as they have been by the disastrous weather conditions of the past winter. The road owns 331 miles of railway line with a total trackage of 433 miles beside leased track of 52 miles. The equipment includes 1,116 cars and 147 snow plows. The total number of fares taken was 73,100,653. It will be a surprise to a good many people to learn that the capital stock of the company, amounting to over $10,000,000 is owned by but 20 people.

Rheumatic Pains Relieved

The prompt relief from the severe pains of sciatica and rheumatism which is afforded by Chamberlain's Pain Balm, is alone worth many times its cost. Mr. Willard C. Vail, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., writes: "I am troubled with rheumatism and neuralgia of the nerves and Chamberlain's Pain Balm gives relief quicker than any liniment I have ever used." For sale by O'Connor's Pharmacy.

In considering General Kuropatkin's plans for taking possession of Japan itself the Japanese will doubtless be influenced by the fact that the general has been credited with some attainments as a humorist.

Korea derives very little consolation from the declaration that the war will never be allowed to proceed to an absolute finish. Whatever happens, the Hermit Kingdom is pretty likely to "see its finish."

Russia has decided to build an immense dock at Port Arthur within the next four months. Several things, however, may happen in that time.

It may be noted that American sympathy for either Japan or Russia has not reached the point where children are being named after the heroes of the present war.

There would be something doubt worth talking about if Japan could borrow the Kearsarge and the Wisconsin for target practice at Port Arthur.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

Scott's Emulsion is the means of life and of the enjoyment of life of thousands of men, women and children.

To the men Scott's Emulsion gives the flesh and strength so necessary for the cure of consumption and the repairing of body losses from any wasting disease.

For women Scott's Emulsion does this and more. It is a most sustaining food and tonic for the special trials that women have to bear.

To children Scott's Emulsion gives food and strength for growth of flesh and bone and blood. For pale girls, for thin and sickly boys Scott's Emulsion is a great help.

Cross Street Baptist Church.

Last Sunday afternoon the meeting of the Mystic Baptist Union was held in the church at St. John's Baptist church, at which Mr. Johnson, the pastor, represented the Cross street church.

Those who attended the rally at the Baptist church, Medford, were Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Johnson, Miss Leta Skanks, Mr. Longo, Hampton, Miss M. Winbush.

Miss Nannie Bruce, formerly of Winchester, has taken up her residence in Fall River. Her many friends wish her good luck in her new home.

Mrs. Sally Winbush has been called to Fall River where some of her relatives are very ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlisle have moved to Fall River.

The Cross street church is rapidly growing under the pastorate of Rev. Mr. Johnson. The church is full every Sunday evening, and inside of eight months ten new families have commenced to attend the church. Mr. Johnson would like to say that the communication in last week's STAR shows very plainly which is the church, and that he does not care to discuss the matter, but leave it to the higher authorities.

Miss Levina Hunt of Lexington visited her parents Tuesday on Florence street.

The ladies of the Missionary Society are now giving an entertainment for the benefit of the church. Tonight there will be an interesting program.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Mr. Stetson, who has been acting secretary since November last, left Monday night for Buffalo, N. Y., to attend the International Convention held in that city after which he goes to Taunton, Mass., as Boys' Secretary. We all wish Mr. Stetson success in his new field of work.

A reunion of the boys who were at Camp Durrell was held Friday evening in the Association parlors. About 40 boys were with us from the different Associations in the State. A fine supper was served by the ladies, and all enjoyed a fine time. Are you going to camp this year? Information at the office.

From Oct. 1st to Apr. 1st there were 327 classes held in the gymnasium 4258 in classes, and 4349 baths taken.

The house at the bathing grounds has been rented to Mr. Blaisdell, but he has kindly consented to let us use the building for an hour or so afternoons to keep our clothes in as we did last year. Hurrah for Mr. Blaisdell.

The Ladies Auxiliary held their annual election in the parlors Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Dunning was elected president for the next year.

Don't miss the meeting Tuesday night to make plans for next year's work in the gym.

Boys meeting at 3 p. m. Sunday. Bring some one with you.

Parish of the Epiphany

There will be a parish meeting on Tuesday night, at 8 at the church.

The Choir Guild will meet Tuesday evening, instead of Thursday, at Mr. Dickson's, Lakeview road, at 7:30 p. m.

The second meeting in regard to confirmation will be Thursday afternoon, at 4 at the church.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by restoring the diseased portion of the ear. The only way to do this is by the use of the Eustachian Tube. When the Eustachian Tube is diseased, it will not allow the air to enter the ear, and the ear will be deaf. An Open Letter

From the Chapin, S. C. News: Early in the spring my wife and I were taken with diarrhoea and so severe were the pains that we called a physician who prescribed for us, but his medicines failed to give any relief. A friend who had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy on hand gave each of us a dose and we at once felt the effects. I procured a bottle and before using the entire contents we were entirely cured. It is a wonderful remedy and should be found in every household. H. C. Brille, Editor. This remedy is for sale by O'Connor's Pharmacy.

Selectmen's Meeting.

May 9, 1904.

Board met at 7:30 p. m. All present. As usual, discussed street department affairs at length with Mr. Spates.

Voted that the bids for concrete sidewalks be laid on table.

Voted that Mr. Spates bring in to the board next Monday night, estimation of cost to the town of establishing a concrete plant.

Voted that Mr. Spates be instructed to make arrangements with W. E. Taylor to furnish one team for watering the streets at $3.50 per nine hour day.

Voted to grant the Arlington Gas Light Co. permission to lay a gas main on Highland avenue from Walcott road northerly to Hancock street. Lines to be given by the Town Engineer and work to be done to the satisfaction of the Superintendent of Streets.

Voted to grant a license to Charles A. Gleason, 30 Oxford street, for one year, on payment of fee of $2.00.

Voted that Mr. Joy be notified to appear in the Cassidy case, tomorrow, May 10th, when motion to assign same for trial will be heard.

Voted that the contract for mowing the vines on the Town Hall lot with flowers, be awarded to Miss Grace Lawrence at her bid of $14.50.

Voted that the contract for 100 tons of egg coal to be delivered and put into the Town Hall be awarded to Blanchard, Kendall & Co., at their bid of $2.25 per ton.

Voted that a hearing on Independence Day celebration be held in the small Town Hall Thursday next, May 19th, at 8 p. m.

Voted to notify the owners of "dumps" about town, that if agreeable to them, the board will try and regulate the dumping of material on such lots.

Voted that the Town Treasurer be authorized to sell the Stable Bonds.

Voted that the location of stamp pipe ordered to be put in on Myrtle street be changed to Washington street east of the Town Hall.

Voted to ask Sewer Board and Water Board to notify the Supt. of Streets when they intend to dig up streets, and also to notify the Selectmen what streets, if any, they have in mind to open up this season.

Received petition signed by Alfred W. Otis and others, asking to have a sidewalk laid in front of Nos. 11, 13 and 15 Cabot street. Voted to write petitioners that the Board would lay a sidewalk and allow one half the cost of a concrete walk.

Received petition signed by H. J. Madden and others asking that Elm street be repaved. Referred to Supt. Spates.

Received petition signed by Jane R. Herrick and others asking that Herrick street be repaved. Referred to Mr. Spates.

The Great American Problem Play—Pit It Is, 'Tis True.

The pit was intended for the groundlings in Shakespeare's day. At any rate, they are much better judges of Mr. William A. Brady's production than they are of Shakespeare. The one that sat behind me was quite "capable of inexplicable drunk shows and noise," and when Mr. Brady's "500 men of good appearance"—for whom he placarded Boston—were making their noise behind the curtain, this gentleman said he knew just how the Chicago Wheat Pit looked, and he was going to see if the scene was accurate.

It was, and so was every scene of Mr. Brady's very creditable production, as it was disclosed to a large and enthusiastic audience. "The Pit" is a magnificent success. So the audience voted it by persistent applause.

Yes, "The Pit" is a play for the many and of the many, and its enormous cast of actors and supers, all of whom play their parts acceptably, scores a triumph for Mr. Brady.

Mr. Lackaye's experience and sound method told in all of his scenes and won a personal triumph for him. There was not a bad actor on the stage, in fact, and hardly a bad part in the play. Mr. Channing Pollock is to be congratulated on having made one of the best novel plays yet seen here this season. The play was driven from a successful run in Chicago by the closing of the theatres after the Iroquois fire. It had an equally successful run in New York.

Spencer Landon seems to have made a ruling shortly before the adjournment of congress as revolutionary in its way as that of committing a quorum, though this latest "coup" seems, if such a word is permissible, resulted in only a chorus of snickers instead of hearty protests. It was at the close of consideration of the Lodge-Chapin bill, and the speaker put a first to a viva voce vote.

There was only a faint response from the Republican side, all being yawns. When the opposite side was called a great chorus of snickers swelled forth.

"Well, the gods have it," said the speaker after a little pause, adding in a facetious tone, "but the gods made the most noise."

Congressman Cushman of Washington says that one of his constituents regards Roosevelt as the greatest man he ever saw, for the reason that the president is the only man he ever had eyes on that looks worse than his car looks.

Cured His Mother of Rheumatism.

"My mother has been a sufferer for many years with rheumatism," says W. H. Howard, of Hingham, Pa. "At times she was unable to move at all, while at all times walking was painful. I presented her with a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and after a few applications she declared it was the most wonderful pain reliever she had ever tried, in fact, she is never without it now and is at all times able to walk. An occasional application of Pain Balm keeps away the pain that she was formerly troubled with." For sale by O'Connor's Pharmacy.

Mr. Chas. Church has moved to Wellfleet for the summer.

A New York court recently decided that a young woman's portrait could not be placed on billboards without the original's consent. This has been an interesting question for many years, and the decision is important in establishing a precedent. If one's face does not appear to himself, then what can he claim as his own? Still he cannot patent or copyright it. This seems all the more unjust in the case of one whose "face is his fortune." Yet many people do not object to seeing their classic features exposed on a billboard, cigar box, newspaper, show window or anywhere else of public place. They approve their own likenesses and evidently believe in showing a good thing. But this sort of selfishness is wrong. In cases where people want their features to themselves, that is different.

A man in Cleveland made a bet that he could drink a quart of whisky. He won the bet, but lost his life. The moral is obvious. Don't bet and don't drink whisky. At least, don't do them in combination, for if you win you lose.

The Trend Toward Church Union.

One of the manifest tendencies of the time is toward church unity, and religious papers of all denominations are devoting much space to the subject. While the proposed union of the Presbyterian church north and the Cumberland Presbyterian church is the subject of immediate interest and affords the most striking example of the tendency mentioned, many other noteworthy illustrations of the same trend may be recalled. Discussing this theme the Christian Observer (Presbyterian of Louisville, Ky.), says:

In Britain all the numerous dissenting churches have formed a "free church union" in the interest of their common cause, and against the Established Church of England. In Scotland the United Presbyterian church and the Free Church came together after years of negotiation to form the United Free Church of Scotland. In Canada a good many years ago the Methodist and the Presbyterian, both of whom had several branches in the Dominion, united, so that there is only one Presbyterian and one Methodist church in the wide domain north of us. In Australia the Presbyterian, the Wesleyan, the Methodist, the Congregationalist and the Presbyterian are taking of a new sort of federal union. For some time there has been talk of union between the United Presbyterian and the Associate Reformed Presbyterian bodies in this country. And just of our readers are aware that union is taken for church and the Reformed church has been moved more than once.

For many years, United Brethren, Methodist Protestants and Congregationalists have been deliberating with a view to ultimate organic union, a consummation which, in the opinion of the Boston Congregationalist, is "practicable and desirable." In Massachusetts prominent Congregational and Unitarian pastors have been recently exchanging pulpits, and Washington's birthday was celebrated by the orthodox Congregational club and the Unitarian club of that city, with the Rev. E. A. Horton, Unitarian, and the Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, Congregationalist, as speakers. Only a few days ago a body of representative men of the Methodist, Congregationalist and Presbyterian churches of Canada met in Toronto and discussed the question of organic union. In view of all these facts the Boston Watchman (Baptist) is led to comment:

The movements for church union now appear to be proceeding on the right lines. Formerly the advocates of union were accustomed to represent the Baptists or the Episcopalians as the principal obstacles to Christian harmony, overlooking the fact that there are about thirteen different kinds of Protestants, and that the Methodists and Unitarians are almost as much subdivided and in conflict in which religious belief is not involved. In all ways seemed needless for denominations which widely differ in doctrine and practice to take up the question of church union when there were so many bodies in existence differing only in minute and unessential points. This has come to be recognized, and the churches which are nearest together are now moving toward union. These movements are in the direction of harmony and greater effectiveness in advancing the kingdom of God and should go on. Certainly all church divisions not founded on questions of conscientious religious belief should disappear.

High Cost of Living.

Not in twenty years, according to the reckoning of Dun's review, has it cost so much to live as now. It says that the average prices of breadstuffs, meats, dairy and garden products, clothing, metals and other miscellaneous necessities of life have increased 30 per cent in less than seven years and are now higher than they have been in two decades. Bradstreet's says that the present range of prices "is at the highest level in four years," and breadstuffs are "at the highest price reached in thirteen years, nothing like the March 1 level being shown since 1891, the year of the Russian crop failure."

The commercial papers seem to be at a loss to account for the high prices. Bradstreet's attributes them to "the largely sentimental influences of the breaking out of the war between Russia and Japan." The opinion that they are sentimental is corroborated by Dun's, which points out that Russia is actually exporting "much more wheat than the United States." The United States Investor (Boston) is puzzled to see commodities rising while wages and stocks are going down. The increased supply of gold, it remarks, might account for the increased prices, but "if the prices of commodities rise, the prices of stocks, which are measured also in value by gold, certainly ought not to decline," as they have been doing.

The Russians evidently realized after it was over that the removal of the American flag from American buildings in Newchwang was a poor way to sustain their appeals for American sympathy. At all events, the order was promptly rescinded.

After looking into Venezuela's arrangements for paying its debts Kaiser Wilhelm is disposed to feel that his navy is in need of bombard practice again.

The fact that the navy department has sent "Hail Columbia" from the musical programme of the flag lowering ceremony and made the "Star Spangled Banner" the whole thing will greatly relieve many people who unduly discuss themselves about the national anthems.

Japan is censuring some of her prominent citizens who are staying at home and trying to make money out of the war. Heavy war develops a large class of that kind of patriots.

From a late St. Petersburg dispatch it appears that the 600 Russians who were killed a few weeks ago in a fight on the Yalu river are living in complete ignorance of their fate.

Tai An can recall episodes in China's history that will enable her to contemplate the discomfiture of either Russia or Japan with a certain vengeful satisfaction.

Admiral Togo may be a corker, but he hasn't yet been able to cork up the mouth of Port Arthur harbor.

London physicians have discovered that radium will not cure cancer. It is only possible that there are a lot of other things that it will not cure.

Apparently Young Corbett does not feel so youthful as he did before his experience with Mr. Britt.

While Japan and Russia are wrangling over the question as to which has the world's sympathy the world does not seem to be wasting any considerable amount of love on either of them.

Some women wonder how a Mormon manages to support a dozen families when so much difficulty often manifests itself in paying the bills for one.

With the discovery that radium will not cure all those ills for which it was sold, a remedy the price ought to drop a few million dollars a pound.

There is reason to suspect that the Russian Black sea fleet is not panting to break through the Dardanelles.

The indications point strongly to an unusually large mortality average of railroad accidents this year.

Are You Contemplating Going South or Investing Money There.

We advise any of our readers who contemplate going south for the winter and want to rent a furnished cottage or secure board in hotel, boarding house or private family, or are desirous of investing money down there, to first write Mr. John T. Patrick, Pinebluff, N. C. Mr. Patrick has made a specialty of furnishing information to Northern people who want to find winter homes or to those who desire to loan money down there on mortgages. He is a man that can be relied upon to give honest information, and to protect the interests of those who trust their money to his care. Recently one of our readers asked Mr. Patrick to give reference as to his character and business ability, and he furnished the names of the Chief Justice of his state, Judge Walter Clark, Raleigh, N. C., and the Editor of the leading daily in the state, the News & Observer, Mr. Joseph Daniels, Raleigh, and the Editor-in-chief of the Boston Transcript, Mr. F. H. Clement, and these men said in reply that whatever Mr. Patrick said could be relied upon. Therefore it will pay you to write Mr. Patrick before you locate, and if you have money to loan, secure his assistance to get the highest rate of interest on good first-class mortgages down South where the people pay more interest than is paid up here.

4 1-2 PER CENT.

On First Mortgage Loan.

If you have money out at two to four per cent, write to the undersigned who can place your money so it will net you FOUR and ONE HALF PER CENT on first-class city property where the insurance on the property will cover the full amount of loan.

The people of the South are making more money than the people of any section of the union. Fruit growing and truck farming pay large profits because the farmer gets his products into the market six weeks earlier than the farmer of any other section. Rice growing, Sugar Cane growing and the making of Sugar, Cotton growing bring to the farmers large returns, and these crops are sure. No draughts to cause a failure. Where people are making money is the place to loan for sure and safe return of principal and interest.

I give as reference Hon. Walter Clark, Chief Justice of Supreme Court for North Carolina, Raleigh, N. WOMEN AND POWER.

Experience Teaches That They Make Good Use of the Ballot.

The citizens of Bowling Green, Ky., are agitating the question of pure water. The committee in charge of the matter has received the following communication from Joseph B. Rider, an authority on filtration, water purification and sewage:

"I am glad to hear of your city that another municipality is about to be added to the list of those forced to consider that all important public question, pure water, through the energy of her prominent women. The city of Philadelphia, through the New Century Woman's club, in 1895 was forced to take action in this matter. In fact, I am sorry to confess that it is the energy of the women in many places where I have been identified with public questions that stirred the men with the votes to action."

Mr. Rider's testimony confirms that of the states where women are endowed with the ballot. This testimony is to the effect that wherever women concern themselves with affairs of government their aim is always the public good.

As Ellis Meredith, a Colorado woman, said at the last national suffrage convention, when most men go into politics their aim is to get as much as possible out of it, but woman's aim is to put as much as possible into it. She puts into it her knowledge of sanitary science, her interest in the public health, her love for beautiful and healthful surroundings, and, above all, her love for children and home. It is owing to woman's direct influence on politics that Colorado is ahead of all her sister states in laws that concern the welfare of the child. Two-thirds of woman's political work has been for the children.

As for pure water and all other things relating to cleanliness and health, the most conservative woman ought to feel that those are within her sphere. They concern her as housekeeper, a home maker and a mother, and it is her duty to interest herself in them, whether she has the ballot or not. They are public questions, it is true, but they concern the home far more than the question of "What shall I have for dinner?" or "How many tucks shall I put in baby's new gown?"

LILIA CALVERT OBENCHAIN.
Bowling Green, Ky.

LET THE WOMEN STOOP.

Their "Mixing in Politics" Will Surely Lead to Much Good.

Mayor Ross of Milwaukee, Wis., is reported to have recently said of the Woman's Republican club of this city, "I felt like telling them they had better be at home raising babies than mixing in the mire of politics."

Whenever women express a desire to take a hand in politics there is great consternation among the brethren, and especially the politicians; great bogies are flourished before them with such scare heads as, "When Lovely Woman Stoops to Politics," "Women in the Mire of Politics," etc., and yet these same men seem to think women should be content to be governed by laws emerging from so foul a source. In the case of women it is always "stooping to politics."

If it is true that politics has become so corrupt as to warrant its being called by these vile names, is it not high time that something was being done to drag it out of this slough of corruption, and who would be more likely to accomplish the task than the women of this country who stand for honesty and morality to the greatest extent of any class?

Politics is but a reflection of the character of the majority having these things in control, and as men constitute over 95 per cent of our criminals and less than one-third of our church members what can you expect but corruption in politics when only men look after it? What we need is a higher average of morality at the ballot box to elect men of greater moral worth.

Women are in a vast majority in nearly all organizations for the uplifting of humanity, and as each class of voters elect men to office who will represent their own interests to the greatest extent it is but reasonable to suppose that women, being more interested in the home and the moral and philanthropic side of life, would see to it that these things were not neglected.

The continual emphasis that is being placed upon "stooping to politics" and its general acceptance by the people reveals a dangerous lack of appreciation regarding the honor and dignity of government, and must result in grave danger to our republic unless something can be done to arouse public conscience.

ELNORA MONROE BABCOCK.

Organized Labor For Equal Rights.

I am in entire sympathy with the movement for the enfranchisement of women and to accord to womanhood the legal, natural and dignified position of equality which by every human impulse and conception she is entitled to occupy.

The American Federation of Labor, representing the organized labor movement of the wage earners of our country, stands committed to the principle of securing equal pay and equal consideration of women to men. We not only declare for this, but bear burdens and make sacrifices for their achievement, conscious that they make for the advantage and benefit of all.

The application of the equality of rights in the economic and political affairs of our country and our states will raise the conception of our common duty and redound to the lasting benefit of humanity. Samuel Gompers, President American Federation of Labor.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

"The Board of Health shall examine into all nuisances, sources of filth and causes of sickness within its town, or on board of vessels within the harbor of such town, which may in its opinion be injurious to the public health, shall destroy, remove or prevent the same as the case may require and shall make regulations for the public health and safety relative thereto and relative to articles which are capable of containing or conveying infection or contagion or of creating sickness which are brought into or conveyed from its town, or into or from any vessel. Whoever violates any such regulation shall forfeit not more than one hundred dollars."—Chapter 75, section 65, Revised Laws of Massachusetts.

Regulations of the Board of Health of the Town of Winchester.

Regulation 1. The occupant of any dwelling house in town shall keep the same and the yard belonging thereto free from all filth and substances liable to produce odor or atmospheric conditions which endanger the health or are offensive to neighbors.

Regulation 2. No person shall occupy, or permit others to occupy, any building owned by him, as a dwelling, tenement or lodging house, unless such building is provided with a suitable water tight privy vault, or with a water closet, nor unless every water closet or like fixture is connected with a cesspool or sewer by a water-tight soil pipe and underground drain of sufficient size to carry off the contents thereof.

Regulation 3. No owner or occupant of any tenement or building shall permit any sewerage, garbage, contents or drainage of a privy vault or cesspool, or sink, drain, or other filth, to empty or enter into any street or drain of the town, or any brook, stream or pond of water.

Regulation 4. The owner and the occupant of premises in which there is any private sewer, drain, privy vault or cesspool, shall individually and separately see that the same is kept in thorough repair, every privy vault emptied and cleansed at least once a year and at such other times as may be necessary to prevent its being offensive, and every vault and cesspool emptied whenever at other times required by the Board of Health or its agent.

Regulation 5. Every cesspool, the use of which has been discontinued, shall be emptied and cleansed, and then filled up with clear gravel, sand or earth.

Regulation 6. All soil and house offal, both animal and vegetable, must be put in tightly covered vessels, and be kept in some convenient place, to be taken away by the authorized collectors. No ashes or other refuse matter shall be mingled therewith.

Regulation 7. No person shall, without a permit from the Board of Health, collect, remove, or carry through any street, alley or public place in the town, any soil or offal from any dwelling house or other building. The permit may be revoked at any time by said Board.

Regulation 8. No person shall cast any vegetable, or dead animal substances, or dead toad, into any street, alley, public place, reservoir, pond, river or water within the town, nor cause any animal to be drowned in any of said waters. Such refuse must be burned or suitably buried.

Regulation 9. No person shall engage in the business of removing night soil, or the contents of vaults or privies, without a license from the Board of Health, nor in any manner except by the use of some odorless apparatus to be approved by said Board. The license shall be subject to revocation at any time.

Regulation 10. All children must be vaccinated before attending schools in this town.

Regulation 11. When a physician is called to attend a person sick with small pox, diphtheria, typhoid fever, scarlet fever, measles, or other contagious disease, dangerous to public health, said physician shall immediately give notice to the Board of Health, said notice to contain the name of person sick, name of disease, name of street and number at which such person resides.

Regulation 12. At the discretion of the Board of Health tags or cards may be displayed in a conspicuous place on any house, in which there is a case of small pox, diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles or other disease which in the opinion of the Board of Health may endanger the public health, and no person shall remove or in any way meddle with such tag or card without permission from the Board of Health.

Regulation 13. Each member of the Board of Health shall be a health officer.

THE WINCHESTER STAR.

VOL. XXIII. NO. 47.

WINCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, MAY 20, 1904.

PRICE, FIVE CENTS

MRS. ANDROS HAWLEY.

Popular Winchester Singer Often Heard in Club Circles.

[From The Suburban.]

People of really marked talent who make a name for themselves usually show when small children, and sometimes signs of their particular gift. It was so with Mrs. Andros Hawley, who made her first appearance in Boston (in a large way) as a singer at the Elfringe Concert. At club receptions, small concerts, in solo and quartet choir work she has often been heard, but this occasion gave special opportunity to exhibit the finish and flexibility of her rich soprano voice.

Mrs. Hawley is a born artist and a most versatile one at that. When a tiny mite she sang, improvised, made rhymes and fitted them to airs. She grew up in musical atmosphere. Her father was a choirman; her mother is a well known organist and teacher. When she married Mr. George Hawley her environment all led to musical culture, for he is though a business man, a singer and musical director.

Mrs. Hawley was first known to the public as a cello player, being a member of the Fafette Orchestra. A little later her church singing was commended. And then followed her musical comedy, "A Dove Supper," five songs from which have been published. Her next venture was a distinct success. This was a comic opera called "The Potentate," of two acts, the libretto, words and music all written by herself. It was first given by the Algonquin Club of Brooklyn, who chose it after considering 50 others. Her lyrics have a captivating swing and many of her compositions have been sung the past season by Fay Templeton, Marie Cahill and Blanch Rieg, while the songs she wrote for Maurice Eakins will soon be rendered by him in Australia.

Asked what she most preferred among her varied talents, she answered: "While perhaps composition is my strongest forte, I am anxious to be known as a fine singer and shall work to that end."

The home in Winchester is charming. In the music room, den, hall and reception room there is an air of hospitality—a sense of comfort. Sometimes from noted people are everywhere; fascinating bits of manuscript music lie on Mrs. Hawley's desk; and while she is enthusiastically talking of her beloved work, quite likely a telegram arrives, congratulating her upon some new success of song or sketch. Having accomplished this much before the age of thirty, Mrs. Andros Hawley may well count on a brilliant future, since talent, health and ambition are all hers.

Portraits of Winchester People.

The social season at the Calumet Club is now drawing to a close. The club's energetic and popular president, Mr. Joseph E. Gendron, has made that feature of the club a decided success thus far during his term of office, and the members thoroughly appreciate his hard work and earnest efforts.

A new innovation in the list of the club's functions will be a loan exhibition of "portraits of Winchester people, and also some other pictures," which will be held at the club under the direction of Messrs. Edmund H. Garrett, W. H. W. Bicknell and Herman D. Murphy, commencing Saturday evening, May 21, at 8 o'clock, and closing Friday evening, May 27. The exhibition will be open daily from 3 to 10 o'clock p. m.

On the opening and closing nights, ladies of the club will preside at the coffee and chocolate tables, making these nights special social events.

Probably Not True

The report was published in the Boston papers Monday as coming from Washington that on July first fourteen post offices in Greater Boston would be reduced from second to third class, with a corresponding reduction of salaries of postmasters, including Winchester.

Ordinarily a third class postoffice carries no free delivery, but it is not probable that the department will withdraw the delivery service in Winchester or other large places where the service is installed.

Postmaster Richardson's salary is $3,200, and the proposed reduction means a maximum salary of $2,800. The change is supposed to have been brought about on account of especially large receipts which are said to be out of proportion to the normal business of the office.

Postmaster Richardson has received no official notification of his office being reduced to third class, and he does not believe that the report is true. The order probably relates to the usual annual classification of the salaries of postmasters.

The Full Cost of the High School Building and Grounds

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Would it be too much to ask the town auditor, through you, to foot up and publish the probable cost and running expenses of the new High School building? I want the items of interest, janitor, services, cost of coal, loss of income from Howe house, etc. It would be so kind also, I wish he would also compute from the town books, how much the town has spent on the Howe house since it has had possession of it, putting in new plumbing, sewer connections, all of which should go into the cost of the new building and grounds, with the exception of what little the town has had of the improvements. As all the improvements in the Howe estate of permanent nature have been destroyed they should now be charged against the cost of the High School building and grounds. As our town auditor is very correct in figures and his statement would bear the stamp of authority I wish he would also compute the cost of running the new High School building with the cost of running the old building. I have voted for the High School improvements from the Howe land and am only sorry that any of the Howe land was reserved for a library building which will probably never be built. Now I would like to have the public know just how much I and other taxpayers have sacrificed in money in our devotion to public school interests.

LOVER OF PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Country Club Events.

At the Winchester Country Club on Saturday morning, May 14, was held a women's handicap stroke competition for Class B, best selected nine holes to count. Miss Margaret Hunt won the prize for the best gross score and Mrs. A. M. Holbrook the prize for the best net score. The results were as follows:

| | Gross | Handicap | Net |
|---------------------|-------|----------|-----|
| Miss Margaret Hunt | 54 | 12 | 42 |
| Mrs. A. M. Holbrook | 53 | 14 | 39 |
| Mrs. E. L. Hunt | 54 | 12 | 42 |
| Miss E. L. Hunt | 54 | 12 | 42 |
| Mrs. G. B. Smith | 56 | 14 | 42 |
| Mrs. F. N. Bunting | 57 | 15 | 42 |
| Miss E. L. Hunt | 57 | 15 | 42 |
| Mrs. G. B. Smith | 57 | 15 | 42 |
| Mrs. F. N. Bunting | 57 | 15 | 42 |
| Miss E. L. Hunt | 57 | 15 | 42 |

Another tournament for the winners in Class B will be held on Saturday morning, May 21st.

WOMAN'S GOLF CLUB.

The first of the spring meetings of the Woman's golf association of Boston was held on Friday on the links of the Calumet Club. This association is composed of women golfers of the several suburban golf clubs. Two teams, captained by Miss Louisa Wells of Boston and Miss Elizabeth Porter of Oakley, played a match of 18 holes, using the Nassau system of scoring. The summary:

| Player | Handy Pip | Hand Down |
|-----------------|--------------|--------------|
| E. R. Rooney | 20 | 1 |
| A. A. Kneave | 20 | 1 |
| M. J. Rogers | 16 | 1 |
| F. J. Newell | 16 | 1 |
| W. E. Wolfe | 16 | 1 |
| N. H. Seave | 16 | 1 |
| J. S. Ward | 16 | 1 |
| R. J. Griffith | 16 | 1 |
| B. J. Armstrong | 24 | 1 |
| A. H. Hull | 20 | 1 |
| A. H. Rogers | 24 | 1 |
| A. H. Rogers | 24 | 1 |
| F. Evans | 24 | 1 |
| J. A. Davis | 24 | 1 |

The club has constructed a new fifth tee, and the course is described as in almost perfect condition. The permanent greens were in use Friday for the first time this season. Work on a third tennis court will begin at an early date.

A strange pig strayed over the course a few days ago and was placed in the stable. Eight sucklings were in evidence a few hours later. A great dinner next Thanksgiving Day, with pig served in various styles, is already planned by club members.

Eighty-Fifth Birthday.

In spite of the inclemency of the weather on Wednesday, many friends and relatives called to offer congratulations to Mrs. Sarah Butters of Cambridge street, who observed her 85th birthday on that day. She was the recipient of many tokens which spoke of the high esteem in which she is held by her many friends.

In the evening Mr. J. D. Carty of Reading entertained with his fine large graphophone, and vocal selections were ably rendered by Miss Lena Logan, a talented soprano soloist. Mr. Donald Morrison and Mr. Joseph Logan, with Miss Jennie Logan as accompanist, fees and cake were served and a very pleasant evening passed. Mrs. Butters thoroughly enjoyed the occasion. She is very smart and in good health.

Among those present from out of town were J. D. Carty, Wm. McIntire, John Logan, and the Misses Lena and Jennie Logan, of Reading; Mrs. Edw. Bowers of East Norton, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Clark and Miss Nannie Stockwell of Melrose and Donald Morrison of Stoneham.

The Selectmen have had placed in the clock tower of the Town House four additional 25-candle power lamps, now making eight in all. The time can now be read a long distance from the building without difficulty.

WINCHESTER HIGH FIRST DEFEAT.

Winchester High school, after taking 9 games without a defeat was beaten by the strong Medford H. S. in a 12 inning game before a large crowd on Manchester Field, Monday afternoon.

Winchester lead off in the first inning with 3 runs on two hits and two bases on balls. Medford got 1 in the first, 1 in the 4th and tied the score in the sixth. Winchester got one in their half of the 8th but Medford evened up matters by scoring in the first of the ninth. In the 10th, 11th and 12th neither side scored but in the 12th Medford scored what proved to be the winning run on a passed ball. In Winchester's half of the 12th it looked as if they were going to pull out the game. Winchester got men on second and third with only one down, but Sullivan and O'Connor both went out. Sullivan on a weak fly to pitcher and O'Connor on a hard line drive to short stop.

The star play of the game was a triple play in the 5th inning which undoubtedly shut out one or more runs. The play was made by Cummings, P. Badger and E. Badger.

Colley and Sullivan both pitched fine ball although both were wild at times, Colley hitting three men, E. Badger being the one to receive them all, and Sullivan hitting two. The score:

The Cater Village base ball team defeated the Centre Boys Union Saturday morning on Manchester field by a score of 15 to 10.

The feature of the game was Edward O'Brien's pitching. Coty, Crampton and O'Brien excelled for the home team while Nowell and Richardson played well for the opponents. O'Brien struck out eleven men and Nowell three. The lineup:

Catter Village: B. O'Connor, C. E. O'Brien, W. Coty, M. Crampton, J. Hook, A. Nelson, F. Maguire, T. O'Loughlin, J. LaFont, C. B. A. McCraven, G. Nowell, P. Richardson, J. Nelson, W. Teddiss, J. Richie, K. Roberts, E. W. Nowell, H. B. Mullin.

Police on Street Cars.

Police officers will no longer be allowed to ride free on the Boston & Northern street cars as has heretofore been the practice. Fred Sullivan has issued an order to that effect.

Abuse of the privilege is said to be the cause of the promulgation of the order. This railroad always carried a policeman free upon his showing his badge. The trouble is said to have started in the town of Revere, which has about a dozen regular policemen the year around, but as so many special during the summer, and the latter are said to have been "riding the free horse to death."

Convention of Opticians.

The 10th annual meeting and first convention of the New England Association of Opticians was held at Young's Hotel, Thursday afternoon and evening. George A. Aaron, well known in Winchester, has been its Secretary for a number of years, and we learn that the success of the meeting was largely due to his executive ability and untiring efforts to make it a gala day for New England opticians. All the committee meetings and plans were made out in this office. Over 1000 programmes were sent to opticians inviting them to be present, the result of which was a large attendance of representative expert opticians of New England.

Technical papers were read and discussed. Divisors of some of the latest instruments were present to explain and instruct on new methods of examining eyes, which will greatly assist oculists and opticians in prescribing glasses for astigmatism and correcting all errors of refraction.

This association has for its object the higher education of opticians in adapting glasses for the eyes. The majority of skilled opticians are members, and after passing an examination qualifying them to prescribe glasses, receive a certificate of membership.

Selectmen's Meeting.

Board met at 7:30 p. m. Present, Messrs. Carter, C. Symmes and Ellis. Records of last meetings reading and approved.

A delegation from Richardson and Salem streets appeared and asked the Board to have the streets and sidewalks properly repaired and drained, and that lights be installed on said streets. The delegation was informed that the Board had the matter under consideration now.

Voted to grant a common victualers license to B. H. Richburg corner Common and Park streets.

Voted that the bid of $20.00 from the Globe Gas Light Co. for the old lamps stored over the stage in the Town Hall be accepted.

Voted that the Water Board be requested to install a standpipe near the corner of Main and Swanton streets.

Voted that the Woburn Brass Band be secured for the 4th of July.

Voted that the Town Engineer be instructed to investigate the question of drainage on Richardson, Rumford and Salem streets, and report later.

The following communications were received: From Tree Warden in regard to the wires in the small elm trees on Bacon street. Voted to write Telephone Company about same.

From the Metropolitan Park Commission saying that the dump at the corner of Fenwick road and Mystic Valley Park-way shall be closed and a fence built across the opening.

From George F. Chapin in regard to the laying of a granite sidewalk at No. 1 Everett avenue. Laid on table.

From Woburn Light, Heat & Power Co. in regard to condition of lights, poles, etc.

Warrants drawn Nos. 42 for $138.52; No. 43 for $745.94 and 44 for $753.35.

Adjourned at 10:30 p. m.

For a New Episcopal Church

The parish meeting held Tuesday evening at the Church of the Epiphany for the purpose of taking action looking to the building of the new church on the vacant lot belonging to the parish on Church street, brought a large number of members. The interest manifested for a new church was all that could be desired, the entire audience, so far as could be seen, being strongly in favor.

The speakers included Messrs. A. H. Russell, Theo. C. Hurd, H. S. Underwood, A. P. Weeks, W. G. Newell and Rev. J. W. Suter.

It was voted to recede the vote of two years ago whereby it was agreed that work should not be commenced until there was a fund of $25,000. It was then voted that the following committee be instructed to prepare new plans for a church building or alter the old ones, the building not to cost more than $10,000 and report back to the parish before accepting the plans or making contracts. Rev. John W. Suter, Wardens, Theodore C. Hurd and Charles W. Bradstreet and Arthur H. Russell, Herbert S. Underwood, John Chellis, Alfred S. Higgins, Charles D. Jenkins, Maurice Saunders, P. G. Gray and Dr. G. N. P. Mead.

It was also voted that a committee of seven to be appointed by the Rector, consider the question of building a parish house on the Church street lot and report at a future meeting. This committee will be announced later.

Drunks Not to be Allowed to Ride on Woburn Cars.

Superintendent Gray of the Boston & Northern proposes to safeguard the comfort and convenience of the patrons of his road against any possible annoyance from rowdiness and drunkenness, and last Saturday evening he stationed himself at the Medford end of the line in anticipation of possible trouble from those who had gone to Boston to slake their thirst after the first week of a dry year in Woburn. Between Judge Emmons and the doughty superintendent it looks as though "the man with a jag" was going to have a hard row to hoe this summer. But those on business or pleasure bent and the general public will rejoice in the freedom from annoyance to which they are too frequently subjected by these unwelcome fellow passengers. Perhaps a special car marked "for jags only" instead of the familiar "North Woburn only" will be run for their accommodation, if it is found that public "necessity and convenience" require it.—[Woburn News.]

Death Knell for Trading Stamps.

The legislature is determined to drive out the trading stamps. This device has done more to injure legitimate business among the small merchants than any other line of competition for many years. The proposed new law is as follows:

Section 1. Every person, firm or corporation selling, giving or delivering trading stamps, checks, coupons or similar devices, in connection with the sale of articles, entitling the holders to receive articles other than the articles so sold, shall pay an excise tax for carrying on such business, equivalent to three per centum of the gross receipts by such person, firm or corporation from the sale of the articles so sold and the trading stamps, checks, coupons or similar devices sold, given or delivered in connection therewith.

Death of a Former Resident.

The death of William James Willson, a former resident and merchant of this town, occurred at his home on Clarkson street, Dorchester, on Saturday last. Mr. Willson's death was caused by rheumatism of the heart, after a sickness of about six weeks. He was 52 years of age. He leaves one son and three daughters, one of whom, Mrs. Walter I. Plummer, resides in this town.

Mr. Willson formerly conducted the paper store now owned by A. Wm. Rooney, and he leaves numerous friends here.

Funeral services were in charge of the Old Fellows and held Tuesday forenoon from his late residence, Rev. J. W. Suter of this town officiating. The burial was at his old home, Cherry Valley.

Public Day

By attending the public day exercises at the Wadleigh school on Wednesday, May 25, parents and friends may see the best effort papers of the pupils in each subject taught throughout the year.

A special exhibit will be made of drawing,loyd models and sewing. An excellent opportunity to see the regular class work will be afforded the parents and friends of the pupils as recitations in the regular studies will be continued in each room from nine to twelve on that day. A cordial invitation is extended to all to visit the school between these hours.

Japanese Public Works.

At present all things Japanese are peculiarly interesting. The marvelous evolution in the land of the Rising Sun has touched all lines of her life, and while the world sees only the military transformation, the industrial development has been quite as marked. As all the energies of the nation are now absorbed in the life and death struggle in which the island kingdom is involved, there is necessarily a temporary cessation in public works. The following recent report of H. C. Bellows, American consul general at Yokohama, throws much light on the subject.

Money which had been intended for the extension of government railway lines has been diverted to other uses, and it is stated that the government will stop work on all new lines except those needed for transporting military supplies. The Sanjo Railway company had in contemplation the doubling of its tracks and other improvements during this year, but whether the directors of the company will proceed with their plans in the present disturbed conditions may well be doubted. The increased cost of labor is already a noticeable factor in industrial conditions, and the probability of a continued rise together with the difficulty of procuring foreign labor, introduces a speculative element into contracts for construction which will render them very unattractive for the coming season. In this regard foreigners are at a great disadvantage, as is compared with native labor, for they do not know so well where to go for laborers, and the traditions of the country cause workmen to expect higher wages when employed by a foreigner. There may be a considerable demand for certain kinds of foreign steel and iron which the Japanese are not yet able to supply from their own foundries.

The rise in the scale of wages will prove especially interesting to all students of economic and social subjects, for the wage scale is a certain barometer of industrial conditions. This report in itself furnishes a refutation to those who contend that Japan's taking on of western civilization has been largely superficial and imitative. In the increased price of labor alone is found evidence that the change is fundamental and has gone to the very roots of the national life.

The Sunny Side.

That men love sunlight has been peculiarly illustrated by some investigations of a French scientist. The results of these researches are thus set forth by the Boston Globe:

Professor Legeron, of the University of Lausanne in his studies on the distribution of population has been carefully studying the value of the Rhone. He found that the right bank of that river had a population of 200,000, while only 100,000 live on the left bank.

He was somewhat surprised for the same topographical conditions existed on both sides. Further investigations, however, revealed the fact that on all rivers the side which is most exposed to the sun has from four to five times as many inhabitants as the side which wards off the direct rays of the sun.

Almost without knowing why, man craves the sun, the great source of life and light.

It may be remarked in passing that men are quite as fond of mental and spiritual sunlight as of the physical variety. If you doubt the statement, observe the number of friends that flock to the man of the sunny disposition.

Now it appears that in the matter of "hotting up" the Russian fleet in Port Arthur the Japanese remembered everything but the stouper.

The Russian soldiers are complaining about the food supply. The Port Arthur fish seem to be satisfied, however.

Bare Island, Ill., Jan. 14, 1901.
 Messrs. Ely Bros.—I have used your Cream Balm in my family for nine years and it has become my family doctor for colds in the head. I use it freely on my children. It is a Godsend to children.
 Yours respectfully, J. KIMBATH.
 Messrs. Ely Bros.—I suffered greatly with catarrh and tried different remedies without effect. After using one bottle of your Cream Balm I found relief and I cannot praise too highly such a remedy.

The Mild Mannered Koreans.

Prof. Harte's characterization of "the Lethen Chinese" as "peculiar" notwithstanding the fact that his smile is "childlike and bland," would seem to apply to the Celestial's cousin in "the Land of the Morning Calm." The Korean is a baby faced individual, chiefly noted for his apparent nonresistant character, his childish curiosity, his intimate association with dirt and his antipathy for work. But it appears that underneath his mild and inoffensive exterior this passive individual has some very strenuous and aggressive characteristics. These are shown to best advantage in his treatment of criminals. Here this peaceful disciple of intemperance chops off a head with all the same frolic of a French revolutionnaire and shows an ingenuity for torture that makes Torquemada look clumsy. Not only does he believe that the sins of the fathers descend to the third and fourth generation, but also that they extend contemporaneously to uncles, aunts, cousins, mothers-in-law and kindred of even more remote degree. Were to the Korean family that decapitates a chicken thief in its midst. The manner in which these sons of rest punish their offenders is thus described by the Washington Post:

For example, when a man has been convicted of treason, they not only hang him but also his male relatives to the fifth degree, and then poison his mother, wife and daughters. A female traitor is hanged. In the case of a murderer, the monster is put to death and his wife is poisoned. Arson is punished by strangulation or roasting on a spit, and the wife is not separated from her husband either. Counterfeiting and theft are treated similarly, with the difference that the thief's property is confiscated, his skin is sewed up in a sack and he is buried in a great hole as a warning to the criminal and his male relatives are all hanged. The bodies of the traitors are left in the open for the birds to peck at. The bodies of the traitors are left in the open for the birds to peck at.

The Post might have added quite as choice a chapter of horrors on the Korean torture of witnesses. The thumb-screw and rack are benevolent in comparison to some of these. The breaking of bones and rending apart of tendons are among the earlier and milder steps. It seems that those who testify are quite as averse to the truth as the average male Korean is to labor, and that the authorities believe the truth can only be got out of a witness by literally tearing him limb from limb. Yet it is said that a big six foot bulk of Korean manhood—pardon the term used in such connection—will march along under the kicks and belaborings of a Japanese boy as docile as a Missouri mule in the hands of his driver. Thus it would seem that these pasty featured Mongols are only brave when the other fellow is securely bound and in their power.

The Russian admirals are truly unfortunate. Poor Makaroff was blown up by a mine, and Alexeeff was blown up by the czar.

A new political novel is called "The Grifters." But there is no fiction in that title.

THE UNIVERSAL EXPOSITION

The Achievements of Individuals and Nations Faithfully Recorded by This Encyclopedia of Society.

By FREDERICK J. V. SKIFF, Director of Exhibits, World's Fair.

"The wisdom of all ages is here too great for the world's work." In this single sentence, uttered in his famous address at Buffalo in September, 1901, President McKinley described the object and the result of exhibitions.

A modern universal exposition is a collection of the wisdom and achievements of the world, for the inspection of the world, for the study of its experts, by which they may make comparisons and deductions and develop plans for future improvements and progress. Such a universal exposition might well be called an encyclopedia of society. It constitutes a classified, compact, indexed compendium of the achievements and ideas of society in all phases of its activity, extending to the most material as well as the most refined. It offers illustrations covering the full field of social performance, from the production of the shoes on our feet and the pavement beneath them to a presentation of the rarest and most delicate creations of the hands and minds of men in what are called the fine arts of civilization.

The Universal Exposition in St. Louis in 1904 will be such a social encyclopedia in the most comprehensive and accurate sense. It will give to the world in revised and complete details "a living picture of the artistic and industrial development at which mankind has arrived" and will actually provide "a new starting point from which all men may direct future exertions." It will present for the inspection of specialists in all lines of industrial and social endeavor and for the public an assembly of the best which the world has done and has to show in industry, art and science, and what is very important, it will offer those achievements of society, those trophies of civilization, in a highly selected, accurately classified array.

The creators of the St. Louis Exposition have had the experience of all previous great exhibitions by which to plan and effect its high organization. The continuous and repeated burden of the message of experience handed down by all exhibitions has been more perfect, more effective classification and arrangement of exhibits.

The classification of the St. Louis Exposition has been prepared to present a sequential synopsis of the developments that have marked man's progress. On its bases will be assembled the most highly organized exposition the world has yet seen.

The St. Louis classification is divided into 16 departments, 144 groups and 807 classes. These grand departments in their order will record what man has accomplished at this time with his faculties, industry and skill and the natural resources at his command in the environment in which he has been placed.

At the head of the Exposition classification has been placed Education, through which man enters social life. Second comes Art, showing the condition of his culture and development. Liberal Arts and Applied Sciences are placed third, to indicate the result of his education and culture, illustrate his tastes and demonstrate his inventive genius, scientific attainment and artistic expression. These three departments equip him for the battle and prepare him for the enjoyments of life. The raw material departments, Agriculture, Horticulture, Mining and Forestry, show how man conserves the forces of nature to his uses. The Department of Manufactures will show what he has done with them; the Department of Machinery the tools he has used. The Department of Transportation will show how he overcomes distances and secures access to all parts of the world. The Department of Electricity will indicate the great forces he has discovered and utilized to convey power and intelligence. And so through the several departments to Anthropology, in which man studies man; and to Social Economy, which will illustrate the development of the human race, how it has overcome the difficulties of civilization and solved problems in which society is involved.

Last is placed physical culture, in which man, his intelligence having reached the supreme point, is able to treat himself as an animal, realizing that his intellectual and moral constitutions require a sound physical body to prompt them to the proper performance of their function.

Education is the keynote of the Universal Exposition of 1904. Each department of the world's labor and development will be represented at St. Louis, classified and installed in such manner that all engaged or interested in such branch of activity may come and see, examine, study and go away advised. Each of the separate sections of the Exposition will be an equivalent of—or, rather, will be in actuality a comprehensive and most effective object lesson in the line of industrial and social achievement and progress which it presents.

Cost of Seeing the World's Fair. From any point within 300 miles of St. Louis a person may travel to the World's Fair this year, view the wonders of the Exposition for three days and expend the same money he would pay in any other year for train fare alone. This is an absolute fact.

The Western Passenger Association has agreed on a ten day excursion rate, 250 miles or more from St. Louis, for one and one-fifth fare for the round trip.

Declining Two Million Dollars.

The advice of John D. Rockefeller to "get all you can and keep all you can" has fallen on at least one pair of deaf ears. It is possible, however, that Dr. William A. Harroun of Denver never heard of this Standard Oil epicurean. According to reports, he is a busy young man, who is trying to get ahead in his profession and earn a living for his wife and family. So he may not have had time to pick up the chunks of wisdom that fell from the Rockefeller lips. At any rate he did not heed them, as the fact that he recently refused a legacy of $2,000,000 amply testifies.

It appears that two brothers in Ireland made an agreement that the first to die should leave his estate to the oldest surviving son of the other. This agreement was carried out by James A. Harroun, who passed away recently. The legacy, consisting of one of the largest estates in the Emerald Isle, together with a comfortable bank account, was made over to the Denver physician, who is the oldest son of the other brother.

Dr. Harroun immediately gave it to his sister, Mrs. J. M. Lewis of Portland, Me. Not a dollar did he keep for himself. The brief interview in which he stated the reasons for his action is refreshing. It would do to frame in a parallel column with Rockefeller's advice. The burden of it is not "get all you can," but "earn what you get." Here it is:

Why did I refuse the estate? Because I did not want it. I have made my own living. Worked hard for every dollar I earned. Expect to work hard for the dollars to come. Some of these days I may make $50,000 of my own. I like to spend my own money—the money I earn. I would rather my sister had the money. She needs it more than I do. My wife and I have all the comforts of life. What more do I want?

One comment of the Atlanta Constitution on the case is almost as good as the physician's interview. It says:

Is it not singularly agreeable to know that among all the noted and successful men in this great School of Medicine there is this one independent, self-responsible boy?

We think so—don't you?

"The Greatest of These Is Charity."

Senator Hear once said that if you would move the average American of today you could best do it with a column of figures. Yet statistics are sometimes eloquent. None are more so than a comparison of the various beneficent deeds done in the past few years. We are apt to accuse this age of Mammonism and selfishness, and there is no much truth in the charge. Still, there is a reverse side to the shield. Do any of us realize the immense amounts that have been given for charitable and benevolent purposes, even in the last eleven years? These benefactions, taking only those of $5,000 or more, run to the enormous total of nearly $1,000,000,000. A writer for the Review of Reviews recently tabulated the amounts, as nearly as they could be secured, with the following results:

FOOD FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

The more natural diet is more palatable, invigorating and strengthening to body and mind—right to the contrary with unnatural, improperly prepared food, which stunts the growth, dwarfs the mind, causes a lack of will power and steadiness of nerve. No doubt that fifty per cent of the failures in life can be traced to improper diet when young.

Simply take this coupon to his store, and as an evidence of good faith, deposit fifty cents with him, for which he will give you a receipt. If Mi-o-na fails to cure dyspepsia, and give an increase in weight, A. B. Grover will refund the money and the loss will be his. If you say the trial has not been satisfactory, there will be no questions asked, but the money you deposited with him will be returned at once.

ENORMOUS CROWDS VISITING ST. LOUIS

Perfect Accommodations, Interesting Filipinos.

It is about two weeks since the opening of the St. Louis Exposition, and the admirable accommodations furnished by St. Louis reflect great praise upon the city. The Exposition is all that has been claimed for it. In fact, it is much more than the imagination can possibly conceive. The perfection and completion of the exhibits speak well for Exposition managers. The Philippine exhibit attracts crowds daily. The natives appear entirely oblivious of the gaping multitudes. They chatter and play and work just as in their native islands. The American Indians, numbering over sixty-one tribes, are another interesting exhibit on the famous "Pike." This section of the Exposition is marvelous. It surpasses anything of the kind ever before attempted.

This is an excellent month to visit St. Louis, and on the Boston & Maine route you can stop off at Niagara Falls. You can also journey via Montreal and Niagara Falls, and through cars from Boston carry you right outside the Exposition gate into the new Wabash Station.

For full information describing the Exposition and the rates and routes, send to the Boston & Maine Passenger Department, Boston, for their beautiful descriptive booklet on the Exposition. It will be mailed to any address free.

The Co-operative Plan of Caring For the Poor.

Winchester has before it the question of a town home for the care of its unfortunate people. At the last March meeting a committee was appointed to look into this question and report at a future meeting. The Overseers of the Poor claimed that such a home would be a saving to the town and that its wards would be better cared for than at the present time. The following taken from the Reading Chronicle, was written by Mr. Joseph S. Temple of that town, and a careful reading will show that he has given considerable thought to the subject of care of the poor.

MR. EDITOR:

I have no criticism of the way the poor department has been conducted, present or past. I am satisfied the comfort and convenience of the town's unfortunate dependents have been well looked after. But the wisdom of the fiscal policy may be profitably opened for debate.

An analysis of the figures presented in the town reports of the past seven years shows that the average cost per inmate per week at the Town Home has been $7.08. This figure looks surprisingly large taking into consideration that the average cost of the self-supporting classes in their homes is considerably less.

The large pro rata cost is attributable to natural causes, which I consider the defects of the present system.

The town is and has been fortunate in having few inmates at the Home. The cost of superintendency and some other fixed charges is the same as would prevail with a considerably larger number.

The plant is non-productive. In many places, milk and vegetables are raised for the market, and the labor of inmates utilized for profit.

Last year in Tewksbury the Home was more than self-supporting—a balance showing on the credit side of the ledger. Last year in Saugus, where forty cows are kept, the Home came within $300 of being self-supporting.

Fourteen years ago the towns of Paxton, Holden, Hubbardston, Oakham, Rutland, Phillipston, Westminster, Templeton and Princeton associated themselves together for the care of their poor as the Poor Farm Association. The Holden Poor Farm was selected as best adapted to the needs. The poor requiring full support of all the towns interested have been maintained there (except the violent and uncontrollable insane), under a governing board consisting of one member of the Board of Overseers of the Poor of the different towns. A physician is employed to regularly attend to the inmates.

March 9, I wrote to the Overseers of the Poor of Holden, asking for the results of the first years, and received the following reply:

"JEFFERSON, MASS.

MR. J. S. TEMPLE, Reading, Mass.

Dear Sir—Yours of the 5th inst. just received this a. m. and will write you as fully as possible about our Poor Farm Association. The towns that are in the Association are: Phillipston, Hubbardston, Rutland, Princeton, Templeton, Paxton, Oakham, Westminster and Holden. I also enclose you a contract. The Association has been in existence for 14 years the first day of next month. February 20 our buildings were burned to the ground and we are now keeping our paupers at the Worcester Almshouse until such times as we can rebuild. We have saved several thousand dollars since the Association was formed. Where it used to require a superintendent for each poor farm, with a salary of either four or six hundred dollars, we now get along with one superintendent with a salary of six or seven hundred dollars. It has been a very economical and satisfactory arrangement. We have just received a letter stating that the State Board of Charities gives us a great deal of credit for the way in which the Association has been managing affairs, and they say they recommend to the smaller towns either to board their poor out or form an association. We can take care of them much better the way we have been doing than when each town had a separate almshouse. The expense last year was $1.72 per week which includes their medical attendance, medicine, nursing, and superintendent's salary, and everything. This is the lowest that it has been in the fourteen years.

I find on an average it has cost us $2.00 per week during the time the Association has been in existence. I have no doubt but that we shall sell our farm to the Association and they will build some buildings there to accommodate thirty people, or perhaps more, or in case they should not do that, I think the town of Holden will build and rent to the Association, same as has been done in previous years. It was a very unfortunate thing for the Association to lose the buildings, as we were running along nicely and everything seemed to be the best it could be. Last year the income from our farm, which was mostly milk, sold at the door, was about $2600 and our expenses were something like $4600. This of course included rent, and repairs, and salary and everything. We have now only seventeen inmates from the nine towns.

I think it is the only Association in the state where the paupers are cared for under this plan. Any other inquiries that you might make in regard to anything, if I have forgotten to mention anything, I should be pleased to answer.

Yours truly,

E. W. MERRICK."

The following figures are from the records of the town:

Average number of inmates (carefully computed) 31; cost per week per inmate, $7.08; cost by cooperative plan, $2.00; saving per inmate per week by cooperative plan, $5.08, aggregate saving for seven years $3,581.16.

The STAR would say in connection with this question that the Winchester Overseers of the Poor have the option on an estate of some eight acres of productive farm land and buildings and a large barn, so that the conditions that apply to the town of Reading would not exist in the case of this town.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Are you going to camp with us July 1st? Information at the office.

There is strong talk of holding a Pentathlon Athletic Meet on Manchester Field soon. Events will be running high jump, 1 mile run, 150 yd dash, 12 lb. shot put and the pole vault. Each contestant must enter all events and scoring will be by points. "Come on in."

Don't miss the Sunday meetings for boys at 3 p. m. Bring another boy with you.

Permission has been secured to build a bathing house at Wedge Pond. Work will commence as soon as possible on the building.

What about the 14th of July? Let's get together and talk it over. Senior meeting in the parlor Saturday night to arrange plans for the winter work in the Gym. "Let's hear from the members."

The State Handicap Athletic Meet will be held again this year at Wood Island Park, East Boston, either the 18 or 25th of June. "Let's send in a team."

An Open Letter.

From the Chapin, S. C. News: Early in the spring my wife and I were taken with diarrhoea and so severe were the pains that we called a physician who prescribed for us, but his medicines failed to give any relief. A friend who had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy on hand gave each of us a dose and we at once felt the effects. I procured a bottle and before using the entire contents we were entirely cured. It is a wonderful remedy and should be found in every household. H. C. Bailey, Editor. This remedy is for sale by O'Connor's Pharmacy.

Cross Street Baptist Church.

Last Sunday at 2:30 p. m. Rev. Johnson attended the Colonial Association held at Lynn. Many attended from here. Last Thursday and Friday evenings the Missionary Circle concert was successfully held. The program on Friday evening was a grand one. The drama, "Crowning the Angel," was very well played. Those that took part were: Mr. Johnson, recording angel; Miss Collins, Sunday School angel; Miss Bellips, angel of literature; Mrs. Hightower, angel of music; Mrs. C. H. Johnson, angel of science; Mrs. W. Hunt, chairman; Mrs. C. H. Johnson, Mr. Samuel Middleton, Mrs. C. B. Kirby, Mrs. O. B. Barksdale.

On the fifth Sunday in this month the annual May rally will be given. In the morning, Rev. George B. Lawton, D. D., of Boston will preach at 3 p. m. Rev. J. H. Harrell of the Union Baptist Church of Cambridge and in the evening at 7:30, Rev. W. H. M. Lean of the St. Stephens Church of Cambridge.

Mrs. Mary Lowman of New York is now visiting her old college friend, Mrs. Mary L. Glean of Raymond place.

Miss Jessie Harrell, the organist, is sick with a head trouble.

On Sunday afternoon Miss Roberta White of Harvard street entertained several of her friends.

Rheumatic Pains Relieved

The prompt relief from the severe pains of sciatica and rheumatism which is afforded by Chamberlain's Pain Balm, is alone worth many times its cost. Mr. Willard C. Vail, of Poughkeepsie, N. Those Tell-Tale Eyes

While the Bear Is Busy.

The poet who said that "misfortunes come not singly" and the equally observant writer who remarked that "it never rains but it pours" were unseasonable prophets of Russia's situation at the present juncture. Right on the heels of the various unpleasant happenings down Port Arthur way comes an apparently innocent suggestion from England that cannot but have a tendency to create a desire in the heart of the bear to go off in some secluded spot and meditate upon the heartlessness of nations. This is the suave and diplomatic statement by Lord Lansdowne to the Russian ambassador that this would be an opportune time for the governments of his majesty King Edward VII. and the autocrat of all the Russias, Nicholas II., to get together and settle their little differences. Nor was this remark intended to be humorous, a sort of sly attempt at rubbing it in, as it were. As a matter of fact it is anything but humorous to Russia.

The recent treaty between France and England whereby Russia's ally from the field of negotiations and left the way clear for this next step. Of course Lord Lansdowne made the suggestion in a fully gentle and insinuating way, a sort of holding out of the olive branch, so to speak. It is safe to say that the steel beneath the glove, or, to be more explicit, the meat ax behind the olive leaves, was not revealed. Perhaps it was unnecessary. The Slav is something of an artist at certain sorts of diplomacy himself and is given credit for being able to see through a grindstone, especially if the hole is large enough. To ask him to take up a job lot of momentous negotiations when his hands are already a little more than full with Great Britain's humble ally in the far east must strike him as a sort of bear baiting of a rather exquisite order. Just now, however, we would appeal to a diplomat it is impossible to say, but to a layman it would appear "sly, sly, devilish sly."

Endowed Theaters.

Periodically in the United States and England has arisen an agitation favorable to theaters endowed by states or municipalities after the plan in vogue in certain portions of continental Europe. The recent establishment in the City of Mexico of a municipal theater has again served to revive discussion of the question in the United States. Already certain cities provide funds for band concerts, public baseball grounds and other similar provisions for public amusement, but as yet there has been no attempt to endow playhouses, which have been left wholly in private hands. The only effort at governmental control has been in the line of protecting the public from fires, to insure proper sanitation and to prevent indecent exhibitions. The American way has been to let the public do whatever "endows" it thinks proper by the box office route. This plan has seemed to give measurable satisfaction, nor is there evident any widespread desire to change it. In view of the discussion of the state theater, however, the following statistics compiled by the St. Louis Republic are interesting.

In Europe some states and cities provide the land for playhouses; some the land and the playhouses; some the land, the playhouse and an annual subsidy; some provide the land and building, but require the theater management to pay the taxes on and maintain the property; some provide the land and an annuity, but do not erect the building; some provide the land and building, with an annuity, but stipulate that certain kinds of performances must be given at certain times.

In St. Petersburg and Moscow there are six theaters supported by the czar. In Berlin there are two theaters, on state land, which receive liberal annual appropriations from the state. In Vienna there are a state owned opera house, which cost about $2,500,000 and a state owned theater, which cost about $600,000. Both houses are maintained by the government. In Belgium many of the cities own or maintain theaters. In Paris are four national theaters, which are used rent free, the taxes being paid from the box office revenue, although each house gets a subsidy from the state. There are certain provisions as to certain kinds of productions at certain times. The cities of Rome and Milan own theaters.

These facts are worthy of special attention in view of the effort now being made to endow a theater in New York.

It has been discovered that the name America was first given to the western hemisphere by a French geographer named Martin Waldseemüller. The map on which the name occurs has been discovered. It is eight feet long and four feet high and was made in 1497. Waldseemüller also wrote a pamphlet arguing that the name America should be given to the new continent, the anomalous reason assigned being that Asia and Europe had been named for women. Why Columbus should be robbed of the glory on this account, however, is not explained. Anyway, the Waldseemüller label stuck.

Human Concern.

If there is any distinguishing virtue of this age, it is the stress placed on genuine manhood and womanhood. There is more and more of a demand that people seem what they are. Results count with us more than embellishments. We ask not so much of a man's antecedents or the incidents that surround him. Our one inquiry is: "Can he make good?"

In spite of all seeming indications to the contrary, appearances never count for so little as they do today. While we may place value on position, culture, wealth and correct behavior, after all our regard for them is rather as indices to the character of their possessor than as determinate factors in themselves. Whatever the scale of life in which we find a man, we seek to know what the man is in himself.

Herein is found the essence of this age for the personal touch. If any one suddenly rises to fame, the public at once asks to know of him in all the details of his life. This is not more vulgar curiosity, nor is it an undue invasion of privacy. It is an attempt to know the man. We are not content to know of men's fame or place or possessions alone. These are external things. What is the man in himself? How does he treat his family? What are his personal characteristics? What are the things he likes? What books does he read? What are his recreations? What is the heart quality of the man? What are his actuating motives? What is the real personality behind the seeming?

This desire of the public to know the inmost character of its heroes before it places its worship is healthy. The world has been imposed on by too many human counterfeits. Now it would test the genuine coin from the spurious. It would hear the ring of real manhood or womanhood. It would try those whom it is asked to crown with its laurels. It would make sure that its gods have not feet of clay.

A Philadelphia political orator recently became so enthusiastic that he swallowed a set of false teeth. But then, a man in the frenzy of partisan excitement is prepared to swallow almost anything.

As yet none of the cartoonists have compared the war in the far east to a contest between a mouse and an elephant, with the elephant wildly fleeing over the Yala.

Are You Contemplating Going South or Investing Money There.

We advise any of our readers who contemplate going south for the winter and want to rent a furnished cottage or secure a hotel, boarding house or private family, or are desirous of investing money down there, to first write Mr. John T. Patrick, Pinebluff, N. C. Mr. Patrick has made a specialty of furnishing information to Northern people who want to and winter homes or to those who desire to loan money down there on mortgages. He is a man that can be relied upon to give honest information, and to protect the interests of those who trust their money to his care. Recently one of our readers asked Mr. Patrick to give reference as to his character and business ability, and he furnished the names of the Chief Justice of his state, Judge Walter Clark, Raleigh, N. C., and the Editor of the leading daily in the state, the News & Observer, Mr. Joseph Daniels, Raleigh, and the Editor-in-Chief of the Boston Transcript, Mr. R. H. Clement, and these men said in reply that whatever Mr. Patrick said could be relied upon. Therefore it will pay you to write Mr. Patrick before you locate, and if you have money to loan, secure his assistance to get the highest rate of interest on good first-class mortgages down South where the people pay more interest than is paid up here.

A LABOR SAVING DEVICE.

Stone Age Methods in States Where Women Are Denied the Ballot.

To my mind the ballot is simply one of our many modern labor saving inventions. It is the easiest way. The ballot is nothing but an approved sledge hammer, a modern battering ram that enables us to make the battle of life and observe its amenities at the same time.

In the ten years that women have been voting in Colorado I believe they have done at least five times as much as all the rest of the nonvoting women in the United States put together, and I base this modest claim upon the record of our statute books as compared with those of other states. For women stand relatively for the same thing everywhere, and their first care is naturally and inevitably for the child. Whatever we have done, other women wish to do. In many states they have tried and failed. The only difference is that they are using stone age methods, while we have those of the twentieth century.

No one who knows anything about our statute books will attempt to deny that Colorado women have revolutionized the attitude of our state toward the child. Two-thirds of their work has been for the children. But at this point let me say one word about what women have done. I have no desire to exalt Colorado women at the expense of Colorado men. The ballot box is not a dividing line; on the contrary, we have infinitely more interests in common than ever before. Indeed, the relation of men and women in Colorado reminds me of the English serfdom, not an ennobling one for lord and master. "Ah, my lady, that good bet's more like a friend than a husband." We are in a minority by ourselves, and should hardly succeed in anything very bitterly opposed by our brothers.

INCONSISTENCY'S SELF.

How Opponents of Woman Suffrage Defeat Their Own Arguments.

If I were asked who are the most inconsistent of all inconsistent men and women I would, without a moment's hesitation, answer, "The opponents of woman suffrage."

Think of it! They proclaim that man and woman have different natures, and yet maintain that man can represent woman better than woman can represent herself; they admit that woman possesses intelligence and mental endowments equal to man, and yet maintain that she lacks business and political sense; they protest that virtue is the most essential qualification of the citizen voter, and yet maintain that woman, who possesses this qualification in the highest degree, should be excluded from the polls; they admit to the ballot box the worst elements of society, and yet maintain that the best elements should be excluded from it; they believe that nature established the home, and yet maintain that a legislative enactment giving the ballot to woman will tear it down; they concede that woman is the best sentinel of human character, the grandest teacher of the citizen voter, and yet maintain that the product wrought is everything, the artist nothing—the pupil a king; the teacher a slave; they assert that all governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed, and yet maintain that governments should be established and laws enacted with the consent of less than one-half of the people; they declare that taxation of man without representation is tyranny, but that taxation of woman without representation is a blessing; they trust the negro, the Chinaman, the Irishman, the German, the Hottentot and the South Sea Islander, if these choose to come to our shores, but they refuse to trust their own wives and mothers.—A Believer in Woman Suffrage.

WHY WASTE ENERGY?

Woman's Rights Are Most Easily Secured by Giving Her the Ballot.

It has always been claimed by the opponents of woman suffrage that woman could secure all the rights they desired or needed through their influence without the aid of the ballot. That these rights could be secured with one-quarter the outlay of time, money and effort if backed by the ballot is clearly shown by the ease with which they are secured where women have full suffrage. Mrs. Watson Lister of Melbourne, Australia, who is visiting in this country, is most enthusiastic over the results of woman suffrage in her country. She says that parliament now consults them on all bills bearing upon the interests of women. The author of the new divorce bill asked all the women's organizations to come together and hear him read it and to make criticisms and suggestions. Such a thing was never thought of before women had the ballot, although they were affected by such measures then the same as now. When a naturalization bill was pending, a clause of which deprived Australian women of citizenship if they married aliens, a few women went to the prime minister and protested, and that clause was altered immediately. When we held meetings, said Mrs. Lister, to advocate public measures that women wanted, we used to have to go out into the highways and hedges and compel the members of parliament to come in; now the difficulty is to keep them out. The chivalry which they used to tell us would be destroyed should women enter the political field has, on the contrary, been greatly increased. On the platform at one of our meetings the secretary happened to drop her pencil, and I saw the premier and several members of parliament scrambling to pick it up. A woman is never allowed to stand in a street car in Australia.

A GERMAN SOLDERING IRON

Bensen Burner Takes the Place of the Old Hand Furnace.

The thirteenth of this century will not think of carrying around with him a big pot of charcoal in which to hold a fire and heat his soldering iron, says the Philadelphia Record, but will in stead connect his iron to an incandescent electric light socket or a gas jet, obtaining his heat from either the current or flame. An extremely practical iron of the latter class has recently been placed on the Berlin market. As is apparent from the illustration, the copper bit which comes in contact with the solder to melt and apply it to the IRON WITH SELF HEATING BIT. metal is movable and can be placed at any desired angle. By virtue of this form of construction the iron is of great convenience in soldering metallic edges so located as to be difficult of access.

A Bensen burner is used to generate the heat, which is utilized to its fullest extent, owing to the prevention of radiation by the open space beneath the copper bit, and the concentration of the flame of gas and air directly on the bit itself. This system of heating develops a sufficiently high temperature to permit of the employment of a comparatively small piece of copper in the bit and also economizes in the amount of gas consumed.

It is reported that a soldering iron of this kind, which does the work of an ordinary soldering iron possessing a heavy copper bit, consumes only about three and one-half cubic feet of gas per hour. The size of the flame can be regulated at will, while the apparatus can be attached to any gas jet and operated without the aid of bellows. The short length and comparatively light weight of the iron make it a most convenient tool to manipulate.

SLEEPING OUTDOORS.

What It Has Done For Two Meriden (Conn.) Consumptives.

With the mercury 30 degrees below zero two Meriden (Conn.) women have been sleeping all night in the open air on the veranda of their home.

They are both consumptives. Last July their cases were declared hopeless. As a last resort a physician advised sleeping in the open air. They have not slept a night indoors since. Throughout the winter they have established their bed on an upper veranda promptly at 9 p. m. Their bedclothing has consisted of one blanket and one comfortable. In case of rain or snow a rubber covering is used. On extremely cold nights an extra blanket is added.

Their physician says both women have lost nearly all trace of tuberculosis and that three months more of heroic treatment will cure them. The completion of both has become a reality, broken from exposure, and indoors they complain of the heat if the temperature of the house is over 70 degrees. One of them has gained twenty-five pounds in weight, and both have hearty appetites.

A Curious Heater.

The curious electric heater of M. Camille Herrault consists of conducting wires woven into carpets and other fabrics, and it is designed to give a moderately high temperature to the fiber, hemp, cotton, linen or silk. It does not affect the pliability or appearance of the material. It is claimed that the heater is perfectly safe and that the wires cannot be raised above a certain temperature. The arrangement can be applied to many purposes. Carpets, rugs, etc., can be kept at the temperature of the body or higher, and dry or wet medical applications can be kept easily at 120 degrees C. In the industries numerous uses are suggested, as in filters for fatty or gelatinous matters and for warming carriages or trunks, etc.

Training Deaf Mutes to Hear.

To train deaf mutes to hear and to measure their sense of hearing have been subjects of experiment in Europe by Dr. Marage. A siren giving vowel sounds was used, and the intensity of the sound as it became audible became progressively less, many cases of complete deafness being thus made to give place in six weeks to the power of hearing ordinary sounds. The treatment proved to be pleasing instead of fatiguing or painful. The hearing was measured at different stages of the treatment by the air pressure necessary to make the siren audible, and the results were claimed to indicate that few persons are deaf and dumb beyond all cure.

Photographs Serve Action.

Dr. Charpentier in a communication before the Paris Academy of Sciences described an interesting discovery as to the possibility of photographing muscular and nervous activity on a plate covered with a layer of platinum cyanide of barium.

Nervous sensations and impressions and muscular efforts are dashed on the plate and produce a special fluorescence, showing, for instance, the action of the heart and muscles of the interior of the body.

The Winchester Spa has just had set up a most elaborate plant for making ice cream in all its different forms. The plant includes a large gas engine, a freezer and an ice crushing machine. With this equipment this establishment can turn out a large amount of ice cream in a remarkably short time, so that orders are certain to be filled promptly. The quality of the ice cream made at the spa is of the best and when this is more generally known a thriving business is anticipated. A very pretty ice cream parlor where ice cream can be had by the plate is one of the attractions of this place. Drop in and try a plate of the cream.

The little fellow appeared to be none the worse for his exposure during the severe cold of Saturday night, but for Mr. Purrington's hunt through the woods the child would never have been found alive as the place was some distance from any road or path. At about 9 o'clock Sunday forenoon the fire department was called upon to assist in the search, but about the time the men arrived Mr. Purrington had found the child.

Every town and city in the state is interested in the cutting and pruning which the committee on ways and means is said to be busily engaged in to keep the state tax within a $10,000,000 limit. For the past few years the enormous state tax has been "a burden grievous to be borne," especially by the towns which are not in the millionaire class like Brookline and the Newtons and they have found it hard to provide for their own necessities because of the heavy tax they had to pay for the state's extravagance. Anything in the way of economy in this line, even where the "economy" means a tax of three millions, will be appreciated throughout the commonwealth.—Wakefield Item.

MRS. NANCY SYMMES HOWE.

Interesting Sketch of Her Life and Antecedents.

The Old Homestead on which Stands the New High School Building.

Written by N. A. Richardson.

Mrs. Nancy Symmes Howe, whose will and history has been so much considered in connection with the erection of the new High School house, that I desire to put on record some events and transactions with which I am familiar. I desire to treat the subject with candor and fairness.

The town has seen fit to take Mrs. Howe's homestead for a purpose not designated in her will, or contemplated in her cautious and reflecting mind. Let us submit to it with forbearance and mainly dignity, not because Mrs. Howe is silently reposing in Wildwood Cemetery, or that her dust is mingling with that dust from which it came, and can no more be vitalized with breath and power to repel the wrong or requite the injustice, if such it be. As a town we have from enough in the fire without stirring up embers anew. Those who come after us, when they pay the notes or bonds, can judge of the economy and taste in a wiser and broader sense than those who are so gratified with the design and cost.

It is a magnificent building, well constructed and well planned. But was the town able, wants pressing, for such an expenditure, with every department burdened with debt? There is one point I wish to emphasize. A few weeks ago, it was voted to tear down Mrs. Howe's house. I will not say by a spirit of vandalism, but by a feeling of indiscretion and bad economy. The house was in fair condition and could have been lowered down with little expense, and been the source of several hundred dollars income for the next few years, besides being kept in remembrance of the giver, who was born and died within its walls; kept standing until the balance of the land could be utilized for needed purposes, or its historical prestige continued. It was one of the very oldest houses in town, built by James Converse one hundred and sixty years ago upon land known as "Edward Converse's Orchard," then extending down to the junction of Washington and Main streets. The vocal vote, passed to remove the house was so briefly considered and summarily passed, it would seem as if the audience were optimists, or rather fatalists, not content with taking the money and bees, wished to destroy the hive. As a point of aesthetic taste to regrade the slope down to Main street, to spend several hundred dollars it may be, to tear away the retaining face wall that cost one hundred dollars and give the stone to the contractor, was not good judgment. I have before me a copy of Mrs. Howe's will, which I have read with care. I see much in it to respect and some things to deprecate. It is a timid instrument, the work of a faint-hearted heart. I shall only consider it with reference to a Town House and Library. She says—"I give and bequeath to the inhabitants of the Town of Winchester, Mass., and their successors my homestead real estate, situated in Winchester, Mass., for a building lot for a Town House and Public Library Building, to have the name Symmes attached to the building in some proper manner, to memorialize my father, Mr. Z. Symmes." When the will was written we had no Town House or Public Library Building, and Mrs. Howe was aware of their absence, and willing to aid in their construction. Still I am confronted with the fact that she cared nothing for libraries or books. She did not know that in the world were ten thousand great libraries filled with a billion volumes of historical, biographical and scientific works, that only a few readers sought to examine. Mrs. Howe probably never saw a copy of the "Arabian Nights" or a page of the "Mysteries of Udolpho." Her reading was "Pilgrim's Progress," her Psalm book, "Scotch Lessons," and English reader. She was in a dilemma, did not know what to do, but to pacify conscience, and do a good act had inserted in her will the clause I have quoted. She never would have consented that any building should be erected where playful children would gather to over run her grounds. I know this idea was wrong and narrow, but it was the outcome of her home education which she carried down to the grave.

I will leave this train of thought and consider Mrs. Howe's personal character and habits, and those of a few of her immediate ancestors. She was born in South Woburn, now Winchester, February 3rd, 1824, the daughter of Zachariah R. Symmes and Nancy Richardson. She married Henry W. Howe of Medford in 1853, by whom she had one daughter born in 1855, who died in infancy. Her husband died in 1858. She passed away on May 23, 1891. She had one sister, Jerusha, a close, prudent woman born in 1810, married Joseph Wyman both now dead. One brother, William, born in 1818, died when three years old. Nancy, our subject, was a very pleasant and modest girl, the pet of her mother and idol of her father. She was light complexioned, fair haired and soft, with some eyes. When she was six years old she commenced going to school in the summer, up to Richardson's Row, just north of where the writer of this lives. She was led by the hand, by Almira Johnson and Almira Hutchinson, her schoolmates, her mother coming to the street and putting her in their charge, telling them to be careful and not let her get hurt. She went to this school for two seasons, learning her letters and reading in a small primer. In 1830 the district was divided and the schoolhouse moved to the village, south of the Henry Stone house. Here Nancy began to go to school summers and winters, learned to read, write and spell, studying grammar, arithmetic and geography. She was studious and mastered her lessons, but always bashful and retiring. One evening after a spelling school, a young man offered to see her home. She thanked him and said she was not afraid to go alone, and her mother did not wish her to have a beau until she was older—then about sixteen—she was not matured in speech or ways, had none of the blood of the Ptolemies flowing in her veins. She was not a "politician" or a "luxurious beauty" like Cleopatra, who captured the hand and heart of Caesar before she was twenty, and the will and passion of Antony at twenty-five, which Plutarch says is the most bewitching period in woman's life. She was plain, modest Nancy Symmes, that captured Henry W. Howe when she was twenty-nine years old. Nancy, when small, used to go out to her father's wheelwright shop and stay with him hours at a time; the shop across the street near the site of the present Unitarian Church.

Mr. Symmes was a close man, who made every cent tell, kept his business accounts with care, did a good deal of hard work at his trade which he learned at Tewksbury, kept an ox-team and horse, always had money in his pocket and knew how to keep it, had been a large land owner in different parts of the town by purchase and inheritance, most of which he sold in his lifetime. It is not necessary to say the Howe for was inherited from her father, Zachariah Symmes, who was of the 6th generation from Rev. Zachariah Symmes of Charlestown, who for his good citizenship and Christian life had three hundred acres of land given to him, which in his will he calls "my farm at Woburn." The Howe homestead was not a part of this farm, but originally belonged to the Edward Converse estate. I will here trace the Howe Homestead from its erection to its final removal. Zachariah Symmes bought the house and 1 1/2 acres of land of Amos Newton in 1809 for $225.00. In 1803 Amos Newton bought the place of Jonathan Wyman for $750.00 who in 1795 bought the place of Benjamin Converse for sixty-six dollars, sixty-six cents and seven mills, no other consideration mentioned. Benjamin Converse was a son of the celebrated Capt. Robert Converse, who was a grandson of Edward Converse, who built the "corn mill" and the first bridge over the stream. In 1763 Benjamin Converse bought the place, (with buildings on it) of Phineas Lovering at Woburn for sixty-five pounds, thirteen shillings, four pence. In 1758 Phineas Lovering bought it of Thomas Pratt of Woburn and Nathaniel Hassey of Chelsea for fifty-eight pounds, thirteen shillings, four pence. In 1753 Pratt and Hassey bought it of Peletiah Whitte more of Malden for sixty-six pounds, thirteen shillings, four pence. In 1753 Whittemore bought the place of Josiah Buckman for eighty pounds. In 1751 Josiah Buckman bought it of Jacob Buckman of Malden for one hundred one pounds, six shillings, eight pence. In 1750 Buckman bought the place, of James Sawyer for the same price, as above mentioned. In 1749 James Sawyer bought of James Converse for seventy pounds (then having no building on it) what was the Howe property until entered upon by the town.

I find the bounds of the Howe estate well defined in all the conveyances. It originally belonged to the Edward Converse estate and passed by purchase or descent to James Converse before any house was built upon it. Up to 1815, forty-two years after Zachariah Symmes bought the property, the house and barn were standing, quite in their original condition. In 1815, two years before his death, Mr. Symmes repaired the barn, raised up and lengthened the house for the convenience of two families.

It would be interesting to write the personal history of the many owners and occupants of the Howe house for one hundred and fifty years, but this is not my present object—only as relates to the ancestry of Mrs. Howe's father and mother. Mrs. Howe's father, on the side of his father and mother, represented two of the oldest families in town, the Symmes and Richardson. His father, Samuel, was born Jan. 1746, married Susanna Richardson in 1771, the daughter of Zachariah Richardson, who lived at the corner of Forest and Washington streets. Samuel Symmes lived in a large, old fashioned house, with the built, it was shaded by large trees, and stood near where his grandson, Samuel Symmes now lives, on the right foot of Black Horse Hill. The old house was taken down in 1856. Samuel was a tailor, went into his own and neighboring towns, cut and made suits, military coats and leather breeches, working for a dollar and a half a day.

He had a large farm, extending down to and across the river to Church street, the "Drivers' Lane," embracing most of Rangeley. I have his order book of work and charges, worth plenty and pay small. He died in 1816. Samuel was the son of Zachariah who lived in the then last house in South Woburn, standing where the Blood house now stands.

It was taken down in 1840 and he belonged to the Hutchinson family at the time, who, twenty years before had bought of the heirs of Wm. Symmes. William was a farmer and large land owner, his estate being south of Samuel's, and like his extending nearly to Church street. He was a son of William who inherited, and by division and purchase from the descendants of Rev. Zachariah Symmes, a portion of the three hundred acres given to him by Charlestown.

It might be interesting to extend the history of Mrs. Howe's father's family, which abounds with interest, but cannot be entered upon in this article. I will, however, say Mrs. Howe's father, on the side of his mother, Susanna Richardson, was a blood descendant in the fourth generation of Samuel Richardson, whose wife and child in 1656 were slain by the Indians just west of Washington street, near Irving street.

I will now turn to Mrs. Howe on the side of her mother, who was Nancy Richardson, a daughter of Gideon Richardson, he was a son of Ebenezer Richardson, a son of Thomas Richardson, a son of Samuel Richardson, 2nd, and a brother born later, after another brother, Thomas, had been slain by the Indians in 1656. This Thomas had a brother, Samuel, known as Samuel the 3rd, who being in the field with his father, escaped slaughter. This Samuel lived and died where the writer now lives. Thomas, Ebenezer and Gideon, sometime in their lives, all lived near where the Joseph Stone house is situated.

Mrs. Howe's father was born in 1781, her mother in 1785; they were married in 1804. Her grandfather, Gideon, married in 1782 Susanna Fox, daughter of Jonathan C. Fox, a son of Rev. John Fox, a minister in Woburn for fifty-three years, and his father, Jabez Fox, twenty-four years. It will be seen that Mrs. Howe had a long line of ministerial blood flowing in her organization, and it is no wonder that she should have remembered with extreme solicitation those who stood for the Orthodox faith, Bible and missionary enterprise. See her will and what large gifts she made in this direction. Her whole soul was imbued with the Calvinistic faith, that man is sinful by nature, and regeneration is secured only by redemption and atonement through the blood of the Lamb.

I leave Mrs. Howe, who rests in peace within the gates of Eternity, where no flickering over her will disturbs the joy of her heavenly home, where no contention over the cost and location of the High School house gives her pain.

I have not been into the interior of the High School house and cannot say, but artistic beauty of finish and grandeur of arrangement, it may compare with Solomon's Temple. I will say, the building does not stand in the best position as viewed from the center of the town or Pleasant street. I will say, however, in the grading of laws, devising of paths and convenience of walks, it is not excelled by any building of like character in New England. Mr. Fitzgerald has done an elegant piece of work, and by close attention has overcome every opposing obstacle. Still the point of contention is, can the town afford it, was it needed, will it pay, will it strengthen its credit? It is a fine structure but a perishable monument of an out-reaching hand, guided by pride and ambition. It is a calm and judicious discussion of its necessity had taken place, the end might have been different.

The School and Building Committees have done good service in their respective lines of action, as they considered the obligations resting upon them. Others, might have done differently with equal success.

I am told the School House is finished, the useful and ornamental united in pleasing harmony. The house stands on a commanding eminence, where green slopes are unrolled, and moving waters dance by old views and venerated scenes are buried in the pomp and grandeur of splendid advance fortified with a hundred thousand interest bearing bonds, anchored to the pocketbooks of the future taxpayers. The picture which Edward Converse and his immortal band of seven, sketched beneath the stars while the red man rowed his canoe on the banks of the Aberjona, is spurned and cast off, as the emblem of a barbaric age.

Moral neglect and expressed will, count not against costly buildings and scholarly blandishments. Winchester, May 25, 1904.

Memorial Day

A. T. Weld Post 148, G. A. R., John T. Wilson, commanding, has made all arrangements for a proper observance of Memorial Day which comes next Monday. The exercises will not differ much from those of past years. Sunday at 10 o'clock the members will assemble at G. A. R. Hall in the Town Building and march to the Unitarian Church and listen to a sermon by Rev. William I. Lawrence, whose subject will be "Soldierly Virtues in Time of Peace."

JOHN T. WILSON, Commander of A. D. Weld Post.

The subject taken by Mr. Lawrence is a masterly one, and it will no doubt be treated in a highly patriotic, scholarly and interesting manner.

On Monday the veterans will assemble at their hall at 2:30 p. m., and at 2:45 will form on Pleasant street and under escort of the Charlestown Cadets, Capt. Mark E. Smith, will receive the officials at the Town Hall. The procession will be through Washington, Main, Church, Fletcher and Wildwood streets to the Cemetery where the graves of veterans will be decorated.

In the evening at 7:15 the comrades will assemble at headquarters and at 7:30 march to the Town Hall to attend services there. Mr. F. W. Gilbert of Somerville will deliver the oration. The music at these exercises will be rendered by 15 children of the public schools, under the direction of Mr. Ernest Makechne, superintendent of music in the schools. The program will be very interesting, and the public are most cordially invited to attend.

EDWIN ROBINSON, Acting Adjutant of A. D. Weld Post. He was the youngest soldier to enlist from Winchester in War of Rebellion.

Mr. Gilbert has delivered Memorial day addresses for the past five or six years, and for several years his name has been on the list of eligible speakers at the department headquarters of the G. A. R. of the State House. Mr. Gilbert is an interesting speaker, and has given excellent satisfaction wherever he has spoken in the past, and it is safe to say that his address on the coming Memorial day will not detract from his growing reputation as a public speaker.

During the forenoon Senior Vice Commander Moses P. Richardson and Officer of the Day Michael E. Lyons will decorate the graves of comrades at East Woburn.

The Leon E. Warren Camp, Spanish War Veterans of Stoneham, will send a delegation to Winchester in the afternoon to decorate the grave of Leon E. Warren of this town, the first soldier to die of the many who went from this State. The delegation will probably march to Wildwood with the post.

Auxiliary Meeting

At the regular meeting of the Woman's Foreign Auxiliary of the Congregational Church Tuesday afternoon, in the vestry, papers were read by Miss Helen A. Presson on "Chinese Art" and by Mrs. Geo. C. Colton "The Part of Missions in Diplomacy and Sociology in China." Short talk on Immigration and a general talk on current events followed. A committee was appointed to nominate officers for next year.

MANY PRESENT TO PROTEST

At the Contemplated Removal of Scores of Shade Trees.

Tree Warden Not Inclined to be Arbitrary in the Matter.

The large attendance at the tree hearing in the small Town Hall, Monday evening, was striking evidence of the regard in which the shade trees that line the streets of the town are held by the people. As every section of the town was included in the removal of trees so was every part represented at the hearing by earnest pleaders for the woodland to spare that tree. About 100 persons were present, a number being women. There are 11 bridge street offered a splendid example of the tangled country roadside that had made Middlesex County so beautiful and therefore he hoped that so far as possible this condition would be continued. There being no other remonstrants, the section of Cambridge street from Everett avenue to Church street was taken up when Mr. H. T. Schaefer made an earnest plea for those in front of his estate. Church, Pleasant, Washington, Forest and other streets were taken up in order, when the remonstrants made their earnest appeals to the Warden, several speakers being women.

Among those who appealed to the Warden were: Messrs W. L. Tuck, A. H. Russell, J. M. Berry, S. W. Twombly, C. T. Lawson, J. W. Richardson, H. A. Hatch, John Reynolds, C. W. Bradstreet, Geo. P. Brown, E. H. Rice, Francis Chisholm, C. H. Newcomb, N. A. Richardson, John Holland, A. C. Vinton, Fred Joy, H. M. Grover, I. R. Webber, G. W. Farrington, C. H. Grover and others, who pleaded for trees in front of their estates.

The Warden said he would take the desires of the remonstrants under careful consideration and conform to their wishes as far as possible. He stated that Cambridge street being a state highway the commissioners had established the rule that all trees should be at least fifty feet apart.

The hearing was one of the most earnest that has taken place in the Town Hall for a long time. There was no feeling manifested whatever, all present recognizing the unselfish desire of the Warden to do what he considered best for the trees and the streets as a whole.

Mr. Caldwell of Highland avenue said he was a new resident and that the trees was his main reason for coming here. He advised the Warden to think the matter over and move carefully.

New High School Building.

The building will be open for public inspection Monday, May 30, from nine to twelve and from two to five o'clock. Very little of the furniture and some of the decorations are yet in position, but the building itself is practically complete, and accordingly it has seemed advisable to take advantage of the holiday in order to enable many to visit the building who might not otherwise easily find an opportunity to do so. Children will be refused admission, except when accompanied by adults.

It is quite likely that another day for public inspection will be arranged, in the fall—possibly Labor Day—by which time the full equipment of furnishings, and such decorations as are then provided, will be in place.

The dedication exercises are set for Thursday evening, June 2, at eight o'clock. As the assembly hall has a limited seating capacity, being designed for school uses only, none but adults will be admitted to these exercises. The program will consist of several musical selections, including a special hymn written for the occasion, a dedicatory prayer, and a few brief addresses.

Special Church Meeting

On Tuesday evening May 31st, the Congregational Society will hold a special parish meeting. Among the articles to be considered will be: One—To see if the Society will vote to accept the Highland Bethany Society property. Second—To see if the Society will authorize the Standing Committee to make necessary alterations in the entrance and stairways leading to the auditorium or do anything in relation to the same. Third—To see if the Society will authorize the Standing Committee to build an addition at the rear of the pulpit for organ, thus providing about one hundred additional sittings in the gallery, or do anything in relation to the same.

A True Gentleman

EDITOR OF THE STAR— I was a much interested spectator at the Tree Hearing in the small town hall on Monday evening. While not having the pleasure of the personal acquaintance of Tree Warden Chamberlain, the thing that impressed me the most, was the courteous and gentlemanly manner in which he met all the objections. While at times his judgment was severely criticised, he patiently made his explanations, giving due regard to the wishes of others. It is under conditions like those of Monday evening that a true gentleman is tested over and over again.

Warden Chamberlain then took up the removal of trees on Cambridge street from the Arlington line to Everett avenue and called on the remonstrants.

Rev. W. I. Lawrence recognized the true position of the Warden in this matter and his great regard for the trees. He did not appear as a remonstrant but rather to assist him as he believed that many trees ought to come down. Cambridge street offered a splendid example of the tangled country roadside that had made Middlesex County so beautiful and therefore he hoped that so far as possible this condition would be continued. There being no other remonstrants, the section of Cambridge street from Everett avenue to Church street was taken up when Mr. H. T. Schaefer made an earnest plea for those in front of his estate. The general verdict of the two hundred or more guests that favored the Wadleigh School, Visiting Day a Success.

On entering the building, friends found copies of a condensed, type-written program which enabled them to make choice of time for visiting the different rooms. The best results from the use of the pencil, pen and brush, were tastefully displayed in each room, and the fine pieces of work in sloyd and sewing were excellent proofs of well-directed and pains-taking effort.

Visitors felt that the well designed, accurate, and neat pieces of work, were to them an incentive for doing their work as well, both the unseen and the seen.

The up-to-date teaching and recitation exercises gave the parents an insight as to what their children are doing in school. The teachers were heartily congratulated for the marked success of the day's exercises, and without doubt the homes have been brought into closer touch with the school and better work may result.

Young Ladies Entitled to Credit

The sixth annual May party of the Young Ladies Literary Society took place in Locom Hall last Friday evening. The young ladies fairly outdid themselves in making this party one of the best ever given. Everything moved along like clock work, and the society is entitled to a great deal of credit. The officers and members are as follows: President, Mary E. Gillespie; Vice-President, Julia E. Sullivan; Secretary, Mary A. Nichols; Treasurer, Mary E. Sullivan; Members, Annie E. Burke, Katherine E. O'Neil, Katherine E. Kelley, Elizabeth C. Daley, Della T. Kelley, Gabriella McCarthy, Mary E. Burke, Lillian E. McCarthy, Minnie T. O'Leary, Katherine E. Foley.

BY A KEEN OBSERVER.

Ex-Secretary Long's Impressions of the Workings of Woman Suffrage.

Hon. John D. Long, recently a member of President Roosevelt's cabinet, is not afraid that women will compromise themselves by exercising the right of suffrage. At a hearing recently given by the committee on election laws of the Massachusetts legislature, on Governor Bates' recommendation that women be enabled to vote for city and town officers, Mr. Long said in part:

"I was in Colorado and saw an election there. My daughters and their grandmothers voted. I watched them, and as I saw the process the whole argument about contamination vanished utterly into thin air. The election in that Colorado city was as orderly as in Hingham or in any ward of Boston. I have a tender feeling toward my own, I should object to any infringement on the decency of their lives, but they were not put to half so much poverty or exposure as they would have been in a street car, or at a concert, or in getting into this room. My daughter, who is now working as a physician in the New York slums, comes in contact with the saddest elements of a great city. The exposure to which she was subjected at the election in Colorado Springs was nothing to the exposure which she faces now and of which I am very proud."

"It is sometimes said that a woman ought not to vote because she cannot fight. This is not true, she can. Some women lately have shown themselves pretty heroic against invading burglars, while some men have run away. A vote has nothing to do with fighting; it is the expression of an intelligent opinion. Besides, we are not going to have much more fighting."

"It is said that women do not want to vote. Well, not half the men vote. You cannot drum them up to vote even in exciting elections. Most men do not want to vote, but if it is a question of right it would not be just to deprive one of a vote because some other men do not want it. It has been said that the best way to repeal a bad law is to enforce it. If the majority of women really do not want to vote, give them full suffrage, and they will at once elect men who will repeal it."

"There is no argument against equal suffrage on the ground either of right or of expediency. It takes little or no time. The ordinary man does not give three hours a year to the exercise of suffrage. There is nothing in it to impair the nature of women. It has been tried in the election of school committees, and who is conscious of the slightest effect which it has had in absorbing the time of women or of unsewing them or of affecting their domestic relations?"

ON A SOUND BASIS.

Arguments for Woman Suffrage Are Built on a Foundation of Reason.

Our cause is based upon the fundamental principles upon which our national government rests, that "taxation without representation is tyranny" and "governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed," principles which were not created by our government and which it has no power to abrogate or destroy, but are as old as humanity and will endure until humanity ceases to exist.

Suffragists have never assumed that the possession of the ballot is an end in itself, but a means to an end, which is the development of the individual through the responsibility of citizenship and the education which compels the voters to think and form opinions upon subjects outside of their own personal interests.

That a number of men and women perpetrated frauds at a recent election in the city of Denver does not in any degree affect the justice of equal suffrage. The hysterical effort of a portion of the public press to claim that "women were the leaders in these frauds" and that "they participated in them in greater numbers than men" would be grotesquely absurd if it were not pitifully true that the majority of people unthinkingly accept these wild exaggerations and distortions as if they were facts and base their opinions upon them.

Had this been the first time that voters had "repeated" "stuffed" the ballot boxes or accepted or given bribes at elections there might be some show of justice in claiming that the participation of women had something to do with long before even women voted whole-sale use of tissue ballots, the voting of graveyards, lodging houses and poor farms and every possible form of intimidation and even assassination were employed in carrying elections would prevent any honest thinking person from claiming that woman's presence in politics was responsible for the election frauds in Denver.

REV. ANNA H. SHAW, President National Woman Suffrage Association.

Freeing Enslaved Minds.

The old fashioned Chinese thought his wife feet not beautiful unless she had little feet on which she could not walk. Some of the young Chinese are learning that it is pleasant for a man to have a wife who can walk by his side. Formerly men thought it desirable that a woman's mind should be cramped. The modern man is beginning to find out that it is more satisfactory to have a wife whose mind can walk side by side with his—Gail Laughlin.

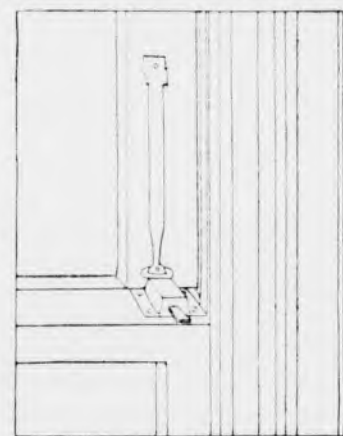

Moral Tone Needed.

When the influence of the great army of women who make up the bulk of the church members in this country can have a direct expression at the ballot box, there will come with it a moral tone now sadly lacking in every department of the government.—Lucy Stone.

A SAFE VENTILATOR.

Admits Fresh Air, but Keeps Burglars Out.

The necessity of having a circulation of pure air in the sleeping rooms at night is recognized by more people every day, and now it is not at all infrequent that windows are left open all night in the winter as well as in summer. It is not enough to shut off the heat of the furnace from the sleeping rooms. To derive the greatest benefit the air must be constantly changing or the oxygen will be exhausted during the early part of the night, and the sleeper will be compelled to breathe the vitiated atmosphere which has already passed through his lungs. The open window, which makes this fresh air possible in the house, is, however, a great temptation to the burglar. It is, therefore, difficult to choose between the two horns of the dilemma.

VENTILATOR AND LOCK.

But there has recently been invented a window lock which may prove a surprise and disappointment to the burglar who thinks to enter a house through the partly open window. It can be attached to either side or center of the sash and serves to hold the window tightly locked, to limit its movement to seven inches or to permit entire freedom to raise and lower the window at will. On top of the lower sash is a catch similar to an ordinary embossed door fastener with the exception that the bolt ends in a C shaped head, which engages the long tongue fastened to the face of the upper sash. This tongue is narrow enough at the bottom to permit it to enter the catch.

After engagement the tongue slides freely in the catch until the shoulders at the upper end of the tongue strike the catch. In this position the window is open seven inches, either at the top or the bottom, but no one can reach through the opening to release the lock. To lock the window the catch is placed beneath the end of the tongue, while to release it entirely the sliding bolt which carries the C shaped head is pulled backward until the tongue clears it as the windows are opened.

The inventor is Julius Fink of Chicago.

TO STERILIZE WATER.

Minute Quantity of Silver Chloride Annihilates Microbes.

The constantly increasing demand for pure water and for some method by means of which this can be obtained renders the recent communication made by Professor Paterno to the Italian Royal College of Physicians especially interesting.

Professor Paterno has suggested a process for the purification of drinking water which constitutes a great step forward in the study of this important problem. From numerous and extensive experiments made by this author it appears that by adding to impure water, even that containing pathogenic microbes, an extremely small quantity of chloride of silver there is accomplished the complete disinfection of the water. For this purpose three-hundredths of a gram of the chloride is sufficient to sterilize a quart of water and to eliminate every danger of infection. The process is so simple that one cannot expect any improvement upon it in the future. It may be used by any one and in every condition of life, the sterilization being complete after a few minutes, ten at the most, and no apparatus being necessary beyond a small vial with a solution of chloride of silver.

The water keeps its flavor and all of its properties without modification, only undergoing a slight whitening, which disappears after a few hours of repose. Water purified by means of boiling, ozone, and all other processes known up to the present, when exposed to the air soon becomes impure, whereas the process of Professor Paterno keeps the water pure for many months.

Blames Corsets for Cancer.

Dr. R. C. Lucas, an eminent London specialist, has added a new count to the indictment against the corset. He declares in the Lancet it is, under certain circumstances, responsible for cancer. Three cases have come under the doctor's notice in which cancer in women started at a point where the edge of the corset crosses the ends of the big muscle of the chest. In describing two of them he says: "The cancer developed on the right side in each case, and in women whose occupation led them to undue use of the right arm and in consequence to the excessive friction of the upper edge of the corset. The friction of the corset at this spot is therefore the cause of a cancerous process developing in this situation, and to express this fact I have given it the name of corset cancer."

Will be Pleased to do so

The Town Auditor says he will answer any questions put in the STAR if the people will sign their names to the articles of inquiry provided he is possessed of the facts or can ascertain them.

Trees Will be Treated Wisely

The citizens can feel assured that the question of our shade trees will be treated wisely and satisfactorily by Tree Warden Chamberlain. No man has a higher estimate of their value than he has, and it is safe to say no one in town knows how to treat the trees better scientifically than he does. He has given tree culture the study of years, and indeed, it was his love for them that caused him to reside in Winchester and select a location for his home in the thick of the woods off Highland avenue.

Worthy of Assistance.

The agent of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children claims that the case of the Winchester children sent away last Saturday was one of the worst it ever had. This case is an example of the good work the Society is called upon to do all over the State. The attention of the charitably inclined is called to the deeds of this organization. It receives no funds or financial assistance from the State or any municipality and can prosecute its work only as the public aids it. Last year but one resident of this town helped the Society where there should have been scores. The officers would be thankful for any contributions, large or small.

The Tree Hearing.

The tree hearing last Monday evening developed an abnormal amount of selfishness in good men and representative citizens. Several people were willing to have their neighbors' trees removed, but not those in front of their own premises. The Tree Warden will have to go ahead and offend several persons by removing trees, but these persons will get over feeling badly in a little while.

When it was proposed to remove the trees in front of the Dwinell and Hurd estates a few years ago, many good people talked as though those places were to be ruined, but nobody wants those trees back again with the former condition of the street. No more trees should be set in the streets, but from four to six feet back from the street line on private property, where the houses set sufficiently back from the street, unless there is a wide grass plot between sidewalk and gutter like the Parkway. At the tree hearing our Tree Warden talked too much. He should explain, if asked, why he intends to remove trees, but he should not argue his case.

The opposition at the hearing was strenuous. One trouble was too much uncertainty at one time. The public does not like large doses of improvements at one time. The Tree Warden showed good ability in getting the street railways to agree to pay all the expense of removal of condemned trees on the line of their tracks, but he should go one step farther and get pay in advance from the railway. They are now undertaking to repudiate a written agreement in the grant of location of their road on the grounds that said agreement was illegal.

As the street should be set out farther apart than we have been accustomed to plant them. Elm trees should be sixty feet apart and other trees not less than forty feet, then the trees would grow symmetrically and we should add much to our already beautiful town.

I trust the Tree Warden will start on his scheme at once, but would advise that he take out some extra life insurance as a matter of precaution, although I sincerely hope the life insurance companies will get the best end of the bargain.

Balance Dec. 31, 1903

Balance Jan. 1, 1904

HENRY F. JOHNSON.

W. C. T. U. Notes.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union observed its 29th anniversary May 13th, anticipating the date a few days for convenience according to custom followed for several years. A definite line of work was brought before the public in place of recounting past deeds, rather looking forward to the future. This year we made work for the young our specialty and through Mrs. G. A. Hamilton, local superintendent for Loyal Temperance Legion department, invited the L. T. L. to meet with us. Mrs. Hamilton very kindly offered to prepare the Legion to give us a short entertainment.

The union met in Congregational vestry at 3 p. m. Mrs. J. T. Underhill led devotions most acceptably and also told us about the methods of Melrose W. C. T. U. After the usual business the president read a communication from the Flower Mission State Supt. and medal contest.

At present we are without a F. M. Supt. Here is an opportunity for some young lady to engage in a blessed work. Who will volunteer?

At the L. T. L. marched in singing a temperance song and were warmly welcomed. Recitation and song were given in a very creditable manner as the applause of the audience showed. Mrs. Helen G. Rice Nat. Superintendent of L. T. L. work addressed the Legion in her interesting and instructive way. Even the youngest could understand and remember her points. A social time followed when all enjoyed the simple refreshments and said "we have had a good time."

Are there not more boys and girls who would like to join the L. T. L.

Winchester Camera Club.

The club held its last meeting of the season on Wednesday evening. Mr. Chase, the secretary of the club, gave an informal talk on "Portraits," illustrated by slides, from the works of Italian, Spanish, Dutch and English masters.

The public exhibition of photographs by members will be held at the Public Library from June 6th to the 18th.

That Disgraceful Ball Game.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Your editorial of last week on the behavior of some members of the Stoneham base ball team at the recent game at Manchester Field was read with much satisfaction, but it did not include all of the disgraceful scenes witnessed, particularly the vile and low-down language used by some of the players. The most surprising thing regarding this free use of obscene language was the inactivity of the Park Police in not suppressing it. What could these officers have been thinking of in allowing this to go on in the presence of so many ladies, young girls and children? Many mothers have said that they will not allow their daughters and young children to attend another game when the Stoneham team comes here, and we sincerely hope the Winchester school boys will not again play with this Stoneham crowd as at present made up of Winchester wants no part of them.

SUBJECTOR.

Another "Diamond" Needed

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The season of Saturday half-holidays is approaching, and many of the young men will have time for recreation on those days if the opportunity is afforded them. In order that more may enjoy these privileges, I would suggest that the Metropolitan Park Commissioners be petitioned to lay out another base ball field on Manchester Field, so that two games may be played at one time.

There is ample room for another "diamond" at the southern end of the field, placing the backstop near the bridge and batting in the direction of the Unitarian church. Neither game would interfere with the other, and the spectators would have their choice of seeing either of two games without crowding, and the young men of the town would have double the opportunity of using the field they now enjoy.

To help the cause along I will donate a set of bases for the new diamond. The cost of surveying and building the back stop cannot be heavy. Push this along and help the boys enjoy themselves and furnish amusement for their elders.

The Only Celery Food

The only food in which celery forms an important part—its nourishing qualities of a marked character. It acts admirably upon the nervous system—recommended for wakefulness, rheumatism and neuralgia.

DR. PRICE'S WHEAT FLAKE CELERY FOOD

Celery one of its principal ingredients, it helps to regulate the bowels; a restorative in debility of the digestive organs and has a direct effect upon the kidneys. It's a food—not a medicine.

JUNE BREAKFAST

Ladies of the Visiting Nurse Association Making Great Preparations

These are busy days for the ladies of the Winchester Visiting Nurse Association. They are up to their eyes in work in preparation for the June breakfast which they are to give in the Town Hall, Saturday morning, June 4th. This will be the third annual breakfast given for the benefit of the fund of the association, and there is every indication that it will be even a greater success than last year.

Although the breakfast does not come for a week yet, the ladies in charge of the affair have been so energetic that already the sale of tickets assures a larger attendance than a year ago when more than twelve hundred people were served. If you have not been called on yet and asked to come to the breakfast you will not be overlooked, but be given a chance in the next few days to buy a ticket.

The breakfast will come at six o'clock on Saturday morning, June 4th, and then for three hours you will find a very tempting bill of fare at the Town Hall. For twenty-five cents you can get a delicious breakfast, and at the same time have the satisfaction of knowing that you have had a part in contributing to one of the town's most worthy institutions.

Cured His Mother of Rheumatism.

"My mother has been a sufferer for many years with rheumatism," says W. H. Howard, of Husband, Pa. "At times she was unable to move at all, while at all times walking was painful. I presented her with a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and after a few applications she decided it was the most wonderful pain reliever she had ever tried, in fact, she is never without it now and is at all times able to walk. An occasional application of Pain Balm keeps away the pain that she was formerly troubled with." For sale by O'Connor's Pharmacy.

VACATION RESORTS IN NEW ENGLAND.

Waiting for Hot Weather.

After the severe and protracted siege of winter weather, predictions are rife for a very warm summer, and the thousands of vacationists who annually migrate to the seashore, the country, and the mountains are perhaps planning, at any rate thinking, of their haunts for 1904. New England is the stamping ground. Here hordes of summer visitors flock every year. The farmhouses are prepared for company after the middle of May; the shore resorts get ready in June, and by the last of June, or the first of July, the mountains are welcoming their guests. Maine has both coast and inland lake resorts of supreme beauty. New Hampshire has a short but scenic section of sea coast; but the famous White Mountains and Lakes Winnepesaukee and Sunapee are within her borders. Vermont claims the renowned Champlain, Memphremagog and Willoughby; and Massachusetts asks no favors with her pleasant valleys and impressive mountain ranges.

All of this vacation territory is described and pictured in the literature published by the Boston & Maine Railroad's Passenger Department. Boston. The six beautiful portfolios, Lakes, Rivers, Seashore, Mountains, Picturesque, and the Charles river to the Hudson, contain beautiful half-tone reproductions, and any of these books will be mailed upon receipt of six cents, or the entire set for thirty-six cents.

The descriptive booklets, thirteen in number, containing interesting and instructive reading matter concerning the various sections will be mailed upon receipt of two cents for each book, or twenty-six cents for the entire set. They comprise "Lakes and Streams," "All Along Shore," "Valley of the Connecticut & Northern Vermont," "Lake Sunapee," "South-east New Hampshire," "Monadnock Region," "Hoosac Country and Deerfield Valley," "Merrimack Valley," "Central Massachusetts," "Lake Memphremagog," "Among the Mountains," and "Fishing and Hunting," with an additional booklet giving the fish and game laws of Northern New England and Canada. The "Bird's Eye View of the White Mountains," a handsome colored map, showing the numerous ravines and peaks as viewed from the summit of Mount Washington, will be mailed upon receipt of six cents in stamps.

A New Bird's Eye View of Lake Winnepesaukee Published by the Boston & Maine R. R.

The numerous vacationists who annually journey to Lake Winnepesaukee and those persons intending to take a vacation in this section, will be interested in the new publication issued by the Passenger Department, Boston & Maine Railroad, Boston. It is a Bird's Eye View of Lake Winnepesaukee, the different glens and coves on the lake and hundreds of islands. Each mountain peak, island and cove is numbered and at the bottom is a table giving the name of each number. This map is interesting and useful in furnishing one with the geography of the lake, and prospective vacationists and New Hampshire enthusiasts should send six cents in stamps to the General Passenger Department, Boston & Maine Railroad, Boston, for it.

Whooping Cough.

"In the spring of 1902 my children had whooping cough," says Mrs. D. W. Carver, of Capps, Ala. "I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy with the most satisfactory results. I think this is the best remedy I have ever seen for whooping cough. This remedy keeps the cough loose, lessens the severity and frequency of the coughing spells and counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. For sale by O'Connor's Pharmacy."

W. A. A. Beaten.

The W. A. A. base ball team have met their Waterloo at the hands of the Aberjona team. There were three pitchers that twirled for the W. A. A. in the game this week. Coty, Cox and Foley—the three being batted out very badly. Harry Briggs twirled for the Aberjona's, and has the remarkable record of striking out 17 of the 27 men at the bat. Buller could not play on account of his finger, and if he had played the score would have been much larger.

Briggs, Happy, Higgins and Chalk excelled for Aberjona, while Maw, Hanlon and Nickolson excelled for the W. A. A. There were several brilliant plays, the best being that of Adam Hamilton, who made a triple play with the help of Connors and Chalk.

The Aberjona is a good team and would like games with any team under fifteen years of age. Their ages are from nine to twelve. Manager, Moran, Swanton street; captain, Shaughnessy, Lockman street.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and if not cured it may result in deafness. The result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be forever lost. Other cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness caused by catarrh that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Parish of the Epiphany.

The sacrament of infant baptism will be administered at the service at 4 p. m. Sunday, June 5.

There will be a talk on Confirmation on Thursday afternoon at the church at 4 p. m.

The Bishop comes to the parish on Friday, June 3, for the service of confirmation at 5 p. m.

The annual commencement of the Theological school at Cambridge comes Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. The preacher at the five o'clock service is the Rev. Charles Hall, Perry of Cambridge, and at the ordination Wednesday morning, the preacher will be the Rev. Logan Herbert Root, of Hancock, China.

Cross Street Baptist Church.

Last Sunday the rally was held instead of on the fifth Sunday. The services were very spiritual and inspiring. Rev. Mr. Harrell of Cambridge, preached a fine sermon at the three o'clock meeting. Subject, "Come and See a Man." The attendance at the evening was very good.

On Sunday Mr. C. H. Johnson and the choir will go to the St. Stephens Baptist Church to take charge of the services.

The Lincoln Sophomore club held a parlor social at the home of Mr. W. M. Russell on Winchester street last week Thursday evening. The social was to help raise money to pay for base ball uniforms. The evening was spent in a most delightful manner.

Miss Jessie Harrell, the organist of the church, is now confined to her bed with a severe cold.

The Lincoln Sophomore club is working hard to have a good base ball team. On the 30th they will play the Vesper club of Woburn. They have beaten this team every game but one, and this year they are in hopes of taking every game.

Some of the boys have got tired of seeing Mr. Johnson walking so much and through their kindness they are going to present him with a bicycle.

Mr. P. D. Russell has moved to Woburn for the summer where he will work at his business as a stone mason.

Rheumatic Pains Relieved.

The prompt relief from the severe pains of sciatica and rheumatism which is afforded by Chamberlain's Pain Balm, is gone worth many times its cost. Mr. Willard C. Vail, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., writes: "I am troubled with rheumatism and neuralgia of the nerves and Chamberlain's Pain Balm gives relief quicker than any I have ever used." For sale by O'Connor's Pharmacy.

ARLINGTON H. S. 14 WINCHESTER H. S. 2

Winchester High School was defeated by the Arlington team in a one sided game, in Arlington Tuesday.

Winchester took a slump and played poorly throughout. Hicks was in the box for Arlington and had the best of it. Only four hits were made off him to twelve off Sullivan, and he fanned eleven men to Sullivan's eight. Sullivan's support in the field was wretched and although Winchester hit the ball, at times, when hits were needed, none were forthcoming.

King Edward as Mediator.

The report that King Edward of England has deliberately towarded his good offices as a mediator in the war between Russia and Japan and that Lord Nicholas has indicated that such mediation would be accepted is interesting and significant and may prove to be extremely important.

As the titular head of the leading and most powerful European government the king of England is well fitted for such a peace mission. He is peculiarly situated with reference to the rulers of Europe, being the uncle by marriage of the czar of Russia, Nicholas II, the brother of the dowager empress of Germany and uncle of the emperor, Wilhelm II, and son-in-law of the king of Denmark, whose family is closely connected with both Russia and Germany. While his age he is still vigorous and in a natural position with his neighbors, the czar and the emperor, he is still in the possession of his physical and mental powers and has the advantage of long years of personal intimacy with them during which he is reputed to have won their affection and respect, a fact that may well be one of his greatest assets as the sovereign of a mighty and worldwide dominion. Though he may not direct the policy of his government, he can influence it indirectly and can very effectively cooperate with it. He has a broad and intimate knowledge of the affairs of all the nations with which he is connected through his family. He has also the reputation of being a fair and just man, a man of calm and steady temperament, with no suspicion of weakness in his attachment to the honor of the interests of his own people. What such a man in such a position may feel and think and do is likely to have a substantial and even decisive influence on the course of events.

While the interests of Great Britain and Russia may clash at various points, there does not seem to be any such irreconcilable difference between the national aims and purposes of the two powers as would forbid an understanding between them. The essential objective of Russia has been for several generations access to the ocean highway, or the right through ports not frozen half the year, preferably through the Mediterranean, with possession or control of Constantinople, the first seat of the empire of the east and the birthplace of the Greek church. Motives of interest and religion combine to make this the strongest national desire of the Russians. Their failure to accomplish it has been largely due to British opposition, which has been inspired through fear of Russia's interference with Great Britain's interests in Asia. If now British opposition to Russia's possession of a Mediterranean port were withdrawn, the latter would no longer be willing to forego her possession of Manchuria and an open port on the Yellow sea, which are essentially the things Russia is fighting for in the far east and which Japan so strenuously objects to her having. If Russia were enabled thus to reach the sea in the far east she would undoubtedly be glad to withdraw from the far east.

Some such arrangement as this would settle at once the questions of the orient and the Levant which have for generations vexed the statesmen of Europe. Of course it could only be done through the safeguarding of the essential interests of all parties. For Great Britain the first necessity is an adequate guarantee of her position in India. A second and hardly less important necessity is the security of her trade, present and future, in the Chinese dominion. For Japan the prime necessity is absolute safety for her island empire, which is menaced by Russian control of Manchuria and a fortified port on the Yellow sea. Security as to India is the crux of the situation. It must of course be adequate. With this assurance Great Britain could look with complacency upon Russian occupancy of Constantinople. If it be possible to safeguard all the interests involved, such a settlement would bring peace and honor to all. If it is toward such a settlement as this that King Edward is working, the whole world has reason to wish him success. It is a great and difficult task, but it is not impossible of accomplishment.

It is apparent that Abdul Hamid means to carry out his Macedonian reforms, pledges in about the same way as Russia meant to carry out her pledge to leave Manchuria.

New Ship Warning System.

In the ship warning system of F. E. Kelway signals by horizontal waves are sent out from the lighthouses at regular intervals at the same times as the sound warnings. A vessel in range having a receiver notes the time that passes between receiving the wireless signal and the sound warning and is thus enabled to calculate its distance from the lighthouse, and on repeating the observation after continuing a few miles data are obtained for ascertaining the exact location of the lighthouse by trigonometry. A stop watch reading directly in distance and a special position finder have been devised for use with the system.

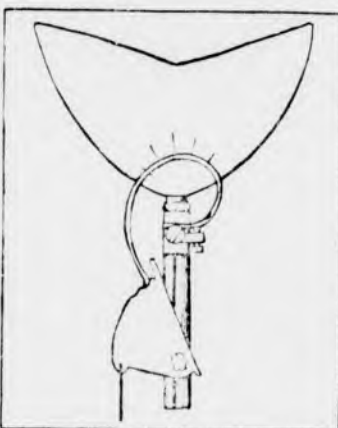

According to a recent supreme court decision, books are not second class matter. Most of them are not.

SAFETY GAS BURNER.

A Device For the Absentminded Who Blows Out the Light.

It seems to be the rule that no matter how perfect an invention may seem to be when it is completed and put to practical use, it will at some time in the future need revising or perhaps will be discarded altogether for some other device which is either more economical or increases the limit of safety. Thus the old slotted gas burner answered its purpose for a time and is still used to no inconsiderable extent, but a more economical light can be obtained by limiting the flow and using the decreased quantity to incandesce the fragile mantle.

Then, too, the slotted burner was perfectly safe as long as the old style of meter was used, which registered the quantity of gas consumed, but with the introduction of the prepayment meter, when the flow stops when the quarters worth of gas has been consumed, leaving the valves all open and ready to pour forth the deadly fumes when no money is inserted in the slot, there is a new problem for the inventor to solve. It has already been dealt with several times, and the idea here shown, for which we are indebted to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, is but another method of cutting off the flow as soon as the flame is extinguished from any cause.

The curved spring extending in proximity to the flame bends downward and engages the segment member on the valve, preventing its movement as long as the heat keeps the spring expanded. As soon as the heat is withdrawn, however, this spring contracts and permits the segment to close the valve under the impulse of a smaller spring on the valve stem.

A western poet has coined the name "balloomania" to take the place of the classical "fan." Lovers of the great national game will regard this as a foul hit. Besides, fan is shorter and more accurate. It is a hot air proposition; it agitates the atmosphere, and it is breezy. Now, the baseball enthusiast is all these—and more.

Are You Contemplating Going South or Investing Money There.

We advise any of our readers who contemplate going south for the winter and want to rent a furnished cottage or secure board in hotel, boarding house or private family, or are desirous of investing money down there, to first write Mr. John T. Patrick, Pinebluff, N. C. Mr. Patrick has made a specialty of furnishing information to Northern people who want to find winter homes or to those who desire to loan money down there on mortgages. He is a man that can be relied upon to give honest information, and to protect the interests of those who trust their money to his care. Recently one of our readers asked Mr. Patrick to give reference as to his character and business ability, and he furnished the names of the Chief Justice of his state, Judge Walter Clark, Raleigh, N. C., and the Editor of the leading daily in the state, the News & Observer, Mr. Josephus Daniels, Raleigh, and the Editor in chief of the Boston Transcript, Mr. H. H. Clement, and these men said in reply that whatever Mr. Patrick said could be relied upon. Therefore it will pay you to write Mr. Patrick before you locate, and let him have money to loan, secure his assistance to get the highest rate of interest on good first-class mortgages down south where the people pay more interest than is paid up here.

The furnace room contains two immense boilers of 150 horse power combined, which will furnish over 400 feet of heating required for the entire building. The coal bin is within easy reach of the furnace, also the supply of wood, while close by is the elevator for raising the ashes to ground level. For the convenience of the janitor there is a telephone connecting with the office of the principal and from there communicating with every room in the building. In an adjoining room is a 6 horse power fan, eight feet in diameter, driven electrically, to force pure air into the many rooms. The ventilation is up to date in every particular, and a great deal of thought has been devoted to this important matter. The heat enters from the wall near the ceiling, and the foul air passes through ventilators near the floor of the rooms and is carried off,—a system the reverse of what has been the custom. The large switch board, controlling all the lights is in the basement, while altogether there are 2400 lights in the building. The power for the

On June 9th, 1922, two nearly two years ago, an appropriation of $10,000 was made for this purpose, and a committee of seven was appointed to take charge of the work. Two able members of this committee declined to serve, and a third left the state before active work has begun, so that only four of the committee as appointed, served through to the end.

As we were empowered to fill vacancies, we invited first of all Mr. D. B. Blodger to act with us, and he has served from the first meeting to the last, acting as chairman for four months and adding great strength to all our deliberations by his practical knowledge of building and his great personal interest in this particular work. Both he and Mr. Corey had only recently been on the committee to study the W. H. Right, and that experience was of great value to the town in planning and executing the work in hand.

The town was also fortunate in having

This afternoon at his camp home services were held for Mr. Alvin D. Elliott, one of the pioneers in shoe machinery industry, who died May 28th, as the result of an illness of six months duration during which time he suffered greatly. The remains were interred in the family lot in Tyler Cemetery. Services were conducted by the Rev. L. Lotrop of Contonook assisted by his daughter, who sang several selections. Mr. G. H. Vose, Superintendent of the McKay Department Factory, Winchester, representing the factory and Mr. John E. Glidden representing the Boston office of the same company, Mr. C. N. Perkins of Bethany Commandery, Knight Templars and W. Bro. Thomas Lund of Tuscan Lodge A. F. M. were bearers.

Flowers: Cross and crown, Bethany Commandery; oval arch from Mt. Sinai Chapter; square and compass from Tuscan Lodge; A. F. & A. M.

A special meeting of the First Congregational Society was held Tuesday evening at the church. A. S. Hall, Esq., was the moderator. The following business was transacted:

Such players as Pond, Barta and Badger cannot afford to countenance such tactics by any other member of the team. OBSERVER.

The service last Sunday was conducted in the morning by the pastor, who preached a very interesting sermon. At 3 o'clock Rev. Mr. Brown of Boston conducted the service, preaching a very able sermon. In the evening a very interesting talk was heard from Warren M. Poorman of Boston, who took great delight in explaining the scripture. Mitchell—Bagley

An exceedingly pretty home wedding opened the series of June nuptials in this town Wednesday afternoon, when the marriage of Miss Amy Campbell Bagley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Bagley, and Mr. Chauncey Leeds Mitchell, son of Rev. and Mrs. Charles L. Mitchell, took place at the home of the bride's parents.

The ceremony was performed at 1 o'clock, the bride, Miss Amy Campbell Bagley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Bagley, groom, and Rev. D. Augustine Newton, pastor of the First Congregational church. The ceremony was witnessed by about 50 intimate friends and relatives, following which there was a reception attended by a large number of guests from Winchester and other places.

The bride, handsomely attired in white crepe de chine and carrying a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley, was given away by her father. The maid of honor was Miss Bertina A. Bagley, sister of the bride, and the groom was attended by John Tenney, Jr., of Germantown, Penn. The bridesmaids, Misses Lillie C. Mitchell, sister of the groom, and Annie Louise Patrick of Portland, were attired in pink organde and carried bouquets of sweet peas. The maid of honor wore white organde.

When Mr. P. W. Swan made the statement at the annual town meeting that he witnessed thousands of brown tail moths crossing the street near his residence last summer, many of his hearers were of the opinion that he was telling a yarn. Mr. Swan, however, did not exaggerate. He told the truth, as a similar scene was witnessed this week and last on Lebanon street and in that vicinity on Highland avenue. After devouring every vestige of foliage on a number of apple trees in the field adjoining Lebanon street, the host of brown tail moths started across Ritey got out his hose and kept a stream of water running, thinking to cheer their onward march, but it was of no use. The moths got there just the same. Town Warden Chamberlain has repeatedly sounded the note of warning and did what he could for the town trees. But owners of trees neglected to heed his advice and the result appears to be that town is now in a worse condition than last year. What will be the condition next year.

On Sunday morning we observe the 100th anniversary of the dedication of our house of worship, which was dedicated June 9th, 1854, free of debt. The Rev. Henry Hinckley of Cambridge who was pastor then, and the Rev. Geo. Weston of Medford, who also participated in the service of dedication, are expected to be present.

Winchester Canoeists Attend Meet.

Eight members of the Winchester Boat Club attended the A. C. A. meet at Manchester, N. H., held on Saturday and Monday last. The aggregation captured two second prizes and a third, besides having a most pleasurable outing.

The party comprised: Waldo Mans

Seley and John Brazier. In the first race, Manson, Hyde, Newman and Seley captured the third prize, and the tandem race Pratt and Newman took second prize. Pratt showed up remarkably strong in the single single and took second prize. The boys say the meet was the most successful and enjoyable they ever attended.

Messrs. John Rice and Herbert Voss of this town, attended the meet with a qualified Pratt Club delegation.

NOW FOR THE BREAKFAST.

An Appetizing Course of Substantial Food for 25cts.

The Ladies Who will Serve the 1400 or More Guests Saturday Morning.

The arrangements have all been completed for the annual June Breakfast to be given for the benefit of the Visiting Nurse Association, and it is safe to predict that those persons who partake of the wholesome food that will be served will not do so again for the next twelve months at the extremely low price of 25 cents. Just read what the bill of fare will include: Bananas, triscuit, shredded wheat, cooked cereal, eggs cooked in a variety of ways, baked beans, brown bread, cold meats, ham, tongue, rolls, coffee, chocolate, tea, doughnuts and cheese and, well, we can go no further for want of space in our columns. It will be worth a quarter to be privileged to be waited on by the young ladies, let alone the excellent breakfast. The committee of arrangements and those who will have charge of the tables are as follows:

AUTOMOBILE TRAIN.

Colonel Renard's New Railless Railroad Successfully Tested.

Richard Guenther, United States colonel general at Frankfurt, Germany, sends to the state department an account of a very practical automobile train, an invention of the well known Colonel Renard of Paris, who has already won fame on account of solving problems with reference to dirigible balloons.

The characteristic feature of this train is the principle that each car propels itself. The propelling force only is furnished by the locomotive. The latter, therefore, as it has no pulling to perform, but only to supply power, can be built proportionately very light.

Experiments have demonstrated that a light car with a fifty or sixty horse power engine, weighing at the most only 3,300 pounds, can move a train of twenty tons weight over ordinary country roads at a speed of about sixteen miles an hour. The invention of Colonel Renard excels also on account of its being easily steered and, above all, by the fact that the separate cars take all turns "correctly," as Colonel Renard calls it—i. e., they closely follow the direction taken by the locomotive, no matter how sharp the curves may be.

Such a train can be operated in the narrowest and crookedest streets without danger. It deserves the name "tram road, with fictitious rails."

This new train is liable to be very useful for military as well as for industrial purposes and for transportation of passengers and freight.

A New Nile Dam.

So successful has been the workings of the great Assuan dam of the Nile, which irrigates 500,000 acres of land, that plans are now being laid to build another on the site of the Wady Rayan, a deep and broad ravine in the great oasis of Fayum. If a dam be built there 1,500,000 additional acres of land will be opened to regular cultivation, which would supply all the needs within the bounds of Egypt proper. To carry out this plan it would be necessary to raise the Assuan dam twenty feet, and the total cost would be about $12,500,000. It is calculated that such a dam would add $800,000,000 to the assets of Egypt, raising the annual cotton crop to 100,000,000 pounds.

A Great Lake Steamship.

The steamship building at the Lorain 100 yards of the American Ship-building company for the Acme Steamship company, which will be the largest freighter on fresh water, will be named Augustus R. Wolvin. She will cost about $470,000. She will be 500 feet over all, 540 feet keel, 56 feet beam and 32 feet deep. She will have quadruple expansion engines, cylinders 18½, 28½, 43½ and 61 inches, with 42 inch stroke. Steam will be furnished by two Babcock & Wilcox boilers, to be fitted with induced draft. The boilers will be allowed 250 pounds pressure. The new ship will carry 10,000 gross tons.

You'll find it is many times as expensive as Jaynes' Cedar Lavender Compound. Compare the results of packing away your Furs, Rugs, Blankets, Winter Clothing with Cedar Lavender Compound and you will find that it is far more dependable than Camphor or any other preparation.

We have never heard of a Moth—or signs of Moths—being found when Cedar Lavender was used. The fumes of Cedar Lavender are more powerful than Camphor, and not so easily dissipated—penetrate every recess, destroy the moths and eggs where they are, and kill newcomers before they reach the spot.

Cedar Lavender is a constant protection. If used at time of packing away clothing in trunks or chests you will never worry over the appearance of a moth or find the slightest injury to your effects.

The war in the East has largely increased the price of Camphor. One pound of Cedar Lavender will do the work of three pounds of camphor—at much less expense.

Cedar Lavender Compound is the best moth killer money can buy.

Try it now. We guarantee entire satisfaction. If Jaynes' Cedar Lavender Compound does not destroy moths and their eggs bring us the empty package and get your money back. 15c. a pound package.

JAYNES' CEDAR LAVENDER COMPOUND

Jaynes' quality is highest quality. Prices are lowest. All our goods are sold direct from wholesale or manufacturer to consumer—you save from 25 to 35 per cent. every day on every purchase you make at Jaynes' and are guaranteed satisfaction or your money back.

Steady Increase of Evaporation Over Precipitation in Asia.

A new field of investigation has been opened up by Prince Kropotkin. He finds evidence in central Asia that the whole vast region has been steadily drying up since the first historical records, and the evaporation now greatly exceeds precipitation, with the result that the deserts are rapidly extending, while life and agriculture are possibly only near the rain making mountains. The destruction of forests is insufficient to account for the drying up of lake systems and rivers. He concludes that the desiccation going on over the whole surface of Europe and Asia, more especially in the northern and more elevated portions, has continued since the glacial epoch and that we are living in a geological epoch as marked by desiccation, as was the glacial epoch by an increasing precipitation. Tree-planting on a large scale and the sinking of artesian wells are suggested as means of combating the coming drought.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know it.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also evidence of the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and leading pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail, address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Home of Swamp-Root, Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Gifts to the New High School Building.

It was to be expected that the delicate exercises at the new High School Building this week would excite a very laudable curiosity on the part of our people to learn still more details concerning the numerous gifts which have been actually given or promised the school by sundry kindly disposed and generous-hearted citizens. Brief mention in this connection can only be made of the munificent gifts of the complete furnishings of the school library by Mr. Lewis Parkhurst; of the magnificent giant plaster statue of Caesar by Mr. Edwin Ginn; of a splendid upright grand piano by Mr. Handel Pond and several pieces of costly apparatus for the gymnasium with other donations by Mr. Daniel B. Badger. Other gifts of a somewhat less value in the shape of cash, books, casts, pictures and other much needed donations have been either received or promised. The names of all these donors with some details of their gifts will be given to the public through our local columns at some later date. Meanwhile it is to be hoped that the contagion will spread itself until every good citizen will become inoculated with an earnest desire to bestow such a donation from his means as he can best afford. The school committee can ill afford any money from its appropriation for ornamental furnishings. Such things usually come as the spontaneous offerings of well-to-do and generous men and women who are deeply interested in the higher education of their young people. Of such people this town has probably a larger quota than other towns of its size in the commonwealth. Thus far, the people of Winchester have responded freely, promptly and generously. Let the good work go on until every man and woman has made a gift commensurate with his or her resources. We are assured that any gift, however small, that is suitable for the adornment of the building will be gratefully received by those who have the matter in charge. If one is in doubt about the kind of a suitable gift, a bank bill will make an excellent substitute and will be thankfully acknowledged.

The Dedication Exercises.

It was most fitting that the dedication exercises of last evening should be of the simplest and yet of a dignified character. It certainly reflected the wishes and disposition of those who arranged and carried out the several parts of the program. It was no time or occasion for fulsome oratory or long harangues. The several speakers were business men who had a pleasing duty to perform, and they did it in a business-like manner. All was in excellent taste and harmony. It is a matter of deep regret that five times as many of our people could not have been accommodated with seats to listen with comfort to this most significant ceremony. As this was, of course, out of the question, those who were fortunate enough to obtain seats and a standing place in the beautiful assembly hall were richly repaid for their patient waiting. Thus has been transferred to our honored School Committee, the care and responsibility of handling this costly and beautiful school building. Doubtless they will accept the trust thus given them by their fellow citizens and manage it with the same wisdom, faithfulness and zeal with which they have labored to bring our schools to a higher plane of usefulness.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING.

In this committee two members, officially connected with the schools at the present time, so that the demands of the School Department from the practical, every-day standpoint were constantly before us.

We invited several other gentlemen to serve with us, but for one reason or another all declined and we concluded to go on with only five active members.

With our committee organized, some five months were given up to visiting schools, consulting plans, selecting an architect and concluding in our own minds what the real demands of the town called for, considering not only present needs but looking well into the future. Probably our most important, as well as most difficult, work was completed before any one outside of our number realized that we had made even a beginning.

The demands of a modern high school are many and of great variety. To furnish a building that should comply with them all, and of such proportions as befit a prominent location as the one selected, all to be done within a certain specified sum of money, we found to be a problem not easy to solve.

From the outset the different members worked in perfect harmony. In the seventy odd meetings which are recorded in the secretary's book, no matter how much at variance we were at first, after a full discussion, our votes have always been unanimous. One of the pleasantest recollections which I shall always have of this work will be the uniform courtesy shown by the members of our committee each to the other, from the first meeting to the last. I cannot recall in the entire two years an unkind word, or a single unpleasant incident, connected with our oftentimes long extended discussions.

Through the generosity and thoughtfulness of a former citizen this slightly location, excelled by none and equalled by few in the Commonwealth, was furnished free of expense to the town, and that this fact may never be forgotten as long as this building shall stand, a suitable tablet has been placed in the vestibule below.

In a competition participated in by several of Boston's most successful architects the plans of Mr. H. D. Hale were accepted as best suited to our needs. His education in architecture both in this country and abroad and recent experience in building a large high school made him eminently well qualified to direct this work, and the result of his studies speaks for itself and need no commendation of mine.

Of the general contractors, H. P. Cummings & Company, I cannot speak too highly, and in this age when we hear so much of sham work and a desire to evade responsibility, it is a real pleasure to testify to the faithful performance of all their obligations. In the quality of material and thoroughness of construction they have given us all that their contract called for and given it willingly.

The plumbing, so important a feature of any building, has been most thoroughly and acceptably installed by our townsman, Mr. Laraway, under the careful supervision of Mr. D. W. Pratt, who has also been responsible for the grading plans, which all agree have added so much to the general appearance of the work.

Where all our mechanics and workmen have been so faithful, it is perhaps unfair to particularize, but I cannot allow this opportunity to pass without especially commending the work of our fellow citizen, Mr. Fitzgerald, who has done all of the excavating and grading throughout the progress of the work. He has been of great assistance to the committee, and by his cooperation has been the means of saving a large sum of money to the town, oftentimes making expensive changes which his contract did not call for, without additional charge, whenever by so doing the general effect would be improved, thus proving himself a public spirited citizen in the truest sense of the term.

But why, let me ask, has this town been to this great expense? Is it that we may boast of a better building than our neighbors? Is it because a good education cannot be obtained in a poor schoolhouse? By no means. As the teacher, so is the school, as true today as it ever was. But it is also true that a well lighted, well ventilated and beautiful building is an inspiration and encouragement to both teachers and pupils, and such surroundings as are here afforded must have a wholesome influence in developing both mind and body.

When I was in Mexico, some two or three years ago, I was much impressed by the fact that in the whole length of that great country I did not see a single schoolhouse from the car window. No doubt there were schools there, but they were somewhere in the background in inconspicuous buildings. The moment we crossed the river into the great state of Texas, there on the top of the hill, in every village and hamlet was the school house with the flag of our country floating proudly over it. And what a difference in the character of the places and the people! On the one side ignorance and poverty; on the other intelligence and prosperity; and as one journey through the length and breadth of this mighty land of ours, he can but be amazed at the number and magnificence of our school buildings.

As a nation we believe in schools. They are the very foundation and corner stone of our national existence and the only guaranty of a Republican form of government; and we, the citizens of Winchester, have erected this expensive building, not only to meet the actual needs of our children, but as a monument to the educational sentiment of our day and generation, to show to all corners that next to honesty and upright living, we prize intellectual attainment and are willing to be taxed and taxed heavily if need be so that every boy and girl in this community may have the opportunity to secure the blessings of a good education and so become stronger and better men and women. And here, to this most expensive building in the town, may come the children of the poor as well as of the rich; the same teachers, the same text books, the same privileges of all kinds, are afforded the one as the other, the only requirement being that each shall do his duty. The High School has come to be in reality the college of the people.

The honored Governor of this Commonwealth, in commenting somewhat unfavorably upon certain financial plans for paying for this building, said that the life of a school building was not likely to be much more than twenty years; but I cannot believe that his Excellency had in mind just the kind of a building which we proposed to erect in Winchester. Last summer it was my privilege to visit the old town of Winchester, England, where is located one of the three great fitting schools of that country, and I was interested to note that one of the buildings still used by the boys every day of the school year was built over 350 years ago. While we do not expect this building to last as long as that, we do believe that, barring accident, long after the last bond issued for its construction has been paid, it will remain a valuable asset of the community.

The work of your committee is finished. Our contracts are completed, all bills due are paid; and the building will be finished and furnished within the appropriation made by the town for this purpose. Whatever of knowledge, whatever of ability, whatever of experience, whatever of judgment and common sense, we have possessed, individually and collectively, that we have gladly contributed to the prosecution of this work, we have done our best, and our only wish is that our mistakes may be overlooked and that this building may serve the purposes for which it was intended to the satisfaction of our fellow citizens.

To you sir, the Chairman of the Selectmen, representing the Town, we pass over the keys of this building, and with them return to the town the trust imposed upon us.

May God bless the public schools of Winchester!

REMARKS OF SELECTMAN CARTER.
Mr. John H. Carter, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, made the following brief remarks on the acceptance of the building by the town:

In receiving these keys, I desire to thank, on behalf of the town, the High School Building Committee for the arduous and important services it has performed and to congratulate it upon the successful consummation of its labors and the completion of this noble building with so much credit to all concerned. The task has been no light one, but from first to last the committee has had the entire confidence of the town, and the result proves that it was in no way misplaced. In handing these keys over to the School Committee we know the school will be kept worthy of the house and to the glory of the town and the Commonwealth. Mr. Chairman of the School Committee I hand to you, on behalf of the town the keys of the Winchester High School House.

ADDRESS OF CHAIRMAN CURRIER.
Mr. Charles F. A. Currier, chairman of the School Board, in accepting the keys from Selectmen Carter, spoke as follows:

ADDRESS OF CHAIRMAN CURRIER.
Fifty-six years ago this month, about two years before the incorporation of Winchester, Cambridge dedicated a High School building. The orator of the occasion was Edward Everett, who subsequently became a resident of this town. It is hardly necessary to sketch for this audience the life of the most distinguished citizen of Winchester in all its history; you must already be so familiar with his public career that it will suffice to recall it in briefest outline.

Edward Everett graduated from Harvard College with highest honors at the age of seventeen, and when twenty-one years old was elected Professor of Greek. He served his college as Professor, and later as President; he served his State as Governor, as member of the national House of Representatives, and as United States Senator. He served his country as Minister to England, and as Secretary of State in succession to Daniel Webster. He served mankind as a writer of elegant English, and as a polished orator.

It is interesting and suggestive to inquire into the views of education entertained by a man of Everett's breadth and depth of scholarship, who was pre-eminent as statesman, diplomat, educator, and orator, and who was, in the words of one critic, "a remarkable example of an almost universal culture." More than once in his published works are his ideas set forth. At the dedication exercises in Cambridge, using language similar to that employed by him elsewhere, and therefore presumably embodying his settled convictions, he said: "I hold that to read the English language well, that is, with intelligence, feeling, spirit, and effect; to write with despatch a neat, handsome, legible hand; and to be master of the four rules of arithmetic, so as to dispose at once with accuracy of every question of figures which comes up in practical life,—I say I call this a good education; and if you add the ability to write pure grammatical English, I regard this as an excellent education. These are the tools. You can do much with them, but you are helpless without them. These are the foundations; and unless you begin with these, all your flashy attainments, all your natural philosophy and a little mental philosophy, a little physiology and a little zoology, and all the otherologies and oologies, are but ostentatious rubbish."

To my mind, the opinion thus expressed a half century ago is equally sound today. Does such a standard seem low? Does it seem to limit and narrow the scope of the work of the High School? Not at all. We shall still go on performing our threefold duty: prepare candidates for higher institutions of learning; provide those that wish it with an equipment which will enable them to become at once self-supporting and furnish a good general education to such as have no immediate specific object in view. In whatever contributes to one or all of these ends, the High School must not be found wanting. At the same time let us not lose sight of the fact that while we may forget the Greek grammar, the mathematical formulae, and the chemical reactions, every day of our lives we shall use the English language.

In so far as the study of ancient and modern languages, mathematics, science and other subjects, widens our intellectual horizon, broadens our interests and sympathies, and furnishes mental and moral discipline, to that degree are these studies profitable, even though the book-knowledge has passed forever from us. And every one of these subjects, moreover, if properly taught, can also be made to promote the cause of English, as well as add to the enjoyment of all that makes life worth living. In brief, it is the duty of all our schools, the grammar grades as well as the High School, to teach our children to think straight, to write clearly and understandingly, and to speak effectively; in other words, to secure a command of the mother-tongue.

Secondly, there is one other obligation on the schools that is perhaps of equal importance—the development of character; and yet how slight is the chance enjoyed by the school as compared with the influences of the home, of the church, and of one's associates! In one portion of this large field, however, the school possesses a certain advantage, and that is in what is rather vaguely denominated preparation for good citizenship. If the study of history for eight or ten years in the schools is to amount to anything, it must mean something more than learning a certain quantity of more or less disconnected facts; it must develop an intelligent interest in the problems of government. Let us, however, guard the members of the rising generation against spending all their energies in unrestrained enthusiasm over national and state politics; let them devote a generous share of their strength and zeal to a study of the organization and mechanism of their own town or city government, and to the manifold interests of the community in which they live, where every one of them, women and men alike, may exert a perceptible and positive influence for good.

We cannot tarry ask parents, as a rule, to supplement, in the home, our instruction in the school, in Latin and Greek, French and German, mathematics and science, but we may reasonably ask you to join with us in encouraging in our boys and girls a love for good literature and the use of good English, as well as a genuine concern for good government, and a determination to labor for its attainment.

Realizing the complexity and the seriousness of its obligations in the performance of the duties committed to it, the School Committee accepts this building as the material expression of an educational trust to be sacredly administered. This structure, simple, rich, and dignified in its architectural proportions, of honest and durable construction, and planned to meet every reasonable need, should be a stimulus to teachers and pupils alike in the accomplishment of the noblest results. And upon you, our fellow citizens, we shall expect to rely in the future, as we have been able to rely in the past, for well-directed co-operation, for wise counsel and friendly criticism, and for abundant charity when we fail to attain the ideals which we are striving to reach. As we all thus work together, we can provide for our beautiful and beloved town what it should have and may have, what its generosity in the appropriation of money for the support of schools entitles it to demand—one of the best High Schools in the Commonwealth.

DEDICATORY HYMN.

The following original dedicatory hymn, written by Rev. William I. Lawrence, was then sung:

"Let there be light! 'Tis Creative word,
Through chaos and dark night it rang;
The heavenly spaces gladly heard,
The morning stars together sang."

Let there be light! In every age,
As man has sought the right and true,
Led by the prophet, bard and sage,
New vistas opened to his view;

And light has streamed upon the way
Man's feet in hope and fear have trod,
Light, growing to the perfect day,
The day of truth, peace, justice, God.

O Thou, who spake the enlightening word,
To Thee this shrine of truth we raise;
Here wisdom's voice be ever heard,
Here, for Thy truth, the voice of praise.

And Thou, the way, the life, the truth,
Guide those who here shall teach aright;
With wisdom gird our generous youth,
And haste the day when all is right.

—TAMM, HURLEY.

ADDRESS OF ARTHUR H. RUSSELL.
Arthur H. Russell, Esq., the last speaker, was then introduced, and spoke as follows:

I have nothing new in thought, or novel in conception, to present to you tonight. In the few moments I shall occupy, much, it not all that I shall say will be trite and commonplace, perhaps uninteresting or even wearying to you, yet I feel that it will not be a mistake for us at this time to hark back to first principles, to reiterate those sturdy aspirations which have ever found place in New England minds, and which under more careful cultivation and a wider and broader outlook towards ultimate results, are to-day reaching fuller fruition.

We may start with the broad principle as old as thought,—that knowledge is power. All noble and great action is born of good thinking. The power of learning and the fact of learning is all that differentiates man from his animal contemporaries. In the struggle of life, whatever our surroundings intellectually, we must start from the low point. As well expressed by a recent writer, "All intelligence requires development. The highest profits by it, the lowest is helpless without it."

Even could we suppose an Adam launched into the world in full power, "falling panoplied like Minerva from the brain of Jove," he must have had much to learn. He had to meet the difficulty. Each newcomer has the same, but to each newcomer those who have gone before offer education, the bringing out, the leading forth of what is to be found in the individual. I think it is Herbert Spencer who says, "The end of education is character building," and we may add that character, "character," that which is engraved, cut in, is the cornerstone of success.

The world always has been, always will be governed by the intelligent, the thinking,—in other words, men of character, "that estimate attached to the individual by the community," says Wharton, the great law writer.

If the proposition be true, and no American can doubt it, that all men are born free and equal, then it must follow that all are entitled to the benefits of education, to character building, as they are entitled to an equal right in the sunlight and in the pursuit of happiness. What a grand phrase that is!

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

It may interest you to know that in the original draft of the Declaration this statement is put in even stronger terms. For the word "self-evident" we find the word "sacred"; so that it reads,—"We hold these truths to be sacred"; and the phrase "are endowed by their Creator" was, as originally drafted, a sequence to the statement that all men were created equal, reading,—

"And that from that equal creation they derived rights inherent and inalienable, among which are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

In either form the conclusion is incontestable and should be and is binding upon us. It is our task to see to it that in the pursuit of happiness the building up of character should hold a large place, and if education is "character building," then each new member of our community born free and equal, and from that equal creation deriving rights inherent and inalienable, is entitled to the benefits of education.

Education is as old as man, but it has been for the classes, confined to the few, and specialized; among the ancients tending largely to philosophy; among the Greeks, to art; among the Romans, to military science. It is the glory of our day that it is open and free to all. Education exalts the individual even as "righteousness exalteth a nation." An illiterate people are a people of "hewers of wood and drawers of water" exploited and governed by the few for the benefit of the few.

No child, for its own well-being or that of the community, should be allowed to grow up illiterate. With what force this comes home to us when we read the statement of a distinguished lecturer at the recent session of the American Social Science Association, that one million five hundred thousand of the men who vote in this country today, according to our last census, cannot read nor write, and that the larger portion of such illiterates are native born.

Happy and wise the nation, the State, the municipality that fully realizes the great duty of education to the child, this safeguard to itself, to the State, to the nation, to the human race.

This thought brings me to my text, tonight, which, reversing the usual order of things I put near the end. It is this,—the early settlers and founders of this Commonwealth of Massachusetts were broad minded in the truest and grandest sense of that term. We hear so much about the narrowness of the men of New England, and of our Puritan ancestry, that I again repeat that in the matter of education at least, they were nobly broad. Side by side with the meeting house in every Massachusetts settlement, the schoolhouse found its place. Plain to bareness was the structure, but so were all the surroundings of life of that day.

In the Bradford history of the Plymouth plantation, two years after the landing of the Pilgrims and in the midst of almost incredible hardships of sickness, hunger and death, we find Bradford recording the fact of the desire of the community for a common school, that many were teaching their own children; that the absence of the school was due to the lack of a proper person to teach and means to pay for such teaching, and then adding the significant words,—"but we are now ready to begin."

That handful of people amid discouragements which would have overcome the courage of any other race, were ready to lay the foundation of the New England common school system. Let me call to your mind Bradford's answer made to those who objected that the dangers and difficulties to be met in their New England settlement were too great to be overcome. It is as follows:

"It was answered that all good and honorable actions are accompanied with great difficulties and must be both enterprised and overcome with answerable courage. It was granted the dangers were great, but not desperate; the difficulties were many, but not invincible;—and all of them, through ye help of God, by fortitude and patience, might either be borne or overcome; and in Massachusetts, sixteen years after the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers at Plymouth, and six years after the arrival of Winthrop at Boston, these men from their poverty agreed to give toward the foundation of a college the sum of four hundred pounds, a gift from which two years later, in connection with the bequest of John Harvard, a Puritan minister, came the beginning of Harvard College.

Plain and bare indeed were the first schoolhouses, but the merit did not consist in the plainness and bareness, as some apparently would have us think. It consisted in the fact that the schoolhouse was there at all; that in the stress and danger about them, opportunity was afforded to each and every child of the community for education, for character building.

Massachusetts and New England men recognized the great broad truth, that in education lay happiness to the individual and safety to the State, and out of their poverty they gave as their means could afford. It is the glory of New England that this is so. In the early colonial days, English commissioners for foreign plantations, seeking for information on the subject of education from the Governors respectively of the colonies in Virginia and Connecticut, received these replies. From Virginia, "I thank God there are no free schools or printing presses, and I hope we shall not have any these three hundred years." From Connecticut, "one-fourth of the annual revenue of the Colony is laid out in maintaining free schools for the education of our children."

From the beginning, education took a distinctive place in the New England Colonies, far more so than in the mother country, and as a result, James Bryce, in his "American Commonwealth" recognizes the fact that "the profusion of superior as well as elementary schools in America tends to raise the masses to a higher point than in the European countries." This fact is a result of the determination of New England men, which has to-day spread from end to end of these United States.

Coming back now to our original New England school houses, we recognize that their plainness and bareness were simply the result of the fact that the whole environment of the men of that day was poor and bare. There is no merit in plainness and bareness in itself, and if a community which has in its daily life, passed beyond the stage of plainness and bareness, continues to offer to its children only what is plain and bare, there is positive disgrace and wrong in it. The merit lies not in the poverty, but in the fact that notwithstanding the poverty, a beginning was made.

Massachusetts, with her four counties and thirty towns, her fourteen hundred freemen, established a university. Massachusetts provided that every settlement of fifty householders should provide a school where children should be taught to read and write, and every town of a hundred householders should maintain a Grammar school to fit pupils for the University. Massachusetts in her Constitution recites that the encouragement of arts and sciences and all good literature, tends to the honor of God, the advantage of the Christian religion and the great benefit of this and the other United States of America. Massachusetts in her Constitution recognizes that wisdom and knowledge are necessary for the preservation of the rights and liberties of the people, and "As these depend on spreading the opportunities and advantages of education in the various parts of the country and among the different orders of the people, it should be the duty of Legislatures and magistrates in all future periods of this Commonwealth to cherish the interests of literature and the sciences, and all seminaries of them especially the University at Cambridge, public schools and Grammar schools in the towns."

Step by step with the progress of Massachusetts towns in material prosperity, grew the character of her schools and the opportunities afforded to her youth for education. In the growing complexity of life, the problem of more complex and extended education was met. The successive generations of Massachusetts men have held true to the broad thought of their predecessors, to give of their best to their youth.

"We must move forward, and not in a circle," a suggestion, by the way, made somewhere about 1646 by the Rev. and Thomas Fuller, not in regard to schools, but to school teachers. Incidentally, he added, and it is not out of place to quote it here, speaking of the good school master,—

"He studieth scholars' natures as carefully as they were books and ranks their dispositions into several forms and makes a grammar of boys' natures. He hangs clocks on the nimbleness of his own soul that his scholars may go on with him, and never scorns at natural defects which it is not in their power to amend, adding, 'O, 'tis cruel to beat a cripple with his own crutches.'"

We, of the Massachusetts of the twentieth century, through the brave struggles and courageous forethought of our ancestors, have reached a point of material prosperity where it is our duty and our privilege to erect and dedicate to "character building" such an edifice as we occupy tonight, ample, beautiful in its enduring structure, ennobling and broadening to the mind. The uses of such a building are by no means confined to what may be done in it. The very existence of such a noble piece of an edifice in our town is a benefit to even the casual passerby, as everything in nature or in art, great, noble or beautiful, must be.

The erection and dedication of this building is a fit expression of what has been made possible in thought and action by the educational training which the early aspirations and hopes of New England men made possible. Breadth in thought, educational and religious; breadth in action, personal and as a community, is today the character of the minds trained under the system, founded by the fathers of Massachusetts.

"Yet I doubt not this thing, one more reaching purpose of mine,
And the thoughts of men are weighed with the process of the sun."

The June Breakfast

Will be served in the Town Hall between six and nine o'clock tomorrow morning. Of course you are going to the June breakfast tomorrow morning. It will be ready at six o'clock in the Town Hall and will be served from that hour until nine o'clock. For weeks the ladies connected with the Winchester Visiting Nurse Association have been hard at work getting ready for this annual event, which is more generally supported by the townspeople than any other event of the year. Many who do not happen to be members of the Association have joined with the various committees and everything is ready for tomorrow morning.

Residents of the town from one end to the other have been called upon by enthusiastic ticket sellers, or have been invited to contribute money or supplies toward the success of the breakfast. Doubtless in many instances several calls have been made at the same house and the members of the managing committee hope that no one will feel annoyed by such mistakes which are due to the enthusiasm with which everybody has worked for the success of the affair.

A year ago nearly twelve hundred people attended the breakfast, but it is expected that more than this number will be served tomorrow morning. In many homes of the town there will be no breakfast Saturday morning, but all the members of the family will go to the town hall.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets Better than a Doctor's Prescription

Mr. J. W. Turner, of Trubart, Va., says that Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets have done him more good than anything he could get from the doctor. If any physician in this country was able to compound a medicine that would produce such gratifying results in cases of stomach troubles, biliousness or constipation, his whole time would be used in preparing this one medicine. For sale by O'Connor's Pharmacy.

Successful Exhibition

The loan exhibition of portraits of Winchester people and some other pictures, closed at the Calumet Club on Friday evening last. The affair was a decided success and many viewed the fine collection of paintings and etchings. The committee in charge comprised Messrs. H. D. Murphy, W. H. W. Bicknell and E. H. Garrett. The opening and closing nights were made especially social events at the club, the tea tables being presided over by ladies of the club. On the opening night, Mrs. Samuel W. McCall and Mrs. H. D. Murphy presided, assisted by Misses Marion Gutterston, Marie Kreutz, Sadie Mills, Mary Kellogg, Bertha Smith and Louise Taylor. Mrs. George A. Woods, Mrs. George Fitch and Mrs. W. Eugene Wilde presided on the closing night, assisted by Misses Amy Woods, Margaret French, Alice Mason and Miss Dunbar and Miss Smith of Lexington. The portraits, which were hung in the club hall, comprised many very handsome pictures. Mr. Bicknell's etchings were much admired, as were the landscapes by Mr. Murphy and Mr. Garrett.

What Becomes of It

If a man eats two pounds daily, near two pounds daily must in some way pass from his body, or disease and a premature death is a speedy and inevitable result. The food that is eaten must contain the elements necessary to supply nutriment to the system and free from all substances that bind the bowels.

DR. PRICE'S WHEAT FLAKE CELERY FOOD

If eaten daily there will be a daily action of the bowels; waste removed, nutriment retained. It's Nature's food for man. Served hot or cold.

Sued by His Doctor.

"A doctor here has sued me for $12.50 which I claimed was excessive for a case of cholera morbus," says R. White, of Coahella, Cal. "At the trial he praised his medical skill and medicine. I asked him if it was not Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy he used, as I had good reason to believe it was, and he would not say under oath that it was not." No doctor could use a better remedy than this in a case of cholera morbus, it never fails. Sold by O'Connor's Pharmacy.

Mrs. Catherine Carney.

Mrs. Catherine Carney, widow of Christopher Carney, died at her home on Nelson street, Thursday morning. She was 75 years old and her death was the result of a fall two weeks ago, when she broke her hip. She is survived by her nieces, Miss Mary F. Riley, Miss A. L. Riley and Mrs. J. H. Cronin of this town.

Services will be held from St. Mary's Church this Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. The burial will be in Calvary Cemetery, Montvale.

Second Martinez Song Recital.

The second and final song recital by Madame Isidora Martinez was given on Wednesday evening at the residence of Mrs. Samuel W. McCall, Park avenue. Notwithstanding the stormy evening, a large gathering of ladies and gentlemen were present to greet Madame Martinez on her entrance to the drawing room. The programme for this recital, with two exceptions, was an entire change from the one presented last week at the residence of Mrs. Ginn. The supreme versatility of Madame Martinez was again displayed in the make up of the second programme, which included compositions by Scarlatti, Cesti, Vivaldi, Rubinstein, Wagner, Sullivan, Godard, Delbruck, Chopin-Viardot, Laseena and Salas, besides a charming "Sleepy Song" and a delightful musical setting of two stanzas of one of Longfellow's poems, her own composition. The latter song she has named "Living Poems." Three Persian songs by Rubinstein, which breathe the spirit of pure idealism in every phrase—beautifully sung by Madame Martinez—were among the many novelties of the evening. The "Cantico," by King Alfonso the Wise, and "La Mantilla de Tira," were repeated by request. At the conclusion of the program, Madame Martinez at the earnest desire of those present, sang the "Old English Cradle Song," one of the two songs of her own composition which appeared on the program of the first recital, and the "Laughing Song," which she has made famous in all parts of the world.

ST. MARY'S 8, ST. CHARLES 7.

The altar boys from St. Mary's Church of this town defeated the St. Charles altar boys of Woburn in a very close game of baseball, Monday morning. Hits were scattered on both sides and Sullivan and O'Brien did good work in the box.

J. Maguire's home run in the last of the ninth inning scored the game for Winchester. The summary—

W. H. S. 13, BROWN AND NICHOLS 3.

Winchester won its 10th victory of the season Saturday by defeating Brown and Nichols of Cambridge, on Manchester Field to the tune of 13 to 3. The home team completely out-classed the visitors in every department of the game. With one exception they fielded perfectly and touched up the visiting pitcher for 19 hits and a total of 25 bases. Sullivan was in the box for Winchester and pitched a fine game allowing the visitors only 7 scattered hits. He was perfectly supported, a feature of the game being a double play by P. Badger and Pond.

From the start Winchester took the lead, scoring 11 runs in the first four innings, while B. & N. failed to score until the fourth. Brown & Nichols scored one in the 7th and one in the 9th. Pond's three bagger was the best hit of the game, and if he had been a little faster on bases it would have been a clean home run.

Barta, P. Badger, Heath and Sullivan did the best work for Winchester while M. McDonald and Morse played best for Brown & Nichols.

WINCHESTER H.S.—12, LOWELL H.S.—2 Winchester High school won its 11th victory Monday by defeating Lowell High on Manchester field, 12 to 2. Winchester got two runs in their half of the first, on a hit and two errors while Lowell could only get one man across the rubber. Winchester got two more in the 2nd while Lowell failed to score. The home team was retired in, one, two, three order in the 3d while the visitors tallied one. This made it look interesting but in the 4th Winchester brought three men in on a single by E. Badger, a double by Sullivan and a base on balls. Winchester got three in the 6th and two in the 8th, on hits by Sullivan, O'Connor, Morse and E. Badger.

Winchester did some fine stick work getting 11 hits for a total of 13. Sullivan held the visitors down to 6 hits and although he was hit freely at times he had excellent support. Although Winchester had four errors they were all on difficult chances and did not figure as costly in the scoring. There were fully 1,000 people at the game and the team had good support. The score:

Ayer's

Why is it that Ayer's Hair Vigor does so many remarkable things? Because it is a hair food. It feeds the hair, puts new life into it. The hair cannot keep from growing. And gradually all the dark, rich color of early life comes back to gray hair.

When I first used Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair was about all gray. But now it is a nice rich black, and as thick as I could wish."—MRS. SARAH KLOPFENSTEN, Tusconia, Ark.

Triumphs of Modern Surgery.

Wonderful things are done for the human body by surgery. Organs are taken out and scraped and polished and put back, or they may be removed entirely; bones are splined; pipes (take the place of diseased sections of veins); antiseptic dressings are applied to wounds, sprains, burns and like injuries before inflammation sets in, which causes them to heal without maturation and in one-third the time required by the old treatment. Chamberlain's Pain Balm acts on this same principle. It is an antiseptic and when applied to such injuries, causes them to heal very quickly. It also allays the pain and soreness. Keep a bottle of Pain Balm in your home and it will save you time and money, not to mention the inconvenience and suffering which such injuries entail. For sale by O'Connor's Pharmacy.

A Town Meeting will be called for Monday, June 20, 1904.

Articles for the warrant must be in the hands of the Selectmen by Saturday, June 11th, at 8 o'clock p. m., at which time the warrant will be closed. BOARD OF SELECTMEN.

THE IGNORANT VOTE.

How to Eliminate It From Our Body Politic.

The only plausible argument I have ever heard against the extension of the suffrage of women is that it will increase the ignorant vote, as well as add to the intelligent vote. Yet the best way to eliminate ignorance in politics is to bestow political responsibility. Many women who today take little interest in municipal or national government would at once interest themselves in public affairs and would give more time to the study of important questions which concern the welfare of the community and fewer hours to gossip, frills and bridge whist.

Besides, the ignorant vote is not such a menace to the good government in our country as is the rich, corrupt vote. Many intelligent voters block all measures for reform and give large sums of money for bribery and corruption because of selfish, sordid personal interests.

Many of our so-called ignorant women are sufficiently intelligent to vote for their own interests, and the interests of the mother of a family are not always identical with the interests of the father. For instance, many poor, ignorant women would be glad to help abolish the large number of saloons where such a large percentage of their husbands' and sons' wages goes.

Former Governor Adams of Colorado, who recently traveled to Washington in order to give his valuable testimony in behalf of woman suffrage, said in the address he gave at the national suffrage convention that during the ten years in which women had exercised the privilege of the ballot in his state their vote had been overwhelmingly on the side of good government. The woman's vote is known to be a conscientious vote. The depraved women, he said, took no interest in the elections and had to be driven to the polls by the police. Maude Nathan, President Consumers' League, in New York Herald.

A SPLENDID WORK.

What Woman Suffrage Has Done In the Australian Commonwealth.

A lady who lives and votes and has her being in Australia, where her sex has full suffrage, lately visited America and gave some addresses. In a speech in Boston she said, "We have found it is better to fence the precipice at the top than to wait at the bottom with an ambulance." So far as working real reforms, municipal and other, the woman who cannot vote can now only wait at the bottom of the precipice with an ambulance, no matter how capable and public spirited she is. All the world lets her take care of the sick and poor. But if she had a vote she could do much to prevent sickness, crime and poverty. Meantime here are some of the things the ballot has done for the feminine sex in Australia: It has established a new department of government—the children's council—which sees that in all court cases children get justice and kindness and a fair chance. It has abolished child labor altogether. In the factories the sanitary conditions have been greatly improved and all the employees get a Saturday half holiday. In the postoffice department, where women clerks received $300 a year before they had a vote, they now get $550. Before women voted women teachers in the public schools got less pay than men for the same work, while now the salaries are the same to both for the like grade of work. Since women have had the ballot the men of Australia have discovered that the world is for woman, too, and that women are somebody as well as themselves. Meantime, while in monarchical Australia women have all their rights as human beings, in the so-called free republic of the United States women still wait with an ambulance at the bottom of the precipice everywhere except in four states.

WOMEN NEED THE BALLOT.

Fulfillment of Their Reform Duties Requires the Right to Vote.

The contribution of woman to the work of prison reform has been so valuable that her co-operation in every branch of penology is now regarded as a necessity.

We need in penology the help of women in doing not only what we know ought to be done, but also in finding out what ought to be done and in solving knotty and unsettled questions.

In the field of penology woman needs the ballot as she needs it in other fields, not as an end, but as a means; as an instrument through which she can express her conviction, her conscience, her intelligence, her sympathy and love. Questions in philanthropy are more and more forcing themselves in legislation. Women are obliged to journey to the legislature at every session to instruct members and committees at legislative hearings. Some of these days we shall think it absurd that women who are capable of instructing men how to vote should not be allowed to vote themselves. If police and prison records mean anything they mean that, considered as law-abiding citizens, women are ten times as good as men. Why debar the better and enfranchise the worse? In the field of commercial and political competition women may demand the ballot as a right, but in the field of philanthropy and reform she needs it for the fulfillment of her duties.

SAMUEL J. BARROWS, Corresponding Secretary of the Prison Association of New York.

For the Children's Sake.

For the sake of the little children, if for nothing else, men need women to help them make and administer the laws.

CEMENT FURNITURE.

Easily Made and Proof Against Decay and Fire.

Treasured heirlooms, such as "four posters," the claw footed tables which may or may not have come over in the Mayflower, and Windsor chairs, may tumble to pieces or be consumed by fire, but the kind of furniture which W. N. Wight of Westwood, N. J., makes for his home is likely to be serviceable to the latest generations of his family, says the New York Tribune. Possibly when New York has become ruins and a single "last American" is found wandering over them in a state of semisavagery Mr. Wight's unique furniture will be found intact, as one now finds remains of household furnishings 2,000 years old in Pompeii.

Mr. Wight uses cement and from it makes in such a simple manner

stoves, ice chests, fruit shelves and dog houses that one is readily persuaded that any one may do the same. Mr. Wight's testimony regarding this point is that "any ingenious man can duplicate them with a little woven wire, a few old boards, some cement, ashes from the furnace and water."

The stove is one of the most novel of the products of Mr. Wight's genius. It is not exactly such a stove as one would put up in one's parlor for use in heating it, but it serves its purpose well. It was built for heating purposes. Mr. Wight says it radiates a mild and equable heat, such as it is not possible to secure from an iron stove. Stoves of this material are said to be especially serviceable for use in cellars, greenhouses and on farms for cooking food. Mr. Wight's stove is cubical, with a hinged door.

A fruit cupboard is another of Mr. Wight's cement devices. While comparatively light in construction, its shelves will support a ton's weight. Against the side of the house outside the door is an ice chest of the same material. Proof against decay from moisture, the interior is provided with cement shelves scarcely thicker than wooden shelves would be, but much stronger. Horse blocks, hitching posts, carriage houses, stables and a mushroom cellar testify to Mr. Wight's fondness for cement, for of this material are they built.

In making these articles, which were all constructed of Portland cement and woven steel netting, the cement was mingled with sand and steam cinders in proportions of one, two and five parts. The only other ingredient in mixing the compound was water. A simple false work was improvised from lumber.

PIANO IN A ROUNDHOUSE.

Musical Test to Find Flaws in Locomotive Parts.

Pointing to a piano that was standing in the locomotive roundhouse of the Missouri Pacific railroad near Kansas City, says World's Work, an English visitor remarked, "Ah, I see your road supplies you with musical entertainment."

"Guess not," replied the foreman. "That piano is for testing the engines."

The Englishman thought it a joke, but when a uniformed pianist struck a note which harmonized with the noise of vibration in each part of the locomotive as it was tested he understood that there could be no flaws or cracks in the engine. He was informed that if the noise of the locomotive made a discord with the musical note the locomotive would be thus proved defective. The method has been discovered to be more accurate than the old way of hammering each part.

A New Kind of Glass.

The Bavarian glassmakers say they have invented a glass for fireproofing that curtains to take the place of asbestos. This glass is said to be as malleable as any metal. It can be drawn out into threads and is absolutely nonbreakable. Cooking utensils may also be made out of it, for it will stand intense heat without cracking or melting. This new glass has been patented, a feat that it is said cannot be accomplished with any glass made in America. A plate of glass has been bored and then plugged with a molten composition. If this glass can do all that is claimed for it, it will prove a most valuable invention.

Hot Water to Heat Trolley Cars.

Recently before a large gathering of street railway men an exhibit was made of a new system of heating electrically propelled street cars by hot water instead of by the electric current, as at present. The heating apparatus consists of a small cylinder, inclosing two insulated electrodes with which to apply heat to the water, connecting with pipes that extend along the sides of the car, through which the water circulates when heat is applied, as in other hot water heating devices. Both sides of the car are equipped alike.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed, given by SYLVANUS C. SMALL to FREEMAN A. LORING, dated September 10, 1891, and recorded in the Middlesex South District Registry of Deeds, Book 2067, page 524, which said mortgage has been assigned to, and now held by, the undersigned, for breach of the condition of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction, the premises hereinafter described.

On Saturday, the eleventh day of June, A.D. 1904, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, all and singular, the premises conveyed by said mortgage and not heretofore released therefrom by instruments of partial release duly recorded, said premises not released and to be sold as addressed being described as follows to-wit:

All those various lots and parcels of land situated in Winchester in the County of Middlesex and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, shown upon a Plan of House Lots in Winchester, Mass., being a portion of the Suburban Land Improvement Co.'s L. G. Hawkes, Surveyor, dated September, 1891, and recorded in said Registry, Book of Plans 71, Plan 49, and numbered as follows, viz:—5, 6, 9 to 20 inclusive, 32 to 36 inclusive, 56 to 68 inclusive, 75, 76, 79, 80, 83 to 88 inclusive, 91 to 94 inclusive, 99 to 104 inclusive, 109 to 121 inclusive, 128 to 132 inclusive, 135 to 142 inclusive, 147 to 159 inclusive, 164, 165, 170 to 173 inclusive, 182 to 206 inclusive, 210 to 225 inclusive, 237, 238, 239 to 240 inclusive, 243 to 255 inclusive, 259, 262, 263, 266, 267, 270 to 277 inclusive, 282, 283, 320 to 322 inclusive, 342, 351, 352, 361, 362, 369 to 380 inclusive, 393, 394, 403, 404, 402, 403, 406, 407, 650 to 653 inclusive, 656, 657, 660 to 667 inclusive, 670 to 711 inclusive, 717 to 724 inclusive, 727 to 764 inclusive, and 769 to 771 inclusive; also the easterly fifty-four feet of Lot 125, all of Lot 226 except a small portion at the southeasterly corner thereof, a strip of Lot 425 ten feet wide and one hundred feet in length along the westerly side thereof, all of Lots 427 to 429 inclusive except a portion forty feet long at the easterly end of all said lots, all of Lots 428 to 440 inclusive except a portion forty feet long at the easterly end of all said lots, (all the land on the westerly side of Winchester Avenue, and within forty feet of the westerly line of said Avenue, as shown on said plan, having been released from said mortgage); also so much of Lots 712, 716, 725 and 726 as was not released from said mortgage and conveyed to the Boston & Lowell Railroad Corporation in the year 1898; and also the fee in the streets shown upon said plan as private streets, wherever any of said lots abut upon such streets, except in Lochman street which has been released from said mortgage.

The purchaser will be required to pay one thousand dollars at the time and place of sale. Other terms made known at the time of sale.

An alarm was sent in Sunday evening for a fire in one of Mr. Quigley's houses caused by a lamp setting fire to paper on shelves in a closet. The fire was extinguished before the department arrived.

The program for Memorial Day as outlined in the STAR of last week was carried out in every particular, although at one time the heavy rain in the afternoon promised to keep the veterans and escort indoors. It was nearly four o'clock before the rain held up sufficiently to permit of the usual parade, which took place amid a drizzling rain which continued while the graves were being decorated. There was a good attendance at the services in the Town Hall in the evening.

Orders for card and wedding engraving should be placed early to avoid disappointment. "The Paper Store" is the place.

The Ladies Social Circle of the Methodist Church will give a "Seven Social" in the vestry, Tuesday evening, June 8th. The doors will be open at 7 o'clock. The entertainment, consisting of seven parts, will begin at 7:30. Strawberries and ice cream will be sold during the evening at seven cents a plate, also candy at seven cents a quarter lb. Admission seven cents.

Last Thursday was afforded an example of clear understanding and thoughtfulness when Geo. Chapin, who was playing with another boy named Gravitto, on the banks of the river fell in near the Parkway. Both lads are only four years of age. Chapin fell into the river, when the other boy with rare presence of mind reached into the river and pulled him out of the deep water. The incident was not witnessed by anyone, and when afterwards Gravitto was asked why he did not seek help he replied, "George would have drowned before I could get back." The Hon. Levi S. Gould of Melrose has adopted a novel scheme of catching the brown-tail and gypsy moth caterpillars which are just now swarming upon the trees and fences. The genial ex-Mayor was observed the other day perched upon a high ladder busily engaged in tacking sticky fly paper about the trunks of the big shade trees near his estate. The scheme appears to work well, too, for it has since been noticed that quite a large number of the pests have become "stuck" on the paper and cannot be induced to move.

Newsy Paragraphs

One of Mr. Arthur E. Whitney's men has sued him for personal damages, because another shaver accidentally hit the aggrieved party with a hammer while the two were working together on work not requiring the use of machinery. Mr. Whitney has also been served with a legal notice to take down obnoxious signs to parkway travellers, which can be seen on his buildings, although none of his buildings face the parkway. This notice at once put a stop to painting the buildings which had been put in order for painting, as he says the proposed work might not suit the commission. These two incidents in connection with the vote of the town that he shall keep his sidewalk free from snow, when he says, all his neighbors are not compelled to do the same (although he does no local business and does not use his sidewalk as storekeepers, schools and churches do), all tends, he says, to show that Winchester is a hard town to do business in.

The Cutter Village baseball team met its first defeat at the hands of the Abington's Saturday morning. The game lasted eight innings and was brought to a close by a dispute. The game was very interesting up to this time and the Abingtons were in the lead by the score of 6 to 6. Harry Briggs who twirled for the Abingtons was not in his right form but despite this fact he struck out 14 men and only allowed a few scattered hits. For the losing team Edward O'Brien pitched. He pitched a good game but was off at critical points. He was batted quite hard in the latter part of the game and had poor support. Higgins, Champ, Happy and Horn excelled for the Abingtons and Dunberry, Lafitte and Hanlon excelled for Cutters Village. The best play of the day was that of Happy, who made a brilliant jumping catch off third base that ended the game and saved two runs from coming in. Poisoned by Brown Tail Moths.

A number of people in town are suffering from poison which is alleged comes from the troublesome brown tail moths who are so numerous at this time.

The trouble is manifested in red blotches that appear on the body, and which itch. It is said that it is not necessary to come into contact with the moths to be poisoned, but that the blotches result from something that is borne in the air.

All the proposed laws for the destruction of the gypsy moth have failed. The people most interested in securing this legislation did not agree upon any one bill, but continued to oppose each other with the result that nothing has been done. The property owners would not submit to any law which forced them to do anything for themselves. The towns and cities were unwilling to share in the cost of the work. The sections of the state not yet infested refused to see any great danger in the pest. But these latter will see it before many years.

THE WINCHESTER STAR.

VOL. XXIII. NO. 50.

WINCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, JUNE 10, 1904.

PRICE, FIVE CENTS

July 4th.

The program for the ever glorious Fourth will be about as follows:
8:30 a. m., base ball match.
10:30 a. m., oration, reading of Declaration of Independence, band concert and singing in Town Hall.
1:00 p. m., sports of all kinds.
3:00 p. m., band concert and base ball match.
8:00 p. m., band concert and fireworks.

All but the Town Hall exercises will be held on Manchester Field. The Committee on Sports is hard at work arranging the program for the games.

There was not interest enough in a parade to justify attempting it.

The Woburn Brass Band, 25 pieces, which was so satisfactory last year, will furnish the music for the day. Money for the fireworks must be raised by subscription, and papers will soon be passed around. Let the Eagle scream!

The committee having the athletic events in charge has elected William T. McGonaghy chairman, and Alfred G. Richburg secretary and treasurer.

None but residents of Winchester will be allowed to compete. Entries for the ball game must be made before June 14 and may be sent to the secretary of the committee or William Rooney. All events will be run under the sanction of the A. L. N. A. and will be as follows: 100 yard dash for men, 100 yard dash for girls, 50 yard dash for boys, egg race for girls, (75 yards) obstacle race for boys under 16, running foot step and jump, sack race, one-mile relay race between teams of the high school and Y. M. C. A., 100 yard dash for boys under 14, one-mile run. Suitable prizes will be awarded for each event with individual prizes for the members of the team. The sports are expected to occupy the entire afternoon.

Blackwell—Crawford.

On Thursday evening, June second, Miss Annie E. Crawford of this town, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip A. Crawford, and Mr. Charles Blackwell of Middlebury, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Lake street.

The ceremony was private and was performed by Rev. Henry E. Hodges, pastor of the First Baptist Church. The bride looked charming in a gown of white silk pongee, and carried lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid was Miss Jennie Crawford, sister of the bride, who wore pink mouseline and carried pink sweet peas. Mr. John Crawford, brother of the bride, was best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held, which was attended by friends of the couple to the number of about 75. The ushers were Messrs. Harry Wins and George Dunham of No. Billeucia.

The couple were the recipients of many pretty presents. Mrs. Blackwell was for some time assistant to Dr. F. H. Hard.

Upon the return from their honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Blackwell will reside in Middlebury, where the groom is engaged in business.

Gits to over Three Hundred Massachusetts Country Towns.

At the May meeting of the directors of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and the American Humane Education Society held May 18th, it was voted that in memory of the generous gift of the late Arthur Wentworth the Massachusetts Society hereby offers to the Selectmen of each of the over three hundred Massachusetts country towns, twenty dollars to aid in establishing water troughs or fountains for animals, attached to which should be an iron cup for the use of human beings, and on or near which shall be inscribed or painted the words, "Blessed are the merciful."

The Selectmen of all Massachusetts towns are requested to kindly notify me of their acceptance and express will then be forwarded to their clerks.

We shall hope to publish widely a long list of towns which have kindly accepted our gifts.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

The June Breakfast

The June Breakfast given under the auspices of the Winchester Visting Nurse Association was a great financial and social success. Moved by charity or good fellowship, the whole town seemed early awake and wending its way to the Town Hall, and sounds of merry greeting were heard on all sides. The day was bright, Old Proboscis forgetting to send the threatened showers, so every one was in good spirits.

Patrons arrived before the opening hour of six, at half past six the tables were nearly all filled and between seven and eight o'clock the crowd was so large that a few had to exercise patience in waiting for their turn at the tables.

1514 tickets were taken at the door, one-third more than last year. The Hall was tastefully decorated, the tables were very attractive with their flowers and dishes of fruit and the good music by the orchestra in the balcony added the necessary touch of festivity to the occasion. At each table were six young people who acted as waiters and who called forth expressions of admiration by their quickness and good service.

The food was good and abundant, large pitchers filled with cream (of which by the way they were 40 gallons) made the cereals very inviting. It seems a great undertaking to scramble the 2250 eggs which were cooked that morning but the ladies who presided over the chaffing dishes proved equal to the task, and served a hot and tempting addition to the cold meats and baked beans. One never expects good coffee at a large public gathering, so the surprise was all the greater at being served by a delicious cup of the same served hot. The entire supply of coffee was given and made, through the courtesy of Mr. Orin Sanborn, by the firm with which he is connected.

The success of the Breakfast is due in great measure to the large number of enthusiastic ladies engaged in carrying it on. Besides the 45 ladies and 90 waiters at the tables, there was an efficient corps of workers connected with the commissary department. The small Town Hall was the scene of active labor, Miss Clark was in charge of the strawberries and the five and a half crates, hulled that morning found steady purchasers. Mrs. Dr. Allen and Mrs. Berry cooked cereals. Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Boutwell served baked beans and brown bread, Mrs. Dyer and Mrs. Gage the cold meats, and Mrs. Fultz the eggs, butter and rolls. Twelve women under the supervision of Mrs. Cummings, Mrs. Bradstreet, Mrs. Lombard and Miss Towle kept the tables well supplied with clean china.

This June Breakfast commends itself to every one as the one occasion when all Winchester may come together on an equal plane of age and condition; the poor little boy may sit beside the gray haired man with his thousands, the maid may be served at the same table with her mistress and there is a kindly feeling for every one. The breakfast was, we understand, financially most successful, and it is hoped that when all accounts are settled there will be fully $500 added to the treasury. The ladies of the association are to be congratulated on the happy result of their labors. We are told that they are already considering various ways by which they may another year increase the seating capacity for the Breakfast.

Powers—Daley.

A very pretty home wedding was held Wednesday evening, when the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Cecilia Daley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Daley and Mr. Anthony Francis Powers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Powers, took place at the home of the bride's parents, 20 River street.

The ceremony was performed at the parochial residence, Rev. Henry J. Madden officiating, following which a reception was held at the home of the bride, and was attended by a large number of friends from Winchester and other places.

The bride was handsomely gowned in white swiss muslin, and carried bride roses. The bridesmaid was Miss Annie Daley, sister of the bride. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Martin Powers. After the reception the couple started on a short wedding trip and on their return will reside on Glenwood road, Winchester. Many costly and useful presents attested the high esteem in which the young couple are held.

Perfectly Fair

EDITOR OF THE STAR.
I see in last week's STAR that some speculation thought he had occasion to criticize the work of the High School baseball team. We fear that this man was either mistaken or does not know the game. I can say on the part of the team that such work as getting on to the opponents signals has not been done this year. But what if it has, that is only inside baseball and perfectly fair if it can be done. It is better that such an "observer" learn the ins and outs of baseball before he criticizes.

A Memory

EDITOR OF THE STAR.
In looking over a pile of papers recently that were laid away years ago, long before our favorite STAR made even an attempt to twinkle, I came across a Woburn Journal of date of May 2, 1868 where in appears a communication giving an account of the silver wedding of a highly respected and then widely known Winchester couple. A perusal of the article brought so vividly to mind the pleasures of the pleasant event, I ask for it a place in the STAR, feeling sure that it will be of interest to many of the older readers and awaken in their souls a pleasant memory.

Mr. Locke did not live to see the fulfillment of the "Golden" wish. He died at the age of sixty-five. Just as the sun of the last day of eighteen hundred and eighty-four was setting, his life's sun went peacefully down. Mrs. Locke is still living; "waiting" at the advanced age of almost eighty-seven years. Of the six children born to them only one survives—three were "called home" in early childhood.

SILVER WEDDING.
The residence of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Locke of Cambridge street, Winchester, was the scene of a pleasant gathering, Wednesday evening, April 24, on the occasion of the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage. The weather was delightfully mild, the sky clear and the breezes balmy, which was truly remarkable amid this month of storms. At an early hour, invited guests to the number of upwards of one hundred assembled beneath their hospitable roof fully resolved on having a good time. Many of these friends had not met together before for years; consequently hearty greetings and the renewal of old friendships were first in order, and thus on the very threshold of the evening's pleasures, hearts were warmed and made better by coming in contact, and not only those who had been long separated, but also such as are accustomed to meet almost daily while engaged in life's stern duties and engrossed with its cares. Rev. T. C. Tingley of Somersett, who united this happy pair twenty-five years ago, was present, which added much to the interest of the occasion. It was understood that he would re-marry the worthy couple, but after propounding a few questions that were satisfactorily answered, he felt satisfied that the bond was just as strong now as when it was first taken, and therefore deemed it unnecessary to perform the ceremony, but in words touching and beautiful he commended them and theirs together with all the relatives and friends whether present or absent, to the watch and care of that Being who had never yet forsaken them, and who would continue to be their comfort and support through the coming years. The presents were numerous and valuable, valuable in themselves, considered, and doubly so as the tangible tokens of the respect and esteem of the givers. Mr. Locke, in a few well-chosen words, thanked the friends present for their beautiful gifts. And we would express the hope that when the sorrows that we would avert come, as come they must to all, they will help to silver the cloud.

At half past ten supper was announced, and after the divine blessing had been invoked by their pastor Rev. Mr. Bronson, this part of the evening's program was attended to, and received the hearty approval of all present. The tables presented an appearance to which the much abused word "splendid" must be applied. The supply, both of substantial and luxuries, were pronounced inexhaustible as far as the test then and there proved anything, and we felt fully competent to declare that it was a pretty serene one. Where all was so deliciously good, perhaps we ought not to mention the ten huge loaves of real home-made wedding cake, with their beautiful ornamental frosting. The repast finished, sprightly conversation and the witty repartee were indulged in, and many an interesting reminiscence rehearsed, while music and song, thanks to Dr. Cutter and his estimable lady, enlivened and charmed. But all too soon the hour came to part, and the company separated with many good wishes for the kind friends under whose roof they had spent the evening so pleasantly, and hoping that they might be permitted to be present at their "golden wedding" twenty-five years hence.

Thus ended a celebration around which long will cluster many pleasant memories. Not only were friendships renewed but many a new link was welded to friendship's chain. Hearts grown cold from partial isolation were warmed and softened and made more tender and sympathizing, and we believe that all present were strengthened by the interview and went away better prepared by it to meet the cares and temptations of life. May God bless these dear friends who devised such plans for our enjoyments, yet more and more as they now pass life's meridian and turn their faces toward its setting sun; bless them in basket and in store, bless them in their family, and above all bless them in their own souls.

A Trap for Brown Tail Moths.

At our home at Hillcrest we are suffering from the brown tail moth plague. Last year the trees showed no sign of this pest, other than on one neglected apple tree on an unoccupied estate. From that tree the pest has spread to all the adjoining apple trees, shrubbery, and even into a grove of oak and other trees, so that when the work of despoliation is through the foliage will have all disappeared. The pest is at work in countless thousands and almost every person in the neighborhood is suffering from the poison of this moth which is carried broadcast by the wind.

This week we tried the experiment of placing about several trees bands of cloth thickly smeared over with grease and chloride of lime, and the result was so satisfactory that not a moth would cross it in trying to go up the tree. The lower branches of one of the trees was shaken with a long pole with the result that a full quart of worms were taken from the tree just below the band where they had been brought to a dead stop. Had this preparation been used earlier the foliage and fruit could have been saved.

We print this simple preventative for what it is worth and for the benefit of those persons who do care for their trees and would protect them from the traveling army on its destructive march. It may be rather late now to stop the ravages of the pest, but it should be borne in mind for next spring.

"Rally to the Color"

The near approach of June 14th should remind every patriotic citizen that the one hundred and twenty-seventh anniversary of the birth of the United States Flag should be recognized and observed. For more than a century and a quarter this flag has triumphantly floated in honor—a beautiful token of perfect liberty. It has never been borne on an oppressive mission, nor ever lowered in disgrace.

There is, perhaps, no inanimate object on the face of the globe, with more expressive life, than the flag of our country. It seems to be eloquent in an universal language all may understand. When it spreads its folds of red and white and blue, rippling in sunlight, it betokens victory, dignity, joy, power, and command; when it droops it symbolizes compassion and sorrow, and draped over the casket of its protector and defender it means regard and history—a becoming shroud for the soldier dead.

The defence of the flag was the soldier's mission of the Civil War, the preservation of it is the mission of every American citizen living under it. The flag is the signal of protection, whether against foreign or domestic foe. It invites the oppressed to rally beneath its folds; it warns against trespass within its sacred precincts.

After ten years of earnest endeavor, the several States have enacted laws providing for the display of the flag over the Schoomakers of all districts where patriotism reigns. Under it, millions of children, who will govern the country in the next decade or two are being educated to be loyal citizens.

Fly it from every house-top—every public building—the shipping, from every movable vehicle—that the world may know the American people honor the birthday of the flag—the day of which is the Nation's safety—as necessary as preparation for war.

Prince School

With the opening of the schools in September the present old High School building will be used for classes of the lower grades, and accordingly it seems desirable to give the building a distinctive name. The School Committee has therefore voted to call it the Prince School, in honor of Frederick O. Prince, who was a member of the first School Committee of Winchester.

Pratt—Armstrong

One of the important weddings in town for this, the month of brides, occurred on Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Armstrong of Highland avenue, the occasion being the marriage of their daughter Helen, to Rev. Arthur Peabody Pratt, pastor of the Third Congregational Church of Chelsea.

The ceremony occurred at seven o'clock and was performed by Rev. Dr. Withrow, pastor of Park Street Church, Boston. The bride was charmingly gowned in white crepe de chine and carried lilies of the valley, she being attended by two little maids of honor, her sisters Dorothy and Elizabeth Armstrong, who carried baskets of pinks. Robert W. Armstrong, brother of the bride, was the best man.

Following the ceremony, which was attended by members of the family, only a reception was held, the bride and groom being assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Sarah Pratt and Miss Emily Pratt of Medford, mother and sister of the groom. The reception was very largely attended, friends of the young couple to the number of about four hundred being present, while messages of congratulation were received from many more, including Governor and Mrs. John I. Bates. The ushers were Dr. Howard Graydon of Boston, Rev. Mr. Stockdale of Boston, Charles French of Boston and Rev. Vincent Kayser of Winchester.

The collection of gifts was most beautiful, and numbered many pieces of cut glass and silver, besides linen, pictures and bric-a-brac. Rev. Pratt's church presented him with a gold watch and Mrs. Pratt with a set of table silver; the choir of the Methodist Church in this town, a complete cut glass set, while a piano and numerous checks were also received.

At the conclusion of their wedding journey, Rev. and Mrs. Pratt will be tendered a reception by Rev. Mr. Pratt's church at Chelsea, and will be at home to their many friends on Franklin street, that city.

Fishing in the Reservoirs.

EDITOR OF THE STAR.
The fishermen and fisherboys of Winchester are very sorry to learn through the STAR that the water commissioners have removed all restrictions on fishing in the town reservoirs, thus radically changing, without vote of the town, the policy of years, and a policy which has met with the approbation of the Mass. Fish and Game Commission as well as that of every tax payer in town so far as the writer knows. Mr. Edward A. Brackett, Winchester's veteran member of the state fish commission, has given year after year, much of his time in issuing permits to Winchester citizens and taken all care of regulating fishing in the reservoirs from the shoulders of the town water commissioners, although acting as their agent and being directly under their control. Mr. Brackett has generously offered his time and attention to this matter (issuing over seven hundred permits last year), and it has cost the town nothing to speak of, to protect its exclusive fishing rights in the town reservoirs. Now why should this policy be overturned without the town having something to say and without a word being said in the water board reports regarding the matter. In common with a few others who have enjoyed fishing under a permit from the town, I voted with the water commissioners last spring to place the control of the reservoirs in the hands of the state park commission, but I shall think a good while and want some good reason given me before I vote again to sustain the water commissioners, simply because of faith in their disinterested efforts to regulate fishing and care of the reservoirs, wholly in the interests of the town of Winchester. I voted blindly before but I never will again vote as the water commissioners desire except I know all about the matter beforehand, and the commissioners tell the whole story in their report to the town, or in the STAR, or in some other public manner so that all can know what they are voting upon. The present action of throwing open the reservoirs to indiscriminate fishing looks like retaliation on those fishermen and others who did not vote to sustain the water commissioners in their efforts to give the control of the reservoir property of the town to the state park commission.

Country Club Notes.

Considerable interest is manifested in the result of the play on the Memorial day tournaments between R. S. Sanborn and Miss Anne P. Sanborn, and Miss Margaret Hunt and Winthrop Bart.

Capt. John P. Crane, a most enthusiastic golfer who has been over nearly all the famous courses of the south, visits the club nearly every favorable day.

E. A. Kelley, in a recent play off with C. A. Lane, made two rounds in 37 and 35, the best being performed in driving.

Mr. No one this year has excelled Mr. Kelley's.

This Saturday there will be a handicap team match.

Misses Marion and Lucy Stone return this week from Baltimore, Md., for their summer vacation.

Letter from Francis C. Hall.

Some friends of Francis C. Hall, who for more than a year past has been engaged with the Mississippi River Commission at St. Louis, and has several times been sent down the river upon surveys to New Orleans or the mouth of the river, have allowed us to publish a portion of a private letter from him, telling something of his work and narrating some of his observations.

He writes—

U. S. Steamer Vulcan.

Flaquemine La., May 16, 1904.

We began this gage inspection work at Quarantine a week ago, and are now at this point 100 miles above New Orleans by river and 80 miles by railroad. It is necessary to run levels to the regular gages, but have not found it necessary for most of the high water gages. We shall work here for two or three hours tomorrow running a new level and painting a Bulletin board and do the same at Baton Rouge where we shall probably be up tomorrow night. I think I shall get back to St. Louis about June 5.

We do not work Sundays on this work as we have done on most trips and yesterday we lay at Donaldsonville, a town of 4000 people 30 miles below here. Donaldsonville is quite a nice little town for this part of the country, it seems to be rather cleaner than most of them. The population includes a good many Italians, Spaniards, and French as well as Negroes. It has a very large Catholic Church which is conspicuous for a long way up and down the river, being about three times as tall as any of the other buildings. It was 20 years in building.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Bell and I got a couple of saddle horses and rode out to the Belle Alliance sugar plantation, five miles back of the town on Bayou La Fourche. We met the manager, Mr. Greenwood, who showed us around the plantation and took us through the sugar mill.

This is one of the largest and best managed plantations in the State we are told, though there are many larger ones.

The Belle Alliance plantation raises nearly 4000 acres of sugar cane and turns out about 10,000,000 pounds of granulated sugar per year, or 100,000 pounds per day. The refining is done at the mill on the plantation, and 32 hours after cane is cut in the field the sugar is refined and packed in bags and on board a train ready to ship.

The grinding season begins about October 10 and lasts for three months. During this time the mill is never shut down days, nights, or Sundays. After this season is over the factory lands are discharged and leave the plantation until the next year, the field lands live in calons on the plantation the year round. This plantation employs both negroes and Italians in the field, men and women. In the height of the season there are employed in the field and factory about 1000 hands. 250 mules are also required for the field work. A small railroad brings the cane from the field to factory. Seven overseers are riding over the plantation all the time to direct the field work.

The field lands begin work at 5 a. m. and work until about dark.

Their breakfast is brought to them in the field. The men receive seventy cents per day is money and house rent. Unlike most plantations the Belle Alliance has no store and their employees buy their provisions where they please.

It cost a lot of money to own and run one of these plantations. The sugar mill and machinery alone of the Belle Alliance cost $400,000.

This has been a very pretty country, to ride through coming up the river. It consists entirely of these sugar plantations from Bayou Sara to 100 miles below New Orleans. One sees everywhere immense fields of green cane, big sugar mills, rows of white cabins, and the magnificent mansions of the owners.

I have been very well for the last two weeks and don't think I have any malaria now. The weather is fine, cool enough to sleep well at night and not oppressively hot during the day.

The Fortieth Anniversary

At the First Baptist church last Sunday morning the fortieth anniversary of the dedication of their house of worship was informally observed. The Rev. Henry Hinckley, pastor of the church at the time of dedication, June 9, 1864, and the Rev. Geo. M. Preston, who assisted in the dedication, were present, and spoke most interestingly and impressively of their experiences forty years ago. The church owes a great debt of gratitude to Bro. Hinckley for his courage, zeal, perseverance and strenuous labors in bringing to pass the erection of their edifice in the midst of war times, overcoming almost insurmountable obstacles.

The pastor spoke briefly from Deut. 2: 7. "These forty years the Lord thy God hath been with thee." The pastor showed to the audience the printed program of the dedication service, and the first issue of "The Winchester Transcript," published the day following, June 12, 1864, which contained a lengthy report of the dedicatory exercises.

The communion service, which fittingly closed the morning's worship, was deeply impressive.

Baked Apples For Dyspeptics.

Mrs. Harriet S. McMurphy of Omaha, Neb., widely known as a lecturer on domestic science, is to have a restaurant for dyspeptics at the world's fair. Fruit, cooked and fresh, and fruit and vegetable salads will be prominent on her bill of fare, but the place de resistance will be baked apples, which Mrs. McMurphy regards as medicine of the greatest value to dyspeptics of all sorts.

Count Tolstol makes his own boots. This would not be interesting, however, did he not also think his own thoughts.

The only thing the war in the far east needs to make it seem the real thing is a poem from Rudyard Kipling.

It is said that 61 per cent of the Russians cannot read. Fully 62 per cent of them cannot fight.

The hardest of all metals is iridium. The hardest to get is gold.

The Wonderful Japanese.

The little brown men of Nippon are proving a constant revelation to the western world. These latter day Greeks, veritable Spartans in their bravery, their self sacrifice, their love of country and their masterly tactics in making war, are enacting a new and brilliant chapter in human history. The most remarkable trait they are revealing in the present contest is their scientific accuracy. There is no sloppiness, no effusive sentimentality, no boasting and no gush. The characteristics popularly believed to be associated with the oriental character seem to be lacking in the Japs. Their armies and fleets move like clockwork. Their military reports are models of precision and modesty. Their soldiers seemingly commit no excesses. They observe the amenities of war, are polite, quiet and apparently actuated by the most honorable principles. But, above all, they do things. They are effective. They seem to have planned their campaigns to cover all contingencies. They know the value of secrecy. So far they have made no false steps. They move rapidly. And, above everything else, they are very much in earnest.

The spirit of self sacrifice they display is especially worthy of note. At home there seems to be a national mania for giving. One rich man donated a priceless art collection. Another put into the public treasury over $10,000. All ranks of life are economizing to contribute their mites. Poor people take a little each week from the pittance of their wage. Women give their jewels. Doctors donate their services. Even the messenger boys have banded together to raise $30 or $40 a month for the fund. People deny themselves luxuries in order to help along. The sailors who clamored to be permitted to die in the sinking of the fire ships at Port Arthur only showed the spirit of sacrifice felt by the entire nation. One Japanese merchant at Harbin gave practically his entire fortune to enable his countrymen to leave Russian territory. One banking house contributed $50,000.

As an illustration of this spirit the country people are bringing their horses by the hundreds into town as their contributions to the welfare of the nation. Before parting with their animals they industriously comb their manes, lovingly caress them, call them a multitude of pet names and bid them goodbye at length. "And the horses," says the Jiji Shimbun, "seem to appreciate the words of their masters and droop their heads in sorrow."

Is it at all wonderful that a people showing this first of the Christian virtues, self sacrifice, are moving to make Japan a Christian nation in fact as well as name?

According to a perfectly credible dispatch from Tokyo to the London Daily Telegraph, a great religious meeting was held in the Japanese capital recently "to determine the question of founding in Japan a church pro-Christian in character, but on independent lines." It is added that leading Japanese men consider that "the time has arrived to adopt the elements approved by the majority of civilized nations." There is a religious and philosophical ferment now in progress in the minds of Japanese thinkers, and leading men among them take this moment, when they believe their nation is on the threshold of a great triumph on the continent of Asia, to favor a new departure in the direction of Christianity for their country's religious life and thought.

In commenting on this movement the New York Mail well says:

Nothing could be more foolish and shallow than to suppose that a triumph of Japan over Russia would set the wheels of Christian progress in Asia backward.

The new day for Japan means re-education around. The country is irrevocably committed to modern progress. Some form of Christianity which is elastic enough to serve as a sure stepping stone between the old and the new is altogether likely to make its way. And through Japan the lump of Christian philosophy may be expected to lighten the load of Chinese life more surely and expeditiously than it could through direct missionary effort in China itself.

This meeting at Tokyo may mark an epoch in the history of Japan, even more important than the date of the beginning of the war with Russia.

It is well for America to study this new star arising in the east and to understand the sources from which it draws its light. It was Commodore Perry, an American, who started the awakening of the Flowery Kingdom. No nation has contributed more than the United States to the transformation that has since taken place in the island empire. Apparently we have no need to feel ashamed of these people that have been named "the Yankees of the Orient."

An Austrian has invented a machine that he claims will go around the world in two days. The wheels in that inventor's head must be revolving very rapidly.

It is claimed that the per capita circulation is $29.40. Most men would like to know the whereabouts of the other $29.10.

If worst comes to worst, Russia can refer to her promises and say that she meant to evacuate Manchuria anyway.

Russia has 140 religious holidays. A fairly pious Muscovite does not need to wait till dead to do his resting.

Are You Contemplating Going South or Investing Money There?

We advise any of our readers who contemplate going south for the winter and want to rent a furnished cottage or secure board in hotel, boarding house or private family, or are desirous of investing money down there, to first write Mr. John T. Patrick, Pinebluff, N. C. Mr. Patrick has made a specialty of furnishing information to Northern people who want to find winter homes or to those who desire to loan money down there on mortgages. He is a man that can be relied upon to give honest information, and to protect the interests of those who trust their money to his care. Recently one of our readers asked Mr. Patrick to give reference as to his character and business ability, and he furnished the names of the Chief Justice of his state, Judge Walter Clark, Raleigh, N. C., and the Editor of the leading daily in the state, the News & Observer, Mr. Josephus Daniels, Raleigh, and the Editor-in-Chief of the Boston Transcript, Mr. E. H. Clement, and these men said in reply that whatever Mr. Patrick said could be relied upon. Therefore it will pay you to write Mr. Patrick before you locate, and if you have money to loan, secure his assistance to get the highest rate of interest on good first class mortgages down South where the people pay more interest than is paid up here.

Special Town Meeting.
The Selectmen have called a special town meeting for Monday evening, June 20. All those who desire to place articles in the warrant will be required to send them in to the Selectmen by Saturday evening, June 11, at 8 o'clock.

An Important Matter.

The Tree Warden has sent in to the Selectmen an article for the warrant for the special town meeting to be held June 20, requesting that the Board of Health, under the general nuisance law, proceed against those persons who fail to take the necessary steps to rid their trees of the brown tail and gypsy moths. What the Tree Warden wants is an expression of opinion from the citizens in this matter, so that if they are in favor of taking such a step the Board of Health can feel that it has the citizens back of them. Chelsea and Everett are working under this law, with most satisfactory results, and Winchester will have to do the same if these pests are to be kept down. In many parts of the town conditions are serious, not only as regards the trees, but the public health.

The High School Building Committee.

With the dedicatory exercises that took place last week and the formal transfer of the new High School building to the custody of the School Committee, the Building Committee discharged themselves from further responsibility and ceased to act as a special committee. In other words, having done what they were appointed to do these gentlemen now gracefully retire on their well-earned laurels. Never in the history of the town has a committee ever been appointed that has taken upon itself so great a responsibility and worked from such a high sense of duty to discharge skillfully, faithfully and economically the manifold details of its task. All these citizens are men who lead busy lives and whose time and services are of great pecuniary value. Under the mastery leadership of Mr. Lewis Parkhurst, they have never stinted time nor effort to bring to a successful completion the erection of a public building which will stand for the next half century or more as a noble monument of what public-spirited citizens may do for their town and its people. These gentlemen may well feel proud of the heartfelt appreciation which they have earned from their fellow citizens for their untiring efforts in the cause of public school education. This is in a measure some compensation for the rigor and perplexities of their service.

So Say We All of Us

The citizens in town meeting as embodied themselves proud last March when they voted a most unananimous vote to demolish the old Howe house and grade the land to harmonize with the environments of the new High School Building. The work has just been completed in a prompt and satisfactory manner. For the first time was evident on Memorial Day the full significance of this improvement. No man of sound sense would now vote, if he could, to put back the old building. For the first time last week our people realized how much the house and the ungraded land detracted from the beauty and grandeur of the western exposure of this splendid school building. It is now almost a year since we advocated this improvement in these columns. We sincerely believed that it was a sensible and judicious procedure. Now that it is accomplished we can see, as do all other citizens, that our advocacy of this plan was of even more importance than we at first supposed. It is oftentimes the privilege of an independent local paper to do a little judicious prodding. There was need of it on this occasion. The Star did it and is not a little proud that its efforts have been successful in bringing about an improvement which now even the "oldest inhabitant" realizes is for the best interests of the town.

That High School Veto.

A fellow townsman has written me that I misrepresented the Governor of the State in my remarks last week about the probable term of usefulness of the H. S. building. This was the farthest from my intention and that any wrong impression then created may be corrected. I give below the exact language of this veto.

Respectfully yours,
LEWIS PARKHURST.

"It is evident that the most valuable use of a school building is obtained in the first twenty years of its existence, and if a debt must be incurred for its construction those who incur the debt and who have the use of the structure during the first twenty years ought to pay their proportionate share of its cost."

"Observer" Answered

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I note an article in your publication of last week signed "Observer," in which he states that a local player took a position where he could see the signals of the visiting pitcher and catcher and communicated the same to the batter. He calls this unsportsmanlike on the part of the Winchester team to allow this to take place. Now "Observer" may be a good ping pong player or even good at a rubber of whist, but by his remarks he showed a total ignorance of base ball. As the signals of base ball and football are supposed to be clever enough to fool the opposing team, I think it quite a compliment to the brightness of any of the High School team if they successfully caught on to the same. Pond, Barta, Badger, Sullivan, and in fact all the players on the Winchester High School team to a man, are not only exceptionally sportsmanlike, but are perfect young gentlemen, and I for one think that this town should be proud of this year's ball team. A body of young men who can keep their temper and exhibit the good team work in the face of the temptation held out at some of the games played in town this year, show very plainly good, clean sportsmanlike actions.

SPECTATOR.

Winchester Camera Club.

The first exhibition of the work of the Club was opened at the Public Library on Monday. There are 127 photographs from eleven contributors. The exhibit is a creditable one and would, we think, compare favorably with the recent show of the Boston Camera Club. With the opportunities for work which the summer season affords, the Club is sure to make a larger and stronger exhibition next season. Many members were unable to contribute through lack of opportunity to work through the winter. A jury composed of Messrs. Hicknell, Holland Day and Taylor, made awards as follows: Landscapes—1st to W. S. Ball, 2d to H. C. Robinson for entire exhibits. Portraits—1st to J. Eastman Chase, 2d to John B. Willis. Genre—1st and 2d to Stillman Shaw. "Honorable Mention" to A. W. Denly, E. L. Homer and Stillman Shaw. The "Mention" to Mr. Denly, one of the youngest members of the Club, was due to his taste in the selection of his subject. This is of great importance in landscape work, and should be studied by everyone who hopes to win the approval of discerning judges. We advise all young persons who use the camera to carefully study the present exhibition with a view to the achievement of artistic results in their work. Too much importance should not be placed upon technical excellences. Good taste counts for more than skill, though a judicious combination of both is necessary for the best results. The contribution of Mrs. Home and Miss Quimby were not in competition. Modesty alone may have saved them the honor of rewards as their work is excellent, as was that of Mr. Briggs. The exhibition will be open for about ten days.

Excellent Piano Recital at Dorchester.

The pupils of Miss Sadie F. Bowser, of Winchester, gave a very pleasing recital at Dorchester last Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. They were assisted by Mr. Wm. Lawrence Bowser, tenor, (of the Commonwealth Male Quartet of Boston) and Miss Frances Backwith, the well known reader. All the pupils made an excellent showing, even the younger ones carrying off their share of the honors of the occasion.

Careful training and untiring patience was in evidence throughout all their work, and the pupils were a credit to themselves as well as their teacher, who directed the recital in person. The tenor solos by Mr. Bowser, and the vocal duets by Mr. and Miss Bowser, were well rendered, and the constant applause testified to the appreciation of the large audience of parents and friends of the pupils. The selections by Miss Backwith were very appropriate and she delighted everyone by her extremely natural and humorous presentation of them. Many encores being requested, to which she kindly consented to respond.

An unusual demand is made upon the taxpayers of the state this year for increased salaries. The net increase for county officials alone, which means court officials, commissions, treasurers and district attorneys, amounts to $25,000 per year. Here is an increase in appropriations, not for one year alone, but for a 1/2 time, without any corresponding increase in the income.—[Melrose Journal.]

The Value of Winchester's Water Supply Land Within the Middlesex Fells.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The neighboring municipalities of Malden, Medford and Melrose are in friendly contention in the courts with the State regarding the value of the Spot Pond water supply and land connected therewith taken by the state for water and park purposes. Would it not be well for Winchester to wait a while to see how this case is settled before gratuitously turning over the land connected with the Winchester water supply to the control of the State for park purposes? Some years ago many citizens, including the Winchester Water Commissioners, thought that when the lines of the Middlesex Fells reservation were at last established and all the private land within the Fells condemned, excepting the water supply land of the town of Winchester, the latter property would be taken by the State and a fair amount paid for it, thus reducing our water debt and at the same time securing our water shed from future contamination, the State receiving in exchange as beautiful a bit of land and water scenery as any within the Fells reservation. Is there any reason why Winchester should donate more than she has given in money and in giving up taxable property towards the State parks, besides paying a liberal proportion toward the maintenance of them? As a business proposition, I think the town did well last spring to hesitate a little and take more time to consider before turning over its property in the Fells to the State without any consideration whatever except to police it. Winchester is so much in debt (though I have voted for every bit of it) that I think it well if she can sell anything to reduce that debt provided it can be done without injury to remaining property. If Malden, Melrose and Medford receive compensation for public property taken by the State, why not Winchester?

PETITION.

To the Board of Selectmen of the Town of Winchester, Massachusetts:

The Board of Directors of the Boston & Northern Street Railway Company, whose tracks are located in said town, hereby respectfully represents that Church street in the Town of Winchester between Common street and Cambridge street is a public way in which certain street railway and electric light locations have heretofore been granted and are now in use.

That for the purpose of arranging their systems of wires so that the same may be supported in said street by one line of poles, said Boston & Northern Street Railway Company and the Woburn Light, Heat & Power Company entered into an agreement subject to the necessary permissions of public authorities, dated March 9, 1904, whereby they should remove their present poles from said Church street between the points aforesaid, and unite in the erection and maintenance of a new line of poles for their joint use and benefit.

Wherefore, your petitioners pray for the grant of locations and alteration of locations of the poles and wires of said Boston & Northern Street Railway Company in Church street in said town between Common street and Cambridge street by the removal of the poles of said company now located in that portion of said Church street heretofore referred to and the erection and maintenance in place thereof of 45 poles at the points indicated by circles with an enclosed point on five plans filed herewith, each marked "Winchester Overhead Construction, Pole Line, Church street" and dated December 21, 1903, and numbered respectively 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45.

DIRECTORS, BOSTON & NORTHERN STREET RAILWAY COMPANY,

FANNY,

Base Ball

The High school team played a practice game Monday with the local Bankers and Brokers, on which some of the well-known ball tossers from this vicinity played. The game was close and exciting and gave the High school team good practice. The High school team won out, four to nothing.

WINCHESTER HIGH SCHOOL, 10 C. FREE SCHOOL.

Winchester High school defeated the Boston College Prep team by the score of 13 to 4 Saturday afternoon on Manchester field.

Winchester started in by scoring in the first inning and kept it up throughout the game. The Winchester team hit the ball hard and often, Pond and E. Badger both getting three baggers. The home team fielded in good shape and Sullivan for Winchester kept the hits well scattered.

Winchester scored 1 in the first but failed to score in the second. In the third Barta got to first on an error and was advanced by Badger. Barta, Pond and Heath scored on a double by Pond and a single by O'Connor. Two more runs were scored in the fifth on a triple by E. Badger. In the sixth Boston scored their first run but Winchester failed to score. Sullivan and Pond scored on E. Badger's single in the seventh, and Boston added one more to their score. In the eighth the home team scored five on singles by P. Badger, Caulfield and E. Badger and a triple by Pond. In the ninth the visitors scored two on two singles and a triple.

MEDFORD 12, WINCHESTER 9. Winchester High received its third defeat of the season at Medford last Wednesday afternoon.

A field much better than a backyard, no police protection, and some men working on the part of the Medford spectators was the cause of Winchester's fall. The game was far different from any one on Manchester field where ample room is given the players, for a crowd of 500 surrounded the diamond so closely that good base ball was impossible.

In the ninth inning when a Medford player tried to steal home from third on the return of the ball from Heath to Sullivan, a "Medford" spectator, deliberately walked right in front of the plate and prevented Heath from getting his man. This lost the game for Winchester as the next man struck out making three, with the score 9 to 12, instead of 9 to 11, in Winchester's favor as it ought to have been.

For Winchester P. Badger did great stick work getting four out of five safe hits. P. Badger and Sullivan fielded well for the home team. Summary:

FROM OUT THE WEST

By MARY WOOD

Copyright, 1904, by T. C. McArthur

Missoula Ann gazed across the frozen stretches of the park with a delightful sense of ownership. The chill wind which had deterred all other wayfarers was as the breath of her own prairies.

"Just the sky for a northern, Teddy," she said excitedly. "Seems like old times, it does."

Teddy was not looking at the sky. Around a bend in the road came a horse, jet black, well groomed, head high, while the delicate nostrils snuff of the wind, and saddle invitingly empty, not ownerless, for a policeman walked close beside. But Teddy had eyes only for the horse. In a moment possession would be his and Missoula far behind. He set off down the walk as fast as his chubby legs would carry him.

Too late Missoula awoke to the realities of her position. She broke into a frightened run, and her voice rang out in command. "Teddy Barker, come back! Do you hear? Come back, I say!"

If Teddy heard he gave no sign, except to redouble his efforts. But verily the way of the transgressor is hard! There was an innocent appearing strip of ice gleaming in the pallid glow of the wintry sun. Teddy's foot encountered it. He threw out both hands and slid forward on his nose. It is a tender memory, and Teddy complained fondly.

The little Missoula was now on the scene. Even the policeman offered his services to restore peace. Together they picked up the fallen, whose cries redoubled under the effect of Missoula's vigorous shakings. The policeman interferred.

"See here, now," he said good naturedly. "I'll have to arrest you if you make such noise. Come and see Jim Crow. You can have a ride on him if you aren't scared."

Teddy stiffened at the implied insult. "That's all I wanted to do," he protested stoutly, "only Missoula, she wouldn't let me."

The man looked at the girl eagerly. "Be you from Montana, miss?" he asked.

Missoula nodded.

"I hail from west Texas myself," the policeman hastened to explain. "But I reckon there's much of a sameness about them both."

Missoula Ann seized his hand joyfully. "I been watching you other days. I just knowed you was from the west the way you sit your horse."

By this time Teddy was safely ensconced on top of Jim Crow. "It does seem as if most of the folks here made riding a hard matter," the policeman said reflectively. "And it's worse for the horse than it is for the rider. Why, the ladies have the poor beasts choked up so tight they can't draw a full breath. Wish they'd just try it on a broncho. There'd be some tail bucking!" And he laughed.

Missoula joined in. "I believe I could show them a thing or two myself," she said proudly, "even if I didn't get one of them swell riding skirts. But I lost better not be saying too much about it," she added sadly. "I might have forgot. It's so long since I was on a horse. Mr. Barker, he got one of those automobiles, but I can't abide the creature."

The tall policeman agreed. "Just give me a good horse," he declared, "and a clear road, and I'd ride and ride to!"

"Clear out to the west!" the girl interrupted eagerly. There was a wistful look in her eyes.

"Be you long from there, miss?" he asked respectfully.

"Only since last fall, but it seems an age," Missoula Ann said, with a sigh. "You see Mr. Barker, he's the biggest man out our way. He rules just about everything but his wife, and she rules him. So when she took it into her head to come to New York for the winter we all had to come. I can't get along without you. I've had the care of him ever since he was born." She smiled up at the child affectionately. "I'm not saying but what I was tickled over the idea. They'd been telling me all sorts of foolishness about the city. But it's not a bit like what I expected. Perhaps the fault lies in me, but I feel sort of smothered all the time. It's too close, even on the street with people pushing of you out of their way, but indoors it's worse. Things are so awful close here that Mr. Barker, for all he owns 'bout a whole section out our way, can't live a whole house to himself. It's worse, then, the boys, quarters at a boarding house, folks crowd together. But you must excuse me for saying so much," she broke off in confusion as she looked up and met his dark eyes fixed admiringly upon her. "Only it's so long since I had the chance to freely say what I think, and you're so good to listen. But now, Teddy, it's time we were making for home."

Teddy did not agree, but the tall policeman cut short his remarks by lifting him down in a peremptory fashion. "I'm much obliged to you, miss," he said gratefully. "It's been as good as seeing one of the boys. But per- haps you'll be coming this way again, tomorrow perhaps," he asked insistently.

Missoula Ann thought that perhaps she might. Teddy was quite sure that he would be ready for another ride. The tall policeman leaped lightly into his saddle, and she watched him with a thrill of pride. He was certainly quite imposing in his blue uniform with the brass buttons, and his friendship was a thing to be desired. And then he came from the west! He could sympathize with her longing for that faraway land. Yes, Missoula was sure to come that way tomorrow.

He was waiting for them on the next afternoon, and Teddy was swung up on the saddle in a life. But now it was the big policeman who talked, while Missoula listened in shy silence. His name was Jones. "They used to call me 'Shorty' down in the Panhandle because I was so tall," he explained with a laugh. "No, they don't do it here." In answer to her questioning look, "It wouldn't be healthy for them. The men on the force call me Jim. I haven't any pals up here."

Jim had come to New York with some full blood cattle. But the attractions of the big city proved too much for him, and after a detour of several days he had come to himself only to find that the rest of the crew had gone back, and he was left alone, adrift. There had been some hard days. Jim spoke of them hesitatingly, and with a shamed flush on his tanned cheek.

"But then I got on the force," on account of my riding, and I've been on over a year. I can't complain of the pay, and the work's light enough. But I got such longing for the sun shining in a perfect blue sky, and my pony plodding his way among the holes of a dog town, the little beggars sitting up and snoring at you as bold as you please, and then scrambling down through the mesquite bushes into a water hole and letting him drink as much as he pleases, and then riding on till the sun sets, as it never does up here, hands of light playing right across the sky and a purple glow over everything. Well, when I get to thinking of all that I get uneasy like and find of all this crowding. Some mornings the feeling will be extra strong, and then," he laughed, "the force will be losing one of its ornaments."

Missoula was looking up eagerly. Her eyes were as blue as the Texas sky of which he spoke and wide with longing. "You will be going back, too, some day, Miss Missoula," he said softly.

She caught her breath sharply, like one suddenly wakened from a dream. "Yes," she said dispiritedly. "I suppose so, when Mr. Barker's ready to go."

The three met often after that. Teddy had come to look on Jim Crow as one of his possessions, while Missoula and his master had become the best of friends, and nonchalantly a tardy spring was breathing new life into the faded shades of the park. Third grass blades appeared.

The afternoon sun shone down warmly and showed Missoula engaged in restraining Teddy from picking a spray of the enticing "burning bush." The tall policeman came up during the altercation. As they walked on together he preserved an unwavering silence.

"Spring's about here," Missoula observed at last. "I've been thinking how the people must look by now. Just one big flower bed."

Jim looked off across the tree tops with eyes unseeing of their delicate veil of leaves. "I've been thinking, too," he said, "and I just can't stand the city any longer. I'm going back west." Missoula's face paled.

"I'd have gone long ago if it hadn't been for you, Missoula," he looked down now and as he saw her agitation went on eagerly. "I won't go now, unless you will go too. I've been saving money, and I've written out, so there's a position ready. Won't you go, Missoula?"

Missoula's face flushed a rosy red, but she met his ardent gaze frankly. "Yes, I'll go, Jim," she said. "I trust you. Teddy's getting so old now he won't be missing me. And, oh, Jim, we'll be going back to the west together!" There was a choke in her voice.

Jim drew her to him, and it was well that the path was deserted or observers might have been scandalized by the spectacle of one of the force who had quite forgotten his dignity.

Had the Effect.

"Yes," she said in answer to something he had said, "the old songs are very beautiful."

"Beautiful!" he exclaimed enthusiastically. "Beautiful hardly describes them. They are—they are—well, compared with them the songs of today are trash, the vilest trash."

"I agree with you, yet the old songs sometimes contain sentiments that one cannot wholly approve."

"I think you are mistaken," he said. "I will give you an illustration. There is John Howard Payne's 'Home, Sweet Home,' for instance. You surely do not agree with all the sentiments it contains."

"Why not?" he asked warmly. "Why not?"

"Because," she said, glancing at the clock, which was marking the hour of eleven. "Because there is a line in that song which says, 'There's no place like home.' You do not believe that, do you?"

"No," he laughed a hollow laugh and arose and went silently out into the night.

Hidden Crackers.

In the preface to Gail Hamilton's poems, published under the title "Chips, Fragments and Vestiges," the sister of the dead author says that a few yellowed papers exist covered with her verses written in a childish hand.

One such sheet has the heading "Chips and Parings." Another is called "Mary A. Dodge's Scribbles." These were all written before she was twelve years old. But the earliest, written when she was eight, is the best:

When mother hides her crackers in old coffee pots and made of tin, We seldom ever find them out, Although I always wake about.

Now, though we all like crackers well, And bakers have enough to sell, Yet we all eat them up as fast, That mother hides to make them last.

This "poem" was solemnly and silently handed to "mother" by the little author after she had discovered where the crackers were hidden.

Do We Eat Too Much?

Professor Russell H. Chittenden says that we eat too much. Yet most of us are in a constant scramble to get more. But the professor has proved his contention by means of experiments, which he recently recounted to a meeting of the National Academy of Sciences in Washington. He said three classes of men were experimented on several professors at the school, including Professor Chittenden himself, several students and a squad of United States soldiers. There was a gradual reduction of meat and other protein foods, with little if any increase in starch and other foods, in nearly all the tests. No fixed regimen was required in any case, the endeavor being to satisfy the appetite of each subject. In only one case was meat entirely eliminated from the diet.

At the end of the experiments, which lasted nearly a year and were conducted only a few days ago, the entire lot of men who had been Professor Chittenden's subjects were in the best of health. Their weight in some cases was almost exactly the same as when the experiments were begun and in some slightly lower. Their bodily vigor was greater, and their strength was much greater, partially owing to their regular physical exercises and partially owing, Professor Chittenden believes, to the smaller amount of food eaten. The daily consumption of food at the close of the experiments was much less than the recognized standard and from a third to a half as much as the average man eats.

In a recent issue of Outing the celebrated inventor says:

Eating has become a habit with most every one. It is like taking morphine. The more you take the more you want. I eat almost nothing but less than a pound of food a day; three meals, but just enough to nourish the body.

We are not all Edisons, said to say. The Menlo Park magician, if popular reports are to be credited, eats when he thinks of it and sleeps when he has nothing else to do. When interested in one of his inventions, Edison has been known to work well, we are afraid to say just how many consecutive hours at a stretch, but they were enough to make the average man dizzy at the mere contemplation. Whether he eats at all at such times is mere conjecture. Edison himself probably does not remember. Perhaps he gets food and recuperation from his ideas. They are tangible and palpable enough. Still, with the ordinary individual it is feared that they would form a rather thin diet.

Eating is a habit. There is no doubt of that. It is an expensive habit too. Still, most habits are difficult to break, and eating is one of them. This raises the old question of whether we eat to live or live to eat. Most folks do not enter into this speculative aspect of the question. They simply eat because they like it. If indigestion follows, they take dope.

Some years ago a Colorado Springs man made the startling announcement that he could live on air and water. He had experimented, he said, and had not suffered in consequence. He recommended this diet of wind pudding and water consomme to his fellow beings. We never heard how many took up sliced atmosphere and the water cure as a regular menu. If any of them did and survived, they never reported the fact, to our knowledge. Possibly they were trying to forget the experience.

Nevertheless it is probably a fact that we eat too much. If we exercised our lungs and muscles more and our alimentary organs less, we would doubtless have more health and certainly more wealth at the end of the year. But, then, think of the enjoyment we would miss, to say nothing of the grocers, butchers and bakers that would be deprived of business! These might be driven to a curtailment of diet as a matter of necessity.

Perhaps temperance is the best rule in all things, even in promulgating theories. Somewhere between the gourmand and the wind pudding man is the golden road of sanity. Most men are governed in the amount they eat by their appetites and the state of their pocketbooks. The proper adjustment between the two has furnished the chief domestic problem in all ages.

Without attempting to solve the problem, here is a chance throw. Eat what you want, but don't want too much.

A French scientist thinks that men could live for several centuries if they could drink sea water. This discovery is doubtless intended to be taken with the proverbial grain of the chief ingredient of sea water—that is, salt.

The latest joke comes in the form of a perfectly sober news dispatch. Russia has sent some submarine boats to join her fleet in the far east.

New Way To Kill Moths.

The Massachusetts authorities are planning to introduce a new method of fighting the gypsy moth, which have done so much damage to agriculture in that state and for whose extinction as a national enemy congress has been asked to appropriate $250,000. The new plan of breeding parasites to attack them has been tested in California by Mr. Koebele of Alameda and found effectual.

FIRE QUENCHING BOMB.

Novel Safety Device Invented by a Missourian.

There are fire extinguishers without number. The United States patent office records show that this is one of those things for which inventors have a peculiar weakness. Now comes the announcement of the making of an extinguisher by a Missourian on a practically untried principle.

A globe of brittle material the size of a rather large orange is filled with a powder which, when brought into contact with fire, generates an extinguishing gas. Within the globe is a cartridge loaded with an explosive powder. A firing pin is adjusted to the cartridge, and a wire from the pin is fastened to a hook on which the bomb is hung. Supporting the bomb is a second wire of material which easily fuses upon the application of heat. A spring is a secondary adjunct to the suspending paraphernalia.

The bombs are hung to the ceilings of warehouses or other property desired to be protected. If a fire occurs in the place the fusible wire melts, releasing the bomb, which falls, the firing pin explodes the cartridge and scatters the extinguishing powder in all directions.

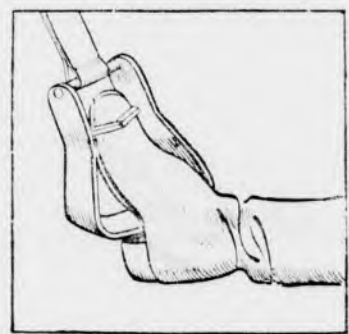

SAFETY STIRRUP.

Greatest Danger of Horseback Riding Eliminated.

The safety stirrup shown in the accompanying illustration is intended to eliminate from the sport of horseback riding its worst danger, that of being dragged along the ground by a running horse.

When a horse chances to stumble at a fence or ditch and unhorse the rider it is seldom that serious results follow, unless the foot happens to catch in the stirrup and the animal resumes his way with the rider hanging head downward and dragging over the ground. Accidents of this character are not rare in proportion to the number of those who indulge in horseback riding, and it is not surprising that an effort should be made to construct a stirrup which would be incapable of catching the foot whenever the rider happened to take a tumble.

meet the requirements. It will be noticed that any form of stirrup may be used in conjunction with this safety device, the improvement consisting in the little crossbar located just above the foot of the rider. When the foot is inserted in the stirrup this crossbar prevents its insertion too deeply, necessitating the maintaining of the weight on the ball of the foot.

Should a fall occur, the foot, being lodged at the center, bends downward as soon as any pressure is applied by the catching of the foot. Thus the bar serves the double purpose of maintaining the rider's foot in the proper position while riding and releasing it when he falls. One end of the frame is inserted in the side of the stirrup without being permanently attached thereto, while the other side may have a hinge which allows the guard to bend outward should the accident occur.

The inventor is Albert F. Wood of Shuman, S. D.

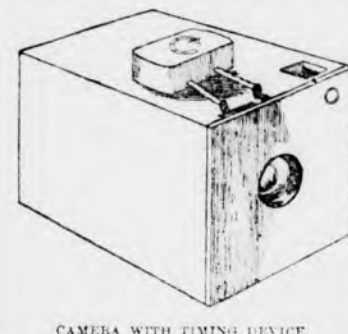

A New Sea Animal.

The creation of a new species of sea animal is the latest accomplishment of Professor Jacques Loeb, the physiologist formerly at the University of Chicago and now at the University of California. The result was obtained by interbreeding sea urchin and starfish in an alkaline solution containing salts of sea water and sodium hydrate. Under normal conditions the species will not amalgamate. An exposition of the manner and methods of the experiment and a description of the resultant offspring have been published by Professor Loeb in Pflüger's Archiv, a scientific journal printed in German.

FOR THE PHOTOGRAPHER.

Automatic Regulating Device For Time Exposures.

To the professional photographer or amateur who is constantly at work on his apparatus, making several exposures every day, it is a simple matter to take account of the amount of light which is available for affecting the sensitive plate and gauge the time of the exposure properly without the aid of any scale or a watch. But for those who use the camera infrequently and are liable to change the brand of plates from time to time the scale is almost a necessity. Then, after the proper amount of exposure has been ascer-ained, he must guess at the length of the fraction of a second called for, a very difficult thing to do without having previously studied it out by practice.

Now, however, there is no necessity for experimenting and guessing when each picture is taken, the operation having been narrowed down to a mechanical operation by the introduction of the camera attachment here presented. This timing device is operated in conjunction with the shutter working buttons, being so connected that the act of opening the shutter sets it in motion and causes it to act on the closing button at the proper instant. This timer can be regulated to operate at any fraction of a second or any number of seconds desired, the operator having only to set it by the gauge just before making the exposure.

William E. Mulholland of Juneau, Alaska, is the patentee of this device.

DANGEROUS HANDSHAKE.

French Chemists Condemn It as a Distributor of Germs.

The French journals have recently given publicity to a scientific discovery which may have a considerable influence upon one of the most ordinary usages of social intercourse. One M. Crouzet, a chemist at Bordeaux, has discovered that the human hand is largely occupied in sowing the seeds of all sorts of diseases. The hand, he says, is not only the most dirty, but the most dangerous, portion of our anatomy. It contains on the average 84,450,000 bacilli. Hence, he argues, people should never shake hands.

We know already that it is dangerous to kiss. But now, as a French paper puts it, science is no less hostile to friendship than to love. All men, however, are not equal in this matter. You must not shake hands with a physician, surgeon, hairdresser or butcher, especially a pork butcher. Workers in metal are, however, much less dangerous, because the minute metallic particles form, under the influence of the hand's warmth, an antiseptic oxide.

It is possible, M. Crouzet says, to protect yourself, if you must shake hands, by using soap and a nailbrush for five minutes, pumping your hand in a warm alkaline solution, rinsing it with sterilized water, drying it on a sterilized rough towel and finally washing it again in a solution of alcohol and ether.

Muscle Rays.

There appears to be no longer any doubt that rays are given off by active muscle and nerves. Dr. Hugh Wallman and Mr. Leslie Miller point out that experiments are remarkably easy to perform and are absolutely convincing as to the actual existence of the rays. The fluorescent screens are prepared with hexagonal zinc blende, which is placed in the form of a very thin film on thin paper, gold leaf, skin or thin enamel. The screen is excited and the fluorescent light allowed to be away until it has reached the steady stage. At this point if a muscle in a state of contraction be placed underneath the fluorescent screen it will be seen to brighten perceptibly.

Consumption of Furnace Smoke.

A Hungarian inventor claims to have solved the smoke difficulty by employing porous plates or bricks made of a composition containing lime and find of different degrees of combustibility arranged behind or between portions of the fuel and furnace. These serve as desuperheating or purifying filters for the furnace gases. A suitable combination of materials is made up of sawdust, coke or anthracite, baking fuel and brown coal and put mixed together and tempered with an amount of water equal to the weight of the combustible materials taken together.

A Fireless Steam Engine.

A steam locomotive recently completed in Dusseldorf, Germany, for use in factories which handle high explosives in bulk carries no fire with it. On the contrary, the steam is generated outside and the boiler of the locomotive charged with it, the operation requiring about half an hour. It is then able to operate for several hours, after which the recharging occupies about fifteen minutes. The operation is so simple that unskilled workmen are placed in charge. It is said to be only about one-half as expensive in operation as the ordinary locomotive.

"PURIFYING POLITICS."

How a Weak Argument is Used Both Ways Against Woman Suffrage.

When it was reported that the recent election frauds in Denver were committed mainly by women, the opponents of equal rights said this proved that women ought not to vote. When it turned out that the frauds in question were committed mainly by men, with only a very small sprinkling of women, the opponents shifted their ground and now say that equal suffrage is a failure because the women have not prevented all men from cheating and completely "purified politics."

Politics might be purified completely by adding to the electorate a body of angels who not only never cheated themselves, but were able by magic power to keep everybody else from cheating. That would be very convenient, but unfortunately it is impossible. On the other hand, politics may be purified to some extent by adding to the electorate a large body of voters among whom cheating is comparatively rare. That is what has happened in Colorado.

The female population of Colorado is 244,398. During the first ten years after equal suffrage was granted only one woman was convicted of illegal voting, while a great number of men indulged in it. In the recent Denver case ex-Governor Adams of Colorado says in the New York Sun that out of 5,000 fraudulent votes only about 100 were cast by women. And yet the demand has been spread broadcast that "the women did it."

The "indirect influence" of women is much vaunted as a purifying power by the opponents of equal rights, but it has not completely purified politics in the states where women do not vote. The election frauds in New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis, etc., have been much bigger and more chronic than in Denver. In Colorado woman suffrage has not completely purified politics, but it has had a good influence as far as it has gone, and no one hears more emphatic testimony to this than Hon. John L. Shafer himself.

Ellis Meredith of Denver, at the recent national suffrage convention, illustrated the situation by a story. She said: "A chronic typer was brought to the hospital with a bad case of delirium tremens. The doctor examined him carefully. The man asked, 'Can you cure me?' 'No,' answered the doctor, 'but I can reduce the size of the snakes.' Equal suffrage has not cured the corruption of politics, but it has distinctly reduced the size of the snakes."

ALICE STONE BLACKWELL.

BEHIND TIME YANKEES.

How Other Nations Lead Us in an Important Movement.

The Minneapolis Times, after commenting upon the action of the English house of commons in voting 182 to 68 in favor of full parliamentary suffrage for women and the approval of this action by the Italian chamber of deputies, says: "Still it comes with a little queer sensation, this news that orthodox England is really thinking in parliamentary thoughts about giving woman a vote on candidates for the house of commons. By good rights the United States should have led in this question. And here we are even behind Signor Rossi of Italy in recognition of the right of women to the suffrage."

Yes, according to the fundamental principles of our boasted free republic, the United States should have taken the lead in this question, but the fact is we are, and always have been, behind many of the other civilized countries of Europe in recognizing the political rights of women.

Women have voted for many years in England and her colonies upon the same terms as men for everything except members of parliament. In Australia and New Zealand women have full suffrage upon the same terms as men, and it looks now as though it would not be long before England would follow the lead of her more progressive colonies.

The rights of the women taxpayers have always been recognized in almost every country except the United States.

Verily, the United States has yet to learn the meaning of justice in its application to women.

ELNORA MONROE BARCOCK.

Are Our Women Inferior?

Restriction of suffrage implies inferiority on the part of the class denied the right. All proposed reasons against woman suffrage are merely allegations of inferiority, whatever the pretense may be. I do not believe all women hopelessly inferior to all men. I believe in woman suffrage. The right of an intelligent and self-respecting woman to vote should not depend upon the lack of intelligence and self-respect of the woman who is contented with the legal status which is a constant insult and which brings in its train a long series of handicaps. Taken mentally, morally or industrially, a disfranchised woman is not a fit mother of a voter, for she cannot wisely teach that of which she knows nothing.—Edward H. Winston.

Merit Proved by Opposition.

All genuine reforms have found opponents, even among those who most needed the benefits to be conferred by success. In the present aspect of the woman suffrage movement in the state of New York history simply repeats itself. The opposition as thus far developed on the part of some women with whom to rule or ruin is a necessity of their nature is necessary to complete the parallel between them and their prototypes as portrayed on the pages of history and should be accepted as the sign manual of merit in the movement honored by such opposition.

TO HARNESS OHIO FALLS.

Gigantic Plant to Surpass That at Niagara in Power.

The tremendous power of the Ohio falls, always heretofore a menace and destroyer, seems at last about to be directed to the use of man. The possibility is one of much importance to the surrounding country, including Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Evansville.

The plan approved by Major George Mott, Derby, the United States engineer at Louisville, and by engineers and capitalists provides for the largest single plant in the country, not excepting that of Niagara Falls, where there is one of 11,000 horsepower. It is estimated that 200,000 can be generated at Louisville.

The falls of the Ohio are more of a series of rapids than a fall like the one at Niagara. There is a drop of approximately twenty-six feet, and the falls and rapids are about three miles in length. With the exception of certain points, where the whirling waters and jagged rocks tell of the cruel strength, there is little that appears formidable or promising of power. But the force is there.

The government has spent millions of dollars in building a canal around the falls and maintains here the only life saving station in inland waters.

The chief problem that presented itself to the engineers arose from the fact that the stage of the water on the falls varies. In dry seasons it has been possible to cross on foot from the Kentucky to the Indiana shore. In high water the falls are as placed as a mill pond. These difficulties, it is said, can be surmounted, though they make necessary the expenditure of a vast sum of money $10,000,000 or more. If the power plant is built provision will be made for any emergency, so that a sudden cessation from natural causes need never be feared.

The project embraces the building of a mile and a half of concrete wall along the Indiana shore, the building of a cross dam just below Goose Island and the establishment of a huge power house on the Indiana side of the extremity of the race or dam. The existing mill race will be widened and extended to the whirlpool eddy. The terrific power which will thereby be made available will be directed to practical use by means of the turbine wheel and the dynamo. The equipment in the power house will be the same as is now employed in the utilization of the power of Niagara.

Three years at least will be required for the enterprise.

A NEW CREAM SEPARATOR.

Novel Ideas Embodied in an Improved Dairy Machine.

An improved cream separator of the centrifugal type forms the subject of a patent recently granted. The invention, described by the Scientific American, embodies some novel ideas, which are very ingenious and interesting. The separator proper has been broken away in our illustration to show the interior details, which comprise a stationary cylinder within which an inner cylinder is mounted to rotate.

The stationary cylinder is formed with a dome-shaped top, opening into a small receptacle for the cream, which is tapped out into an outer chamber and thence led off to any desired receptacle through the outlet pipe shown. The top of the rotary cylinder is closed by a bowl shaped receptacle. On the outer surface of this cylinder a spiral groove is cut. Similarly, but in reverse direction, a groove is cut on the inner surface of the stationary cylinder. Milk is fed from a tank at the right into a trough above the separator cylinders, whence it is led through pipes to the space between the two cylinders near the bottom. The inner cylinder is rotated by a crank through a train of step up gearing.

The effect of this rapid rotation is to drive the cream by centrifugal action up the outer, or stationary, groove in the bowl shaped receptacle at the top, while the skimmed milk moves up the groove on the rotating cylinder and falls into the bowl shaped receptacle. Two or more radial flanges in the bowl keep the liquid in motion and assist in forcing the cream up the dome. The skimmed milk passes out of the bowl through small perforations therein and is tapped out through a pipe at the bottom of the separator.

The driving mechanism is inclosed in a box, the lower part of which serves as a reservoir for oil. Into this one of the wheels dips and distributes the lubricant to the rest of the driving mechanism. The operating crank is connected with the train of gearing through a clutch consisting of a ratchet wheel and pawl, so that upon stopping the rotation of the crank the separator may continue to operate under its own momentum.

Tree Felling by Electricity.

In tree felling by electricity in French forests only an eighth of the time of ordinary sawing is required. A platinum wire made white hot by the current is used like a saw, and it cuts without dust, while the slight carbonization tends to preserve the wood.

1905 WINS MEET.

Sullivan, the Star, Sustains His Record as an All-round Athlete.

1904 Wins Relay—Records in Some Instances Went to Smash.

The interclass meet went off very smoothly last Saturday afternoon on Manchester Field. It was a foregone conclusion that 1905 would win the meet, but 1904 did better than expected, taking second place with a good margin over 1906. The final score was—1905, 47; 1904, 20; 1906, 10.

This year as last, there was one individual star, Frank Sullivan, who took six firsts, one second, and one third, a total of 33 points. Erastus Badger and Chester Locke were the next with 10 points apiece. Fletcher Burton did well for 1905, getting two seconds in the high and broad jump.

Four records went by the board, Sullivan doing the 100 in 14.5 seconds and the 400 in 35 seconds, while Locke did the mile in 4 minutes and 27 seconds in the pole vault. Robert Cosgrove easily won at all the same time broke the school record.

The closest races were the 100 and 440, in which E. Badger finished very close to Sullivan. Badger was handicapped in starting by a sore finger. The most exciting race was the fight for second place in the relay, between Burton '06 and Sullivan '05. 1904 easily won this race. Laurence Symmes doing the best work and gaining about 50 yards which Hiram Farr and E. Badger increased to about 100 before the finish. When Burton and Sullivan started the last lap in the relay Burton had a lead of 50 yards which

In the mile only four men entered, and Locke proved an easy winner with Henry Dickson second and Farr third.

Sullivan sprang a surprise by taking the shot put against a large field with Shepard Pond second and Cosgrove third.

The high jump went to Sullivan with Cosgrove and Burton tied for second. Burton won the jump off for second prize.

The broad jump was close, the three winners being within 6 inches of each other. Sullivan was first with Burton second and Cosgrove third.

1904 did her best in the 440 mile, Locke, Symmes and Farr getting the respective places in the 100 time of two minutes and twenty two seconds.

1905 did her best in the 440 mile, Locke, Symmes and Farr getting the respective places in the 100 time of two minutes and twenty two seconds.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets Better than a Doctor's Prescription

Mr. J. W. Turner, of Truham, Va., says that Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets have done him more good than anything he could get from the doctor. If any physician in this country was able to compound a medicine that would produce such gratifying results in cases of stomach troubles, biliousness or constipation, his whole time would be used in preparing this one medicine. For sale by O'Connor's Phar.

It will surprise you—try it.

It is the medicine above all others for catarrh and is worth its weight in gold. Ely's Cream Balm does all that is claimed for it.—B. W. Sperry, Hartford, Conn.

My son was afflicted with catarrh. He used Ely's Cream Balm and the disagreeable catarrh all left him.—J. C. Olmstead, Arcola, Ill.

Triumphs of Modern Surgery

Wonderful things are done for the human body by surgery. Organs are taken out and scraped and polished, and put back, or they may be removed entirely; bones are spliced; pipes take the place of diseased sections of veins; antiseptic dressings are applied to wounds, bruises, burns and like injuries before inflammation sets in, which causes them to heal without maturation and in one-third the time required by the old treatment. Chamberlain's Pain Balm acts on this same principle. It is an antiseptic and when applied to such injuries, causes them to heal very quickly. It also allays the pain and soreness. Keep a bottle of Pain Balm in your home and it will save you time and money, not to mention the inconvenience and suffering which such injuries entail. For sale by O'Connor's Phar.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood. If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail. Home of Swamp-Root free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

COLLECTOR'S SALE
OF REAL ESTATE
For Non-Payment of Sewer Assessments.

WINCHESTER, MASS., JUNE 16, 1904.
The owners and occupants of the following described parcels of Real Estate situated in the Town of Winchester, in the County of Middlesex and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and the public are hereby notified that the sewer assessments thereon severally assessed according to the lists committed to me as Collector of Taxes for said Town of Winchester, by the Sewer Commissioners of said Winchester, remain unpaid, and that said parcels of Real Estate, or such undivided portions of them as may be necessary, will be offered for sale by public auction at the Office of the Collector of Taxes, in the Town Hall Building,

Pleasant Street, in said Winchester, on

MONDAY, JULY 18, 1904, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, for the payment of said sewer assessments and interest, together with costs and charges thereon, unless the same shall be previously discharged.

The sums set against the descriptions of the several estates show the amounts due thereon, respectively, for the assessments, for the non-payment of which, each of said estates is to be sold, and not including costs and interest thereon, and charges incident to this sale.

4 1-2 PER CENT.

On First Mortgage Loan

If you have money out at two to four per cent, write to the undersigned who can place your money so it will net you FOUR AND ONE HALF PER CENT on first-class city property where the insurance on the property will cover the full amount of loan.

The people of the South are making more money than the people of any section of the union. Fruit growing and truck farming pay large profits because the farmer gets his products into the market six weeks earlier than the farmer of any other section. Rice growing, Sugar Cane growing and the making of Sugar, Cotton growing bring to the farmers large returns, and these crops are sure. No droughts to cause a failure. Where people are making money is the place to loan for sure and safe return of principal and interest.

I give as reference Hon. Walter Clark, Chief Justice of Supreme Court, for North Carolina, Raleigh, N. C.; Mr. Joseph Daniels, Editor Daily News & Observer, the leading daily in North Carolina, Raleigh; Mr. John H. Sharp, Treasurer Seaboard Air Line Railway, Portsmouth, Va., and Mr. E. H. Clement, editor Daily Transcript, Boston Mass. If you want any information about the South its lands, water powers, best place to send winter, etc., as well as loaning money, write me and I will gladly reply. Address John T. Patrick, Pinebluff, N. C.

Are You Contemplating Going South or Investing Money There.

We advise any of our readers who contemplate going south for the winter and want to rent a furnished cottage or secure board in hotel, boarding house or private family, or are desirous of investing money down there, to first write Mr. John T. Patrick, Pinebluff, N. C. Mr. Patrick has made a specialty of furnishing information to Northern people who want to find winter homes or to those who desire to loan money down there on mortgages. He is a man that can be relied upon to give honest information, and to protect the interests of those who trust their money to his care. Recently one of our readers asked Mr. Patrick to give reference as to his character and business ability, and he furnished the names of the Chief Justice of his state, Judge Walter Clark, Raleigh, N. C., and the Editor of the leading daily in the state, the News & Observer, Mr. Joseph Daniels, Raleigh, and the Editor-in-chief of the Boston Transcript, Mr. E. H. Clement, and these men said in reply that whatever Mr. Patrick said could be relied upon. Therefore it will pay you to write Mr. Patrick before you locate, and if you have money to loan, secure his assistance to get the highest rate of interest on good first-class mortgages down South where the people pay more interest than is paid up here.

Betty Has a Maid or Two

"Oh! John! John, dear! I am so glad you have come," said Betty, flinging herself into my outstretched arms. We had only been married four months, and they—the arms—were apt to assume that attitude when Betty was near.

"Whatever is it, sweetheart?" I asked.

"Hilda is going to leave!" she replied tragically.

"Leave?" I repeated. "What for, in the name of goodness?"

"She's going to marry the 'boy' who brings the vegetables," answered Betty, almost crying as she looked into futurity without Hilda.

"What?" I asked.

"Hilda has been especially trained for us by Aunt Eliza, and was certainly a credit to Aunt's system."

"Never mind, Betty," I comforted. "She isn't the only pebble."

"Oh, course not; but John, dear, I asked the ice-man and he said, 'Thirty ladies has asked me to find 'em a girl inside of two weeks, marm.' Wouldn't it be awful if we couldn't get one? You would starve, poor boy, unless you could live on boiled eggs—you know, John, I can do that," and Betty's blue eyes were "all teary" round the lashes.

"Now see here, little woman, you needn't bother your head. I'll attend to this matter, and I'll throw out my chest and feel like Ajax."

"You are so comforting, John!" she sighed contentedly, as she snuggled against my vest pocket.

On the following morning I read ads. all the way in town. The following hit me as the proper sort of thing:

Strong, capable cook; wash, iron, and fix it street.

I accordingly rang the bell at No. 73. A greasy-looking female with a trowsy pompadour appeared.

"I called to see the cook," politely, I started in.

"Ma'am!" she threw her voice up the stairs. "Here's a man wants to see ye!"

A red-haired female descended slowly. She would never be called upon to explain why the Lord had made her so handsome, and her voice matched her face.

"I live in W.," I began, "and want a—"

"I couldn't be taking a place out of the city, now!" she snapped.

That settled it, and I got out. When I tried another, a girl with a fixed jaw, began to question me before I had a chance to say much of anything.

"What wages do ye pay?" and ye hev a woman come in to wash?" she questioned.

"Four dollars, if competent," I said shortly; but the maid well be expected to do the washing for two."

"When I does the cooking, I gets six a week," she snorted contemptuously.

I began to wilt. The next was a tall, shrew creature, who said she could do all the work—yes! and cook, well, too. She seemed tractable, and I engaged her at once. The next Saturday Hannah appeared tugging a huge shawl over her head, and a hard time, binding my way. "I had a hard time, binding my way," she said sardonically to Betty. "I thought I'd not be bringing my trunk till I'd see how I'd be suited, like."

Next morning, we were awakened by a crash that shook the flat.

"Mercy, John!" cried my wife, pinching me fiercely, in her fright. In a moment we heard Hannah picking herself up from the bottom of the stairs. That was a sample of her methods of locomotion. Her feet got twisted I think, and the dishes she broke—well! when the tureen of our best set went, Hannah went also.

Next we tried a colored lady. She was a dandy cook, but Betty went into the kitchen one day and found the roast on the chair, with the cat and dog on either side helping themselves to tid bits.

"Mercy, Delphine! What is that meat doing there?" said Betty.

The girl beamed on the animals. "They is owdacious shuah, 'nough!" she answered, waving her dish cloth pacifically at them.

"But, Delphine! That's a dirty trick. You must not put food in a chair ever again," said my wife.

"Laws Honey! we all has to eat, oah peck o' dirt—heh-huh!" laughed Delphine. We kept her a week—she was such an excellent cook—till we found her with pedal extremities resting in close proximity to a pan of biscuit in the half-cool oven.

Sorrowfully, Delphine was relinquished. For two days, Betty's poor little hands were all pink and putty, but that blessed Hilda sent us a girl. She was about as big as a pint of elder, but strong and hard like in her movements.

"I am sure we have got a jewel at last," sighed Betty, and I acquiesced. One day, we missed a Doulton platter, which was the pride of Betty's heart. On questioning Freda, a reproachful look and a denial of all knowledge of the matter, was received. What could one do?

Mrs. Boynton was her former mistress, and although the poor woman never harmed me any, I fairly loathe the name of Boynton.

If Betty suggested "chops"—she didn't dare to do more than suggest—for supper, Miss Boynton never had hot meat for that meal, only cold meat and sauce."

One night I managed to leave the office earlier than usual. I had had no lunch, so suggested that my aching void be filled before the usual time.

Betty was all sympathy. "Why? of course, dear boy! Just tell Freda, when you go down stairs, to have supper just as quickly as possible."

I am an obedient husband, so did as I was told—but it won't happen again—I refuse to interfere in the culinary sphere.

This is what Freda said. "I think maybe I have him ready by six o'clock, I dunno! Mistare Boynton, he awful funny man, come home reglar at half past six every night. I like him awful well—nice man!"

"She made me feel murderous at times," I said to you that on purpose?" I inquired of Betty as I ruffled her pompadour.

"I don't know what you mean, dear," she replied, but there was a twinkle in her eye that belied her words.

"Isn't it awful, John? What did she say this time?"

"Oh! rang another change on the adorable Boynton," I answered with some heat.

"It's a shame," said Betty, but you must own that it's better than eggs three times a day."

"Well! for steady diet—" I began teasingly, but Betty stopped further speech in a little way, that she practices on me occasionally.

"Where are the croquettes?" questioned my wife at supper.

"Oh! so sorry! I forgot all 'bout them," said Miss Boynton, she always have croquettes on Wednesday, so I forget you want them tonight."

She never forgot anything really, she just didn't want to have them for some occult reason. I said things under my breath. If you let Freda do "how she likes" and "when she likes," everything goes smoothly, but attempt to reprove or advise anything out of the usual routine and the fat is in the fire."

Lately, she has taken to finding a pain in her anatomy when her sensitive nature has been wounded.

"Don't you think I awful delicate looking girl?" she will ask with tears in her eyes. "Miss Boynton think I have consumption some day."

Still, Freda has her good points, so wife and I have meekly settled down to the thralldom. We hear dishes smash—but Betty never can let the pieces—I think Hilda eats them, and still she pops up with her everlasting statement, "I'm very careful girl. I only break von chimney since I come to this place!"

Such nerve is too much for me, I frankly own. Nevertheless—when Jones tells me she has a regular coker of a girl, by jove! I begin to blow about Freda.

"Never have to ask her a second time to do anything; a regular jewel!" he continues.

I look at him, and wonder if he is lying, too.

Parish of the Epiphany

At the closing session of the Sunday School next Sunday, the prizes for attendance will be given, and the diplomas to those graduating. It is hoped that many members of the congregation will remain for the brief graduating service at 12 o'clock.

The annual meeting of the Choir Guild will be held next Saturday, June 18. The Guild is to make the trip to Provincetown. Those who are going are asked to meet at the Winchester station for the 8:14 train, and each one will bring 50 cents and luncheon.

The Elizabeth Peabody Kindergarten Settlement of 87 Poplar street, Boston, makes an urgent appeal for helpers during the summer. What is desired is young women who will give one day, or one half day, each week from July 6 to September 6, to assist in the work of giving outings to children, etc. Are there one or two members of our parish who will volunteer for this work? If so, will they send their names to the Rector.

Picnic to Silver Lake

The annual picnic of the Shakespeare Club was held at Silver Lake last Friday. The jolly picnickers took the seven minutes of three car, arriving at the lake at 4:30. After a very enjoyable time supper was served, and the happy young people left for home at 7 o'clock, satisfied that the picnic was a great success. Those who attended were, Misses Maud Guttersen, Edith Guttersen, Barbara Johnson, Lorene Osgood, Bertha Waldmyer, Edith Hinds and Marion Cole, Messrs. Carol Newell, Robert Barr, Harold Webber, Charles Richardson and Philip Dickson. Mrs. Cole chaperoned the party.

"The Queen of Laughter"

"The Queen of Laughter," The Bostonians' newest comic opera triumph, is now being sung at the Colonial Theatre, Boston. Miss Isabel DeWitt Kaplan's original story, bright lines and clever lyrics, and S. William Brady's tuneful and musically score, have won instant and most emphatic approval of large audiences who have patronized the Colonial last week. The individual members of the Bostonians have the successes of their career. If you hear some new, original and pleasing melody being whistled on the streets of Boston or played in the parlor, take it for granted that it is a selection from The Bostonians' comic opera success, "The Queen of Laughter." The critical gallery patrons have given their approval of the musical numbers by whistling in chorus almost every number of the catchy sort that is rendered on the stage. So great is their whistling demonstration nightly in the selection "My Lady Moon" that Musical Director Studley turns to the whistling audience and yields his baton in that direction. But although it receives from eight to ten encores each night, "Never Borrowed" outstrips "My Lady Moon" by at least two encores, the former never receiving less than ten encores every night. Other popular musical numbers are "The Faithful Butchery," "The Bell Song," "I'll Tell Your Name," "The Madrigal," "It Doesn't Look That Way," "The Magic Boat of Dreams," "Pierrot and Perrette," "Kate Carney" and "The Serenade." Special summer prices are prevailing at the Colonial Theatre, a good orchestra seat with reserved coupon selling for 50 cents. Orders by mail, telephone or telegraph, addressed to the Colonial Theatre, Boston, will receive prompt attention in the order in which they are received.

It is said that Henry Slonkiewicz, the author of "Quo Vadis," writes all his copy in red ink. Young and aspiring authors should not run after a bottle of red ink on the strength of this, however, for Mr. Slonkiewicz also uses a composition not so easily secured—gray matter.

Candle Power of the Sun.
By an ingenious arrangement Fabry has diminished the sun's light by passage through a slit and then through an ammoniacal solution of copper sulphate and has compared it with a light of known candle power. He concludes that, with the sun at zenith, the solar light at sea level is more than 100,000 times that of a standard candle at a distance of one meter. The intensity of light at the sun's surface is about ten times as great for the same area as that in the electric arc.

SPECIAL TOWN MEETING.

The Highland School to be Retained.

Monday evening there took place one of the most earnest town meetings that has occurred in many years. The cause of this was on the question of temporarily discontinuing the Highland School on Highland avenue and abandoning the building for school purposes. The residents of the neighborhood were present in force and so, too, were their numerous friends. It is a pretty difficult matter to close a long established school building even temporarily, or even for the purpose of a better system of education in another school. The people having children in this school did not care as much for repairs on the building as they did that the school might be kept running.

The Board of Health, it will be remembered, ordered the building closed for sanitary reasons last fall. The School Board had procured estimates as to the amount that would be necessary to conform to the demands of the Board of Health and make other necessary repairs. The estimated cost was $1500 and the School Committee not believing the building was worth such an expenditure, decided to close it until the town was able to erect a new building and in the mean time send the children to other schools. Parents objected to doing this, and hence a long discussion Monday evening, with the passage of a vote that the school be continued, and another vote that the School Committee and the Board of Health get together and decide some way of remedying present complaints with the least expense to the town. They will report at the adjourning meeting on Tuesday evening, July 5.

After Town Clerk Carter had read the Selectmen's call for the meeting, Ralph E. Joslin, Esq., was elected Moderator.

Under the article, "To hear and act upon the reports of the town officers and committees," Auditor Johnson offered a vote, which was carried, "That the sum of $1465 be transferred from the appropriations for the Board of Health to the incidentals account, to cover the payments made for the alteration and repairs of the old stable on the town lot on Linden street."

Auditor Johnson at the request of the Selectmen offered the following: Voted that $1450 be transferred from High School Building account to Incidentals account for the expense of issue of Bonds as follows: Legal opinion $75.00; Advertising, $19.50; Engraving and printing bonds, $175.00; Town counsel's services, $150.00. Total $1450.

Mr. Lewis Parkhurst spoke in opposition to this vote, as he claimed that its passage would not be fair to the High School Building Committee as the bill did not belong to them, and would prevent the Committee's desire to keep within their appropriation. The vote failed to pass.

The following also offered by Mr. Johnson was lost: Voted that $143 be transferred from new Town Stable appropriation to Incidentals account, for the expense of issue of bonds as follows: Legal opinion $15.00; Engraving and printing bonds, $63.00; Town counsel's services, $65.00. Total $143.00.

Assessor Geo. W. Payne reported for the Committee on selling the Eaton street lot, that it was inadvisable to sell any portion of the land at the present time. The report was ordered received and the Committee discharged.

THE HIGHLAND SCHOOL QUESTION. Mr. S. D. Leland offered the following: Moved that the School Board are hereby directed to make such changes in the sanitary arrangements in the Highland school, so called, during the coming summer vacation, as shall satisfy the demands of the Board of Health and that a primary school be hereafter maintained in this district.

In support of his motion Mr. Leland claimed that repairs would make it a good building for ten years to come. The people in the neighborhood desired that the building be retained, as they believed that a primary school should be close to the homes of the pupils. The parents don't want a new school house, as they believe that the present one is good enough. To send these children to other schools was a bad proposition.

Chairman Currier of the School Committee said that there were two matters to be considered. The first was what will satisfy the Board of Health, and second, if the improvements are made, where is the money to come from.

Dr. Church replied by saying that the committee had never come before the Board of Health in regard to this. If the town cannot afford to appropriate $1500 to put this building in repair, then it had no business to appropriate $100.00 for a new High school house.

Mr. Currier said that he lived in the district and he ought to support the measure, but his conscience would not permit him to advocate an expenditure of $1500 on the old building. That he favored closing the school permanently was not true. Until the town knows where it stands in the matter of school accommodations, nothing should be done.

A careful census showed that 276 children of school age will leave Winchester when the McKay factory leaves town. The committee were looking ahead and trying to shape things to that end.

Mr. Smith, for the Appropriation Committee, said that they were opposed to making an appropriation as they did not consider the old building worth doing so.

down the old building and build a new one.

Mr. N. A. Richardson, F. E. Rowe and Mr. G. O. Fogg favored continuing the school.

Mr. Mahlon Taplin claimed that so far as he could see after inspection the building was in good condition. Cement the vault and make it tight and it would be perfectly safe. He could not see on what grounds the Board of Health had ordered the building closed. The school should be kept open, and with repairs the building would last for a generation.

Mr. F. F. Carpenter of the School Board said that in a year or two $15,000 would have to be spent for a new Chapin school house which was the worst in town, and for this reason he did not favor a large expenditure on the Highland building.

This brought Mr. W. J. Daly to his feet who gave a sad picture of conditions at the Chapin school.

Mr. Albert F. Blaisdell of the School Committee then addressed the meeting as follows:

There are a few points about this Highland school matter which it seems to me should be stated and emphasized in more detail. The courtesy of the Chairman of the School Committee may prevent him from indulging in some statements which might well be given to this meeting.

Inasmuch as some points which I propose to discuss touch upon topics not usually treated before mixed audiences, and to the intent that I may be more guarded in my language, I beg your indulgence in reading from prepared notes.

Sundry people do not as yet seem to understand the attitude of the School Committee in the matter under discussion. Only yesterday two of our citizens who are always zealous in educational matters took it for granted that the Highland school was closed. Of course it is not. The school continues in a flourishing condition and will close next Friday after a year of successful work.

However, the School Committee does not propose to take the risk of having the Board of Health come down upon it at any time next fall and order it to close this school in a week's time and force it to distribute so or more little children through the various schools of this town; and this, too, after every detail of a year's future programme has been carefully arranged, so that unless action is taken here tonight, the Highland school will be closed and the pupils scattered. This educational center in a flourishing section of a rich and prosperous town will disappear, for at least two years.

The committee has already foreclosed for this. One teacher has been discharged, another transferred. The pupils of the III and IV grades have been ordered to be distributed to other schools and it is planned to send the little children of the I and II grades to the Wadleigh school and then open up an additional room in the old High school for the VII grade pupils thus forced out of the Wadleigh. This, indeed, is a pretty mess! Nothing would justify such drastic action on the part of the School Committee except on account of an epidemic or foul sanitary conditions which could not be remedied.

Nine months ago as the culmination of a somewhat lively correspondence, the Board of Health ordered the School Committee to connect the Highland school with the sewer, saying that they would otherwise close the school as its sanitary condition was a menace to public health. All three members of the School Committee had had experience enough in school sanitary matters in general, and this school in particular, to know that this was not true. It was not true then and it is not true now. The Highland school is not and has not been in any sense of the word a menace to public health, nor even has it endangered the health of its pupils.

If the Board of Health really believed it last fall, why has it neglected to do its duty in allowing this school to remain open all this time? If their written official mandatory order meant anything, why did the Board not back up its words by action? Under the statutes they had full authority to do so. The Chairman of the School Committee demonstrated to you at the special town meeting last spring that figures prove beyond all doubt that the health of the Highland school deviated only 14 of 1 per cent. from that of other schools in this town. Not one extra dollar has been expended and no change has been made in the sanitary arrangements of this school since the receipt of the official order. If it was a menace to public health last October, it was a menace all last winter and it is today. It has exactly the same sanitary equipment. The health of the school is now in a normal condition—and it has been so all this school year. What, then, pray, is the matter? Why are two town meetings called, the School Committee bothered to transfer pupils and teachers, re-adjust school rooms and at last close up this school? The explanation is almost ludicrous, and would provoke only ridicule except that a well recognized principle in school management is at stake. To shut up a school is easy enough. The merest tyro in school matters can vote to do that. The real comes in slowly but surely building up by wise and economical management such educational centres in Winchester as shall promote the welfare of the entire school population.

Why, then, this tempest in a teapot? What is the nub of this thing? I don't know, but I can guess. I would not knowingly be unjust to the present Board of Health, nor impute wrong motives to it. I cannot well be charged with any personal feeling on this question, for as a matter of fact I have never spoken a single word in my life, to my knowledge, to a single member of this Board. Two of the gentlemen I don't know even by sight. The third gentleman I only know as he has been pointed out to me on the street. Neither do these gentlemen know me. And right here let me say that I have no grievance nor complaint to make of the Board. It is simply an honest comment on their line of official action. It is a business matter pure and simple and involves no personalities. It seems to me, however, that in a matter so far-reaching in its effect upon our school system that ordinary wisdom to say nothing of courtesy would have suggested full conferences

Mrs. Eliza Ann Baker.

Mrs. Eliza Ann Baker, widow, aged 64 years, 10 months, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edward W. Abbott, of Raynecroft road, Thursday. Mrs. Abbott's home was for many years in Somerville, later in West Medford, and during her illness of 16 weeks with her daughter in this town. Her death was caused by a spinal trouble. She was born in St. Stephen, N. B., being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Mac Gibbon. She leaves besides her daughter in this town, six children—Mrs. Chas. Harmon, Miss Elizabeth Baker, Mr. Herbert Baker and Mr. Robert Baker of Somerville, Mr. Kennison Baker of Brockton and Mrs. John Crocker of Fallmouth.

Funeral services will be private and held this afternoon at her daughter's home, Rev. William I. Lawrence officiating. The remains will be taken to St. Stephen, N. B., for interment.

Masonic Vespers.

The Winchester Unitarian Church has invited William Parkman Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons, to worship with them in recognition of St. John's Day, the service to be held next Sunday afternoon at four o'clock. All lodges in the Masonic District have also been invited, and all local masons are urged to attend. The Lodge, with Masonic guests, will form at the Hall and march in regalia to the church. Rev. William I. Lawrence will conduct the service of worship. Rev. Harry Fay Fisher, Chaplain of Hiram Lodge, Arlington, will preach the sermon. The music will be furnished by the Commonwealth Male Quartette. The service is open to all, and a general invitation is extended to the public to attend.

July 4th.

The arrangements are being pushed along for a fine celebration, but the money for the fireworks, without which the program would not be complete, of course must be raised by subscription, and the extent of the display will depend upon the amount raised. Any citizen may send his subscription to the STAR office and it will be acknowledged through its columns.

Coan-Freethy.

Thursday evening witnessed another June wedding of note in this town. The scene of the occasion was the residence of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Freethy, at No. 65 Church street, the contracting parties being their daughter, Constance Edith Dorothy, and Mr. Robert Allan Coan, son of Mrs. Clara Coan, of Worcester. The house and grounds were prettily and tastefully decorated with flowers and Japanese lanterns, and a tent for the refreshments was placed on the lawn at the side. The ceremony was performed by President William Huntington of Boston University, of which institution both of the young people are graduates, and occurred at seven o'clock.

The bridal party marched down an aisle formed of daisy chains and the ceremony was performed under a bell made of daisies. The bride was given away by her father and two rings were used. The bride was becomingly gowned in white crepe de chine over white silk and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Miss Victoria M. Freethy, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore pink silk muslin and carried daisies. The bridesmaid was Miss Emily Coan of Worcester, sister of the groom. She wore pink silk muslin and also carried daisies. Mr. Howard W. Schaefer of Boston was the best man. The ceremony was private, only intimate friends and members of the families being present.

Following the ceremony a reception was held. The ushers were: William John Freethy of Watertown and George Freethy, brothers of the bride, Walter Merritt of Somerville, J. Evans Rice of Newton, Charles Moore of Boston and Arthur M. McLean of Lowell. During the evening friends to the number of several hundred called to offer congratulations to the young couple.

The present were numerous and very pretty, including several checks, cut glass and silver. Mr. and Mrs. Coan will make Pepperell their future home after a wedding trip, Mr. Coan being principal of the high school there. They will be at home after October first. The many friends of Mrs. Coan in this town wish her every future happiness.

LAURENCE M. SYMMES, Valedictorian, W. H. S. '04.

Davis-Ayer.

A very pretty home wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Ayer on Church street, Woburn, Wednesday evening, June 15, when their niece, Jeanette May Ayer, was married to Elmer Stanley Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Davis of Winchester. Rev. C. B. Crane of Cambridge performed the ceremony. The house was tastefully decorated with palms and daisies.

The bridal party marched through an aisle formed by six little girls, the Misses Gertrude Davis, Gladys Smith, Mabel Humphry, and Josephine Woods of Winchester; Muriel Lohrop and Mildred Ayer of Woburn, holding a daisy chain. The flower girls were Helen Martha Woods of Winchester and Thorough Everett Ayer of Woburn. Miss Sadie J. Clark of Melrose acted as bridesmaid, and John R. Newman, Jr., of Winchester, was best man.

The bride wore white persian lawn, with lace yoke and belt, and satin girdle, and carried bride roses.

Guests were present from Arlington, Malden, Medford, Hyde Park, Somerville, Boston, Melrose, Haverhill, New York and Winchester.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis started on a wedding tour, which will include Albany, a trip down the Hudson and return by way of Fall River. They will reside in Winchester where Mr. Davis is engineer at the United Shoe Machinery Company factory.—[Woburn News.]

Methodist Sunday School Picnic

The M. E. Sunday School Picnic to Salem Willows will leave from the church building Saturday morning, June 25th, at 8:45 o'clock. Children, members of the school, under the age of sixteen will be carried to the picnic grounds and back free of charge. Fare for adults 35c. Tickets may be secured from the Pastor Rev. Vincent Ravi, or from any of the officers and teachers of the school on Saturday morning before starting.

DWIGHT NELSON ROBINSON, Salutatorian, W. H. S. '04.

Knox-Bradway.

There was a large assemblage at the Grace Congregational Church of South Framingham, Mass., last Tuesday evening, at the wedding of Miss Ruth Niles Bradway, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Bradway of that town, to Mr. Chester Wight Knox of this town and Cripple Creek, Colorado.

The Episcopal Church service was used, the clergyman being Rev. Frederick E. Emrick, D.D., of Brookline, formerly of South Framingham, and Rev. Charles H. L. Anielis, D.D., the present pastor of Grace Church. The church was beautifully decorated, the colors being green, white and pink. The bride had for her maid of honor Miss Maud S. Parmenter of Somerville. The bridesmaids were Misses Lucy C. Waterhouse of Bourne, Mass., Alice Randall and Ethel A. Bryant both of Brooklyn, N. Y., Miss Blanche G. Lowell of Worcester, Mass., was rose maid, Miss Gladys A. Spaulding of Winchester and Master Earl L. Bradway, younger brother of the bride were flower children. The ushers were: Messrs. A. Reed Tatt of Chelsea, Clifford Pratt of South Framingham, Franklin H. Stacy, Wilbur R. Fitch and Harry F. Hunt of Winchester and James L. Barrett of Chelsea.

The groom was accompanied by Mr. Harvey V. Miller of Columbus, Ohio, as best man and Master Stanley D. Bradway the youngest brother of the bride as ring bearer.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father who gave her away. She was attired in a gown of white mousseline satin cut en traine. Her bouquet was a shower one of lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaids were dressed in the colors adapted in the decorations of the church.

The newly married couple returned the compliment to the best man by serving as best man and matron of honor respectively at his wedding on Thursday, and the two couples will take a trip together.

Immediately after the church ceremony the bride's father and mother gave a reception at their home, No. 9 Alexander street.

The newly married couple with their parents received. Friends were very generous in wedding presents.

The bride is a popular young lady in her town, especially in musical circles and was soprano soloist in the choir of her church.

The groom is a Winchester boy, attended our High school, went to Wesleyan Academy at Wilbraham as a preparatory school for college. It was at this academy where he met the young lady who has now become his wife. He entered Harvard College but completed his course in mining engineering in the State School of Mines in Butte, Montana, and has received the degree of E. M. For the last two and one half years he has been engaged in Mining Engineering in Colorado. They will leave for Boulder, Colorado, the first part of July and will make their home there.

HARRIET J. COLE, Prophetess, W. H. S. '04.

Whitney-Stillman.

Mr. Robert Fletcher Whitney, son of Mr. Arthur E. Whitney and Miss Eliza Beth Webster Stillman daughter of Mrs. Chas. A. Stillman, were married at the bride's home on Tuesday afternoon. Owing to the sudden death of the bride's father, the ceremony was very simple and private, being performed by Rev. John W. Suter assisted by Rev. C. S. Hutchins of Chelsea. Mr. and Mrs. Whitney will make their home on Lawrence street, this town.

To All Resident Master Masons

You are cordially invited to unite with William Parkman Lodge in service for the observance of Saint John's Day, Sunday, June 26, in the Unitarian Church at 4 o'clock p. m.

You are requested to meet with the Lodge in Masonic Hall at 3:30, wearing white gloves and dark clothes.

Capt. Charles Allyn Stillman.

Capt. Charles Allyn Stillman, U. S. M. C., retired, died suddenly of apoplexy Tuesday morning at 2:30 at his home on Lawrence street. While he had not been in the best of health of late, his death was very unexpected and his wife and family have deep sympathy in their sudden bereavement. A particularly sad feature of his demise was that it occurred on the wedding day of his daughter Elizabeth. He had been a resident of this town for 10 years during which time he had made many warm friends and acquaintances.

Besides his wife, four children are living, Allyn A. and Alston A. members of the firm of Stillman Bros.; Mrs. Robert F. Whitney of Winchester and Mrs. Harry W. Raynes of Dover, N. H. He also leaves two sisters—Mrs. Celia A. White of Abbott's Run, R. I. and Miss Alice W. Stillman of Hartford, Conn., and two brothers, W. W. Stillman of Hartford, Conn., and Allyn Stillman of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Capt. Charles A. Stillman was born in Hartford, Conn., Feb. 10, 1837. He was the son of Allyn S. and Cecilia Stillman. At the outbreak of the civil war he enlisted in the marine corps as a second lieutenant. He was promoted to the rank of first lieutenant and soon afterwards received his commission as captain from Gen. Grant.

He was with Admiral Dupont at the capture of Port Royal, South Carolina, and served on the Florida coast in 1862 on the USS Colorado. He also served with Admiral Porter in the naval engagements which opened up the Mississippi river to navigation.

At the time of the draft riots in New York city in 1863 he was in command of a battalion of marines. In 1864 he was ordered to the Pacific coast and served with the Pacific squadron. He was later placed in command of the marine guard of the USS Cyane, joining that ship at Valparaiso, and spent two or three years in cruising on the coast of Chile.

In 1870 he was in charge of the guard of the U. S. receiving ship Vermont, when he was again ordered to the Pacific squadron, joining the flagship at San Francisco as fleet marine officer.

He was on duty one year at Panama and there contracted chagres fever, as a result of which he was incapacitated from active duty and placed on the retired list after 12 years of service for the flag.

He was married May 22, 1867, in Brooklyn, N. Y., to Miss Harriet Allen, who survives him. After living several years in Hartford he came to Winchester. He was one of the leading members of the Episcopal society. He was a member of the Boston commandery of the military order of the Loyal Legion of the United States.

Funeral services were held at the family residence on Lawrence street, Thursday afternoon, Rev. John W. Suter officiating. The bearers were: Brig. Gen. Robert L. Meade U. S. M. C. of Boston Brig. Gen. James Forney U. S. M. C. of Boston, Com. John K. Winn of Chelsea and Com. Charles W. Tracey of Boston. A marine guard of 100 men from the Charlestown Navy Yard attended the services and escorted the remains to the grave. Interment was in Wildwood cemetery.

Class of 1904—Baccalaureate Sermon.

Last Sunday forenoon at the Congregational church, Rev. D. A. Newton preached the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of the High School. The church was filled with scholars, members of the church and friends of the graduating class. Rev. Mr. Newton took for his text, "Making Real your Ideal." The baccalaureate hymn, written for the occasion and dedicated to the class by Rev. S. Winchester Adair, was as follows:

THOU' DREAMS, L. M.

We are Thy servants, mighty God,
With purpose clad, for service shod;
Thy voice rings clear and loud to all;
They are true souls who heed Thy call.
Help us to be and not to seem,
To dare real deeds, not idly dream;
Lest after dreams we wake to find
Our work has left us far behind.
Large is the land we must subdue,
As from the heights of hope we view
The fields that lie so fair beyond,
By Thy rich grace and sunshine crowned.
Within us hope with purpose joins,
Girded for service are our loins;
Without us are the world's great needs;
Equip us, Lord, for faithful deeds.
Grand is each life, and large the heart
That ever gladly does its part
In work and joy alike with zeal, Where'er the need Thou dost reveal.
Obedient to Thy just command,
With heart and voice, with head and hand
We go to meet each opening day
That leads us farther on our way.

The motto of the class of 1904 is "Esse Quam Videri."

The semi-annual business meeting of Highland Bethany Y. P. S. C. E. will be held Sunday evening June 26, 1904, at which time the reports of the last six months will be taken up. Full attendance essential.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets Better than a Doctor's Prescription.

Mr. J. W. Turner, of Truhart, Va., says that Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets have done him more good than anything he could get from the doctor. If any physician in this country was able to compound a medicine that would produce such gratifying results in cases of stomach troubles, biliousness or constipation, his whole time would be used in preparing this one medicine. For sale by O'Connor's Phar.

It will surprise you—try it.

It is the medicine above all others for catarrh and is worth its weight in gold Ely's Cream Balm does all that is claimed for it.—B. W. Sperry, Hartford, Conn.

My son was afflicted with catarrh. He used Ely's Cream Balm and the disagreeable catarrh all left him.—J. C. Olmstead, Arcola, Ill.

Triumphs of Modern Surgery.

Wonderful things are done for the human body by surgery. Organs are taken out and scraped and polished and put back, or they may be removed entirely; bones are spliced; pipes take the place of diseased sections of veins; anti-septic dressings are applied to wounds, bruises, burns and like injuries before inflammation sets in, which causes them to heal without maturation and in one-third the time required by the old treatment. Chamberlain's Pain Balm acts on this same principle. It is an antiseptic and when applied to such injuries, causes them to heal very quickly. It also allays the pain and soreness. Keep a bottle of Pain Balm in your home and it will save you time and money, not to mention the inconvenience and suffering which such injuries entail. For sale by O'Connor's Phar.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty cent and dollar sizes are sold by all good druggists.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

OF REAL ESTATE

WINCHESTER, MASS., JUNE 16, 1904.

The owners and occupants of the following described parcels of Real Estate situated in the Town of Winchester, in the County of Middlesex and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and the public are hereby notified that the sewer assessments thereon severally assessed according to the lists committed to me as Collector of Taxes for said Town of Winchester, by the Sewer Commissioners of said Winchester, remain unpaid, and that said parcels of Real Estate, or such undivided portions of them as may be necessary, will be offered for sale by public auction at the Office of the Collector of Taxes, in the Town Hall Building, Pleasant street, in said Winchester, on

MONDAY, JULY 18, 1904,

at ten o'clock in the forenoon, for the payment of said sewer assessments and interest, together with costs and charges thereon, unless the same shall be previously discharged.

The sums set against the descriptions of the several estates show the amounts due thereon, respectively, for the assessments, for the non-payment of which, each of said estates is to be sold, and not including costs and interest thereon, and charges incident to this sale.

4 1-2 PER CENT.
On First Mortgage Loan

If you have money out at two to four per cent, write to the undersigned who can place your money so it will net you FOUR AND ONE HALF PER CENT on first-class city property where the insurance on the property will cover the full amount of loan.

The people of the South are making more money than the people of any section of the union. Fruit growing and truck farming pay large profits because the farmer gets his products into the market six weeks earlier than the farmer of any other section. Rice growing, Sugar Cane growing and the making of Sugar, Cotton growing bring to the farmers large returns, and these crops are sure. No draughts to cause a failure. Where people are making money is the place to loan for sure and safe return of principal, and interest.

I give as reference Hon. Walter Clark, Chief Justice of Supreme Court, for North Carolina, Raleigh, N. C.; Mr. Joseph Daniels, Editor Daily News & Observer, the leading daily in North Carolina, Raleigh; Mr. John H. Sharp, Treasurer Seaboard Air Line Railway, Portsmouth, Va., and Mr. E. H. Clement, editor Daily Transcript, Boston Mass. If you want any information about the South its lands, water powers, best place to spend winter, etc., as well as loaning money, write me and I will gladly reply. Address John T. Patrick, Pinebluff, N. C.

Are You Contemplating Going South or Investing Money
There.

We advise any of our readers who contemplate going south for the winter and want to rent a furnished cottage or secure board in hotel, boarding house or private family, or are desirous of investing money down there, to first write Mr. John T. Patrick, Pinebluff, N. C. Mr. Patrick has made a specialty of furnishing information to Northern people who want to find winter homes or to those who desire to loan money down there on mortgages. He is a man that can be relied upon to give honest information, and to protect the interests of those who trust their money to his care. Recently one of our readers asked Mr. Patrick to give reference as to his character and business ability, and he furnished the names of the Chief Justice of his state, Judge Walter Clark, Raleigh, N. C., and the Editor of the leading daily in the state, the News & Observer, Mr. Joseph Daniels, Raleigh, and the Editor-in-chief of the Boston Transcript, Mr. E. H. Clement, and these men said in reply that whatever Mr. Patrick said could be relied upon. Therefore it will pay you to write Mr. Patrick before you locate, and if you have money to loan, secure his assistance to get the highest rate of interest on good first-class mortgages down South where the people pay more interest than is paid up here.

EIGHTY-THREE DIPLOMAS.

A Large Class of Grammar School Graduates Many of Whom will Enter High School.

There was a large attendance at the Town Hall last evening to witness the graduation exercises of the Wadleigh grammar school. With the exception of a few reserved seats for parents of the graduates, the entire hall was open to the public. There were 83 scholars to receive diplomas—one of the largest classes ever graduated in the history of the public schools. The exercises were listened to with a great deal of satisfaction and pleasure by the large audience, indeed these exercises and essays are to many people the crowning event of the year.

The program was as follows

The Declaration of Independence.

On the immortal Fourth of the year 1776 the Declaration of Independence was adopted by the Continental Congress. It was thirty-nine times before that body until it was finally adopted. Entire separation from England was not at first thought of by the colonies. New England wished it, but the southern states were against it. The seat of war having in 1776 been changed from the north to the south caused the south also to change her views.

The North Carolina convention took the first step towards independence by a resolution to concur with those in the other colonies in declaring independence; this occurred on April 22, 1776. Virginia on May 17, 1776, prepared the title of the document by directing her representatives to propose in Congress a "declaration of independence."

Thomas Jefferson, John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, Roger Sherman and Robert C. Livingston were the committee appointed to draft the Declaration. The draft was formulated almost entirely by Jefferson. Before July 1, Pennsylvania, Maryland and New Jersey had instructed their delegates to vote against the Declaration. These instructions were rescinded. South Carolina came over to the majority. Delaware's vote, at first divided, was cast in the affirmative.

The Declaration was therefore adopted by the unanimous vote of twelve states, New York alone not voting, on July 4, 1776. The New York convention afterward ratified the Declaration, and the engrossed copy was signed August 2. The Declaration sets forth the rights of man, and the colonies enumerate their grievances against the British government and declare "that these united colonies are and of right ought to be free and independent states."—[New York Tribune.

And They Enjoyed It.

The members of Company A, Sixth Regiment, of Wakefield, had a good collation at the expense of a caterer from an adjoining town a few days ago. The provider of goodies had an order to be delivered at the armory of Company G, Fifth Regiment, at Medford, and through some mistake the goods were sent to Wakefield. Captain McMahon and some of the boys found the cream, and with the remark, "Somebody has been good to us," the officer told the men to set to. Hardly had they finished their banquet when the caterer's team drove up, and the driver rushed in all out of breath, having discovered his mistake, but it was too late, all that was available being the empty freezers and a few lumps of ice.

Rumford Monument.

An extra-patriotic citizen of Woburn wants the statue of Count Rumford removed from the public library in that city because that famous man was un-American and a Tory. By the same reasoning Nantucket should return to the heirs of Sir Isaac Coffin the fund which he gave for the establishment of the famous school, with interest. There were Tories and Tories. Some of them fought against America gladly and others sadly. At a distance of more than a century and a quarter we ought to be able to recognize that there were Americans who sided with the king because they conscientiously believed that their duty was to support his cause. Count Rumford may not have been of this class. He may have been one of those who simply miscalculated the chances of the two causes, but if this was the case, he afterwards showed, when he was the most famous scientist of his time and the chosen councillor of kings, that he had fond recollections of his native land. He gave liberally not only to science in America but to charity. If Woburn ignores his claim to be remembered as her great son, London, Paris and Munich will not forget him to the Old World, and Harvard will cherish his name in the new.—[Boston Transcript.

On Friday, July 1, the Mutual Helpers Flower Mission will begin its work for the summer. Every Friday morning through July and August flowers will be sent to Boston from the Winchester Station. This year the work will be among the younger children at the Mission where flowers are sent as the results are much more satisfactory. Each church is asked to send at least four helpers the Friday it has charge of the flowers.

Hereafter.

Hereafter it will cost six months in jail or a fine of not more than $500 to any person who in Massachusetts wilfully does these things:

Cuts down or destroys timber or wood on the land of another.

Carries away timber or wood cut down or lying on the land of another.

Digs up or carries away stone, ore, gravel, clay, sand, turf or mould from the land of another.

Carries away roots, nuts, berries, grapes or fruit of any kind from the land of another.

Cuts down or carries away sedge, grass, hay or any kind of corn, standing, growing or being on the land of another.

Cuts or carries away any ferns, flowers or shrubs for the purpose of sale from the land of another.

Barton Will Try Again.

Ex-Ald. Cyrus Barton of Lowell, who was defeated for the Republican nomination for county commissioner last fall by "Sam" Upham of Waltham, is one of those who does not believe that the "ring" is invulnerable and he intends to make another effort this year to capture the plum from Francis Bigelow of Natick. Barton has, of course, a certain number of followers in his own city, and he believes that he learned a few things by his experience of last year which will prove valuable to him in the coming contest.—[Practical Politics.

Jones, who lives in a town on the Mississippi, says that he has a raft in his cellar to use in the moist spring months. When he wants to secure anything from the depths he gets on the raft and navigates himself around with a pole. The pole also serves to fish with until he finds the article he is seeking. Jones further avers that on one occasion, while he was looking for a can of fruit, the raft suddenly took a fool notion to go off in another direction, and the result was that Jones became the very animated center of a mixup of dirty water, fruit jars, raft poles and heated language. He then pumped out the cellar.

A St. Paul clergyman, arrested for having twenty-five living wives, said that the women ran after him and he could not keep from marrying them. A penitentiary sentence will doubtless give him relief from female pursuit. A man as popular with the gentler sex as that should have some protection, and he should regard it as a positive kindness to be locked up for a few years.

Years ago a man now living in the west stole cabbages in Pennsylvania. Recently he became converted and sent $1 to pay for the cabbages. If it always works that way, it would pay to convert the trust magnates.

Scant Courtesy.

Some of the town officials feel that they were shown very scant courtesy by the town meeting Monday night by its insisting upon adjourning, when by waiting a few minutes longer certain matters could have been attended to that would have saved considerable embarrassment. It would seem that after the Highland school people had the attention of the meeting for two hours they might have allowed at least a few minutes for some of the other articles in the warrant when the Selectmen requested it.

The Special Town Meeting.

If our citizens were not gentlemen in the best sense of the word, there were times last Monday evening when some personal and perhaps abusive language might have been justified. The attitude of the School Committee concerning the closing of the Highland school did not seem to have been fully understood until the meeting. Now it is understood. Plainly and squarely, the gentlemen of the committee faced the question. The attitude of the Highland contingent which was so well represented was so fair, reasonable and conservative that it quite won the good will of the meeting. The discussion was needlessly prolonged. Fortunately the patience of the audience held out until a most opportune adjournment postponed for two weeks action which threatened during the whole evening to cost the town a large sum for a needless improvement. Sober second thought and a proper amount of co-operation between the two committees will result in recommending to the adjourned meeting a measure which will cost only a nominal sum for sanitary changes and which will answer the purpose far better than rushing hastily in some costly and needless scheme of quite an uncertain value to the Highland school plant.

Work for the Adjourned Town Meeting.

Even the poor worm will sometimes turn on those who are inclined to step on it. So each of the three members of the School Committee struck out from the shoulder at the meeting Monday evening and defended themselves in a fearless but gentlemanly manner. Their action led in a flood of light upon the Highland school episode. The citizens understand now better than before the real status of affairs concerning the proposed closing of the Highland school. They are now only too glad to take such action as good sense dictates. As should have been done long ago, and that too without a vote of the town meeting, the Board of Health and the School Committee will get together and arrange matters in a fearless but gentlemanly manner. The Graduation Exercises of the Wadleigh School.

The evening was pleasant and delightfully cool, the parents and friends filled the Town Hall to overflowing and everything passed off with the greatest enthusiasm at the annual graduation exercises of the Wadleigh school last night. The hall was neatly trimmed and the stage was resplendent with flowers, bunting, mottoes, and above all the graduating class of over eighty boys and girls. The musical parts, as well as the school chorus, were most pleasing features of the evening programme. The literary selections were intelligent and skilfully rendered. In our local columns may be found detailed account of these delightful exercises. It is pleasant for us in this connection to remind our readers of the commendable progress which this school has made during the last year under the leadership of able and experienced teachers. In the opinion of several widely-known educators who have visited the school during the year, the Wadleigh school ranks high with other schools of a similar grade in the suburban towns of Boston. The High school pupils who celebrate their graduating exercises this evening must needs look well to their laurels.

Death of an Old Resident.

Mrs. Mary Matten, widow of William Matten died at her home on Bridge street, Tuesday night at the advanced age of 85 years. Mrs. Matten was born in Deering, N. H., Jan. 19th, 1819, and is the last of a family of eleven children, having buried the only surviving sister June 2nd of the present month. Mrs. Matten had lived in Winchester 61 years, coming here at the time of her marriage to Mr. Matten. She leaves several nieces and nephews. A niece, Mrs. B. L. Stetson of Rochester, N. Y., to whom she looked upon as a daughter, was with her at the time of her death. Funeral services were held from the family residence Friday afternoon at 2:30. Burial at Wildwood.

Highland School House.

EDITOR OF THE STAR: It is going to cost anything like $1500 to repair the Highland school house, the thing to do is build a new school house, as above amount would be about twenty-five per cent of its cost, and the present house is not in the right location and would be nothing but an old building after these repairs were made.

JOHN H. CARTER.

with the School Committee before taking such action.

If the Board has ever had official conference, or anything more than a side-walk talk, even with the Chairman of the Committee, it has not come to my knowledge.

Last summer as most of us know, the ledges about and near the Highland school were blasted and the whole grade of the building was much lowered. As a result the sanitary outfit of this school, which consists of an out-house about 18 feet long, 5 1/2 feet wide, some 12 feet high, stands perched up on the crest of a ledge, as my good neighbor Mr. Symmes told you at the special town meeting, "like a lighthouse"—some 40 feet above the grade of Stevens street and 10 to 30 feet above grade on Eaton street. It is easily the most prominent decoration of the local landscape. This building was made for use, not for ornament. It may have been new once, but it is not now. Its primitive simplicity, both inside and outside, is suggestive to many of us of our boyhood days. It bears the scars of many a contest with bad boys. The workmen who did the blasting last summer were told by gesture to bombard it and they did. In vain did the rocks from the dynamite explosions hammer away at it. They merely tumbled it over and rolled it down hill several times. In one of his zealous moods our strenuous janitor had it rolled up hill and mounted again on its rocky citadel. Yesterday I examined this sanitary carefully. With its doors and windows open, with plenty of dry earth in its vault, it stood as a perfectly clean, wholesome and well-ventilated outbuilding from a hygienic point of view. It is no beauty, but it is no menace to public health. The people of that section don't like the looks of it. I don't blame them. So far as looks are concerned it is a disgrace to this town and should be removed next Saturday forenoon.

If the people of that section really wanted that obnoxious building removed, I don't know why they didn't come to the School Committee and say so. I am told that they did make complaint to the Board of Health on the ground that offensive odors emanated from the building and were detected by nearby residents. Inasmuch as the building is nearly centrally located in a two-acre lot and there is only one house within several hundred feet, I fail to see the force of this argument, especially as this out-building is high and dry on a ledge at least 30 feet above the nearest house. Every breath of wind in Winchester is ventilating the structure night and day and that, too, without the expense of a complicated motor apparatus.

I don't know for sure, but I always have supposed that some one member of the Board of Health (inasmuch as two are physicians) may have received in calling upon patients in that section formal complaint concerning this out-building, and somewhat hastily perhaps (and yet in perfect good faith) saw fit to issue their mandatory order to the School Committee. I claim that such an order, fraught with so many hardships to our schools, was ill-advised and injudicious as it was unnecessary. If such action was really necessary why didn't the Board of Health call the School Committee into consultation.

The Chairman, Professor Currier, is thoroughly posted on all such matters, both in collegiate and lower grade school work. Mr. Carpenter is a builder of paper mills and practically understands the best sanitary equipment of large buildings. For myself, it was my duty as one of three physicians that made up the health committee on the school board of Providence for five years, to recommend to the board of education the necessary sanitary changes and equipments for numerous new school houses for a school population of 17,000. So between all six of us gentlemen I think that if we had worked in harmony no one of us would have been in danger of nervous prostration over such a small matter as this Highland school sanitation problem.

If I am correct and this out-building is the real bone of contention, the solution of the problem is to my mind as simple and effective as it is inexpensive. If it is unsightly let us get it out of sight. Remove it or build a new sanitary 25 or more feet away diagonally towards Mr. Vernon street. There is a drop of six to ten feet in the grade. There are a hundred small trees eight feet high which would conceal it from residents and passers by. Lattice work, plank or concrete walks, shrubbery, a covered walk in cold weather, plenty of dry earth for the vault, etc., would do the rest. I have no time or disposition to go into details. The cost would only be nominal. The School Committee could squeeze enough money out of that $1500 to do it.

Give the School Committee the formal right to do it and it will be done. The members of that committee don't want to be guilty of taking so ill-advised and unnecessary a step as shutting up a school of 80 pupils for so trifling a reason. Keep at least those lowest grade youngsters just where they belong—tied to their mother's apron strings near their own homes. Let us not disturb a well established educational centre. We have only one other like it in town.

We may safely assume that the Highland school was put there for keeps and should stay there until supplanted by a new and better building. Let us not break into the perfect adjustment of the Wadleigh grammar school. The sanitary arrangements of that building are now so inadequate that the lady teachers stand at the open doors of the two sanctuaries and hurry the boys and girls that there may be no delay or extension of the recess period. What will happen if 45 primary children are forced to use these sanctuaries, and also play on the scanty playground with larger and ruder boys and girls?

Let us go slow about these things. The energetic committee appointed at the last town meeting will doubtless take speedy measures to recommend the sale of certain parts of this two-acre lot, reserving ample room for a new two-room building, which surely should be built within the next three years out of the proceeds. With good management the net cost to the town of a spacious two-room school building in the Highland section, with ample playground need not be much of a financial burden.

But the shoe pinches. Somebody ought to eat a bit of crow. It isn't the School Committee, it is the Board of Health. The sooner it does it, the better. The best results are usually obtained by compromise measures. Now let the Board of Health take off this embargo and come down from their high horse. Let it assure the School Com-

WILL RE-OPEN IN ITS NEW BUILDING, SEPT. 6, 1904.

This school now has the most elegant, complete and extensive private school building in America. In the planning and furnishing of its

NEW BUILDING expense has not been considered even in the minutest detail. New fittings of special design will be found to have taken the place of the ordinary furniture used in school buildings. The entire outfit of the school in its old building has been sacrificed that the school in the new home might have only the newest and best obtainable.

EXPERIENCED TEACHERS.

The only feature recognizable will be the able and experienced corps of teachers who have given this school its wide-spread reputation. The tuition fees are the same as during the previous ten years, and pupils who contemplate attending may congratulate themselves that this year was the chosen time for their commercial course and the finishing of their school work.

COURSE OF STUDY.

The course of study prepares pupils thoroughly for all the duties of the Counting room. Book-keeping by any system; Stenography; Grammar and Punctuation; English Composition; Commercial Correspondence; Commercial Law; Commercial Geography; Commercial Arithmetic; Typewriting; Civil Service Preparation for examinations; Normal School Course (preparation for teaching).

Pupils will find the location of the school most accessible from all points; over 4000 cars daily, with a stopping place directly in front of the school building.

Races at Winchester Boat Club.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The Winchester Boat Club held its first regatta for this season on June 17th at its club house on Mystic Lake. The eastern division race for sailing canoes under A. C. A. rules was won by James A. Newman, time 1h 39m; second, W. Hyde, time 1h 43m. The novice sailing race, five miles, was won by J. B. Brazier, time 1h 43m. These races were held during the morning.

In the afternoon the paddling races were held, headed by the interschool half mile race for club fours for the Lawson trophy. Dedham High won the race, with Medford High second and Winchester High third. Medford had won the cup in 1902 and 1903, and needed this year's victory to own it.

Following the school boys race the regular program was run off. No war canoe race was held, as Quinebequin was the only club which was present to enter. Of the number of clubs invited but two, the Quinebequin and Wawbewaw, were represented in the races.

Following is the summary of the events: Club fours, won by Quinebequin, time, 4m. 10s.; second, Winchester. Tandem single, won by Wawbewaw, 3m. 45s.; second, Quinebequin. Combination, won by Braddock of Quinebequin and partner; second, Roy Pratt and partner, Winchester Boat Club. Tail end race, won by Roy Pratt and W. H. Hyde of Winchester Boat Club. Hand paddle, won by Roy Pratt and Hiram Farr, Winchester Boat Club. Half-mile single, won by Pratt of Wawbewaw, time 4m. 52s.; second, Roy Pratt of Winchester Boat Club. Hurry-scurry race, won by Hiram Farr and Harris Cole, Winchester Boat Club. Tilting, won by James A. Newman and Roy Pratt, Winchester Boat Club.

Probably more canoes were out during the afternoon, than at any time in the history of Mystic Lake, the bay in front of the club house being completely covered with boats at times. Following the sports refreshments were served at the club house, and in the evening there was dancing, music being furnished by an orchestra.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The mandate of the State Park Commissioners regarding signs visible from the parkway in Winchester has been generally obeyed. Blanchard & Kendall prudently and sorrowfully acknowledge that their old and beloved sign is too prominent to suit the State officials, who by an act of the legislature own whatever may be seen from the parkway, and the firm will take it down it insisted upon.

At the same time they humbly petition the Commissioners, it is said, to be allowed to temporarily retain their present sign until the unkempt and unsafe Walnut street bridge and the adjacent "Tan-nery" island, owned by the State, and the ill kept Aberjona river are put in order by the Commissioners, that their sign may match for the time being these beautiful adjuncts of the park system. The firm humbly submit that if their sign "is bad for sore eyes" on the parkway, so is the unclean parkway bridge and the untidy island they have to view from their office windows. To change only one element in the present harmony of things would be bad taste, they think, until all are changed.

Laraway, the "hustling plumber," with characteristic promptness has literally turned himself inside out to obey the Commissioners, turning his sign right about-face, so that the longest "rubber neck" on the parkway cannot see its face side, only the back side being visible. To reward "Joe" for his quick response to the Commissioners' demand, it is said he is to have the contract for kerosene pocket stoves to be furnished the park policemen next winter.

The Whitney Machine Co. not only promptly removed all their business signs, but have put on a mourning band in place of the signs to partially express their grief and sorrow that they have so long publicly obtruded their business upon an indignant people. It is even said by a sensational Boston newspaper that no more Whitney buildings will be painted until the park commissioners state what color will be most agreeable to them, as a law may be passed next year covering this point, but we do not vouch for the truth of either of the above statements. This alacrity in implicitly obeying the law is very commendable in a firm doing business on the same spot continuously for sixty years and might with some excuse "kick" at losing a valuable business easement heretofore pertaining to their land.

Mr. J. W. Sweeney, the scientific harness maker, has promptly and courteously given his permission to the State officials to personally take down all his signs after they return from the hot place where he has generously invited them to spend the Fourth of July (at his expense) celebrating the birthday of American liberty.

All other business firms in Winchester who have been educated by the policemen of the Park Commission to see the enormity of having business signs on their premises not acceptable to the Commission, are to alter them to suit the new order of things.

All Winchester business men are law abiding citizens and willing and glad to be educated in the matter of aesthetic advertising. Hereafter in Winchester it will be the proper thing for business men not to "smell of the shop" or call attention to business in any way obnoxious to State authorities. If any man gets a living by soliciting trade as they do in other communities, let him do it very quietly and on the sly, or he will lose caste. Aesthetic Winchester has been saved by the moral suasion of the park policemen from further torment by hand handlers, plumbers, iron workers, harness makers, blacksmiths, and the like, obnoxiously advertising their business. God save the Commonwealth of Massachusetts from sign fiends, as the town of Winchester has been saved!

Parish of the Epiphany

During July there will be only one service, at half past ten Sunday morning. The minister in charge, during the rector's absence, will be the Rev. Frank P. Johnson of Woburn, whose address and telephone number can be learned from the wardens, or at Mr. Arnold's store, Common street.

The outing of the Epiphany Circle is to take place next Tuesday. It is planned to go to Silver Lake, Wilmington. The girls will meet promptly at 10.15 at Young & Brown's, to take the 11.20 car. Fares are 20 cents and each one is asked to bring a luncheon. If stormy, the next day at the same hour is fixed for the outing. Information may be obtained from Mrs. Harry Sanborn, Black Horse Terrace.

Was Astounded.

EDITOR OF THE STAR

I attended a town meeting at the Town Hall on Monday night, particularly in the interest of some measure to protect the town against the ravages of the brown tail moth, and incidentally to attend to other town matters.

During the discussion with regard to the Highland School, I was astounded at the statement made by one of the speakers, and which was not contradicted. I and those around me under stood the speaker to say that when he approached one of the School Committee with regard to the Highland School building, the member replied in about the following words: "Let the matter alone for a few months, and no doubt the boys on the Fourth of July will settle the matter." The only inference I could draw from this statement was that incendiarism was meant. That any member of the School Committee should so far forget himself as to even suggest or tolerate an act of incendiarism amongst boys is astounding; that the burning of buildings should be a solution of a town question, and that by mischievous boys. Such a suggestion is an invitation to incendiarism, and I hereupon invite the Committee to either explain or deny the imputation.

NORTHERN RUNABOUT

6 1-2 brake H. P. 1,000 lbs., 6 to 30 miles per hour. $700.

The Northern Runabout is acknowledged by experienced Automobilists to be the Peer of all Gasoline vehicles in its class. The motor, the heart of the machine, is simple in construction, noiseless yet positive in action, and can be relied on at all times.

The body is most pleasing in its lines, and at once impresses one with its sturdy road-going qualities.

The Northern is the only machine in the world equipped with the Trunion Body Hanger, which device entirely eliminates all vibration from Motor and Running Gear, making its riding qualities more luxurious than a Pullman Palace Car.

PETITION.

To the Board of Selectmen of the Town of Winchester, Massachusetts:

The Board of Directors of the Boston & Northern Street Railway Company, whose tracks are located in said town, hereby respectfully represents that Church street in the Town of Winchester between Common street and Cambridge street is a public way in which certain street railway and electric light locations have heretofore been granted and are now in use.

That for the purpose of arranging their systems of wires so that the same may be supported in said street by one line of poles, said Boston & Northern Street Railway Company and the Woburn Light, Heat & Power Company entered into an agreement, subject to the necessary permissions of public authorities, dated March 9, 1904, whereby they should remove their present poles from said Church street between the points aforesaid, and unite in the erection and maintenance of a new line of poles for their joint use and benefit.

Wherefore, your petitioners pray for the grant of locations and alteration of locations of the poles and wires of said Boston & Northern Street Railway Company in Church street in said town between Common street and Cambridge street by the removal of the poles of said company now located in that portion of said Church street hereinbefore referred to and the erection and maintenance in place thereof of 45 poles at the points indicated by circles with an enclosed point on five plans filed herewith, each marked "Winchester Overhead Construction, Pole Line, Church street" and dated December 21, 1903, and numbered respectively 27, 9851, 27, 9861, 27, 9871, 27, 9881, 27, 9891.

DIRECTORS BOSTON & NORTHERN STREET RAILWAY COMPANY,

By CHARLES WILLIAMS, Clerk.

Upon the above petition the Board of Selectmen will give a public hearing at its room in the Town Hall building on Monday, June 27, 1904, at 8.15 o'clock, p. m.

Newsy Paragraphs.

The gentleman referred to in a communication in the STAR of last week, signed "P. M. K." was our genial citizen Mr. Frank F. Carpenter a well known member of the School Committee. This scheme is ingenious and inexpensive and has much to recommend it. It would certainly minimize the risks and much of the expense which would be incurred if the Highland school building was left in its present location and equipped with sanitary conveniences by blasting through solid ledges.

Mrs. Minnie Lawrence, who has been making her home in Boston for the past few years, will occupy her house on Highland avenue.

The railroad station building at the centre has been painted. The project for the proposed gate tender's house at the crossing has evidently struck a snag. Possibly the railroad officials are waiting to hear from the town's special committee on the abolition of the grade crossing.

The brown-tail moths have stopped work and are now cocooning.

Newsy Paragraphs.

Mrs. Ella Dotten Allen is at a sanitarium being treated for nervous prostration.

Harold, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Alden Bigelow, who had been dangerously ill with the measles, is rapidly convalescing.

Master Brooks Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Young, had a patriotic birthday on June 17 at his home on Central street. It was his sixth anniversary, and the event took the form of a lawn party which was much enjoyed by the seventeen young guests of the neighborhood.

Rev. D. A. Newton expects to sail for the old country on Thursday, June 30, and return August 25th. His many friends wish him a safe journey and a pleasant and restful vacation.

At the recent Children's Day service held at Congregational Church the following children were baptized: Paul Victor Anderson, Elinor Sterling Erskine, Marjorie Lawrence and Agnes Dodge Squier.

Duck pins are now the popular game at the Calumet Club and many close matches are being rolled.

Newsy Paragraphs.

The Winchester Land Associates have sold six lots of land located on Oxford and Warren streets, Wedgemere park. The purchaser represents a syndicate which is contemplating building a cluster of modern houses.

Newsy Paragraphs.

Mrs. Martha Hamilton has been elected treasurer of the Middlesex County Loyal Temperance Legion.

Mr. George L. Locke mistook my meaning in the item "Locke's Hills is not what it used to be." The reading of it did not bear out his interpretation. I didn't intend to say what he thinks I did. The idea meant to be conveyed was that the old settlers of Locke's Hills—a most worthy, active and influential set of men—had passed away, and are missed by other old settlers when they visit the Hills. Their descendants, however, are as worthy as were their ancestors.—(Woburn Journal.)

Mr. L. Westley Frost, of Stoneham, and Miss Ina Harvey of Winchester, were married at the home of the groom's parents, Park street Stoneham, Thursday afternoon, June 16 by Rev. F. A. Starratt, pastor of the Baptist church. They will reside in Stoneham.

Rev. Mr. Newton of the Congregational Church conducted the services at the Bethany Chapel Sunday evening in exchange with Mr. Moore who is now serving there. The two trios rendered by Miss Marion Munroe Rice and two young ladies from Stoneham were very much enjoyed.

The grounds of the Winchester gun club on Myopia hill have been greatly improved. A new centrifugal trap will be installed.

An addition 30 by 150 feet is being built to the factory of the Plymouth Rock Gelatin company at the Highlands.

Blank Bros. have closed their Stoneham factory and transferred their business to their Lake street shop here. The large addition for the accommodation of this business is nearly completed.

Hon. S. W. McCall's new house on Myopia Hill is being pushed very rapidly. The structure on its high eminence can be seen for miles.

The high service storage tank at Hillcrest has been cleaned and painted inside and out. While this was done water was pumped into the pipes direct, the pump going day and night.
